WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 24—Miss Anna Ronan, daughter of Mrs. Mary Ronan of 179 Jackson street was united in marriage to William L. Flynn, also of this city, at a pretty November wedding solemnized at St. Joseph's church this morning at 9 o'clock. Rev. Henry E. Quinn, the pastor, performed the ceremony and celebrated the nuptial high mass. Miss Margaret Ronan, sister of the bride was maid of honor and Alderman Louis J. Flynn, brother of the groom, was best man. Several hundred relatives and friends of the couple were seated in the edifice as the bridal party entered, while Mrs. Edmund R. Portelance, at the organ, rendered a processional.

The charming bride wore a gown of cocoa Elizabeth crepe with fox trimmings. Her hat was of brown velvet and she carried an arm bouquet of pink chrysanthemums. Her maid of honor wore a beautiful gown of rust Elizabeth crepe with velvet trimmings and a hat to correspond. She carried yellow chrysanthemums.

The nuptials were followed by a wedding breakfast attended by members of the immediate families and served in Hartford. Mr. and Mrs. Flynn will journey to New York city and Atlantic City, N. J., on their honeymoon. After January 1st they will be at home to their friends at 21 Turner street.

The bride's traveling gown was of black satin and pencil blue trimmings. She wore a coat of beaver and a hat of becoming design and color. Mr. and Mrs. Flynn both enjoy deserved popularity here. The groom is a member of a prosperous drugist firm. Mrs. Flynn has been employed in a clerical capacity in Hartford.

HELLER PAYS $32.70 FOR GIVING WRONG BIRTH DATE

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 24—Harry Heller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isadore J. Heller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isadore J. arrested Monday afternoon by State Policeman Henry Heinold on a charge of having falsely affirmed and sworn to being 18 years of age last August when he secured an automobile operator's license, was fined $25 and costs in police court this morning. His father acted as guardian at litem and entered a plea of guilty for the boy. He insisted however, on taking the blame as he gave his son permission to take out a license under the belief that he was 18 years of age. Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher exhibited a birth certificate secured from the bureau of vital statistics in New York city showing that Harry Heller was born there on October 2, 1908. Mr. Heller said that he had guessed at his son's age. An affidavit furnished Prosecutor Gaucher by Archibald W. Buchanan, agent of the state board of education showed that the age registered when the boy attended the graminar school here corresponded to that given by the registrar of vital statistics in New York city. Judge Foss stated that the charge was a serious one but as the case was the first of its kind in the local court he would impose the minimum penalty. The assessment of $32.70 was paid.

Leslie Flippen, 25, driver of the Ford car which collided with a large elm tree at Larrabee's Corner in Windham Center, Monday afternoon, causing Joseph Waiver, 22, to sustain a fractured skull and Martin Prue, to suffer injury to one arm and a foot, was arraigned in police court Tuesday morning on a charge of reckless driving. The arrest was made by Constable Alfred Abbe, who learned that the machine was being driven at a fast rate of speed. The car, owned by Frank Olin of 826 Main street, was almost totally wrecked. Prosecutor Gaucher asked that the case be continued until Saturday, December 5, to await the outcome of the injuries to Wawer and Prue, who are patients at St. Joseph's hospital. Flippen was released on a bond of $100.

Additional litigation for the Hotel Hooker, once famous throughout New England, was brought within the past twenty-four hours when three new attachments were placed on the property by Constable Joseph Peck. The plaintiffs are Edward Brink of Hartford, the Parker Elliott Coal company and the Maverick Laundry of this city. The defendants are Charles Norris and Frank J. Watson, the latter having conducted the hotel for some time up to several months ago when he left the city. Brink claims damages of $100, the Parker Elliott company $600 and the Maverick Laundry $500. The first case will be heard before a justice of the peace and the latter two are returnable before the January term of the Windham county superior court. The Brink action is for labor performing on the billiard tables in the building. It is understood that Constable Peck is in charge of the hotel at the present time. On December 7 the Manchester Savings bank of Manchester, N. H., will assume control by virtue of a judgment of the superior court given in this city recently on the foreclosure of mortgages.

James J. McGee, Jr., of Scotland, Conn., is one of the three surviving sons of Mrs. Letitia Barber McGee, widow of James McGee, who died in Brooklyn, N. Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Dziomba and family of 25 Summit street returned here Sunday night after figuring in a bad automobile accident at Warehouse Point on November 15. An automobile operated by a Mr. Sault of Manchester collided with the Dziomba car, doing considerable damage to both machines. Mrs. Dziomba was thrown to the ground and rendered unconscious. Mr. Dziomba sustained cuts and bruises and a bad blow on the chest. Robert Dziomba, the eldest son, suffered cuts about the face which required eleven stitches to close, also lacerations on one leg. Charles, the younger son, sustained severe cuts on the left temple requiring five stitches. Mr. Sault was taken to the hospital with a broken leg. Three other children in the car and Mr. and Mrs. Dziomba escaped with minor bruises. A state police officer witnessed the accident.

Attorney Louis A. Woisard of Danielson, recently appointed by Judge Thomas of the United States District court as referee in bankruptcy for Windham county, presided in his first cases Tuesday at the superior court chamber in this city. A MESSAGE to the YOUNG MARRIED WOMEN of NEW ENGLAND

YOU are proud of the traditions that have given you your standards of housewifery. But to keep homes spotless, clothes gleaming white, and still to preserve one's youthfulness, one's complexion and one's hands, under modern conditions, seems to many of you a much harder task than it was two generations ago.

No—it is really easier, if you will accept this suggestion:

Instead of buying four or five different kinds of soap, each with its varying degrees of safety and efficiency, use Ivory. Not only for your face and hands and bath—but for your laundry work and dishwashing as well.

WHY?

Here are 4 good reasons

First, Ivory is made in four different forms, so it is convenient for all your purposes.

Second, Ivory is pure. It can not harm the most delicate skin or fabric. Why, then, risk your lovely hands, that must be in soapsuds so much of the time, with anything less pure or mild?

And fourth, Ivory is economical. Not that it is necessarily cheaper than the soaps you have been using, but it protects everything it touches, from your hair and skin to your most precious garments. So it quickly saves its cost, by saving your hands, and by lengthening the life of the things you cleanse with it.

Ivory is truly as fine a soap as you can buy, quite regardless of price. By using it exclusively, you will not only help to simplify your life, and avoid further soap worries, but you will cut down the costs of your housekeeping.

A conclusive safety test for garment soaps

It is easy to determine whether or not a soap is gentle enough to be used for delicate garments.

Simply ask yourself this question:

"Would I use this soap on my face?"

In the case of Ivory and Ivory Flakes your answer is instantly "Yes," because you know that for forty-six years women have protected lovely complexions by the use of Ivory Soap.

Wash your face once or twice daily with warm water and Ivory Soap. Rinse in warm water and follow with a dash of cold. Dry thoroughly by patting with a soft towel. If your skin needs it, rub in a little pure cold cream.

DANIELSON

WARDENS SUGGESTION GETTING BIG LAUGH

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 24—Warden Walter Anderson is a serious-minded man. It is to be assumed that he was in a serious mood when he expressed his willingness, in a speech before members of the Danielson Girls' club and their guests at the Attawaugan hotel Monday evening, to appoint a police woman in Danielson and suggested that nominations for the appointment from members of the club would receive his consideration.

Many citizens, during the course of Tuesday, heard about the warden's proposition. "He must have been spoofing," was the comment of the average man, who was inclined to regard the suggestion as a joke. There were others who expressed the opinion that the warden was in earnest and felt from information that may be in his possession that having a police woman would be a good thing for the borough. The average man, however, contented himself with a good laugh over the proposal.

Warden Anderson was out of town Tuesday, so an effort to have him elaborate on what he said to the members of the Girls' club and their guests must be deferred.

Declaring that there are many violations of the eighteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States in Danielson and that his auditors would be shocked if he told them of some of the people here who are selling liquor, Warden Anderson during the course of his address got around to consideration of the need of a police-woman to do duty in Danielson—at dances and at other gatherings where young girls are said to indulge in drink to such a degree that the services of a police woman in dealing with them might be advisable.

Warden Anderson is quoted as generalizing in his talk and refraining from giving names or pointing his finger at places. What he said has aroused the curiosity of the borough, for those who heard him have not failed to quote him, and the borough now wants to know all about it. If there are such gross violations of the liquor laws here, under the eyes of the borough police and a barracks full of state officers, the public wants to know all the facts. It will be particularly anxious to know when, where and who among the young women of the borough, or those who come here from other places, to dances, so befuddle themselves with intoxicating drink that the appointment of a police woman seems desirable. "Let's have the full facts," was the chorus that was being chanted here Tuesday.

Those who poked fun at the warden's suggestion, and they were legion, were not slow in advancing sugestions as to how the demoralizing situation should be handled. Among the suggestions was one that an auxiliary of the Service battery be recruited. This plan contemplates enlisting some 100 or more women. They would be uniformed, drilled and sent out for two weeks field service each summer. Designs for their uniforms await the issue of the spring fashion books and, of course, would be changed from week to week. It was definitely settled that they be equipped with 16-inch guns, a bottle of smelling salts and spare compact. No appointees will be subjected to the indignity of being assigned to plain clothes duty. All will be dressed in the height of fashion at all times. No distinction apt to cause disruption in the organization is to be invited by allowing, for instance, Sergeant Estelle to go on duty in a magnificent evening gown, while Corporal Henrietta gets an assignment that means wearing knickers to a dance. This is going to be a real outfit. Even the girls they are supposed to watch will just love them.

EXPECT TO GET BOYS WHO SMASHED LIGHTS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Nov. 24—Chief John McFarland and Railroad Officer John Murray, Putnam, have about solved a knotty little problem that has involved finding out the identity of boys who have been breaking electric light bulbs and switchlight glasses along the railroad tracks in Danielson. Breaking of electric light bulbs has been going on for sometime in one section of the borough. The breaking of switchlight glasses is a more recent development. One of the boys involved in the affair was in custody only the past week for stealing articles from a Danielson store. The stubbornness with which one or two of the boys have resisted telling the full truth about their transactions has been irritating and is indicative of the need of some severity in dealing with such cases. Air rifles and stones have figured in the glass breaking episodes. It so happens that a good looting of one of the boy involved by his older brother, who saw him trying to break an electric light bulb, has not served to stop the youngster from persisting in doing damage.

TROLLEYS STOP RUNNING MONDAY OF NEXT WEEK

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 24—It was unofficially announced here today that trolley service between Norwich and North Grosvernordale will be suspended next Monday night and that motor busses of the Connecticut Co. will be in operation Tuesday morning, Dec. 1st. On this end of the line the service will be hourly on the schedule now in effect on the trolley cars and the rates of fare between the various points will be the same as now in effect. A bus made a run over the line from Norwich Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of fixing the fare zones and arranging for the placing of the markers. The busses are to be operated by present employes of the Connecticut Co.

COMMERCIAL AIRPLANE LANDED AT DANIELSON

DANIELSON, Nov. 24—A commercial airplane flitted down onto a field at the Prentice place on the West Side early Tuesday afternoon that its pilot might determine if he were following a proper course to reach Hartford. He was assured that he was heading right on the course from Boston to Hartford, which airport was his first scheduled stop to the west. The plane was owned by an Ohio commercial concern and was carrying another man in addition to the pilot. His take-off upon resuming his journey was as prettily executed as one would wish to see. Joseph Birch, who talked with the aviator, said that he inquired of the flyer about a tiny pair of baby shoes that were hung in the cockpit. The flyer explained that they were harbingers of good luck, and that he had flown safely with them for 2,000 miles, and that he expected they would get him back to Ohio without serious incident befalling him. The name of the flyer was not obtained.

Danielson might have seen an interesting troop of Indians and enjoyed the entertainment they present if an agent representing them had not been a bit careless in handling their finances. A despatch from Manchester, this state, relates that the tribe, numbering more than a score of braves and squaws, is stranded there, awaiting $350 from some source to get them back to their headquarters at Point Pleasant, Me. According to the chief, they are looking for their manager, who has the transportation money. The tribe was booked for a week's appearance here.

On October 28, the Indians are said to have entered into a contract with George C. Manchester of Boston to give a week of entertainments in Manchester, Conn., followed by another week's exhibit in Danielson. At Manchester they helped make a bazaar a success. Their contract, the chief says, calls for $2 a day for each man and $1 for each squaw, together with transportation, board and sleeping quarters. Manchester, in signing the contract, is said to have been acting for Richard Kildoff according to Chief Neptune. The Indians were paid last Saturday night but they claim not to have received their transportation money. Kildoff, the despatch says, cannot now be found and a movement has been started to raise sufficient money in Manchester to send the Indians back to their Maine home.

Feasts of turkey, chicken, duck and goose promise to be very general in Danielson on Thanksgiving. This is indicated by the heavy demand. One poultryman said Tuesday that he has killed, dressed and brought into the local market 185 chickens within the past few days. Orders for turkeys have been heavy, too. It is interesting to note that the custom of having turkey on Thanksgiving is handed down to this day by the Pilgrims. Wild turkeys roamed the woods of the Plymouth country in those early days, and the Pilgrims were not slow to learn that they were wonderfully good eating. There were wild turkeys hereabouts, too, for many years after white settlers first made their appearance in these parts.

Known holdings of football tickets in Danielson for the Brown-Colgate game at Providence Thanksgiving morning are at least 50. It is likely that there possible to check them all. It is an are many more than this, but it is not evidence of the hold that football has on numbers here, and points to the ease with which a motor car takes a party from this town over to Providence for a game and gets them back again, in this case numbers planning to return for dinner at home.

The dinner of the Girls' club at the Attawaugan hotel Monday evening, with members and guests to the number of 60 attending, was a delightful affair, all agree. The dinner was excellent. Then came a program of music, readings and an address by Warden Walter Anderson. There were souvenirs for all.

Tonight, Thanksgiving eve, will be made the occasion of much merriment and diversion by many residents of Danielson particularly the younger set. Theater parties, dinner dance parties and dancing without a special dinner are all included on one program or another. The event here is the midnight dance at the state armory. The advent of the holiday will be made as happy an occasion as possible by as many as can arrange.

St. James' parish bazaar came to a close in the town hall Tuesday night, the fifth night since its opening. It has been very much of a success, has attracted hundreds of people and afforded them diversion. It has been successful from a financial standpoint.

One can have his little rumor every day as to when busses are to replace trolley cars up and down the line between Central Village and North Grosvernordale. Tuesday's story was that the cars are to come off just as soon as the new concrete highway between Danielson and Elmville is opened for traffic. This road is complete, excepting for shoulders, and hardening of the last concrete put down is all that is awaited to throw the new highway open to traffic.

A notice is posted in the lobby of the postoffice as to the Thanksgiving day schedule of service. The office will be closed after 10:30 a. m., though the lobby will remain open for the day. The rural service will be suspended.

Announcement that State Officer Leonard Comstock has been assigned as county investigator in Middlesex county is of special interest here, for Officer Comstock was on duty here for a long time at the Danielson barracks.

Motor trucks with their loads built up like a Woolworth tower are charged with tearing down lead-in-wires on telephone circuits that cross Danielson streets. Two services were snapped off in Academy street Tuesday afternoon. For mere incidents like this, a truck driver never stops to make an apologie. It's a part of the day's routine.

William J. Kennedy, 44, a native of Fitchville, this state, died during Monday night at his home in Moosup. He leaves his wife, three brothers, Lawrence of Hartford and Michael and Dennis of Moosup and a sister, Mrs. Frank Stone of Moosup.

Leodora Parent, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Parent of the West Side, died at their home during Monday night.

Rev. George Donahue, pastor of Holy Trinity church at Pomfret and an orator of repute, will be the guest this (Wednesday) evening of Rose of Lima council at a banquet and entertainment. Fr. Donahue is to be the principal speaker of the evening.

PUTNAM

PUTNAM BANKS WILL RELEASE ABOUT $15,000

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Nov. 24—For the holiday season there will be released about $15,000 from the three local banks, The Citizens National bank, The Cargill Trust company and the Putnam Savings bank. All have had Christmas clubs during the past year and already some of the checks have been distributed to the depositors. It is though: that about one-third of this fund will be deposited by the owners in savings accounts. The Putnam merchants will also be benefitted by this money.

It has been found that people using this method of saving one year generally try it again another year and often taking a larger amount. The money is paid weekly and distributed at the end of the year. All three of the banks will have a Christmas fund saving account for another year.

TELLS OF SEARCH FOR SMITH COLLEGE GIRL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Nov. 24—Louis A. Bodo, who has been at Northampton, with his German police dog, Otto Von Waldhaus, has returned after an unsuccessful attempt to locate Miss Alice Corbett, who disappeared from Smith college ten days ago. Mr. Bodo thinks that his police dog would have succeeded in finding some traces of the girl except for the long time that has elapsed since her disappearance. In talking about the matter, he said that he was very much disappointed with the results but satisfied with the way in which the dog picked up old scents and followed them. Mr. Bodo with officers of the state police force and others began their search at Mt. Tom. The college authorities had given the searching party some of the wearing apparel of the missing student consisting of a nightgown, a stocking and a slipper, from which the dog might get the scent, but unfortunately all of these articles were highly perfumed and therefore were not satisfactory for the purpose intended. However the dog was able to pick up a few old scents on the mountain, at places where Miss Corbett was known to have visited prior to her disappearance. The searching party trampled over ten miles in the mountains but no recent scent was detected by the dog. Later a visit was made to Miss Corbett's room at the college, from which point the dog picked up a twelve-day old trail to a store where wearing apparel was sold. Here it was learned that a girl answering to the description of the missing girl had sold a dress for $12, three days before the disappearance of Miss Corbett.

Mr. Bodo says that he is perfectly satisfied with the results shown, in this case and other cases, that Otto will detect and follow a scent even as old as three weeks, but that artificial perfumes, snow, frost and other things often deaden the trail. He states that he has demonstrated his ability in the recent Igo case in Putnam, in the White murder case at Pomfret Landing, and in several others. He is ready to return to Northampton at any time if any clews are discovered as to the girl's whereabouts.

The dramatic society of the Pomfret school presented "Captain Applejack," one of the successes in New York several seasons ago, to an invited audience Tuesday night. The play was put on in a very creditable way and was thoroughly enjoyed by those present.

Francis Curran, a student at the Holy Cross school in Worcester, has been visiting his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. William Killian, of Woodstock avenue.

Joseph Potter, who has been one of the Putnam rural mail carriers for a number of years has become a city mail carrier at Southbridge. Napoleon Bachand, of Southbridge, was sworn in Mr. Potter at the Putnam office Mr. Bachand could not cover the ground that was required of a city carrier because of an injury to his leg and he and Mr. Potter are changing places.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Elliott, of Worcester, Mass., have been the guests of relatives and friends in Putnam and Pomfret.

The Putnam Checker club redeemed itself in its second contest with the Canadian Athletic club. The final score was 6 to 3 with seven draws. A third contest will be held next Friday night at the C. A. C. club rooms.

Putnam High school will play its final game of football for the season on Thanksgiving morning with Killingly high as opponents.

Albert L. Darbie, state grand marshall of the Masons, was the recent guest of the Quinebaug lodge, F. & A. M., at their last meeting. The degree was conferred on two candidates.

Wallace V. Tuttle, of the Putnam company, is attending the Carnegie Technical Institute, at Pittsburgh, this week.

The Richard Mansfield players appeared at the Bradley theatre Monday night for the second performance. The play presented was "You and I" and a large and appreciative audience enjoyed the work of the very excellent cast. The author is Philip Barry and it is a Harvard prize play.

Mrs. M. R. Jex and son, Richard, have been recent visitors in Providence.

Miss Mary Wheaton, of Grove street, represented the Congregational church school at the convention of Sunday schools workers at Bridgeport.

Mrs. F. D. Sargent, of Worcester, whose husband was pastor of the Congregational church in Putnam, for many years, has been the guest of friends in Putnam, for a few days.

TO RAISE BASIC MINIMUM OF ATTENDANCE

Schools are crowded to the utmost throughout the Philippine Islands except in some Mohammedan communities, and attendance is increasing even there. Three years is the average time spent in the public schools. In his annual message at the opening of the Philippine legislature, Governor General Wood stated that special effort had been made for the improvement of the primary and intermediate schools, where 95 1-2 per cent of the children receive their education. He recommended that four years be made the basic minimum of attendance, and that the minimum be raised to five years as soon as possible.

ORGANIZATIONS COMBINED TO ELIMINATE ILLITERACY

A census of illiterates in the United States will be taken within a year by the General Federation of Women's Clubs, which is cooperating with the interior department, bureau of education, to reduce illiteracy before the taking of the 1930 census. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States, the American Legion, the American Red Cross, the American Federation of Labor, and other organizations are lending their aid in the movement to give every man, woman and child in the country at least the rudiments of an education.

HANDLING THE TAX BILL

From all quarters come words of approval of the tax reduction plans. The bill which has been whipped into shape by the house ways and means committee has made a good impression. It strikes the country as doing what the country has been seeking, and the decision has been arrived at without a knock down and drag out tussle. The committee has been told what the conditions were and it has proceeded to act with such facts in [illegible]

It is less than two weeks to the opening of congress and it is predicted that within a matter of ten days or so after the session opens the house will have acted favorably upon the tax reduction measure. That is not unreasonable or any more than ought to be expected. The house is disposed to deal with such matters more speedily than the senate. The upper house is known as the deliberative body and it will proceed to dig into the bill as it comes from the house, where by law such a measure must originate, and endeavor to fix its imprint upon it before it acts.

The senate may be the part of congress which does more deliberating than the house, but there are times when it does far more wasting of time and political fighting under the head of deliberation than is justified. It would not be a very difficult job even at this stage of the tax reduction measure to point to those who will probably be found doing their utmost to break it down and block it. Instead of heeding the public demand efforts will be devoted to tearing to pieces and reconstructing it according to their ideas though with no promise of getting any better, if as good results.

It may not be necessary to push the tax reduction bill through congress before the first of the year. There is of course no reason to expect any such impossible thing, but it is desirous that such changes as are going to be made should be known in time to prevent the confusion which would go with last minute action. The senate can do much in meeting the situation.

MR. LEWIS' THREAT

When President Lewis of the miners' organization addresses President Coolidge and seeks to have him take a hand in the soft coal situation he apparently holds out the threat that unless he does he will call a strike.

President Coolidge can be relied upon to deal with this threat in his own way. He isn't likely to experience a nervous chill as the result of it, for while the government offered suggestions in an endeavor to get the soft coal miners and operators to come to an agreement it assumed no obligations on the part of either side. It is no more the duty of the government to see that the operators stand by the Jacksonville agreement than it would be to force the miners to work if they insisted upon striking.

It is the claim of the soft coal operators that they cannot adhere to the terms of the Jacksonville agreement and come out even. It forces them to spend more for the production of coal than they can get in competition with the non-union mines. The result was that they closed their mines and did not resume operations until the miners had indicated their willingness to accept different terms.

Probably Mr. Lewis' attention will be called many times to the stand which the Locomotive Engineers' brotherhood took in regard to the Jacksonville agreement. This big union owns coal properties and it is no secret that the brotherhood refused to sign the Jacksonville agreement for the union maintained that it was impossible for the union mines to break even under such an agreement. That would indicate that the position which was taken by the soft coal mine owners in closing their properties instead of continuing to operate under the Jacksonville agreement was fully endorsed by the engineers' brotherhood. They all agree that the Jacksonville terms are unjust and impossible.

The exchange of views between the head of the coal miners and the head of the engineers is a matter of history and certainly Mr. Lewis can get little comfort out of it at the present time and especially under the appeal that he makes to the president.

TREES IN PARKS

When the suggestion is made that the 37 acres in Central Park, New York city, which will be available when the old reservoir is abandoned, be utilized in establishing a small forest of American trees it is to be realized that such would mean an important contribution to the park and would follow the plan which is being practiced in numerous cities at the present time of setting out more trees.

New York would never expect such an effort to be pointed to as a demonstration plot in forestry, and it would nevertheless secure a valuable park asset and provide an added attraction just where such a feature would be expected.

It is a happy plan which prevails in many cities of replacing the trees which have to be removed and the dead ones each year. Conditions may not permit them to be set out exactly where the others stood. Possibly it would not be allowable to set out the new ones in that immediate vicinity but there are certainly many streets and avenues which need the benefit of shade trees and the idea of setting out a certain number each year means that the trees of the community does not decrease in spite of the encroachment of business upon residential sections, the logical expansion of the community and widening of streets and the effects of pests, disease and [illegible]

Thirty seven acres of trees in Central park would be a big attraction for the many in that city who don't know what a tree is and who may never see one unless they look at pictures or make a visit to the country Trees are used for memorial purposes and they could be employed with such a thing in mind in Central park quite as well as along highways and elsewhere. As a rule there is no such thing as having too many trees on land which is used for park purposes and there would seem to be no danger of any such development in the metropolis. Rather does the danger lie in not having enough.

POTATOES

More interest has been shown in potatoes of late because the price has been advancing. The price has been going up because of an alleged shortage.

Because of this situation it is an interesting statement which is made by the commission on necessities of life in Massachusetts, Eugene C. Hultman, when he declares that there is no shortage of potatoes being faced in that state and there is no excuse for the high price of potatoes. According to his statement the situation is due to an over demand simulated by the fear of a possible shortage rather than an apparent one and his advice in meeting the situation is not to lay in a winter's supply but to buy no more potatoes at present than is needed for current consumption. This will have the effect of correcting the excessive price inflation.

High prices have however caused other action to be taken since the president of the housewives' league of Providence has a plan for "potatoless" days for the purpose of keeping the price down.

If the Massachusetts official is right, and one in his position ought to know what he is talking about, the situation can be hastened to an adjustment by the part which the public plays. Certainly the situation is not going to be improved by storing up great stocks of high priced potatoes, and yet the consumer cannot be blamed for being a bit nervous for he knows not what may be in store later on if the price can be boosted as it has been thus early in the season. There have been times when stocks of potatoes were burned or otherwise destroyed in order to boost the price.

FRENCH CABINET MAKING

The demand in France today is not only for a strong man but one who can get the cooperation of the various parties that must participate in a coalition government.

Briand is a strong man and he has the added prestige of the accomplishments at the recent conference at Locarno, but he was unable to get the cooperation. He recognized the possibility that he could not when he accepted the appointment of premier tentatively. When he began to form his cabinet he found what the situation was and from the attitude displayed and the refusal of certain ones to act in his cabinet he was aware that it wa useless to try further.

In his recommendation of Doumer he takes into consideration the conditions which he faced. He is prepared to give what aid he can by remaining in the cabinet and even Doumer shows that he appreciates the difficulty in cabinet making at this time by withholding his decision of acceptance until he knows what he can do. If he can obtain a cabinet he will probably be the next premier. He stands forth as the man who in the estimation of Briand is fitted for the job and whose position in regard to government affairs seems likely to get that coperation which is necessary from the various factions if the various problems which face the government are to be solved. Whether Briand's opinion is shared by the troublemakers remains to be seen.

It isn't as yet a question of what methods shall be adopted so much as it is the manner in which politics are being played that has brought about this present crisis in France.

SUMMER TRAVELS

"Are you and Mr. Sputter going to take a trip this summer?" asked the curious neighbor, "or are you going to stay home? A lot of people are saying they much prefer to stay home out in this nice suburb, but, of course, that is just because they can't afford to go away! Not that I mean—"

"We just can't decide where we want to go!" declared the lady thus attacked. "Of course we are going away! We never even considered not doing it, and I can show you a regular mountain of folders and time tables and advertising booklets that Mr. Sputter has brought home for me to look over and help him make up his mind! We are so in the air between the mountains or the seashore, or a motor tour, maybe."

"My!" said the curious neighbor, with great interest. "I had no idea that you could spend so much money—mean, spend so much time away!"

"Mr. Sputter's time is his own," said his wife, sweetly. "You see, he is not on a salary like your husband, but it is his own office—practically his own, as the senior partner depends completely on him!

"I've been so interested in doing a South American trip, but Henry says if so much water, why not the Philippines? And then Japan is so near! It would be nice, too, to do Lake Louise and the northern Rockies, and take in a few of the parks on the way, although I do lean dreadfully toward the St. Lawrence trip and maybe out on the ocean!"

"Well, well!" stuttered the curious neighbor, sitting down and folding her arms, comfortably. "I nev—"

"Around Denver is sort of nice, too," proceeded the other. "And I've always wanted to explore those Indian places down in Arizona, but it would be kind of hot, and Henry is so careful of my health. It isn't merely a problem of where to go, either, but what to do with the house while we are gone, with my new rugs and curtains! Burglars are so smart these days that it doesn't do a particle of good to leave the window shades up and chairs on the front porch and the lawnmower out in the yard—they have developed a sixth sense, or something, and walk right in without a bit of fear! Of course, we might hire a caretaker—"

"I nev—never heard of a caretaker in a seven-room house!" gasped the curious neighbor. "You'd hafta pay 'em a lot!"

"Would we?" asked the other negligently. "If only I knew of some worthy woman with children in the city who would enjoy a breath of fresh air out here—"

"They'd ruin your furniture," objected the curious neighbor. "Say, I know of just the person: she has seven little ones and goes out by the day."

"But it might give them grander ideas than they ever could afford and so make them unhappy," said the other hastily. "That was why I gave up the notion. Henry says my heart always outruns my head. It is so much trouble to cart the silver and valuables to the bank, and if you dig a hole in the coal pile and bury the suitcase, why, when you return you find the coal has been moved to the other side of the cellar and the suitcase gone! I can't bother to send my furs away, either."

"You've had that fur coat five years, isn't it?" queried the curious neighbor. "It must be most worn out—"

"It was splendid fur," rebuked the other sweetly. "You'd be surprised if you ever bought a good fur to find how it wears! You just can't judge by those dreadful pieces they work off at the sales! That's why yours hasn't worn at all well, and only a year old, at that! Mine is a very valuable piece of fur, and it is only four years anyhow since I got it!"

"Well, then you haven't decided where you're going after all, have you?" mused the curious neighbor. "I thought mebbe you'd do as you did last year, go and visit your brother up on his Wisconsin farm, and rent your place to somebody from town!"

"Do you know," said the other confidently, "that is really just about what I have decided to do! Not half so much bother getting ready and so much safer for the house, you know!"

"Uh, huh," agreed the curious neighbor, getting up to go, "I thought you would!"—Exchange.

THANKSGIVING DAY IN THE UNITED STATES

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 25—Thanksgiving day in the United States is an annual festival of thanksgiving for the mercies of the closing year. The day is fixed by proclamation of the presidents and governors of the various states. The president's proclamation makes the day a legal holiday in the District of Columbia, territories and possessions.

In 1789 the Episcopal church formally recognized the civil government's authority to appoint such a feast, and in 1888 the Roman Catholic church also decided to honor a festival which had long been nearly universally observed.

The earliest harvest Thanksgiving in America was kept by the Pilgrim Fathers at Plymouth in 1621 and was repeated often during that and the ensuing century. Congress recommended days of thanksgiving annually during the Revolution and in 1784 for the return of peace—as did President Madison in 1815, following the close of the second war with Great Britain.

The first truly national Thanksgiving was observed in 1789, on the exact day on which the holiday occurs this year—November 26th. The first congress, sitting in New York; then the capital of the young nation, adopted a resolution requesting President Washington to appoint a day of Thanksgiving for the general benefit and welfare of the nation.

In compliance with the request Washington issued his proclamation on October 3, 1789, setting apart Thursday, November 26, as a day "to be devoted by the people of these states to the service of the great and Glorious Being who is the Beneficent Author of all the good that was, that is, or that will be." The people were requested to pray for the "the pardon of our national and other transgressions; for wise, just and constitutional laws, discreetly and faithfully executed and obeyed; for a larger knowledge and better practice of true religion and virtue and for the increase of science among all mankind."

In 1795 Washington issued his second proclamation appointing a day for a national Thanksgiving. In this proclamation which named February 19 as the day to be observed, the president called attention to the peace and prosperity prevailing throughout the land, and asked that thanks be given for the suppression of the insurrection which had "so wantonly threatened" the tranquility of the nation. The insurrection referred to by the president was the so-called "Whisky rebellion" which had occurred in several counties in Western Pennsylvania caused by the federal tax laid on alcoholic liquors and stills.

The next Thanksgiving day proclamation was issued by John Adams, the second president, in 1798, and a year later he again appointed a day for a national thanksgiving. No observance of the kind was held during the two administrations of Thomas Jefferson, but in 1815, following the close of the war, the custom was revived by President Madison. Then came a lapse of 47 years, from 1815, until 1862, before the nation again was called upon to give thanks in a proclamation issued by President Lincoln, who summoned his countrymen especially to "acknowledge and render thanks to our Heavenly Father for the signal victories, vouchsafed by Almighty God, to the land and naval forces engaged in suppressing an internal rebellion and for averting from our country the dangers of foreign intervention and invasion." Since 1862 the presidents have always issued proclamations appointing the last Thursday in November as Thanksgiving day.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Dr. Bliss Perry, who celebrates his sixty-fifth birthday anniversary today, is a noted author, editor and university lecturer who for nearly twenty years has filled the chair of English literature in Harvard. Dr. Perry was born at Williamstown, Mass., where his father was professor of history and political economy in Williams college. The son was graduated from Williams in 1881 and then went abroad for post-graduate work in German universities. Upon his return he became instructor in English at Williams and subsequently held the same position at Princeton university, where he received the Holmes professorship. In 1899 he succeeded a long line of illustrious men as editor of the Atlantic Monthly, which position he continued to fill for ten years. Dr. Perry is known as the author of many stories and essays.

Stories That Recall Others

The Gate

Betty, age three, and a big sister Dorothy had been to the grocery. Upon their arrival home, Dorothy stopped to fasten the gate. Betty went to the house.

Her mother asked: "Where is Dorothy?"

The Ring and the Set

Margaret had just acquired a fifth birthday of which the family and relatives had taken due notice. Her aunt Margaret, whose namesake she was, sent her a keepsake of her own little girl days, a ring with a turquoise setting, which she now passed on, hoping that her little niece would enjoy it as much as she had. Margaret's mother impressed on her how very kind it was of her Aunt Margaret to send to her her own little ring and admonished her that she must be very careful of it, which she, of course promised to do.

A few days after, her mother noticed the ring was not on Margaret's finger and inquired where it was. "Oh, it's all right, mother. The ring's all right," replied Margaret. "But where is it?" inquired the mother. "Oh, the ring's all right," repeated Margaret hastily. "I just laid it on your dresser because the 'set' came out of it."

Christopher L. Sholes, Inventor of the Typewriter

A great many of America's best men and women have been descendants of the pioneers of New England. The strain of John Alden and his wife, Priscilla Mullins, has produced many great Americans. Among others descended from this romantic couple, concerning whom Longfellow wrote so happily in "The Courtship of Miles Standish," was Christopher L. Sholes, one of the inventors of the typewriter.

"Why don't you speak for yourself, John?" Priscilla asked many years ago, and it was John's descendants who made the machine that today enables every business man to speak so well for himself—in the clear print of typewriting.

This particular successor of John Alden did not have wealth, even if he did have the best blood of America. When he was a boy of fourteen he was set to work in a printing office, and became the proverbial "printer's devil." When he had passed his apprenticeship as "devil" he went to work for his brother out in Wisconsin, a prosperous printer. From being a printer, Christopher Sholes naturally developed into an editor and writer and then just as naturally into a politician. From being merely a citizen who could express his strong opinions on slavery and other topics he became first a postmaster and then a state senator, collector of customs, and controller of Milwaukee.

In the printing shop that he continued to operate, Christopher Sholes had need of numbering machines, and in trying to make a numbering machine he stumbled upon the idea of a machine that should print as well as number. Making use of crude machines invented by others, and imitating the keyboard of a piano, he at last made an apparatus that seems peculiarly blundering when put by the side of any ordinary modern typewriter. But it worked. Then he began the task of interesting wealthy men. The Remington Arms company was able to make accurately formed parts, and so that company was quickly interested in the new machine, bought the rights, and developed and perfected one of the most useful instruments ever devised.

For many years Christopher Sholes continued to work on the improvement of the typewriter, and many others came to his aid. In general, however, it is the work of the "printer's devil" that gave the world the first really successful typewriter.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A Merchant's Observations

Mr. Editor: I was very much interested in the cigar makers plea for the public to support them by smoking Norwich made cigars.

Now in my experience as a merchant the average union man as a rule buys what he has to have for himself and family where he can get the best for the least money irrespective of union or other labels and I presume it is so with the individual members of the Cigarmakers' union.

Outside of the Cigarmakers' union take the merchants of our city that are trying to do business. They are paying a city and town tax of 4 1-2 per cent. on their business and are up against the unfair competition of our gas and electrical department which is flooding the city and town with advertising matter telling the public they will sell them merchandise at $1 down and $1 weekly and throw in a whole lot of stuff for nothing at a price that bars out the tax-paying merchant and the man that wants the public to support his particular line is the first one to take advantage of the situation.

There are very few merchants outside of the ready made clothing and food dealers that are not up against this competition that by vote of these same union men allows the publicly owned gas and electrical plant, that is free from the tax burden that the merchant has to pay on his business to the town, city, state and federal government, to continue. Consistency used to be a jewel but at the present time every one seems to be for himself irrespective of union or anything else.

The coal strike is another object lesson. Coal at $18.50 a ton is another instance of the Christian spirit that pervades the community in the present age.

ANOTHER MERCHANT,
that is almost on the rocks of disaster.
Norwich, Nov. 24, 1925.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

THE ENGLISH CHANNEL

"When swimmers try to cross the English channel they have more than 20 miles of sea water, the width of the channel at its narrowest point, to negotiate," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society. "Just to make the event a sporting one Father Neptune has assembled in the water wedge that separates England and the continent a continuous succession of tidal streams, cross currents, double tides, and vortexes or whirlpools. Added to these handicaps are gales in the winter and spring, while fog and thick weather are common at all seasons.

"England and France have an equal share in ruling the waves of what the English-speaking world calls the English channel and the French call 'La Manche' (the sleeve.) To judge from the generally agitated character of its surface the pact is not a peaceful one. Geography, not statecraft, is the cause of this apparent discord.

"Along the south shore of England, for the channel is generally considered as extending from the Scilly islands or Lands End to the Strait of Dover, is a succession of wide sickle-shaped bays, the shores of which run north and south, or nearly so, at their western sides, turning eastward somewhat abruptly at their heads. On the French side the arrangement is reversed. The north and south shores are on the eastern sides of the bays, generally speaking, while the gentler trend is to the west.

"These sickle-shaped bays, at irregular angles, twist and retard the normal tides and currents like baffles in a steam boiler flue. Tides coming from the Atlantic are found to be progressively slower at each headland until Portland Bill, opposite Cherbourg, is reached. From this point to Selsey Bill, opposite Havre, there are double tides, corresponding to approximately the time of low water in regular tidal progression. The result is two periods of low water in this region, separated by a slight rise known as 'sulder.'

"To complicate matters even more the double tide farther east corresponds more nearly with high tide, giving the effect of a prolonged high tide in most places. Southampton, sheltered behind the isle of Wight, has two periods of high tide.

"It is in the vicinity of the Strait of Dover, however, that Neptune puts forth his best efforts. To the tidal maelstrom of the channel from the Atlantic is added the tidal stream from the North Sea. Although the time of their coming together and departing corresponds roughly, the area of meeting and separation is never stacky. Between Beachy Head and North Foreland, and the mouth of the Somme river and Dunkirk, a third stream is formed by the two tidal currents, known as the intermediate stream, which, running first with the channel stream and then with the North sea stream, changes its direction throughout its length almost simultaneously, a sort of a water shuttle or friction surface between two conflicting sea rivers, never still.

"The winds, likewise, have long had a powerful effect on the tidal streams and currents in this region, the latter being in the English channel simply movements of the surface water set up by gales, some far distant. Often, under the influence of westerly winds from the Bay of Biscay, a new current is set up across the entrance of the channel, known as Rennell's current. Most of the time, however there is a slow and almost continuous current from west to east, perhaps a branch of the Gulf Stream through the North sea.

"The latter part of summer is usually chosen by swimmers as the best time to make the attempt to swim the channel because the tides are not so strong as during the spring and early summer and the temperature of the water is higher.

"Its tides and gales have long given the English channel a bad name, even among boat passengers. Many who have escaped the mal de mer germ on the open sea succumb on the 22-mile run between Dover and Calais, or the 26-mile run from Folkestone to Boulogne, the shortest routes between England and the continent. In England it is a custom that amounts almost to an obligation first to inquire of all voyagers arriving from the continent if they have had a pleasant crossing."

How to Select the Turkey

When you select your turkey for Thanksgiving, one of the chief considerations is the amount and quality of the flesh on the body, especially on the breast, back and hips. Plenty of flesh means plenty of meat for carving and there should be also a generous amount of fat to insure a moist, tender turkey. The French always expose a turkey in the market with the back up so the housewife can better observe how plump the bird is.

Feeling the end of the breast or keel bone and examining the spurs on the feet may give some idea of the age of a turkey, but these tests are not infallible for picking out a tender turkey. Almost any turkey can be cooked so that it is tender; but it is, of course, easier to roast a young bird. The best method of cooking a turkey is that by which the fish is kept moist and juicy. Cooking it in a covered roaster with a little water in the bottom in a carefully regulated oven will prevent it from drying out. The time for cooking varies according to the age of the turkey and its size. — From the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture Bulletin.

Increase Your Beauty and Look Younger

Delightful New Vanishing Cream Containing True Buttermilk Must Make You Look Years Younger or Money Back.

The old-time application of Buttermilk and Cream to whiten and preserve the skin and remove harsh little wrinkles and ugly sallowness is grandmother's recipe and women throughout the country are again using it to ensure a beautiful complexion and snow-white hands and arms.

Buttermilk, however, is not always obtainable, but a specialist has at last perfected a method of concentrating buttermilk and combining it with a perfect cream, which you can buy in small quantities ready for use at any first-class drug store by simply asking for "Howard's" Buttermilk Cream.

There is no secret about it nor is there any doubt about the result—it's just a common ordinary buttermilk in the form of a wonderful cream, gently massaged with the finger tips around the corners of the eyes and mouth.

STONE THROUGH WINDOW BROUGHT TWO TO COURT

A breach of the peace charge against Wasil Laputz, of Greeneville, resulted in a 30-day jail sentence, suspended, given him by Judge Arthur F. Libby, in the city court Tuesday morning. A similar charge against Joseph Mikalitz, also of Greeneville was nolled. The men were arrested after Laputz had thrown a stone through a window at the home of Alleck Kessle, of No. 424 North Main street, Monday evening. It is claimed the stone or rock was intended for Kessle who was sitting by a table in the room. As it was, the flying glass cut him on the arm.

The reason Laputz was out to "get" Kessle, is said to be a desire for revenge against Kessle whom Laputz and Mikalitz claimed informed on them on a cloth stealing charge, the cloth being stolen from the U. S. Finishing company's plant. Both Laputz and Mikalitz had been arrested on the charge of theft from the Finishing plant several months ago. Two men were fined $5 and costs for intoxication.

WEDDING.
O'Neill-Keating

At Sacred Heart church, Norwich Town, Tuesday morning at 7:30 o'clock, Miss Alice Margaret Keating of Tanner avenue and John J. O'Neill of New London were united in marriage by Rev. Charles W. Brennan, pastor of the church, who also celebrated the nuptial high mass which followed the marriage ceremony. The Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin was used as the processional by the church organist, Mrs William A. Murphy, and for the recessional she played Mendelssohns Wedding March. The choir sang and at the offertory Miss Mary Buckley sang Ave Maria. The bride had as her maid her sister, Miss Katharine Keating, and the groom was attended by Thomas Meade of New London, as best man.

The bride was crowned in sapphire crepe romaine with hat to harmonize and carried an arm bouquet of Ophelia rose-buds. The bridesmaid wore cocoa crepe romaine with hat to match the dress, and her arm bouquet was a deeper shade of pink rose-buds.

A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride which was attended only by the members of the immediate families, the whole affair being very quiet, owing to a recent sudden death in the bride's family. The bride who is the daughter of Mrs. Margaret Keating and the late Cornelius Keating of Norwich Town, received many beautiful and costly wedding gifts.

The groom is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John O'Neill, of New London, and is a salesman for the General Baking Co., of Springfield, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Neill left about noon for a wedding trip of a week, and upon their return will reside in a newly furnished home in New London.

OBITUARY.

SAY THEY HEARD CAPT. LENNEN CALL LUCIUS WILCOX "MY BOY"

"My boy" was the way the late Captain James Lennen referred to Lucius H. Wilcox, a fish dealer in this city, according to the testimony of several witnesses in the superior court here Tuesday in the opening of the trial of the Wilcox suit for $25,000 against the Lennen estate. The claim by Wilcox is that the captain promised to leave him $25,000 by will or otherwise in consideration for the service Wilcox rendered as companion and caretaker from Jan. 1, 1919 to Dec. 14, 1924, the date of the death of Captain Lennen in a Hartford hospital.

Several of the witnesses also testified that Captain Lennen said he was going to leave Wilcox "well fixed" or so that he wouldn't need to work hard, while a niece of Captain Lennen testified that there was insanity in the family and she believed Captain Lennen was insane.

The trial is going on before Judge C. L. Avery and a jury, with G. C. Morgan and Abel P. Tanner as attorneys for Wilcox and Arthur M. Brown as attorney for the two executors of the Lennen estate, Judge G. E. Parsons of this city and Captain Jesse A. Wilcox, a life long friend of Captain Lennen. The old Norwich captain, who started in as a bony fisherman as a young man and amassed a fortune, left an estate of close to $600,000, but did not mention Wilcox, the plaintiff in this suit, in his will. Wilcox claims that the services he rendered were worth $100 a week and the period was 254 weeks.

Plaintiff Describes Services Rendered

Attorney Morgan called the plaintiff to the stand as the first witness. Mr. Wilcox said that he was a native of Mystic, a second cousin of Captain Jesse Wilcox, one of the executors of the will. The witness said he had been a resident of Norwich for seven years and had been a boyhood friend of Captain Lennen in Mystic. At some time previous to December 10, 1918, Captain Lennen had come to him on the Argo, the Wilcox fishboat at the Osgood wharf in this city and had said to him in effect that he didn't know how he could get along without the witness. "I know you and I knew your father. If you stay here until my death I'll promise you $25,000."

Attorney Morgan read the Lennen will and had it marked as an exhibit in the case and then proceeded with the testimony of the plaintiff. He asked Mr. Wilcox to describe the services he rendered Captain Lennen. This, the witness said, was hard to describe in words. The captain was a peculiar type of man. The witness was expected to give the captain the use of his machine, taking him to Danielson, Jewett City, Mystic, New London, Groton and other places.

At times, the witness said, he hired an automobile for Captain Lennen when the Wilcox machine was in the repair shop. He had two special cushions made in order that the captain should be comfortable while riding, and he also assisted the captain in the adjustment of a truss. Some of the duties he had to perform were most unpleasant. The captain would come to the fish boat very often and the witness kept a chef there in order to cook food for the captain. Every Sunday the witness went to the captain's house to see if there was something he wanted done and the captain called him "my boy." The witness attended to repairs around the Lennen house and when he needed a helper he paid the helper himself. The captain never paid him anything for all this. After the captain died, the witness said he went to the Lennen house, remaining there and making all the arrangements and directing the funeral. He did all and even more than a son would have done he said.

After a short recess Attorney Brown began the cross examination of the plaintiff. The lawyer asked the witness to tell what services he rendered Captain Lennen in the first week in December, 1918. The witness said he couldn't remember. Neither could he remember for the subsequent weeks of that month. He said he kept no records of what he did. "Was your conversation worth $100 a week?" the attorney asked. "Possibly not," said Wilcox. "Did you visit Captain Lennen in the hospital after he had been assaulted or were you in court at either of the trials were other questions which the attorney put to the witness, to all, of which he answered in the negative.

Taking up the use of automobiles, Attorney Brown asked Mr. Wilcox for dates when he took Capt. Lennen out riding in 1919. The witness could give no dates but said it was many times. Sometimes he hired a machine, he said. The witness said that he took Capt. Lennen to Capt. Jesse Wilcox's place in Noank many times. He was sure it was more than five or six times. He denied that these trips were always made in his truck when he was going after a load of fish. He denied also that there was an occasion when he refused to take Capt. Lennen to Poquonnoc because he had to get his load of fish home. He said he did not go to see Capt. Lennen in the hospital at Hartford and he did not take Mrs. Lennen there because Mrs. Lennen said she would rather ride in a larger car.

Papers Introduced

State Attorney Brown placed three papers in for identification after having Mr. Wilcox identify his own signature upon them. The witness denied that Capt. Lennen ever paid him anything for any of the work that was done around the house.

Two of the papers were checks from Capt. Lennen to Mr. Wilcox and bearing his endorsement.

When the cross examination had finished, Attorney Morgan took up the checks and other papers and tried to question the witness about them. Attorney Brown objected on the ground that they were not exhibits yet and Judge Avery sustained him. Attorney Brown promised that they would be put into the case at the proper time.

Called Him "My Boy"

Mrs. Anna Lennen McQueen, of Killingly, a niece of Capt. Lennen, testified that she went to see Capt. Lennen once a month after he had been assaulted. The first time she ever saw Wilcox was Dec. 17, the day before the funeral. She said that Capt. Lennen used to speak of Wilcox as "my boy," and when she asked him about that he said this was one of the Wilcox boys whom he had known from a little tot and the only person in whom he had full confidence. The witness also told of another conversation when Captain Lennen said he meant to leave "my boy" well fixed. She said this was in the week of May 15, 1918, and when she asked Capt. Wilcox what he meant by well fixed, he replied that he was going to leave Lucius Wilcox $100,000 in his will.

She denied on cross examination that the plaintiff had promised to pay her anything in case he won this suit.

On redirect examination she said Capt. Lennen was blind in one eye and had a cataract on the other in the last years of his life. She said she knew of his other physical disabilities.

To a question from Attorney Brown, the witness said her father is a brother of Capt Lennen. She admitted that her father is insane and said that her great grandfather died in Ireland, insane. She also testified that she has a sister in an asylum.

"Capt. Lennen was insane, wasn't he," the attorney asked the witness.

"Certainly," was the reply.

Theodore Schulz, of this city, testified that he had taken Capt. Lennen home at one time in his automobile and had taken articles to his house at the request of Lucius Wilcox, doing this as a favor to Wilcox. He had not been paid for these services, but the score was even between them, he said.

Seamen Give Testimony

Charles Phelps Daniels, of North Stonington, a fisherman, testified that he saw Capt. Lennen occasionally Friday afternoons at Capt. Wilcox's fish boat. The witness said Capt. Lennen had mentioned to him several times that he was going to remember Lucius in his will. This was on a few occasions when he took Capt. Lennen home.

William McHenry, master mariner and deep sea captain, told of first meeting Capt. Lennen at the Wilcox fish boat. He heard Capt Lennen call Wilcox "my boy." Once aboard the boat Capt. Lennen asked what a three masted schooner would cost. The witness replied $25,000 and remarked that was more money than Lucius Wilcox had. Capt. Lennen replied: "But I owe Lucius Wilcox $25,000." The witness said Capt. Lennen said he was going to leave Lucius more than that. The witness also testified to going on automobile rides with Lucius and Capt. Lennen. At that time he saw Wilcox attending to Capt. Lennen's comfort.

After the noon recess, Capt. McHenry was crossexamined by Attorney Brown.

It was brought out that Wilcox owes the witness some money, but he denied that Wilcox had told him he would pay him if he got anything out of this case. Capt. McHenry admitted that he told Capt Jesse Wilcox over the telephone, to let him know when this case came up as he wanted to make an attachment against Lucius Wilcox.

Boy Cut The Grass

Stanley Koziol, 15, of 283 Boswell avenue, a schoolboy, testified that he had worked in the summer of 1923 and 1924 on Capt. Wilcox boat and Capt. Lennen came there three or four times a week. Koziol also said he cut the lawn at the Lennen place once a week being sent there by Wilcox and paid $1.25 by Capt. Lennen. The witness said Capt. Lennen spoke of Wilcox as "my boy."

John Santella, of Trading Cove, testified that Capt. Lennen had stopped at his house several times when out driving with Lucius Wilcox. The witness told of an occasion on the Wilcox boat, when Capt. Lennen called Lucius Wilcox "my boy," and said he had done a lot for him, and no man had ever done for him what Lucius Wilcox had done. The witness said he had been a customer of Lucius Wilcox for fish since 1918.

Mike Kononchik, of Montville, a farmer, testified to seeing Capt. Lennen at the Wilcox boat in the summer of 1924, when he heard Lennen call Wilcox "my boy," and at another time when Capt. Lennen and Wilcox visited Kononchik's house, Capt Lennen told Wilcox: "I won't forget you."

Mrs. Mary Alice Kinder, 188 West Main street, an employe at the Norwich State hospital, told of meeting Capt. Lennen on the fish boat in the summer of 1924 when Capt. Lennen referred to Wilcox as "Lutie" and "my boy." Capt Lenner said that some day Lutie wouldn't have to work so hard as he would see to that.

Ralph Kinder, husband of the preceding witness and employed as night watchman at Uncas-on Thames, said he also heard Capt. Lennen speak of Wilcox as "my boy."

William Dorman, of Baltic, a painter, testified that whenever Capt. Lennen came to the fish boat and Lucius was not there he would slap the witness on the shoulder and ask, "Where is my boy?" The captain also said that Lou would never want for anything when he was gone.

Thought Wilcox Had Money

William Mileski, of Oakridge street, this city, who has been in the tire business, testified that he formerly ran the switching engine here for the New Haven road, and he had seen Capt. Lennen twice helped into an automobile by Wilcox, in the summer of 1923, near the Wilcox fish boat.

The witness said he had recently been trying to interest Wilcox in some business under the impression that Wilcox had money, but he had found out Wilcox didn't have any. He had me going for about a month, the witness said.

Capt. Potter Testifies

Capt. Charles T. Potter, of this city, who affirmed rather than take the oath, and who is a retired sea captain now 80 years old, told of hearing Capt. Lennen say that Lou was a good boy and he would never lack for anything.

Capt. Potter interjected into his testimony some observations upon his life occupation, saying that he had followed the sea till he heard the call of God to try to save the poor lost men and women in New London, of which there is great need. When asked to locate a date, he replied that he didn't have to remember these little A., B., C.'s, as he was living in eternity and March, April or May meant all the same to him. He mentioned that he had been given a vision of the tabernacle and had made over 150 models of this which he had distributed in the course of his life.

Capt. Nelson B. Vars, 73, who has known Capt. Lennen for 53 years, said on one occasion the captain talked a good deal about how good Lou was to him. This was in a sidewalk conversation about two years ago.

On cross examination Attorney Brown asked Capt. Vars if he remembered when he (Brown) went as mate on the Delaware, with Capt. Vars.

"Yes," answered the retired sea captain.

"Did he make a good mate?" interposed Attorney Morgan.

"None better," replied the captain. "He never went to sleep."

Estate of Nearly $600,000

Mrs. Victoria Santella, of Trading Cove, told of a conversation with Capt. Lennen, at the fish boat. This closed the evidence for the plaintiff.

It was agreed by both sides that the inventory of the estate was nearly $600,000.

Defense Testimony.

Opening the defendant's side of the case, Attorney Brown called to the stand one of the executors of the Lennen will, Capt. Jesse A. Wilcox, of Mystic. The witness said Capt. Lennen had been in the Wilcox family until he was 21 and then went into the fishing business. The witness had shipped on fishing boats under Capt. Lennen and knew his characteristics. Capt. Lennen kept his "strong box" with valuable papers in it in the attic of the witness's house until after Captain Lennen was married. When Capt. Lennen left the hospital after he had been assaulted, Capt. Lennen stayed at the home of the witness. Capt. Jesse said he attended Capt. Lennen every day during the first superior court trial, but didn't see Lucius Wilcox there. Neither did he see Lucius at the second trial.

The witness told of visits by Capt. Lennen to the home of the witness after the trial. He said the captain's physical condition was good, this being in 1922. Lucius Wilcox the witness said, brought Capt. Lennen to his house six or eight times, most often in the fish truck and sometimes in a sedan. The last time Capt. Lennen was at the house was three weeks before he went to the hospital. At that time Lucius Wilcox declined to take Capt. Lennen home by way of Poquonnoc because he had a load of fish to get home. All this time, the witness said, Capt. Lennen's physical condition was good and he was able to sit up to past midnight to talk about stocks, bonds and fishing. The captain told the witness he had made his will and had left him a bequest and didn't owe anybody in the world.

The witness testified that Lucius Wilcox had told him at times that Capt. Lennen was in bad shape and when he would report this to Capt. Lennen, the latter would say: "Well, Lucius is a good boy, but he lies so that you can't believe a word he says."

Capt. Jesse Wilcox testified that he took Mrs. Lennen in his car to the bank to hear the will read and she sent a car to the fish boat to bring Lucius Wilcox to the bank.

Attorney Morgan took up the cross examination, after which Attorney Brown asked the witness several questions on re-direct examination. The witness told of an occurrence at Capt. Lennen's house about seven or eight weeks before the last visit to the home of the witness. Capt. Lennen beckoned him into a room, put his hand on the shoulder of the witness and asked him if he could come up any time he wanted him because Capt. Lennen had no one else in the world whom he could depend upon. At one time the witness said he and his wife suggested to Capt. Lennen that he get a young couple to live in his house, the woman to assist Mrs. Lennen and the man to help Capt. Lennen and drive him around in an automobile. Capt. Lennen's response, the witness said, was, "Damn the automobiles. I don't like them. I can't afford it."

Court adjourned at 4.40 to continue trial of the case the next day.

BOYS ARE LIONS' GUESTS AT THANKSGIVING DINNER

The members of the Norwich Lions' club entertained about 30 boys at a Thanksgiving dinner, at the Wauregan hotel Tuesday noon. President William A. Anderson presided at the meeting and Jean Kiefer was the song leader. C. Edward Carpenter said grace.

Each boy introduced himself, giving his name and his grade in school. A regular Thanksgiving turkey dinner was served and during the dinner there were the usual group and club songs. The attendance prize, a five turkey, donated by Dr. Kopeland Markoff, was awarded to Joseph Panek.

Omar Bonville, one of the boys present, in behalf of the other young guests expressed appreciation for the splendid dinner and extended best wishes to the Lions. The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

Following the dinner the boys went to the Palace theatre where they were guests of Manager McAvoy who invited them to witness Charlie Chaplin in The Gold Rush.

Visiting in New York

SUSIE IS PEEVED AT HER BOY FRIEND AND ALSO BAWLS OUT SPORTS EDITOR

Sports Editor:

You think you're funny, doncha? Well, I don't. In my opinion you're about as humorous as a busted crutch. You're one of those guys that ain't got no respect for a girl's feelin's if you think you can get a laugh outa razzin' a poor workin' girl. My old man's sore, too, so you'd better look out, 'cause he can lick you and your old man together. You musta gotta an awful kick outa puttin' them little stars in that letter of Jimmy's and then puttin' that foot note at the bottom tellin' the public I was dumber than I wrote. Let me tell ya, I ain't.

As for that foolish shiek, Jimmy, I'm offa him for life. He's fine boy friend to have, an' after me invitin' him up night after night to park his dogs under my dinin' room table. To see that cake-eater dive into the food me puts on the table you'd think he been on a diet for a coupla months. Well he can starve and grow skinny as a rail for all I care. I've held a meeting with myself and we've made new parkin' rules for the parlor. There's "No Parking" signs hung all over the place for him, and, believe me, if that cowboy don't take heed my old man'll give him a sock in the eye. Yea, and me goin' invite him up to Thanksgivin' dinner to eat turkey. Well, he can munch on those beans or corn beef hash he had so much to say about. It'll be a long day 'fore I say about. It'll be a long day 'fore that kid can call me "Sweetie" again.

As for you, Mr. Sports Editor, I ain't got no respect atall, you're punk. You're wife must have a fine merry time with you. I bet she just laughs herself sick over them 1492 jokes you pull. I'd like to be married to you for about one day, and believe me I'd show the dear public one of them "Battles of a Century." That Firpo-Dempsey fight would look like pettin' party 'tween two sick turtle-doves compared to the stuff I'd hand out. All's I can say is that I pity her. Blah, you make me sick.

I bet you don't print this letter 'cause it would show you up for what you are to the boys down around Madden's. Oh, I know where you hang out with that big George Madden, who thinks he's an actor. You an' him make a good pair. I hear you belong to the Rotary club and he belongs to the roarin' Lions and I bet you are a pair of cut-ups when you get goin'. I bet them boy's don't stand for none of that bum humor.

When I writ that first letter I thoght I'd be doin' you a favor but when you printed that sheik's bunch of junk I see you didn't appreciate my literry efforts. That's all the thanks a girl gets for tryin' to help a man. The more you do for a man the more abuse you get. You can bet your last nickel I ain't goin' write no more letters 'till you and that shiek get down on them knees of yours and beg my pardon. And that's that.

Sorely Yours,
Susie.

Ed. Note. My Dear Miss Susie:

I am on my knees and I most humbly beg your pardon and ask your forgiveness. If there is anything I can do to square myself with you I wish you would tell me. I can see now that I used poor judgment in printing that letter of the Boy Friend and I'm printing your letter to show you that I'm not afraid to take the bawling out that I deserve. I printed your first letter because it was something different from the ordinary run of sport items. Then the Boy Friend came in and said that he felt that he should entitled to write his version of that trip to Boston, so I told him to go ahead, which perhaps I should not have done. Anyway it's done and people are asking who you are but I'm not telling them.

But I do not see why you should drag George Madden's name and the Rotary and Lions clubs into the discussion. I'll admit George has appeared in amateur theatricals but that's no reason why you should class him with me. As for the Rotary club, I am going to invite you and the Boy Friend to some luncheon and I hope you will attend, just so you can see what a bunch of good fellows we have in the club.

As for my wife, she can speak for herself like most any woman and she needs no one to fight her battles for her. Well, I thank my lucky stars I am married to her instead of you.

I hope you and the Boy Friend make up before Thanksgiving because he is a good kid and what he wrote was only in a spirit of fun.

Your humble servant,
The Sports Editor.

MAYS WINS FEATURE BOUT ON DANIELSON AMATEUR CARD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Nov. 24—Sunny Mays, the "Danielson Bearcat" beat Lou Adams of Worcester, 165 pound champion of Worcester county, in two rounds in one of the star bouts at the Casino arena here tonight. Adams' seconds threw a towel into the ring while Mays was pounding their man around in the second round.

In the other star bout Bobby Riccio, substituting for Johnny Mack, state champion at 125 pounds, was beaten by Young Chapedny of Worcester in three rounds. Mack is said to have had an ulcerated tooth and did not appear.

Danny Doran of Hartford, 135 pound class, won from Young Mulvaney of Worcester.

Johnny Angelo of Hartford, boxing in the 135 pound class, took a trimming from Young Major of Danielson who lost a decision to him in a bout here a month ago.

Yale Track Schedule

Varsity—April 7, Navy at Annapolis; 23-24, Penn relays at Philadelphia; May 1, Yale-Penn-Dartmouth, at Philadelphia; 15, Princeton; 22, Harvard at Cambridge; 28-29, intercollegiates, probably at Cambridge.

EAST IS SUPREME IN INTERSECTIONAL FOOTBALL

NEW YORK, Nov. 24—With the major intersectional battles of the gridiron season concluded, except possibly for a post-season attraction or so on the Pacific coast, traditional rivalry will be the main incentive to action in the games this week, Thanksgiving day and Saturday.

This tradition will be particularly colorful in the Army-Navy classic at the Polo grounds Saturday, marking the climax of the eastern season and following such other time-honored battles on Thanksgiving day as the Pennsylvania-Cornell, Pittsburgh-Penn State, West Virginia-Washington & Jefferson contests.

Three other major contests also loom largely in the week's program with Colgate seeking to keep its unbeaten record intact against Brown, Columbia bidding for victory against Syracuse and Holy Cross meeting Boston college in a Catholic college classic, another renewal of an ancient feud.

Intersectionally, the week is devoid of any attractions comparing with these contests, but there will be interest nevertheless Thanksgiving day in Bucknell's invasion of Detroit to meet Detroit University, Vermont's trip to the middle west to battle St. Louis University and Fordham's jaunt to Cleveland for a game with John Carroll.

The south and middle west clash when Mercer meets Marquette at Milwaukee in another encounter while Saturday's slate finds Bucknell meeting Dayton at Dayton, O.

The past week's intersectional play has developed no change in the relative positions of rival regions, although the far west has broken into the winning column for the first time as a result of Southern California's triumph over Iowa. The east, however, increased its string of triumphs to 26 by virtue of Carnegie's defeat of St. Louis and holds a lead which clinches the main portion of intersectional laurels.

The standing, up to date, follows:

	East	Middle West	South	Far West	Total won
East	x	12	5	9	26
Middle West	6	x	3	1	11
South	4	1	x	0	5
Far West	0	1	0	x	1
Total lost	10	20	12	1

Ties, far west and middle west, one; East and middle west, three.

PLAINFIELD OPENS ITS BASKETBALL SEASON TONIGHT

Plainfield will open its basketball season tonight with the fast Kerr basketball team of Fall River.

Plainfield will be represented by one of the fastest teams ever seen on the home floor and on a par with the best in the state.

Normandin and Dissinger will team together in the forward positions. "Mondy" and "Dis" need no introduction to the basketball fans through this part of the state having played for Plainfield last year when they were considered as flashy a pair of forwards as there were in the state.

Norris who formerly played on the Co. G., and Rec., team of South Manchester will jump center.

Bissell and Benson also of South Manchester will play the guard positions. Both of these boys who have played with some of the best teams in the state will form a formidable barrier for the opposing forwards.

Fall River, captained by "Scotty" Higgins former Emerald star will present the same line-up that established an enviable record last year through the New England states.

Fall River appeared in Plainfield twice last year and on both occasions gave the home team the stiffest opposition that they encountered during the season. Fall River took the first game by a very small margin and Plainfield did likewise in the second encounter.

In the preliminary game the Buddies will line up against the fast St. Mary's team of Willimantic.

Friday, Dec. 4th, the Aetna Fire Insurance team of Hartford will be the visiting attraction.

YOUNG COULON GETS THE DECISION OVER JOE EULO

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 24—(A. P.)—Joe Currie, of New Haven, was given the referee's decision over Marty Silvers of New York, in the six round star bout beore the Nutmeg A. C., here tonight.

Joe Kaufman, of New York, was given the referee's decision over Mickey Travers, of New Haven, in a six round bout.

Young Coulon, of Taftville, was given the referee's decision over Joe Eulo of New York, in a six round bout.

Sammy Cooper, of New Haven, was given the referee's decision over Dick Lynch, of Bayonne, N. J., in a six round bout.

Philadelphia Women Win

WELLESLEY, Mass., Nov. 24—Women's field hockey teams from Philadelphia and Boston won the opening contests today in the fifth annual inter-city tournament of the United States Field Hockey association played on the Wellesley college campus. Philadelphia defeated Fairchester, 16 to 0, and Boston won from Chicago 9 goals to 1.

NO MORE SCRIMMAGE FOR NAVY TEAM BEFORE ARMY GAME

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 24—Scrimmaging was taboo on Farragut field this afternoon as the naval academy eleven virtually completed its special preparation for next Saturday's annual clash with its ancient service rival, the Army.

Signal practice, formations, and drill in all departments of kicking comprised the afternoon's work. Several special plays were run over in dummy scrimmage formation.

A like program is planned for tomorrow, and at 8:45 Thursday morning the team will entrain for Philadelphia where it will see the Cornell-Pennsylvania Thanksgiving afternoon battle, afterwards continuing to New York, where practice will be held on the Polo grounds Friday.

WILL VIEW ARMY-NAVY GAME FROM AIRPLANE

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(A. P.)—Unable to obtain Army-Navy tickets except at the high prices demanded by speculators, a New York football enthusiast today chartered a Sikorsky transport plane, accommodating 14 persons for the purpose of circling over the Polo Grounds and viewing the military classic this Saturday from the air.

Officials of the airplane company making this announcement declined to disclose the cost of engaging the the "ship" for this novel purpose but said that the average cost per passenger, providing there is a full load, would not be much in excess of the speculators' ticket prices, said to range as high as $25 and $35.

COMPLETE CHANGE IN BOXING RULES IS APPROVED BY N. Y. COMMISSION

NEW YORK, Nov. 24—A change in the system of judging boxing bouts under which the number of rounds won and lost will determine the result, rather than the total point score of each contestant at the end, was decided upon by the state athletic commission today in a new move to obtain uniformly satisfactory decisions.

The new plan, which is expected to have a far-reaching effect in pugilism as giving the early rounds of a fight equal importance with those at the finish, required almost a complete revision of rule 8 of the board's regulations, which had previously provided that "the contestant who scores the greatest number of effective points regardless of the number of rounds won or lost should be regarded as the victor.

The amendment to the rule requires that points shall be scored as each round progresses, and that at the end of the bout "the contestant who has to his credit the greater amount of the rounds fought is the winner."

To put this change into effect, the commission has ordered referees and judges to appear next Tuesday for advice and instruction.

In commenting on the change, the chairman, James A. Farley said the commission felt that too many decisions had been handed down on the basis of strong finishes by boxers who had been defeated, sometimes decisively in the early rounds.

It was the board's view that the change not only would emphasize the importance of fighters giving their best efforts from the very outset of each contest, but would provide a more accurate plan of arriving at fair decisions in close matches.

Charity and the high cost of championship boxing talent appeared to have been brought no closer together today in connection with the commission's attempt to aid Tex Rickard in the promotion of a Christmas fund show on December 23. Rickard, balked in his efforts to sign Mickey Walker and Tommy Milligan for a welterweight title fight last week, renewed his attempt to persuade the board that its requirement of 50 per cent., of the gross receipts for charity was too much.

The board declined to alter its stand and at the close of a long conference, Rickard admitted that no card had yet been agreed upon. This was accepted as indicating that the latest main bout proposed, bringing together Jimmy Goodrich of Buffalo, N. Y., and Luis Vicentini of Chili for the lightweight title, has likewise been shelved.

Plans for an entirely new card loomed in an announcement by the commission that the possibility of securing Fidel LaBarba, of California, new flyweight champion, for the main bout of the show had been discussed. Joe Lazarue of Bayonne, N. J., former Cornell athlete and a member of the 1924 Olympic team, which also included LaBarba, was suggested as an opponent for Genaro's conqueror.

The commission will not permit LaBarba to box more than six rounds, however, owing to the fact that he has not yet attained his majority, Chairman Farley declared.

A challenge was filed against Charley (Phil) Rosenberg, the bantamweight champion, by Johny Brown of England. Announcement was made that suspensions of Johnny O'Connor, boxer of Cohoes, N. Y., and Jack Bernstein of Yonkers, N. Y., among others, banned for 30 days to "recover from illness" had been lifted.

PROFESSIONALISM IS KILLING AMATEUR SPORTS

ELGIN, Ills., Nov. 24.—(A. P.)—The present age of professionalism is killing amateur baseball in America and is making deep inroads into football, in the opinion of Major John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics in the "Big Ten" conference.

"I cannot blame Red Grange for joining with the professionals," declared Major Griffith to The Associated Press, "but I am sorry that he did so. It will certainly hut the amateur sport, just as I am confident it will help the professional game.

"I would rather have seen 'Red' take the advice of George Huff and finish school. Then he could have capitalized his athletic ability, or, better yet, he could have followed some well founded business proposition. I personally know of one offer that he had at $15,000 a year for a five year contract, at the end of which time he would have been well established in business.

"Still, you take the average American boy and give him the oportunity to make $25,000 in a short time and you will find very few that turn it down. Many of those who have censured Grange for becoming a professional football player and quitting school would be among the first to accept the $25,000 if given a chance."

Major Griffith expressed the opinion that Grange would "cut loose" in the professional ranks just as he set the world on fire while a college grid star.

SEVERAL SKATING RECORDS ARE APPROVED BY UNION

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 24—(A. P.)—Two world and three national indoor skating records were approved today at the closing session of the International Skating Union here. Both the world records were for 440 yards and were made by Charles Gorman, St. John, N. B., and Miss Virginia Young, Pittsburgh, Gorman's time of 36 4-5 seconds was made at St. John, Feb. 27, 1925 and Miss Young's a record of 45 4-5 seconds for women was made March 6, 1925, during the international indoor championships at Pittsburgh.

The three national records, also made at the indoor championships here were;

One mile for women, Miss Elsie Mueller, New York, three minutes, 19 3-5 seconds.

Two mile for men, Joe Moore, New York, five minutes 58 2-5 seconds.

Joseph K. Savage, and William M. Taylor, New York, and William G. Bratton, Pittsburgh, were selected as referees for the coming championships.

BUNNELL IS ELECTED CAPTAIN OF YALE TEAM

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 24.—(A. P.)—The unanimous election today of Phil W. Bunnell, of Scranton, Pa., as captain of next year's Yale football team meets with the approval of the student body at Yale and is hailed by football followers as a great boost to the Blue chances next fall.

Captain-elect Bunnell refuses to make any predictions as to next year's prospects, but he says that "considering the calibre of the men back and the good freshmen material, a good team should be expected." The schedule, in his opinion, will be as hard as the one this year, with Dartmouth probably stronger than Pennsylvania and with Princeton having most of her stars back.

Bunnell highly praises the work of Coach Tad Jones during the season just ended. "It is unfortunate," he said, "that a team so thoroughly coached by Tad Jones shouud have become the victim of a slump extending through most of the season. The team just didn't work correctly this year.

"I enjoy football more than any other sport. The Yale team was not overtrained at any time this year, and all reports of internal dissension are absolutely false. I feel that a quarterback should not be captain. There are men in the line and backfield who have worked hard and deserve the honor."

TAFTVILLE FIVE OPENS SEASON WITH FABER'S TEAM

The Taftville basketball team, formerly the Army and Navy club, for the past two seasons recognized champs of Eastern Connecticut and one of the strongest aggregations in the state will open their 1925 season on Thanksgiving afternoon when they meet Joe Feber and his ball tossers from Jewett City in the Parish hall.

Basketball has been on the decline in Jewett City for the past four years, but this season there is every indication that the famous winter sport will regain a great deal of its lost popularity. The bitter rivalry which has created considerable interest for the fans in every sport that these two towns have engaged in is destined to exist next Thursday afternoon when these teams clash on the chalked court.

The visitors will be represented by a strong lineup that will endeavor to give the local lads their first setback of the season.

Bob Benjamin, Jewett City's old reliable, and Mondi Normandin, former Emerald star, will cavot in the forward berths. Harry Mills, considered at one time to be one of the leading pivots, will jump at center, while the back court will be guarded by Joe Faber, star third sacker for the Providence Grays and Byron Provost, formerly of the Plainfield five. Blake and Barry will act in the utility role.

The local five have been put through some stiff practice in the past few weeks and are in the pink of condition to open their season with a victory. Jim Murphy and "Rabbit" Gaughier will roam in the forward positions, Slim Harris, late of Haskell Institute will hop at center, with the Coleman brothers, the old stonewall defense in the back court, Eddie and Buster Murphy will be in reserve.

Y. M. H. A. BASKETBALL TEAM READY TO MEET ALL COMERS

The Y. M. H. A. basketball team is ready again. After a stiff workout last week the quintet is rounding out in fine shape and is just aching to step out on the court. As the "Y" is going to run a series of basketball games and dances in conjunction with other features this season the manager, Joe Budnick, is issuing a challenge to fives of like calibre and sportsmanship. The "Y" lost one game last season and finished with a percentage of .880, included in their victims being the fast Celtics of Taftville.

The team will play amateur and professional rules as desired. Such fast boys as Ellie Siegel, Brauman, Milton, Blinderman, Dave Sadinsky and Rosen are the ones who wrought havoc last season and are ready to start again.

Challenges can be answered through the sporting columns of The Bulletin or in person to Joe Budnick, care Y. M. H. A., Olympic building, Norwich.

SECOND TEAM MAN PLAYS FOR LOVE OF THE GAME

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 24—A one-time member of that forgotten clan, the second team, that takes its football in raw, unsweetened doses in an empty stadium, behind closed gates has written to the Harvard Alumni Bulletin to say that there is pleasure in playing football. In today's issue is a letter from J. B. Richards of New York City, in which he takes issue with George Owen, former Harvard star, who recently declared that he believed that most football men find little enjoyment in the game. Richards, who lays claim only to one-time membership in the lowly black jersey-ed scrub team, also is in disagreement with Dr. Morton Prince, psychologist and Harvard alumnus, who wrote recently that there could be little pleasure in the sport, except in post season memories of games and victories.

The member of the second team is not playing for glory or duty but for the real pleasure of the game Richard maintains. The Second Team, he pointed out, plays to no crowds, plays without accompaniment of journalistic publicity or cheering sections and goes through the season "without eclat or glory" and is particularly free from those outside influences suggested by Owen and Dr. Prince as the chief source of enjoyment in football. None, he claims, should be a better judge of the merits of the game.

Why then does the second string man play, Richard asks, and answers: "There are various reasons. * * * His ears are permanently attuned to a call from a varsity coach, which, in most cases, never comes. I think I can speak for a majority of my fellows as well as myself, however, in saying that he does not consider wasted a season that has brought no personal glory. He is not truculent by nature. But he enjoys the free-swinging give and take of the football field; the thrill of making a clean, hard tackle; the spiritual satisfaction of physical conflict."

COLUMBIA ANNOUNCES 1926 FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

NEW YORK, Nov. 24—(AP)—Columbia's football schedule for 1926, announced today has several changes from the 1925 list. "HAIR-GROOM"

Keeps Hair Combed, Glossy
Well-Groomed all Day

"Hair-Groom" is a dignified combing cream which costs only a few cents a jar at any drug-store. Millions use it because it gives that natural gloss and well-groomed effect to the hair—that final touch to good dress both in business and on social occasions. Even stubborn, unruly or shampooed hair stays combed all day in any style you like. "Hair-Groom" is greaseless; also helps grow thick, heavy, lustrous hair.

WILLIAMS GETS PLACE ON PENN. GRID SLATE

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Nov. 24—(AP)—Williams College will meet University of Pennsylvania on the gridiron next year for the second time in Williams' history, according to the 1926 schedule approved by the athletic council today.

The schedule:

September 25, St. Stephen; Oct. 2, Middlebury; 9, Cornell at Ithaca; 16, M. A. C; 23, Pennsylvania at Philadelphia; 30, Union at Schenectady; Nov. 6, Wesleyan; 13, Amherst at Amherst.

Friedman, Kutsch, Offered Contracts

(AP)—Benny Friedman, of Michigan "cowboy" Kutsch of Iowa, and "five yards" McCarty of Chicago, have been offered contracts by Joseph W Doherty of Florida to play on the Coral Gables, Fla., team against a team captained by Red Grange, Illinois star, on Christmas day.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Fifteen teams have been forced for the six-day bicycle race which starts in New Madison Square Garden next Sunday at midnight.

Freddie Welsh, former world's lightweight boxing champion, is reported suffering from recurrent heart attacks in a Summit, N. J., private hospital.

The defeat of the Boston featherweight, Dick (Honeyboy) Finnegan, by Joe Glick of New York, in Brooklyn Monday night, overturned predictions. Finnegan was favored by all New York boxing writers.

A perfect score of 500 was set by the rifle team of the college of the city of New York in a telegraphic match with Rensselaer Polytechnic Monday.

Philip Weiss of New York has been elected football captain for 1926 at St. John's college, Brooklyn.

Frank Briante, appointed Monday to the captaincy of the 1926 New York university football eleven, has unusual all-around athletic ability. Besides playing fullback and leading the football team in scoring, he is a track baseball and basketball star.

WESTERLY

TWO NIGHT FIRES CAUSE DAMAGE OF OVER $6,000

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 24—Pawcatuck fire department was called to respond to two alarms for fires on Tuesday evening, both from box 46, West Broad street, near Pawcatuck river bridge. The first alarm was turned in about 6.20 for a fire in the rear partition of the building owned by Fred S. Ogle and occupied by the Economy store at No. 23 West Broad street. The second alarm was about 8 p. m. for a fire which gutted the interior of the Bargain Clothing store of Morris Eiselman, tailor, No. 58 West Broad street, in the building owned by Irving W. Wilcox and occupied partly as his coal office.

A new heater was installed in the rear of the Economy store on Tuesday and the smoke pipe which was run through a wooden partition set fire to the woodwork on the inside where the fire was started. Charles W. Thomas, former patrolman and a fireman of the Barber company grabbed a meat cleaver cutting a hole in the wood partition, through which they threw a pail of water. The fire was out by the time the fire company arrived.

The damage may amount to $20.

The second blaze, which had its origin in the Eiselman store at the rear of the Wilcox coal office was more stubborn and was first seen by James McGarvie, who reported to Patrolman Vernon A. Burdick, who sent in the alarm before two lines of hose could be laid through the windows on the side of the two story wooden structure next to the filling station the flames licked through the windows. Two more streams of water were directed through the windows on the opposite side of the building. The fire was flooded out with the pouring of water into windows on the second story. The coal office was filled with water and smoke. The partition between the store and coal office did not burn through.

Mr. Eiselman reported a stock loss of approximately $5,000 with $4,000 insurance. He was at loss to know how the fire started. When he closed at 6.30 there was just a little fire in the heating stove at the rear of the store. At the rear of the store is a single story building used for gasoline cleaning and in the rear of this was a live turkey. The firemen brought the bird out alive.

The damage to the building, amounting to about $1,000 is covered by insurance.

WESTERLY VISITOR NOW SAFE IN FLORIDA

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 24—Mrs. John L. Kenyon of the Shore road on Monday received a letter from Jacksonville, Fla., from Miss Mildred Judd of Derby Line, Vt., a passenger on the ill-fated Clyde line steamship "Lenape" on which she announced her safe arrival in Florida. In her letter Miss Judd stated that although she lost a suitcase in the fire and had a light coat taken from her, yet she was fortunate in saving her pocket book, overcoat and the clothes she wore. The only alarm she felt as she stated in her letter was when the lifeboats were lowered with their human cargo, apparently no one had a knife to cut the lowering ropes and the seas carried the boat against the side of the steamer until a coast guard cutter came and towed them away. Her letter speaks in high terms of the work of the coast guardsmen, and of her being allowed to return to her stateroom. It was then that she dressed in heavy clothing, with a light coat thrown around her, the one which she was relieved of by someone unknown. During the five hours that elapsed up to the time of landing at Lewes, Delaware breakwater, many of the passengers suffered from the cold. After landing they were given a hot breakfast and left that morning at 10.30 o'clock on a special train for Florida. At the time the letter was written Miss Judd was still in Jacksonville, but planned to go to Orlando, Fla., later. A fortunate coincidence reported by her was the fact thatw hen she stopped off at Westerly she forwarded by her was the fact that when she stopped off at Westerly she forwarded steamer with her.

Recorded at the office of the Westerly town clerk, it appears that: Nov. 23, Sarah McC Thatcher of Tenafly, N. J., to Henry B. Joy of Detroit, Mich., a piece or parcel of land at Watch Hill on the west side of Aloha road, together with a four-foot wide 101 right of way for pedestrians along the westerly side of Aloha road.

Westerly Town Sergeant George L. Madison was supplied a five jurymen by Westerly Town Clerk Everett E. Whipple on Tuesday to complete the panel of talesmen from Westerly. The panel was depleted when Associate Justice Antonio A. Capotosto excused all the members of the panel Tuesday morning from further jury duty at the term of court which sat on the case State vs. William L. Kay, vs. N. Edward Burdick, in which the jury found him not guilty of the alleged assault.

The new jurymen under summons to report at the West Kingston court house on next Monday morning at 10 o'clock when the docket of the November term of Superior court for Washington county is again taken up for trial.

Consulting Electrical Engineer E. W. Manter of Taunton, Mass., formerly with the Westinghouse Electric company, was in Westerly Tuesday and late in the evening as street traffic was light, he made tests of the illumination on Main street in front of the Westerly post office, where Edward W. Kernan was fatally injured a number of days ago when he was struck by an automobile. Tests made by Engineer Manter were with the aid of a "foot-candle meter" in what automobilists have reported as a dark place in the highway near the post office. Although no results have been announced of his findings, there seems to be but little doubt that an extra white-way lamp added to an iron street car line pole in front of the Westerly post office would give a much better illumination at that point. During the past three weeks Mr. Manter has made surveys of various manufacturing plants in and about Westerly and as a result some of their systems of illumination will be altered to give more light to the manufacturing companies and at the same time effect a saving of power by the South County Public Service company, which supplies the lighting system of the town. Figures furnished by a survey of the manufacturing plants of the country as reported to the lighting companies show that less than one fifth of these plants are approximately near perfect illumination.

Westerly District Sunday school association held its second rally on Monday evening at the Hopkinton Seventh day Baptist church, Ashaway, of which the association's president, Rev. Alva L. Davis, is the pastor. Following the recommendation of an executive committee meeting held earlier in the evening, it was voted to change the name of the association to the Westerly District Council of Religious Education. Another recommendation adopted was the plan to have a course of study undertaken at a Community Training school to begin in January of next year.

Fourteen churches in the Westerly district responded to the roll call with a total representation of 251 members. While the Ashaway church had 52 members, the Pawcatuck Seventh day Baptist church of Westerly and the Potter Hill Union each had 43 members in attendance, the Arcadia Baptist church of Arcadia, R. I., following with 31 members.

The address of the evening, "Worship and the Bible School," was delivered by Rev. Charles E. Spaulding, D. D., of the Methodist Episcopal church of new London, Conn. The song service was led by Dr. Edwin Whitford of Westerly, and devotionals by Rev. Marvin S. Stocking, pastor of Grace Methodist Episcopal church of Westerly. A solo was rendered by Miss Mildred Taylor of Ashaway and the closing prayer made by Rev. Arnt L. Schoning, of Westerl, pastor of the Broad street Christian church. Vernon Rice, general secretary of Rhode Island State Council of Religious Education, of Providence was also present and active in the organization work which preceded the second regular meeting of the association. The first meeting of the Westerly Sunday school association was held at the Carolina Baptist church, Carolina, R. I., on Monday evening, Oct. 19th when there were present 170 representatives from 15 churches.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served in the Ashaway parish house by the women of the church.

Battery E, 243rd R. I., C. A. C. (H. D.) Capt. John F. Datson, commanding, held its regular weekly drill on Tuesday evening at the Rhode Island state armory. Plans were made for the prize drill which will be held at the state armory on Saturday evening, Dec. 5, and also for the cash prize which will accompany the medal to be presented. Dancing will follow the drill.

A stated communication of Franklin lodge, No. 20, F. and A. M., Worshipful Frederick N. Robinson, master, was held on Tuesday evening in the Masonic rooms on High street.

Thomas Burdick has been named assistant to Instructor Walter Olsen of the Monday night gymnasium class at the Westerly Memorial and Public library building on Broad street. With the stopping of outdoor athletics, the gymnasium class, which has among its number members of the library gymnasium 18 years or over, the increasing number has necessitated an additional instructor.

Rev. A. E. Kernan, D. D., of Boston, a field secretary of the Methodist Episcopal church, who has conducted meetings in Providence, Norwich and New London, was the speaker on Tuesday evening at the First Baptist church. The meeting was the first of a series of two union Thanksgiving services, the Tuesday evening meeting at 7.30 o'clock being in charge of Rev. Byron U. Hatfield, pastor of the First Baptist church. On Wednesday eve. Secretary Kernan will speak in the union Thanksgiving service at Christ Episcopal church, Rev. G. Edgar Tobin, rector, being in charge. The collection taken at this meeting will be given to the People's Mission on West Broad street, Pawcatuck, for the support of the mission work.

Miss Alice R. Shippee of Providence was united in marriage Tuesday morning at 8.30 o'clock at the church of the Assumption at Providence, R. I., with John Gomena, son of Joseph and Aida Gomena of Westerly. The officiating clergyman was Rev. P. J. Sullivan. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Benjamin R. Shippee. The bride's dress was of white satin trimmed with princess lace and she wore a tulle veil caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses. Her maid of honor was her sister, Ada M. Shippee, who wore a dress of pencil blue georgette with painted flowers and blue and silver hat, and carried a bouquet of Columbia roses. Miss Helen M. Clarke of Providence and Miss Marguerite Gomena of Westerly were the bridesmaids and their dresses were beige georgette trimmed with gold lace over salmon satin with hats to match. They carried bouquets of Columbia roses. Miss Harriet L. Shippee, a niece of the bride, acted as flower girl. The best man was Abbondio Gomena, a brother of the groom.

Following the wedding ceremony a reception and wedding breakfast was held at the Narragansett hotel. On wedding trip to New York and Washington, D. C., the bride's travelling gown was of black satin cherrille with trimming of black satin and hat trimmed with gold. There were in attendance relatives and friends from Westerly, Watch Hill, Boston, Stafford Springs, Conn., and Buffalo, N. Y.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Gomena will be at home after Dec. 15th at 14 Hobart street, Westerly. The bride has made her home in Providence at 95 Wilson street and the groom is a well known Westerly blacksmith, connected with Westerly granite works.

At the annual business meeting of the Christian Endeavor society of the Broad street Christian church held Sunday evening the following officers were elected: President, Thomas J. Burdick; vice president, H. Irvine Pendlebury; secretary, Amy Eaton; treasurer, Lucy Clarke; program committee, Mrs. John Davison; Miss Grace Carmichael; social committee; Edith Sicilian, Joseph Sicilian, James Clarke, Mrs. Floyd Young.

The society reports showed a very successful year in every department. The society has been divided into two teams. These teams will compete for society honors in attendance, recruiting new members and taking part in the discussions each week.

As an outgrowth of the New England conference of the New England states held recently in Worcester, Mass., various states are perfecting organizations and Charles P. Cottrell of Westerly and Harry R. Lewis of Davisville were among the Rhode Island committee of the New England council which on Monday elected Henry D. Sharpe of Providence chairman. The conference was held in the Providence office of the chamber of commerce.

Arthur L. Alfred was elected vice chairman, and Richard B. Watrous secretary and treasurer. Necessary rules were adopted.

Only Chrysler Four Combines These Performance Abilities

The Chrysler Four's extraordinary performance—itself the direct and positive evidence of the highest quality in design, materials and craftsmanship—literally leaves no alternative in its field.

Today's market holds nothing of any type, approaching the Chrysler Four price range, which even remotely approximates its supreme combination of performance abilities.

In speed, the Chrysler Four gives you a new standard—58 miles an hour, achieved quickly and easily, not for a momentary spurt, but for eager mile after mile, as long as you like.

When you would dash away ahead of the crowd in traffic, the Chrysler Four whisks you away from 5 to 25 miles in eight seconds—with sure-footed reliability and purring smoothness.

Yet, with all the super-power necessary for such speed and such swift pick-up, you can get 25 miles to the gallon.

Any one of these exceptional abilities would be sufficient evidence of value for any manufacturer except Chrysler: the three of them clinch the assurance of Chrysler Four's transcendent quality and worth.

We are eager to afford you the opportunity of proving the superiority of this favored Four. We ask you to ride in the car—drive it—see and feel for yourself, its speed, its swift response, its pliability of power, its smooth operation, and even more particularly, its riding steadiness and comfort. Then, we believe, you will inevitably share in the enthusiasm of its tens of thousands of owners.

COL. MITCHELL CONCLUDES TESTIMONY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24—Colonel William Mitchell concluded late today a ten hour recitation of air service troubles of the army and navy which he delivered in his own defense before the court-martial trying him for insubordination, and then prepared, with his counsel, to rest his case tomorrow.

The conclusion of his testimony found the air officer standing squarely behind the famous charges he published, accusing the war and navy departments of incompetence, criminal neglect and almost treasonable conduct of the national defense.

After he had passed the direct examination, faced the prosecution's cross examination and then answered new questions put by his counsel, the court itself took a turn with the air service critic. His last words on the stand were a definition of the "almost treason" charge as he meant it to be understood when he used that phrase in his published statement. It was:

"I mean that the people have put their trust in the war and navy departments to guarantee a proper national defense, and that they have failed in that trust."

Previously the colonel had summed up his charges under the treason, neglect and incompetence heads and specified just what air troubles he referred to by the triple accusation.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

GROWING CHRISTMAS TREES A COMING BUSINESS

Christmas-tree crops, raised on plats especially set aside for the growing of evergreens, seems to be a coming business, say forestry officials of the United States department of agriculture. Although federal foresters do not feel that the use of Christmas trees is either a menace to the country's timber supply or incompatible with forest conservation, they point out that the practice of growing small evergreens especially for the Christmas trade is far better than cutting them in an indiscriminate manner.

In 1924 spruce and fir trees commonly sold for $1 to $5 and more on the streets of the larger eastern cities. Retail prices have increased several hundred per cent., in the last 15 or 20 years and high prices are likely to prevail in the future. Growing Christmas trees in plantations near large consuming centers is beginning to look like an attractive business. This is particularly true for centers in the eastern and middle western states, which are rather distant from a natural source of supply. Several such plantations are already in existence from which trees have been sold at prices ranging from 50 cents to $1.50 each. In a plantation adjacent to a main road it seems probable that the trees could be sold right on the ground to people passing in automobiles.

Spruce and firs, where they can be grown, are the logical choice for planting, because they are the most desired as Christmas trees and command the highest prices. Since the trees will be grown only for from five to eight years after they are set out, they can be planted at the rate of 5,000 to the acre.

It is doubtful, says the department, whether Christmas-tree plantations would at present yield satisfactory financial returns in the south and the far west because of the abundant supply of small evergreens found in the forests of those localities.

SEPIA PIGS A SURPRISE IN BREEDING EXPERIMENT

Inbreeding experiments conducted by the bureau of animal industry, United States department of agriculture, with swine have resulted in a number of animals possessing very unusual characteristics. The most outstanding result obtained thus far in the first generation of brother-sister mating in swine has been the segregation of certain peculiar coat-color combinations.

One Poland China line produced four white-spotted sepia-colored pigs out of a total of 35 farrowed. This is apparently a new color in swine. Experiments with pigs of the Chester White breed produced some red-black and white pigs in the first generation of brother-sister mating.

The explanations for such occurrences are somewhat complex but are based essentially on the operation of Mendel's law. The object of the studies is to obtain a more extended knowledge of factors involved in animal breeding and how they operate.

TREATING CHICKEN POX

When chicken pox first appears among the poultry it is advisable to remove and treat the affected birds. The chicken pox scabs may be painted with tincture of iodine, or, if they are far enough developed, the scabs themselves may be removed and destroyed and the sores painted with iodine. If there is evidence of colds, use argyrol in the eyes, nostrils, and throat, wherever the need is indicated. (A medicine dropper will be found handy).

If canker is present in the throat, remove the canker and apply strong permanganate of potash to the spot from which the canker is removed.

If the disease develops rapidly, individual treatment is practically impossible, because of the lack of hospital room. As soon as there is evidence of an outbreak of chicken pox, the following treatment should be used:

1-2 Pound Sulphate of Iron.
5 ounces of Sulphuric Acid; with
1 gallon of water.

Heat the water boiling hot and pour it over the sulphate of iron crystals, stir until entirely dissolved. When cool add the sulphuric acid. This is a stock solution and should be kept in a glass or earthenware container.

Use one cupful to each three gallons of drinking water. Wooden buckets or tubs should be used for drinking dishes during this treatment.

This is not a cure for chicken pox, as the disease seems to persist in running its course; but it does give the birds an appetite, and seems to make them decidedly more resistant—as they pass through the epidemic with reasonably good egg production and greatly reduced mortality.

PULLET MANAGEMENT

A few complaints of moulting pullets have been received. The first step in correcting this is to investigate methods of feeding. If the pullets have been fed heavily on mash; or if, under normal feeding, they have laid excessively and lost flesh—the first problem is to restore the pullets to good physical condition.

The amount of scratch grain, and particularly the amount of corn, should be increased, and artificial lighting practices begun at once. This will help materially in increasing the amount of grain consumed. It would check the molt where it is, and bring the pullets back to production as quickly as it is possible for this to be accomplished.

A pullet moult is usually preceded by a drop in production. This drop in production should be the signal for increased grain feeding, or artificial lighting or both. It is not advisable to resort to wet mash feeding or high protein feeding to hold pullets in production. Fall production from pullets cannot exceed 50 per cent. with safety. Pullets absolutely must be maintained in good flesh if reasonable production is to continue during the fall and winter.—Roy Jones, Connecticut Agricultural College.

NEW ENGLAND PESTS

Summarizing this year's developments in the infestation in New England of the gipsy moth, brown-tail moth, the Melrose Highlands laboratory of the bureau of entomology, United States department of agriculture, states that gipsy-moth infestation was generally light except in the Cape Cod section. The brown-tail moth situation seems to be about the same as last year. Apparently the satin moth has spread greatly during the past season. Poplars and willows were entirely defoliated in many towns from Cape Cod to the southern part of Maine. The range of this pest is now recorded as extending northward to Warren, Me., and Moultonborough, N. H., westward to Wilton and Mason, N. H., and Worcester, Mass., and as occupying the eastern third of Rhode Island.

SHEEP SCAB DECLINES

A noticeable decline in the prevalence of sheep scab, a parasitic disease especially troublesome in range flocks, is reported by the bureau of animal industry, United States department of agriculture. During the last fiscal year the number of scabby sheep found by federal inspectors was approximately 15 per cent., less than for the preceding year. The inspectors, working in cooperation with state officials, made inspections of approximately 25,000,000 sheep and supervised the dipping of more than 4,000,000. No infection was found in Montana and Nevada, and the disease is still quite prevalent a decrease is reported in all except South Dakota, Washington and Wyoming.

CATCH RUM SCHOONER OFF BLOCK ISLAND

One of the most important seizures to be made of rum ships in the past year was reported to New London Coast Guard headquarters Sunday by the destroyer Beale, which reported seizing, in conjunction with the patrol boat CG-148, the British schooner Ocean Maid, with several thousand cases of liquor aboard, and the speed boat Helen of New Bedford, on charges of attempting to smuggle liquor, and attempting to resist arrest. The captures were made Saturday night off Block Island.

When seized, the Ocean Maid was at anchor 27 miles south of Block Island, and therefore well outside the territorial waters of the United States. However, the coast guard official said that the seizure was made under the liquor treaty proclaimed with Great Britain on May 22, 1924, by which the United States authorities are permitted to seize British ships provided it can be proven that the vessel dispensed liquor over the side within an hour's steaming distance of shore. The coast guard claim to be in possession of irrefutable proof that the Helen, capable of a speed of 40 miles an hour, established contact with the ship.

The seizure of the Ocean Maid followed the capture of the Helen, and the capture of the latter was only effected by the Beale after a chase at full speed for more than an hour. Several three-inch shells went whizzing across the bows of the speed boat caused her to heave to after a chase of 25 miles. Choppy seas and her cargo of liquor, coast guard officials say retarded the speed of the Helen.

During the course of the chase the crew of the Helen succeeded in throwing all of the liquor overboard, but several cases were picked out of the water by the coast guard craft and are being held for evidence. After learning that the speed boat was equipped with four Liberty type motors of 400 horsepower each, the Beale returned to the Ocean Maid, from which the Helen had been taking her liquor cargo, and placed the British schooner under formal seizure. New London headquarters were notified and the cutter Mojave was despatched to sea, meeting the Beale off Block Island, and taking the Ocean Maid and the Helen in tow for Norfolk, Va. Coast guard officials declined Monday to state the reason for this action, but it is thought to be due to the official opinion that speedier satisfactory court action in the case can be secured in the Virginia district than in Connecticut, Rhode Island or New York.

Four men were aboard the Helen, and eight men were found on the Ocean Maid. Percy Remington, skipper of the Helen, however, succeeded in effecting his escape, when the Helen, under the custody of the patrol boat 148, which had aided in her capture, put into Providence, Sunday morning. The chase of the Helen was shorewards, and when she was finally captured she was rather far in. The Beale, about to return to the Ocean Maid, turned the craft over to the 148 and the latter took the Helen into Providence to refuel. Under the pretense of desiring to use the telephone, Remington succeeded in duping his guard into permitting him to go ashore and he never returned. The Providence police authorities were requested to make a search for him. Sunday afternoon the 148 again took the Helen to sea, where the Beale and Mojave were met and the latter was started on its trip south with the Helen and Ocean Maid in tow. The Beale and the 148 returned to the state pier at New London.

STORRS RADIO LECTURE ON BREEDING BETTER COWS

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Nov. 23—That Connecticut farmers spend over half a million dollars yearly in the purchase of cows from other states was one of the significant statements made here tonight by John A. Simms, who gave a radio lecture, "Breeding Better Cows," as a part of the Connecticut Agricultural college radio-correspondence course which is being broadcasted every Monday night from station WCAC.

Mr. Simms, as extension animal husbandman for the Connecticut Agricultural college, discussed the problem of high production in dairy cows, outlining the various factors involved. He illustrated his remarks by describing the results obtained by several successful Connecticut farmers.

Inheritance plays an important part in the production of large quantities of milk and butter fat according to Mr. Simms, who said that in cows this ability is obtained only by this means. No amount of feed and care will change a cow whose inheritance is for low production into a high producer, he said.

Purebred cows are on the average considerably higher producers than common or grade cows, said Mr. Simms in describing the relative merits of purebreds, grades and scrubs. He believed that the introduction of higher producing blood into common herds through the use of pure bred bulls is responsible for the many heavy milking grade herds in Connecticut.

The only sure method of breeding heavy producing cows is to use proven bulls, according to Mr. Simms. These he described as bulls whose daughters are all high producers. These proven bulls can be used by the farmers or dairymen with the certainty that their progeny will be heavy milkers.

Describing the results obtained by dairymen who have been using carefully selected pure bred bulls for a number of years, Mr. Simms said that many of them are averaging eight to ten thousand pounds of milk per cow. An outstanding example of this is the Clark Brothers near Woodbury, whose herd of twenty-six cows averaged nearly eleven thousand pounds of milk in 1924. This herd was bred from cows that averaged just over six thousand pounds in 1914. This greater production increased milk sales by more than $4,000, with milk selling at seven cents a quart. This herd has had a steady increase in production year after year in the ten year period, with the exception of one year when an outbreak of contagious abortion was brought in through the purchase of an animal.

E. T. Hurlburt and Son of Somers furnish another example, selling more than 9,200 pounds of milk per cow in 1924, besides growing several heifers and producing milk plentifully for two families. This production was made possible through the use of carefully selected pure bred bulls for twenty-five years.

CHRISTMAS SEALS TABOO IN FEDERAL BUILDING

The postal department would permit the use of its post offices in the state for the sale of Christmas seals, if it could, but unfortunately many post offices are located in federal buildings over which the treasury department, and not the postal department, has control.

The postal department has notified postmasters of its desire to co-operate in the meritorious work of selling tuberculosis seals, and to this end gives its consent to the reasonable use of post office lobbies subject to proper regulation on the part of postmasters.

Eastern Connecticut Health

Two cases of diphtheria and one case of measles were reported from Norwich during the week ending November 14, according to the weekly morbidity report issued by the state department of health. Communicable diseases reported from towns in eastern Connecticut during the week follows:

Diphtheria—Norwich, 2; Thompson, 1.

Whooping cough—Jewett City, 5; New London, 4.

EXTENSIVE DEVELOPMENT OF DIRIGIBLE PLANNED AT AKRON

AKRON, O., Nov. 24 (AP)—Akron, the rubber manufacturing capital of the world, has hopes of being the Friedrichshafen of the New World.

The first step toward this realization has been the bringing of 14 high officials of the original Zeppelin works in Germany to the headquarters of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation.

Months of laboring over blue prints and charts have brought forth designs for new development in the realm of lighter-than-air craft. Whenever there is a market for a commercial or military airship, the transplanted Zeppelin works will be ready to build it.

Designs for the GZ-1, the world's largest dirigible, have been completed by the Zeppelin and American engineers. Its plans and specifications show it to be a ship of over 6,000,000 cubic feet gas capacity, measuring about 900 feet in length, and capable of developing 5,000 horsepower. Improvements, as yet kept secret, have been worked out to add to the safety and strength of the ship.

The passenger-carrying GZ-1, according to the plans, will have Pullman equipment inside, with compartment seats which can be made into berths at night, a dining room, corridors, bath rooms, including showers, and promenade decks running the length of the ship on both sides.

As designed, the ship will be able to carry 100 passengers and to make the trip between New York and London in 48 to 64 hours, depending on whether it is flying eastward with the prevailing winds, or westward against the wind.

Commander Jacob H. Klein, executive officer of the Los Angeles, declared recently on a visit to the scene of the Goodyear - Zeppelin operations that there is room in the navy's hangar at Lakehurst, N. J., for a 6,000,000-cubic-foot ship, alongside the ship he commands which has a capacity of 3,000,000 cubic feet.

"I believe not only that a ship the size of the GZ-1 would be practical, but that shortly we shall see airships built with a capacity of 10,000,000 cubic feet, which will probably be the maximum capacity for many years to come."

The British government at present is building two ships of 5,000,000 cubic feet capacity each, the Goodyear-Zeppelin officials are informed. These British ships, built for hydrogen, a gas of greater lifting power than helium, will compare in performance almost exactly with the GZ-1.

So confident are the officials of the new concern, which is connected with the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, that commerce via air is at hand, that they believe once under way their work will develop beyond the proportions of that enjoyed by Friedrichshafen in its hey-day.

Besides designing the GZ-1, the 14 engineers from Friedrichshafen and three or four Americans have been working for several months in planning hangars and operating fields, selecting tentative locations for them, designing mooring masts and making a study of operating and climatic conditions in the United States along the lines of various projected routes.

Among the German officials of the Goodyear-Zeppelin company is Captain Ernst A. Lehmann, vice-president and director. Lehmann's most recent achievement of world-wide note was his piloting of the ZR-3, now the Los Angeles, to the United States from Germany in the summer of 1924.

Dr. Karl Arnstein, another vice-president of the corporation, was chief engineer of the German Zeppelin building corporation at Friedrichshafen. He designed the ZR-3 and 100 other airships before and during the period of the World war. Besides Captain Lehmann, two other Zeppelin officials are now directors of the new company. They are Dr. Hugo Eckener and Harry Visserink, of Chicago.

G. M. Stadelman, president of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, and P. W. Litchfield, vice-president and general manager of the same concern, held the same positions in the Goodyear-Zeppelin corporation.

Churches Hold Art Treasure

UPSALA, Nov. 2 (AP)—Swedish churches hold a national fortune of about $27,000,000 in art treasures. A general art inventory of church property was taken as part of a movement to preserve the nation's cultural inheritances and the antiquities that are representative for each province. The average value of the contents of each church was estimated at $10,800.

British Colleges Grow

Enrollment in universities and colleges of England, Scotland and Wales of full-time students is 56.9 per cent greater than before the war. This gain has been made in spite of the increase in fees and personal expenses and in the face of money distress among the classes from which most of the university students are drawn.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

For things worth having you will work,
Unless you chance to be a shirk.
—Paddy the Beaver.

No one ever has called Paddy the Beaver a shirk and no one ever will. Long, long ago Paddy learned the blessedness of work. He wouldn't be happy at all if he couldn't work. To live in the happy-go-lucky way that Peter Rabbit does would make Paddy positively ill. Yes, sir, it would so. Paddy has learned the joy that there is in doing things. He can take things easy when there is nothing of importance to be done, but when there is work to be done you never find Paddy loafing.

You remember that Peter Rabbit found Paddy some distance up the Laughing Brook, and that Paddy said he was looking for trees. A week later Peter discovered Paddy as far down the Laughing Brook below his pond as he had been above it when they met before.

"I suppose," said Peter, "that you are still looking for trees."

"I suppose I am," replied Paddy, gravely nodding his head.

"What was the matter, didn't you find the right kind up the Laughing Brook?" Peter inquired.

"Well, for goodness sake, how many trees do you want?" demanded Peter, to whom the idea of taking a whole tree for food seemed like greed, to say nothing of taking several trees.

"Enough," replied Paddy. "I might as well have none at all as less than enough."

"How many is enough?" demanded Peter.

"That depends on how big the trees are, and how well they can be cut up and floated to my food supply," replied Paddy. A lot of small trees are better than a few big ones. They are easier to cut down, easier to cut into logs after they are down, and easier to manage, to say nothing of having tenderer bark. So I cannot tell you how many trees I want. It all depends on how many I can find, nad where and how they are growing, and how much work will be required to harvest them. I can't afford to run too great a risk."

"Well, you must be fussy if you can't be suited with trees right near home," declared Peter. "What is the use of coming way down here when all around your pond are trees of all sizes. If you want little trees there are plenty right near your home, and if you want big trees there are some big enough to suit any one so near your pond that if you should cut them they would fall in the water. So, what sense is there in coming way down here to look for trees?"

"I suppose," said Peter, "that you are looking for trees"

Paddy looked at Peter, and if you could have seen the expression on Paddy's face you would have known just how disgusted with Peter he was. "Peter Rabbit," said he, "you have known me a long time. You have watched me each fall cut nad harvest my food supply. Do you mean to tell me that you never have noticed that I have cut only one kind of tree? I know better. I know that you know what kinds of bark I eat, and that there are certain kinds that I don't eat at all. If it was just a matter of trees, any kind of trees, of course you wouldn't find me looking for them way down here, but I know that you know that it isn't a case of any kind of trees. I know that you know that I am looking for a certain kind of tree, and that if I can't find that I will look for certain others. But you know or ought to know, that I will go a long way and work hard to get the kind I like best. Now, don't you?"

Peter looked a wee bit foolish, for suddenly he remembered. "Of course," said he. "How stupid of me! You are looking for poplar trees, aren't you?"

Paddy grinned. "Of course I am," said he. "If I can find enough poplar trees I will not bother with any others. If I cannot find enough I will look for some other kinds. Now I can stop to gossip no longer, Peter Rabbit. I must be looking for those trees."

MANY NEW CHILDREN ON HEALTH ROLL

The children of Southington were offered an opportunity for health through the opening of a well child conference in Southington on Wednesday, November 11th, says the weekly health bulletin issued by the state department of health.

Plans for this had been developing for a few months. A canvas of the preschool children in the whole township had been completed and their names put on file in the office of the visiting nurse. This formed the initial contact with the mothers who were shown the need for starting their children early on their health career.

The public was meanwhile kept in touch with the plans for the opening of the conference through the use of moving picture films that depicted the care with which healthy children are brought up, through public meetings at which the advantages of health were presented to groups of mothers, and through articles in the press. Mothers with young children were constantly reminded of the new conference through announcement slips which were magically wrapped with their market order done through the co-operation of the local merchants.

This new conference created a united interest among health workers in Southington. The local doctors, volunteered their professional services, and were present on the opening day. The women of Southington gave freely of their time on the conference day, the conduct of which was similar to other conferences now being held monthly in some 42 towns in Connecticut. Every child who makes his first appearance receives a thorough physical examination by the physician and any defect so found is referred to the family physician. A complete history of each child is secured at the conference by the local committee women, and local nurses. Thus a background picture of the child is presented to the physician who is to make the examination, and this helps him to interpret the results and make his recommendations.

The Health Center, headquarters for the public health nurse, was the meeting place for the conference, but it proved to be inadequate for the occasion, so three extra rooms were placed at their disposal.

To show that interest was aroused is shown by the fact that 110 preschool children were examined at the first conference. One mother brought two of her own and two of her sister's children. One father and mother with three children from a distant outlying section came early—in the morning in fact. One of the physicians from the State Department of Health assisted so that all children could be examined.

On the whole it was an average group as to health. There were the usual defects found, enlarged tonsils and adenoids, weight below the normal, posture and hygiene that needed to be improved. This all points to the fact that out of any normal group of children many are found who are, indeed healthy to a certain degree, but not as healthy as they should be. Mothers were urged to bring their children back at each conference, since the value of the work consists in keeping children under constant observation.

Brain Workers Suffer

At a recent session of the five academies which form the Institute de France the plight of certain French intellectuals-painters, sculptors, writers and savants, who have glorified their country by pure knowledge and disinterested art—was deplored by Paul Chabas. Of recent years, he said, the lot of mental workers had been considerably ameliorated—as was only right—but brain workers, he said, had been forgotten or sacrificed. M. Chabas reviewed the great achievements of the institute, which was founded 130 years ago, and of which he is president.

JEWETT CITY

BUS SERVICE BEGINS TUESDAY FOR JEWETT CITY

JEWETT CITY, Nov. 24—On the night of Monday, Nov. 30, at 9:03 o'clock, the last trolley car will pass over the steam tracks of the New York and New Haven railroad at Jewett City. Eighteen years ago, the service began, and there were all sorts of predictions and forecasts; that dire disaster would attend the operation of trolleys on a steam road. The Connecticut company, coupled with the efficient dispatcher system of the steam road, has accomplished a piece of gilt-edge railroading to be proud of, and safety has gone hand in hand with efficient operation and dependable service.

On Tuesday, Dec. 1, Jewett City will see the first of its bus service to supplant the trolley. It will be operated by the same company that has, to their credit 18 years of accomplishment in local transportation. The company has given information to the writer of this column, assuring Jewett City of the finest possible service. The new cars are to be known as the Yellow line, and each one will seat 29 persons. Jewett City is to be given hourly service each way, and within the borough limits and in Sylvandale, will stop wherever the car is signalled. Special provision is to be made for the pupils transportation to and from the Plainfield High school and the Norwich academy Not only will busses take the Norwich pupils direct to the academy, but return cars will call at the school for them. There will be a like service for the Central Village pupils.

Jewett City can also be assured of additional or emergency service, at anytime when it is necessary and warranted. Saturday afternoon the several hundred persons who have been patrons of the trolley, will find extra an dadditional service by the Connecticut company.

Although the schedule was not available late Tuesday evening, it is understood that the busses will leave here, going south every hour, on the hour. On Saturday and Sunday there will be a later schedule so that patrons may leave Franklin Square at 9:45 p. m. or perhaps as late as 10:15.

The busses are to be the last word in up-to-date motor vehicles. The 29 passengers they will accommodate will not be crowded. The seats are of new fashion, with the inside finishing done in attractive pattern.

They will be handled by experienced motor men, and the same good natured accommodating crews. The motors are new and powerful, giving every reason to believe that the service will be as efficient and dependable as the passing trolley line has been.

A wedding was solemnized in St. Mary's church, Jewett City, Monday morning, Eva, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pepin was united in marriage with Frank F. Fitzmaurice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fitzmaurice, of 3 South A., street, Taftville. The nuptial high mass was sung by Rev. Father John J. McCabe. Miss Leona Pepin, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid Arthur Jodoin, of Taftville, was best man. The bride wore a beautiful gown of peacock blue chiffon with an overdress of gold lace and had a picture hat to match. The bridesmaid's dress was peach-colored beaded chiffon. She wore a picture hat of black velvet. After the church ceremony the bridal party left for Norwich where breakfast was served at the Wauregan hotel. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold piece, the bride presented her bridesmaid a ring The best man's gift to the groom was an Elk's card case and the groom presented the best man with an Elks' emblem. The bride received many gifts of linen, cut glass and silver. During the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Fitzmaurice left on a trip to Bridgeport, New York, Boston and Washington, D. C. The bride's traveling dress was of emerald green satin, heavily beaded in gold and silver; her hat was of metallic cloth. The wedding was attended by relatives from Taftville, Norwich, Warren, R. I. and Springfield, Mass.

All barber shops open until 10:30 p. m. today. Closed Thursday.—adv.

MERCURY TUMBLES DOWN FIFTY DEGREES

JEWETT CITY, Nov. 24—Following a day like Sunday, with temperature at 58, Monday night the mercury dropped to 18, which record shows the unusual tumble of 50 degrees, reckoning from Sunday at 1 p. m. to Tuesday at sunrise.

All day Tuesday the silver did not get above the freezing point, which fact, taken with a half-gale from the northwest, made pedestrians step lively to keep warm.

The first shipments of turkeys are reaching the borough, with the promise of plenty of fine birds at moderate prices. Fancy natives, raised in Griswold, will bring 50 cents, with prime northern birds going at from 55 to 65 cents per pound.

Two years ago home raised turkeys found ready sale at 90 cents per pound. That year many family buyers seemed satisfied with chickens, because local markets sold between seven and eight hundred chickens and fowl. This year the demand for northern raised Vermont and New York state turkeys was holding strong Tuesday evening, with one more day to go. It is of interest to note the fluctuation in the Griswold turkey market during a period of 30 years. In 1892 the late John C. Hawkins sold over 2 tons of Griswold raised birds to a Providence dealer, 600 pounds of which he raised himself, they being his famous white breed. They always demanded a higher price in the Providence poultry exchange, than the R. I. bronze turkey. Mr. Hawkins always had experienced men to pick them dry, not a pin-feather was left, and to see one was to buy.

Today, it is reckoned by those acquainted with local farms, that not 100 turkeys came to maturity in all of Griswold.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Wilbur and family, who have just moved from Glasgo to Belvidere avenue, were all taken violently ill Saturday night. Dr. G. H. Jennings and District Nurse Miss Alice Brennan worked with all their skill for some time, and Tuesday night they were all better They had all the symptoms of ptomaine poison, practically helpless with nausea and pain. In the family were Mr. and Mrs Wilbur and two children and Mrs Wilbur's sister, Mary Bicknell. They all ate roast pork for dinner Saturday and ice cream at night. A pipeless furnace, which had been just started, is said to have given trouble with coal gas, but neither the doctor nor nurse detected any gas odor, however.

NOANK

Fireflies football team beat the Speed Boys of New London at Williams field by the score of 12 to 0. Both teams were even for three quarters but in the last quarter the Noank backfield men went to work and put over two touchdowns. Bracci made them both. One was a 60 yard run and the other a 35 yard run through a broken field. The New London team was heavier than the Noank boys but Noank's line was like a stone wall in defense.

A radio party was held Saturday at the home of William Plumstead on Main street during the Yale and Harvard football game. There were seven in the party, some of them college graduates. One man went to Yale and the other man went to Harvard and they kept the others laughing all the time. When Yale had the ball on the three yard line the Harvard man thought it was all off, but when the game was over both men were happy. Refreshments were served during the afternoon. Those in the party were Neil Morrison, Kenneth Steele, Hubert Ellis, William Plumstead, Joe Bliven, Charles Jordon and Marson Jackson.

Suffered with rheumatism for years

GOT RELIEF FROM RHEUMATISM AT LAST

How an obstinate case of rheumatism was given relief by a simple home treatment is told by a man in Los Angeles, California, who suffered for years with rheumatic pain in the feet and back.

"I spent more than $100 for liniments and medicines in twenty-four years," he writes. "Then I used Sloan's Liniment and it gave me complete relief."

And it is amazing—the quick, genuine comfort that Sloan's gives to even the most long-standing rheumatic aches. Sloan's doesn't just deaden pain—it helps your body to throw off the cause.

No need to rub even. A little Sloan's patted lightly on—and a healing tide of fresh, germ-destroying blood begins tingling through the aching place. Before you can believe it, the pain, swelling and stiffness are relieved. Try it! All druggists—35 cents.

LIBERTY HILL

There was a large audience at church Sunday morning. The pastor read the Thanksgiving proclamation of Governor Trumbull and delivered a very instructive sermon on Thanksgiving on the theme "Righteousness Exalteth a Nation; but sin is a reproach to any people."

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Harvey of Norwich, were guests Saturday afternoon, of the former's sisters, Mrs. C. B. Adams. Mr. Harvey enjoyed hunting awhile.

A union Thanksgiving service was held at the Baptist church Sunday evening. Rev. Stanley Sellick, of the Lebanon Congregational church, delivered the sermon.

There was no service at the Liberty Hill church Sunday evening. This church joining in the union service at the Baptist church.

The Thursday evening prayer and praise meeting is to be omitted this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Seth Oden and daughter, Florence, who have been to Sweden to visit relatives and their native home, arrived home recently.

C. E Goodrich, at White Feather farm, has remodeled his poultry house in the most modern way. He has about 1,000 white leghorns.

Mrs. Fred Hyde, of Lebanon Center, called on friends here Sunday afternoon.

Monday there was a community bee, for the purpose of moving stone walls from Rev. L. L. Harris' lot by the roadside into the road at the foot of the steep hill as one approaches Liberty Hill from the Colchester road. The men did a big day's work.

The town will finish carting the stone, then will cover with a good depth of gravel. The women's society furnished a fine dinner in the church rooms for the bee.

At the annual business meeting of Liberty Hill Men's club the following officers were elected: President, J. Earl James; vice president, Oscar Borgeson; secretary, C. E. Goodrich; treasurer, W. D. Davoll.

E. E. Caples went to Boston Wednesday morning to spend Thanksgiving with Mrs. Caples' cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Warren. Mr. and Mrs. Caples will return Saturday.

CAT AND POLECAT HAVE FRAGRANT MEETING

George Clark's cat and a polecat had a collision Saturday night and the aroma Sunday morning under his barn was strong enough to break up any coki.

Weather Observers

Daily reports from 4,500 voluntary observers are used by the weather bureau of the United States department of agriculture in addition to the regular and special stations reporting weather conditions by telegraph for use in making forecasts. Government instruments with which to make observations are lent to observers at these "cooperative stations," but they serve without pay. One observation a day is taken, usually near sunset. It consists of noting the highest and lowest temperatures for the preceding 24 hours, as shown by self-registering thermometers, and measuring the amount of any rain, hail, sleet, or snow that may have occurred within that period. The observers are also expected to state the prevailing direction of the winds and the general characteristics of each day, whether clear, partly cloudy, rainy, etc.

A lottery is regularly held to provide funds for the University of Concepcion, Chile. This means of support for this university was cut off by a government regulation in October, 1924, but its reestablishment was recently authorized by a decree law. The lottery must terminate, however, when the net income produced by the interest on the university's reserve fund reaches 1,000,000 pesos yearly.—School Life.

A new course of study in home economics education for elementary, junior high, and senior high schools is used this fall for the first time in the public schools of Baltimore, Md. The course as developed is the outcome of study covering a number of years by home economics teachers and supervisors in order to adapt the work of the schools to meet needs in homes of the pupils.

PENDLETON HILL

The Red Cross drive for Pendleton Hill was launched Saturday evening with Miss Pearl Tennant as solicitor. In about an hour's time fifteen people had subscribed to this fund.

There are so far three "100 per cent" families, that of Carry E. Maine, Jr., with a family of three, himself, his mother and brother, that of Clifford B. Thompson, with a family of four, himself, wife, daughter, and mother, and that of Mrs. Harris Boardman with four members, herself, son, daughter and sister. Other subscribers follow: Miss Kittie Palmer, Mrs. Charles Cottrell, Miss Cecile Palmer, Miss Lucy Lester, Harry Pierce, George A. Wheeler, Nelson A. Wheeler, Thomas E. Wheeler.

The chicken pie supper Saturday evening was a great success with a hundred or more in attendance. Fifty or more dollars was "taken" in for the church. All were enthusiastic over the excellent supper and efficient service. Mrs. C. Dwight Thompson a former resident and member of this society for many years came from Stonington to attend this supper.

POETRY

Ready for Winter

The last red leaf has floated down:
The maple's branches, long and bare
Are beckoning approaching King
Of boisterous inien, of chastiness rare,
The apple frames have been set back,
That lately held in even rows
The quafters mother cut, and pared,
And strung, and dried to then repose
In cases long and clean and white
Until the Spring, then a surprise
Will mother have when apples gone—

The loosened board behind old Bess
Dad tended to the other night.
He wants the barn all snug and warm—
Of Bess he thinks an awful sight.
Was born here, knows no other home;
She's pretty old, perhaps poor pay
To keep her, but—I don't blame Dad,
His tender heart gets in his way.

They've put some roofing paper 'round
The chicken house, so they will feel
The poultry are provided for,
When zero weather cuts like steel.
The cricket's chirp no longer hear.
But, now and then, there comes a fly
Inspecting goodies mother makes,
Especially her pumpkin pie.

The wind is neatly piled in rows
Within the weatherbeaten shed
That holds the apples, sorted now—
The poor ones to the pigs are fed.
The wheelbarrow by the side door stands,
All's ready for another load
Of sawdust that the millmen made.
When working woodlot down the road.
It's good for banking up the house
And bedding cattle—takes so much
That father works, and works, and works—
How he holds out, it beats the Dutch."

He's put a prop 'guinst mailbox post
For fear the wind would blow it down.
Dad fakes a city daily now,
And finds a lot that helps the town.
Dad's quite a "booster," all in all,
A "knock" from him is pretty rare,
He realizes he has things
Beyond the reach of a millionaire.

A pleasant picture those two make
In cheerful room hemmed in by night:
A warmth and wealth of joy creeps out
From crackling fire and polished light.
Old Scottie dreams of squirrel's taunt,
A laugh escapes the mother's lips,
She's mending while Dad reads to her
A joke he found in Granite Chips.

—Agnes Barney Young, in Concord Daily Monitor.

Memnon

Why dost thou hail with songful lips no more
The glorious sunrise?—Why is Memnon mute,
Whose voice was tuned as in the silvery flute
When Thebes sat queenly by the Nile's low shore?
No longer shrines are raised to man and brute,
Yet dawn by dawn the sun thou didst salute
Gives thee the greeting that it gave of yore.
What nameless spell is on thee? Dost thou wait
(Hoping and yearning through the years forlorn)
The old-time splendor and the regal state,
The glory and the power of empire shorn?
Oh, break the silence deep, defying fate,
And cry again melodious to the morn!

—Clinton Scollard.

Charles—"Did her father give the bride away?"

Clarence—"He thought he did; but I notice she's back there with her husband living at the old man's expense."—Answers London.

"Not more than you are, hubby. Look at that fine revolver you bought, and you haven't shot anybody yet."—Washington University Dirge.

"What were you in the war?" he asked.

"A private," the old soldier answered.

Maid—"M'm, I just accidentally let the baby's blanket drop out of the window."

Mother—"Awfully clumsy of you; now baby will catch cold."

Maid—"Oh no, m'm, he won't. He was inside of it."—Woman's Viewpoint.

"Hallo! Who gave you that black eye?"

"But surely he didn't object to that ancient custom."

"No; but you see the ceremony was a couple of years ago."—Stray Stories.

Each quadrangle accommodates from fifteen to twenty-five families.

FLOYD MITCHELL, OF NEW LONDON, FIRES TWO SHOTS AT BENJ. HOFFMAN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 24.—Floyd Mitchell, 33 Truman street, colored, proprietor of a gambling house, 11 Atlantic street, was arrested this afternoon by Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh, charged with assault with intent to kill. Mitchell's arrest resulted from a complaint made by Benjamin Hoffman, alias Hankin, who declared that Mitchell attempted Hoffman's life early this morning by sending two bullets after Hoffman, following a row at the Mitchell gambling house.

Mitchell is being held in bail of $5,000 for his appearance in the police court tomorrow morning.

When Mitchell was taken into custody he was in a semi-intoxicated condition and immediately went into a slumber at the police station. Prior to falling asleep, Mitchell denied the accusation on which he will have to face trial in the morning.

Mitchell is well known, having been identified with sports to some extent two years ago, at which time he entered a baseball club composed of negro players in the city league, the club being known as the Frentis Tigers.

Mitchell's has been a resort frequented by both blacks and whites for some time and although the police have received frequent instructions to maintain a close watch on the place, the gambling house has never been raided, although the police have visited the resort several times.

Throughout last night and early this morning a stud poker game was in progress at the place and early this morning the black and white players were augmented by Paul Halpern; alias "Pinkie" Burns, local welterweight fighter, and Hoffman. The play continued for some time without semblance of trouble. About 3 o'clock and at a time when Halpern won a "pot" Halpern declared that there was $1.80 less in the pot than there should be. Halpern called the attention of the dealer, Mandis Beaumont, colored and employed by Mitchell as dealer, to the shortage of the pot and the fact was admitted by Beaumont. When Mitchell's attention was called to the shortage, the proprietor ignored the pleadings that the deficiency be made up, inasmuch as Beaumont represented the house and it was a part of the dealer's duties to keep the amount of money in the pot correct. Mitchell finally, it is stated, declared that the money in the pot was all fast Halpern was entitled to, but Beaumont, who admitted the shortage existing a few minutes before, stated that he, personally, would take care of the shortage. This brought about a conversation in Hebrew between Hoffman and Halpern and it also brought resentment by Mitchell against the two Hebrews engaging in conversation in their native tongue. Mitchell finally informed Hoffman that the latter was not wanted in the place and if Hoffman was wise he would leave. Hoffman evidently scented trouble for as Mitchell left the room and went to another part of the building Hoffman started down a flight of stairs that led to Atlantic street. In the meantime Mitchell, it is declared, went to a closet, procured a 32-caliber revolver and loading the chambers of the weapon was on the way back to the gambling room when he saw Hoffman retreating down the stairs. Mitchell opened fire, but the fleeing Hoffman succeeded in getting through the entrance unharmed, for two bullets fired did not hit him, instead lodging in the floor and in the door.

The police have taken charge of a strip of flooring in which is imbeded one of the bullets and they also recovered the shells in a coal bucket in the gambling place. The revolver, it is declared was taken in charge by a friend of Mitchell and his identity is known to the police.

Mitchell was unable to procure a surety on his bond as was Beaumont, the latter's bail being fixed at $1,000. Beaumont being held as a material witness. During the evening James Suggs, colored, was also taken into custody charged with being a material witness. In default of a surety on his bond of $1,000 Suggs was made a prisoner pending a canvassing of the police court.

Christopher Green, proprietor of a Hallam street barber shop, complained to the police last night that some one had broken a window at his establishment, by a stone or similar object thrown against the window.

The city council is considering the matter of developing Bates' woods so-called, one of the most romantic spots within the city limits and extending into Waterford. Whether the city will secure the services of an landscapist and lay the spot out as it is capable of being developed no one can tell, but if it does that one of the most beautiful parks in this section may result. It will be the equal of Riverside park and in many respects superior to that beautiful location. The committee that is considering the matter and which is yet to report to the council is composed of Councilor Woodruff as chairman, and he will confer with the other members of the council so that no mistake is likely in that direction.

Whether the city is to have a public skating pond the coming winter has not yet been determined by the council. There is opportunity to have one at Caulkins park if the city so desires, and the pond above the old mill might also be made available with little cost to the city.

The police in their effort to locate the revolver, a 32 caliber Smith & Wesson, and which, it is claimed was used in the attack upon Philip Keller, Bank street merchant, have not been successful. In response to an inquiry of the manufacturers the police were informed that the revolver in question was sold in February, 1916, but that no record was kept as to the purchaser.

There is no change tonight in the condition of Arthur Diamare, 311 Williams street injured in the automobile accident at Quaker Hill Sunday afternoon, it was stated at the Lawrence hospital. The condition of James Elwood, 14 Walker street, was materially improved for Elwood and it was stated that he would be able to return to his home within a day or two.

An automobile, owned and operated by Everett Thompson, Gales Ferry, and a machine owned and driven by Fred Burrows, Center Groton, were in collision on Thames street, Groton, this morning. Both cars were damaged, but not extensively. Captain Andrew McCarthy of the Groton police, investigated the accident and upon finding that the mishap was unavoidable, he did not order either driver to appear in court.

Frank D. Leighton, Caribou, Me., and Miss Elizabeth Mallon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Mallon, 11 Magnolia street, were married this morning at 8 o'clock by Rev. Timothy M. Crowley at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, in the presence of a large circle of relatives and friends. James J. Mallon, Detroit, Mich., brother of the bride, was best man, and Miss Anna Mallon, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Following the ceremony a breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, after which Mr. and Mrs. Leighton departed upon their wedding trip.

Miss Diana K. Ciren, New Bedford, Mass., is being entertained by Miss Helena M. Atwood, 141 Ocean avenue.

A continued improvement is noticeable in the condition of Mrs. William Manice, wife of Patrolman William Manice, Williams street, who recently underwent a serious operation at Lawrence hospital.

MAYOR FOX COMPLIMENTED ON STAND FOR FIREMEN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 24.—Mayor Fox has received many compliments today for his defense of the fire department in the city council last evening. The mayor spoke earnestly and positively when he said that the city was fortunate in having a fire department that was as inexpensive as is the volunteer organization this city possesses. The members generally serve without pay and do the work that comes to them because of the association they have maintained for so many years. The members are those who have had fathers or brothers in the department many years, and they cling to the associations that have bound them many years. There seems to be some rivalry in the department now because Chief Rose made some selections for drivers of the new aerial truck from outside the company house where the machine is located, but this seems in a way of amicable adjustment.

The proposed ordinance to govern the installation of fuel gas furnaces is likely to provoke considerable discussion before it is adopted. There are many who claim the city is proposing what will be resisted by those who install the furnaces, and claim that the proposal to regulate the furnaces so that fumes from the gas shall be absolutely inoffensive is one that cannot be complied with. There will be hearings on the ordinances that are apt to be interesting. A former insurance agent pointed out today that the city was in danger of being too nice and too strict in the matter of regulations. No one will care to avoid all regulations that will make their property safe, but they do not want to be compelled to incur expense that will be unnecessary especially when they are spending money to obtain heat that they cannot in other ways obtain.

CONN. CO. SELLS LAND TO CONN. POWER COMPANY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 24.—The Connecticut company today sold to the Connecticut Power company a parcel of land on Williams street, near Mohegan avenue. The price paid was $32,500. The purchasing company will use the newly acquired land for the further development of the company's electric lighting system. The deed transferring title in the property was recorded at the office of the city clerk this afternoon.

STOLEN BRISTOL CAR RECOVERED BY POLICE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 24.—The New London police this afternoon recovered a stolen automobile when a Packard touring car that had been parked on Church street, between Meridian and Union streets, two days was removed to a garage for storage. After the car was taken in charge by the police, it developed that it was the property of Charles S. Joy, 198 Woodland street, Bristol, Conn., and was stolen in that city last Friday. Joy will come to New London tonight or tomorrow and take charge of his property.

WILL BE MINORITY VIEWS ON NON-PARTISAN TAX BILL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(A. P.)—Minority views on the non-partisan tax bill unanimously ordered reported by the house ways and means committee will be presented to the house, it was announced today by Representatives Rainey, Illinois, and Hull, Tennessee, democratic members of the committee.

Differing opinions on some of the provisions of the measure were set forth today in statements issued by Representatives Hull, republican New York; Garner, of Texas, ranking democrat on the committee, and Mr. Hull, all, however, praised the general provisions of the bill and the non-partisan spirit in which it was worked out, conceding compromises were necessary.

Several members have indicated they would seek some changes in the measure when it is considered by the house. Mr. Garner said he thought the total reduction provided by the measure could have been made $400,000,000 instead of $336,000,000. He favored complete elimination of the automobile passenger car levy, which was reduced from five to three per cent, and repeal of the admission taxes on motion pictures and baseball.

Mr. Mills regretted that the measure did not provide for repeal of the inheritance tax instead of a reduction, but endorsed elimination of the provision for publicity of income tax returns.

GANG OF HOLD-UP MEN IS ACTIVE IN BOSTON

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—A gang of hold-up men working from stolen automobiles, swept through greater Boston late tonight finding victims in the Roxbury and Charlestown districts. [illegible] descriptions furnished by eight victims the police believed it was the same gang that perpetrated six robberies within an hour in the Back Bay last week.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

P. Berry and Sons

For the fortieth successive year, the Thanksgiving tables of the housewives of this community will be graced next Thursday by food products distributed by P. Berry and Sons, Inc., of Hartford.

Calvin Coolidge was a freckle-faced boy of thirteen when the founders of the present Berry business began operations. Warren G. Harding was only a year out of college. Woodrow Wilson, a young man of 28, had just been married, and Grover Cleveland was eating turkey in the White House for the first time.

From a small beginning forty years ago, the P. Berry business has grown to be the largest institution of its kind in New England. Food products collected by this concern and distributed through retail grocers and markets will be used this Thanksgiving in many thousand homes.

Origin of "H-O Oats"

Fifty years ago a retired leather merchant named Alexander Hornby came to live at Craigville, New York. Craigville, a small village near West Point, was in those days a sort of rendezvous for landed gentry. In this picturesque spot among the wealthy gentlemen who made it their retreat Hornby came to enjoy the rest and fortune his efforts had earned him.

He was about 60 years old at that time, but like many business men, he was not long in learning that retirement is not necessarily rest. It was no great time before he found his enforced inactivity wearing on him more than hard work ever had. He began to shuffle restlessly about the little village, uneasy as a caged fox.

It was just about this time that two Englishmen came to Craigville bringing with them a new process for the manufacture of oatmeal. It was a process so sound and so valuable, that it has not been changed or equaled even to this date. History has left us no record of where these men came from or how they came by their process, but these matters are important only in the light of the events that occurred after them.

Unlike other millers, these two Englishmen "Toasted" the grain that made their oatmeal. For hours the oats absorbed the heat of open fires till every kernel was thoroughly toasted. When the toasting was over a delectable and unusual flavor was found to have crept into the grain. Between this oatmeal and ordinary oatmeal there was all the difference that there is between a sizzling nicely browned steak and the raw and uninviting cut from which it was transformed. And another change, even more important, resulted from their toasting process. Oats richer in food value than any other grain, contain their proteins, minerals, carbohydrates and other valuable elements in a form rather difficult to digest. By exposing the grain to the heat, all of this rich food content was melted down to an easily digested form. A healthful as well as a delicious cereal resulted.

Representing as this did the sole business in Caigville it simply fascinated old Alexander. Day after day he spent hovering about the Englishmen's scant quarters, studying their processes, and their product. He became more and more absorbed. He worked out by himself better ways to manufacture this new oatmeal, than the owners themselves were using. The fever to be up and doing mounted higher and higher. He ended his retirement abruptly by buying out the Englishmen bag and baggage. They seemed to have had no great heart for manufacturing and ceded to Hornby sole rights to their process as well as their equipment. So began one of today's greatest cereal businesses—the toy and diversion of a rich man.

Hornby at once patented the processes and the product, calling the latter "H-O Hornby's Oats", after his own name and started in with the same vigor that had made him successful in earlier ventures.

At this time there were in Craigville an old mill and a long rambling hotel, both on the same property. Hornby would not wait for buildings of his own. He bought the mill and the hotel as they stood, had them remodeled to suit his whims, and in this unique combination of structures, turned out the first case of "H-O."

So marked a different was the flavor of this new oatmeal that within a year Hornby was operating his mill in both day and night shifts to supply the city of New York alone. All this without any direct sales solicitation.

With his business firmly established and increasing in a most gratifying manner, old Hornby's career was abruptly terminated in a Brooklyn trolley car accident. The Ellsworth Brothers, later the famous makers of "Force" took over the product, and continued its success on a greater scale than Hornby ever dreamed of. The Mill, now a six story structure filling an entire block, has been moved to Buffalo, New York, and is owned by the Hecker—H-O Company, Inc. A branch mill of almost equal size operates in Canada. From a small local product H-O has swept into national and world wide prominence. Yet today, as in Alexander Hornby's time, it is still the heritage of two obscure Englishmen that gives H-O the rich flavor and ready digestibility that makes it really distinctive.

Lots of men say they would like to have you criticize their faults, but if you do they are sure to get angry.

Bobbed Hair

How to Keep it Thick Healthy, Vigorous

The constant curling and waving demanded by modern style in hair dress, slowly burns the color lustre and very life from the hair, leaving it dry, faded, brittle, streaked with gray; then the hair roots shrink and the hair falls out fast.

A 35-cent bottle of refreshing, fragrant "Danderine" will do wonders for any girl's hair. This vitalizing beauty tonic acts on the hair like fresh showers of rain and sunshine on vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates, nourishes and strengthens them, helping the hair to grow thick, healthy and luxuriant.

Try this for one week. While combing and dressing your hair, moisten your hair brush with a little "Danderine" and brush it through your hair—the effect is startling! Your hair immediately takes on new life and that healthy, youthful lustre, becomes incomparably soft, wavy and appears twice as thick and abundant.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Coming to the Breed

There are many good photoplays on the schedule for showing in this city this season, but it is doubtful whether or not any will arouse more general interest than Havoc, the picturization of the great international stage success. William Fox will present this drama of war-born souls at the Breed theater beginning Thursday and it is said to be a cinematic masterpiece. Among the many interesting favorites in the cast will be seen George O'Brien, Madge Bellamy, Margaret Livingston, Walter McGrail, David Butler, Harvey Clark and Eulalie Jensen. The production was directed by Rowland V. Lee.

Grotto Circus to be Unusual

It is an unusual thing to have a circus come to Norwich in December, when they usually come in June or July, but nevertheless the Grotto circus and freak city are booked for Norwich Dec. 8-9-10 and will pitch their tents at the Armory on McKinley Ave., and this is hardly large enough for this freak city. There will be many side shows where the freaks of nature will be on exhibition and don't miss seeing them, as there are no fakes, each one is a genuine freak. After seeing them, before the big show starts, just step up and patronize the "Hot Dawg" stand, then wash it down with a glass of pink lemonade or soda and last but not least buy a bag of peanuts before you take your seat.

JAMES JONES
Chairman on Concessions

The big show starts sharp at eight o'clock and in the big ring you will see some very high class vaudeville, such as has never been seen in Norwich before. A quartette of beautiful girls do a dancing act that has no equal, and the other acts will speak for themselves. Seeing is believing, so come and see for yourself, and when you go home, you will say, well, Nemrod Grotto sure knows how to do things.

Don't forget there is dancing every evening from 8 to 11. Tickets can be had from any of Nemrod Grotto Phorphets for the small sum of a dime or at the door of the Armory on McKinley Ave., December 8-9-10. All are welcome.

ARGUMENTS TODAY IN PLAYERS-LASKY CASE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24—Charges of unfair methods of competition and monopolistic practices were made against the Famous Players-Lasky corporation and affiliated companies and denied by them today in final arguments on the long pending complaint against them before the federal trade commission.

The argument, which are to be concluded tomorrow, centered on the issue whether the commission shall order the respondents to cease such business practices as block booking and to separate the producing and distributing from their exhibitive properties.

The opening statement in summing up the case, which has occupied the attention of the commission for more than four years, was made by W. H. Fuller, chief counsel of the commission, while defense arguments were presented by Charles Rosen, in behalf of the Saenger Amusement company of New Orleans, one of the respondents and Robert Swaine, for Famous Players. They were based on voluminous briefs filed by all parties to the case and the record of hearings conducted for several years in different sections of the country by examiners for the commission.

Mr. Fuller contended that unfair methods had been demonstrated and in many cases had not been denied by the respondents, and that a condition of monopoly had been reached in several sections. The claim of the respondents that they have the right to sell their product direct to the consumer through motion picture houses could not be admitted in an unrestricted sense, he asserted, holding that the fault lay in the methods they had used in exercising this privilege.

Mr. Rosen insisted that the Saenger company had not practiced any unfair business methods and that it was not a party to any monopolistic conspiracy. The record of the case failed to substantiate the charges against the company as set forth in the complaint, he argued, and asked the commission to remove it as a party to the proceedings.

Mr. Swaine denied charges set forth against Famous Players by the chief counsel and the examiner for the commission and declared the record failed to show acts of a monopolistic or unfair character.

HALF A DOZEN TURKEYS ALREADY AT WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24—With half a dozen turkeys already at the white house and more likely to show any moment, President Coolidge is sure of a bountiful dinner Thursday. In fact, he has reached the conclusion that a president need never worry about a well stocked larder for Thanksgiving or Christmas—the generosity of the American public more than taking care of the needs of the executive household.

Although disappointed that his father, who has been ill at Plymouth, Vt., will not be a Thanksgiving guest at the white house, the president is encouraged over reports of his father's condition. Word received here is that the monetary spasm suffered by his father is due to blood vessels of the brain rather than to heart trouble.

With their son John at Amherst college the president and Mrs. Coolidge will have no relatives with them on Thanksgiving. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stearns, intimate friends, are white house guests, however, and probably will remain over the holiday. The president plans to attend morning services at the First Congregational church and probably will devote some time to work on his annual message to congress.

POULTRY

PAN-A-CE-A
Puts hens in laying trim

You can feed as you will, care for as you may, but until your flock is in trim to lay, eggs will be scarce.

Just add Poultry Pan-a-ce-a with every 50 pounds of mash or one tablespoonful to every 20 hens once a day.

Then watch the change come over your flock, see the combs and wattles begin to turn red. Listen to the song, scratch and cackle.

Remember, you buy Pan-a-ce-a like this: for 100 hens, the 12-pound package: 60 hens, the 5-pound package: 200 hens, the 25-pound pail; 500 hens, the 100-pound drum.

You feed that package, all of it, on the more-eggs-or-no-pay way.

For Lice—Use Dr. Hess Louse Killer.

For Roup—Use Dr. Hess Roup Tablets.

STOCK PRICES LOWER

NEW YORK, Nov. 24—(By the A. P.)—Stock prices broke to a new low level for the current movement today when selling pressure was renewed against the motors and other vulnerable industrials. The selling which again originated largely with bear traders, was facilitated by the marking up of the call money rate to 5 per cent. Closing quotations disclosed a large number of losses ranging from 1 to 5 points, but they were generally above the low levels of the day.

Outside the stock market, chief interest centered in the sharp rally in wheat prices on reports of further damage to the Argentine crop, the establishment of a new low record for the year by French francs at 3.79 1-2 cents, and a series of favorable dividend announcements, including the raising of the Phillips Petroleum dividend, from a $2 to a $3 annual basis.

The most drastic readjustment of prices took place in the motor shares. Chrysler opened 5 points higher at 180, broke to 167 1-2 and then rallied to 171 1-2. General Motors dropped from 111 1-4 to 106 and then snapped back to 107 3-8. Hudson dropped from 95 to 90 and then rallied to 94 3-4 on unconfirmed rumors of a special dividend meeting in the near future. Packard, Stewart-Warner and Stromberg Carburetor closed a point or so lower, but Mack Trucks, White and the Pierce-Arrow issues showed substantial gains on the day.

Liquidation of some of the standard industrials appeared to be of a necessitous character. Net declines of a point or more were recorded by Anaconda Copper, Brooklyn Union Gas, California Packing, Crucible and Gulf States Steels, Texas Gulf Sulphur, Western Union and Woolworth. U. S. Steel common closed fractionally higher at 127 3-4 after having sold a point below that figure.

Oils developed the best degree of resistance to selling pressure but they failed to show much response to a further stiffening of crude oil and gasoline prices. Heaviness of the coppers reflected the easier tendency of the red metal market. Federal Mining and Smelting broke 16 1-2 points to 66 1-2 on a few sales. Sharp recessions also took place in some of the high priced industrial specialties, Coco Cola, International Business Machines, Union Tank Car and Westinghouse Air Brake closing 4 to 5 points lower.

Despite the urgent character of some of the selling, there was an increasing number of independent strong spots. Gimbel Brothers common and preferred each advanced over 3 points to new high records for the year and Chicago Pneumatic Tool, Crex Carpet, Du Pont, Foundation company and U. S. Industrial Alcohol closed 3 to 4 points higher.

Rails held fairly steady, the feature of that group being a sharp advance in Norfolk and Western preceding the publication of an exceedingly favorable October earnings statement.

Call money renewed at 4 1-2 per cent, and then advanced to 5, on a withdrawal of funds in anticipation of holiday requirements. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchange rates were heavy in sympathy with the weakness in French francs. Demand sterling ruled around $4.84 1-8 and the principal continental rates showed recessions ranging from 1 to 7 points. Polish zlotys broke 10 points to a new low at 14.70 cents.

CLOUDY, WARMER TODAY; FAIR TOMORROW

Norwich Bulletin

1799 1925

NORWICH, CONN., WEDNESDAY, NOV. 25, 1925

FULL ASSOCIATED PRESS DESPATCHES

The Bulletin.

Norwich, Wednesday, Nov. 25, 1925

THE WEATHER

Conditions

The disturbance that was on the Maine coast Monday night has advanced northward to the Gulf of St. Lawrence with increased intensity while the disturbance that was over Ontario is southeast of the Hudson Bay with a trough extending southwestward to eastern Kansas.

During the last twenty-four hours scattered snow flurries have occurred in northern New England. Temperatures have fallen in New England.

The outlook is for mostly fair weather Wednesday and Thursday in the states east of the Mississippi river except that there will be showers on Wednesday in the lower lake region, and on Wednesday and Wednesday night in northern New England.

Temperatures will rise on Wednesday in the middle and north Atlantic states. It will be colder Thursday in the New England states and the north portions of the middle Atlantic states.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook: Fresh to strong northwest and west and weather fair Wednesday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Fresh northwest and west and weather fair Wednesday.

Forecast

Eastern New York—Increasing cloudiness and warmer, rain in north portion Wednesday; Thursday fair and colder.

Southern New England—Increasing cloudiness and warmer Wednesday; Thursday fair.

TAFTVILLE

Thirty-five members of Council Gagnon, No. 208, Union St. Jean Baptiste, were in Danielson Sunday, to attend the meeting of District No. 8, President Joseph C. Marsan, who is also president of the district, presided at the meeting, at which there were about 300 visitors representing 23 councils from the territory bounded by Putnam, Norwich and Stafford Springs. There were addresses by Rev. Father Deschaux, of St. James' church, Attorney Woissard, of Putnam, and Alma Forcier, one of the national directors, of Goodyear. The latter thanked the members for their support in electing him a director at the recent meeting in Holyoke, Mass.

Mr. Forcier gave a report of the national convention in Holyoke, which was the eleventh annual gathering of the union. Important changes were made which included the addition of a juvenile department effective January, 1926. A new class of associate members will be added Twenty year payment certificates will be written in the future. Another form authorized is an old age certificate payable in 10 yearly installments starting at the age of 70. The directors of the society feel that the constructive plans and regulations adopted will be most helpful during the new term.

After the meeting a delicious luncheon of sandwiches, coffee, waters and ice cream was served by the ladies of the Danielson union under the direction of Mrs. Halley, and there were songs by M. Normandin. The next quarterly meeting of the district will be held in Occum and Mr. Marsan asked those assembled at Danielson to try to be present.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY WILL ELECT OFFICERS

The election of officers for the ensuing year will be one of the principal matters which will be taken up at the annual meeting of the New London County Agricultural society slated for the morning of Wednesday, December 2nd. The meeting will be held in the town hall and will be called to order at 11 o'clock. The usual reports will be heard and acted upon and another important matter to come before the meeting will be that of limiting memberships in the future to $25.

FURNISHES BOND TO KEEP OUT OF JAIL

Samuel Siller of New London furnished a bond Tuesday guaranteeing his wife in Bridgeport $5 a week for not less than six months, by which procedure he saved himself from spending 15 days in the county jail, which sentence was imposed by Judge Charles B. Waller in the criminal court of common pleas. Attorney Morris Lubchansky stated that his client would furnish the bond rather than go to jail. The case, which was tried Monday brought out much contradictory testimony. Attorney Perry J. Hollandersky represented Mrs. Siller.

Solomon was go busy prescribing advice that he probably had little time to take much of it.

SUIT OVER FURNACE IS TRIED IN COMMON PLEAS

The trial of the case of the Sharaf Furniture Co. of New London, against Harriet Scheele, formerly Mrs. Harriet Secord, owner of the Rotisserie Inn in Waterford, on the New Haven turnpike, was started in New London Tuesday in the court of common pleas before Judge Charles B. Waller and a jury. Attorney Perry J. Hollandersky represented the plaintiff and Attorney Russell H. Corcoran, the defendant.

The suit arises over a bill of $375.75, alleged by the plaintiff to be due him from the defendant for one pipeless furnace installed at the defendant's inn on Nov. 21, 1923, when the establishment was then known as the Post Road Inn. The defendant claims that the plaintiff told her that if the furnace did not heat the place he would take it out and she would have been at no expense. She alleges that the furnace was not what it was said to be and that the plaintiff refused to take it out. The plaintiff sues for damages of $500.

The testimony in court brought out that the plaintiff, Liebman Sharaf, president of the furniture company, went to the inn and after examining the place, together with William Van Keuren, Jr., plumbing and heating contractor, told the defendant that the furnace would heat the store, which was then there and some heat would go into the room upstairs.

The defendant testified that Sharaf told her that the heater would take care of the place as it was in 1923, before the present improvements were made and it did not come up to expectations. She said that she had notified the company several times but the furnace was not taken out.

Mr. Van Keuren testified to going to the inn with Mr. Sharaf and he corroborated the latter's testimony that the defendant understood that the furnace would only heat the store and that some heat would be gotten in the room upstairs providing the dance hall and pool room were closed off.

Other witnesses in the case were Benjamin L. Jones, then a plumber in the employ of Mr. Van Keuren. Miss Ruth Beebe, bookkeeper for the furniture company, Thomas F. Morton, Joseph Turrello and Andrew J. Maynard.

TOLLAND FARM BUREAU PROPOSES SMALLER FEE

ROCKVILLE, Nov. 24—Reduction of the membership fee in the Tolland county farm bureau from $10 to $5 annually is proposed in a recommendation from the executive committee which is to be voted on at the annual meeting in Rockville on December 2. The meeting is open to all farmers in the county and it is expected that the proposed measure will bring out a record attendance.

Although the farm bureau derives most of its support from public funds, a state law, passed in 1919, requires that $1,000 be raised by private means before the public money is available. To meet this requirement, the membership fee was raised to $10 several years ago but many friends of the organization believe that it is more effective to reduce the amount of the fee and increase the membership.

The principal speaker at the annual meeting is to be George Farley, of Amherst, Mass., who will speak on, "The Best Crop on the Farm." Mr. Farley is state leader of boys' and girls' club work in Massachusetts.

The meeting starts at 10:30 o'clock a. m., with reports of officers, following which will be election of officers for 1926. A special program has been arranged for women who attend the meeting.

WET DRIVER PAYS FINE IN COURT IN LISBON

Pleading guilty to driving while under the influence of liquor, Leo Buzynski, of this city, was fined $75 and costs by Justice of the Peace Walter Drew, in the Lisbon town court Monday evening. George Helmboldt, grand juror, prosecuted the case. Buzynski paid the fine. In addition to the fine, Buzynski's driving license will be suspended for the next year.

He was a driver for Schwartz Bros., of this city and Sunday night was driving one of their Dodge trucks toward Norwich when the truck went off the road near the Taftville tunnel and plunged down the steep bank there coming to a stop when about 30 feet from the railroad tracks.

It took two attempts before the truck was hauled back to the highway. During the first attempt the truck was hauled about half way up the bank when it broke away and plunged down to the bank and onto the tracks. The second attempt was successful and the truck was finally pulled back to the highway.

FOR ITCHING TORTURE

Use Antiseptic Liquid Zemo

There is one remedy that seldom fails to stop itching torture and relieve skin irritation, and that makes the skin soft, clear and healthy.

Any druggist can supply you with Zemo, which generally overcomes skin diseases. Eczema, Itch, Pimples, Rashes, Blackheads, in most cases quickly give way to Zemo. Frequently, minor blemishes disappear overnight. Itching usually stops instantly. Zemo is a safe, antiseptic liquid that may be applied at any time, for it does not show.

SENATOR BINGHAM PICKING CANDIDATES FOR APPOINTMENTS

In an effort to obtain the very best possible material from his state for the making of future army and naval officers, Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut is conducting a series of carefully worked-out tests for the establishment of an eligible list from which to make his nominations to the United States military and naval academies.

It so happens that the senator is privileged to make a rather unusually large number of appointments to these institutions at this time due to the expected simultaneous graduations of cadets and midshipmen next June. Subject to his nominations there are two prospective vacancies to be filled at West Point and three at Annapolis. He is, therefore, entitled to name two appointees to the Military Academy and three to the Naval Academy besides alternates.

On October 24th, at Senator Bingham's request, the civil service commission conducted at New Haven and at several other points competitive mental examinations to which were admitted a number of Connecticut young men whose ambitions to enter the service of their country led them to enroll in the lists in competition for these appointments. These examinations were by no means superficial. They took up an entire day. They dealt in a wide range of subjects and ran the gamut of many phases of human knowledge, from solving simultaneous equations in algebra to reflecting the mood of "Il Penseroso" and from explaining the "Open Door" policy to writing an account of the life and doctrines of Martin Luther. Yet for the most part the contestants did surprisingly well,—some of them brilliantly. Then ensued a period of anxious waiting on the part of the candidates while their papers were being marked by the civil service commission experts.

But this examination by no means completed the process of selection. Since young army and naval officers must be in the prime of physical condition and since the academy entrance requirements are exceedingly rigid in this respect, as well as in mental qualifications, Senator Bingham stipulated that each of his candidates present a certificate of his physical fitness signed by a physician who is familiar with the war and navy department demands. In addition to the medical certificate each candidate has to submit also three letters of recommendation as to character and reputation from responsible persons.

The next step required of those candidates who passed the preliminary test, and are physically fit, is to appear for oral examination before special boards composed of World War veterans—one to take in hand the would-be West Pointers, and the other to try out the aspirants for Annapolis—on Friday, November 27th, at New Haven.

The oral examination is intended to enable these board of officers to determine whether in their opinion a candidate has the requisite qualifications of character and personality necessary for success in his chosen profession as an officer. The recommendations of these boards will enable Senator Bingham to select those best qualified to take the final examinations to enter these great national service schools.

SETTLEMENT IN BRANDEGEE ESTATE IS DEFERRED

Hope for the settlement in the estate of the late United States Senator Frank B. Brandegee of New London by Dec. 1, which is the end of the administrative year for the District of Columbia, has been abandoned by the National bank of commerce of New London and the late senator's former secretary, W. Don Lundy, co-administrator of the estate. Washington creditors still have more than a week in which to file and prove claims against the estate, but in the opinion of authorities, valid claims which have not been handled in this manner will have to be paid even though they were not registered within the year limit.

The administrative year for the filing of claims of creditors from Connecticut ended Nov. 1, and the claims of Maryland creditors after Dec. 1, will be the only ones with which the administrators will be concerned. The administrative year for Maryland claimants will not expire until spring, and until that time it will not be known how much on the dollar each claimant will receive. That 100 per cent. will be paid on all claims, however, is considered unique, inasmuch as this is dependent on the sale of the Brandegee holdings of more than 700 acres in Montgomery county, Md.

MISS LEAHY ADDRESSES HARTFORD C. C. ALUMNAE

Miss Agnes B. Leahy, of Norwich, a member of the faculty of Connecticut college, addressed the Hartford branch of the Connecticut College Alumnae association Saturday. That branch has made plans to have an entertainment at an early date. The undergraduates of the college will go to Hartford to furnish the entertainment. It is planned to have Margaret Battles of New London dance, the glee club to give a concert featuring Louise MacLeod of Boston, as soloist and Margaret Elliott of Upper Montclair, N. J., in a whistling novelty. In addition the college dramatic club will send a group to present a one-act play by Christopher Morley. The Hartford branch has been inactive for several years but it is hoped that a mass meeting will revive interest in the chapter.

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the foot calluses, without soreness or irritation.

ROTARIANS GIVE BANQUET TO WINDHAM'S GREAT ELEVEN

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 24—The annual football night with the tri-season undefeated Windham High School football eleven as guests of the Willimantic Rotary club was held Tuesday evening in the Y. M. C. A. and declared a success from every angle. James P. Mustard, chairman of the boys' work committee and a sportsman of the first water, was in charge of the meeting. Decorations of the season artificially interrupted with banners adorned the dining room walls and the tables. About 60 covers were laid. The festivities opened with a delicious turkey dinner served by the Ladies' auxiliary of the "Y." Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock invoked grace and then all present sat about to satisfy the inner man. Music during the luncheon was by Ralph H. Gibson, violinist, Clifford Donnelley, pianist. At the close of the repast Harry W. Standish led in a series of lively songs with Dr. R. Bullock Jones at the piano. Vice President James P. Bath presided over the brief business meeting. Secretary Girard E. Loisel read a telegram from President John F. Ahern who was absent through slight illness, in which he extended his congratulations to Coach Callaghan and the team.

Chairman Mustard inaugurated the speech making with appropriate remarks, concisely called upon Principal Egbert A. Case of Windham high, Coach Thomas A. Callaghan, Captain Jack Nichols of the team, H. G. Guyer, head of the physical education department at C. A. C., who referred to several of the Windham encounters during the season Dudley Burr, a gridiron back on the Windham team, 1922-23, and now a shining star in athletics of Trinity college, Hartford, and H. Clinton Lathrop, loyal booster of local athletics.

The speaker of the evening was "Eskie" Clark, former Harvard star center and present coach of the Trinity eleven. Coach Callaghan solved the mystery of four consecutive tie games at the opening of Windham's schedule this evening when he stated that he has deemed advisable to allow Windham to suffer defeat if necessary in order not to lose the enthusiasm of the fans by too much superiority. He confessed having told the team to go easy during the first part of the season. By previous announcement the football squad thought to reciprocate for the loyal support and interest of the Rotary club displayed for the eleven in the past by inviting all the members to occupy the block of seats as their guests at the presentation of All of a Sudden Peggy, at the Windham High School auditorium. Properly escorted by the athletics the Rotary marched in a body to the school at 8 o'clock. All of a Sudden Peggy, a delightful three act production, in which the Plebian heroine and her mother finally overcome the scruples of the titled English parents by marrying into the family was staged with marked success before a capacity audience. The play was presented by the Windham High Dramatic club, and was directed by Miss Katherine H. Wheeler, a member of the faculty. J. Gordon Bower was stage manager, and Benny Mandell was business manager. The music for the play was rendered by the high school orchestra of sixteen. Cast of characters:

To Open Blankets Today

Official announcement was made this week by the American Woolen company with mills in Norwich, Yantic and Moosup, that it will open its blanket lines for 1926 Wednesday. The goods, which are sold through Department 8 of the company, comprise all wool and part wool merchandise. As was the case last year, it is expected that considerable attention will be given new patterns and colors in the lines. No limitation as to the probable price levels was given out, but it is the general opinion in the trade that a decline from last year's quotations will be shown.

Common Pleas Assignments

The following common pleas court assignments have been made by Judge C. B. Waller for Dec. 1:

E. A. Strout Farm Agency against Ida A. Fisher; Clara Moltz against the Connecticut company; Sharaf's Furniture Co., Inc., against Harriet Scheele.

25 ON WEEKLY LIST OF SUSPENDED DRIVERS

The weekly list of Connecticut operators whose licenses have been suspended for one year for driving while under the influence of liquor was given out Tuesday at the state motor vehicle department as a part of the effort to reduce this highway menace. There are twenty-five names on the list. The case of one has been appealed. The department statement advises people to notify the department or the police in case they should see any of the suspended drivers operating motor vehicles. The following is the list:

HENS QUICKEN PACE IN STORRS EGG LAYING

All classes except Wyandottes quickened their pace in the third week of the fifteenth annual laying contest at Storrs. Wyandottes laid two per cent. less than for the previous week but this little let up is believed to be only temporary. The other classes, including White, Barred and Buff Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, Anconas, Leghorns, and American Dominiques all laid at a little faster rate. The entire 1,400 birds taken together laid 3,337 eggs or a yield of over thirty-four per cent, a gain of 401 eggs over their performance in the preceding week. Leghorns were again the leaders but they did not get away with everything as was the case the week before. R. W. Colman's pen from Medina, N. Y., headed the list with a total of sixty-one eggs, a production for these ten birds of eighty-seven per cent. It is only feared that such an enormous pace cannot be maintained. Mount Hope Farm's pen of Leghorns from Williamstown, Mass., came in second with a total of fifty-three eggs. Rhode Island Reds entered by John Z. LaBelle of Ballouville, Conn., was a close third with a tally of fifty-two eggs. Pine Grove Farm's pen of Leghorns from Taunton, Mass., were an equally close fourth with a lay of fifty-one eggs.

During the past week there were several shifts among the leading pens in all classes except the White Wyandottes. In the Barred Rock delegation, Edgar Stoughton from Wapping, Conn., moved up into first place and W. H. H. Kent from Cazenovia, N. Y., surplanted another New York pen for third place. In the Rhode Island class, Shell Crest Farm from Holliston, Mass. and Hayes Hennery from Dover, N. H. both passed a Massachusetts pen that was in second place. The Leghorns were a little steadier. Nevertheless two Massachusetts pens from Sterling Junction and Webster that had been holding second and third places respectively, shifted positions. In the "All Other Variety" group a pen of White Rocks entered by S. Bradford Allyn of Holliston, Mass., got by a pen of Buff Rocks from Norfolk, Mass. With only two exceptions it will be noted that the fight for the pole was chiefly between Massachusetts breeders.

White Wyandottes
Winlay White Wyandottes, Mystic, Conn.	94
Thomas H. Matteson, Davisville, R. I.	74
Barred Rocks
Edgar Stoughton, Wapping, Conn	77

CHARLES F. NOYES CO. ARRANGES BIG DEAL

A New York paper pictures the new Court Square building, to be erected at Lafayette, Reade and Duane streets opposite the new county court house, municipal building and hall of records by Tris-Knott-Brownstone syndicate. The undertaking is financed by P. W. Chapman & Co., with $2,000,000 bond issue. The Charles F. Noyes company arranged the sale of the 17,000 foot plot, arranged the financing and will be agents for the new building.

NORWICH TOWN

The Junior Christian Endeavor society of the First Congregational church, Miss Elizabeth Avery superintendent, numbering twenty or more, assembled at the Bachelor home on East Town street, Sunday afternoon about four o'clock, and sang a number of songs for the pleasure of Mrs. Clementine Lane, a member of that household. Miss Avery was assisted by Miss Rose Durr. Mrs. Lane was also presented a Thanksgiving basket which contained a variety of fruit and jellies.

Thomas H. Bacheler, of East Town street, spent Monday in Webster, Mass., on a business trip, pertaining to improvements and re-setting of monument, etc., on the family burial plot in the cemetery at Douglas, Mass.

Following out the annual custom of contributing provisions, etc., to the United Workers, to be distributed among the poor and needy families of Norwich, the two Norwich Town schools, as usual, sent in large quantities of good things brought in by the children during Monday and Tuesday. At the Town Street school, William G. Tarbox principal, an exceptionally large amount was donated this year. As barrels could not be provided, eight or more large cartons were filled with potatoes, turnips, onions, squashes, pumpkins, apples, canned goods, jellies, packages containing groceries, etc., besides over $2.00 in money.

From West Town Street school, Miss Florence M. Bennett, principal, the contributions by the children were equally as large as in preceding years. Here two large sugar barrels were filled to the brim, and a surplus besides, consisting of cabbages, potatoes, carrots, turnips, squashes, pumpkins, several loaves of bread, apples, a number of glasses of jelly, as well as a sum of money.

The liberal response by the parents in this worthy cause is much appreciated by the teachers in this community. As the several varieties of fresh vegetables, etc., were accumulating at these schools, it made a tempting sight.

Anniversary Masses

A third anniversary high mass of requiem for Mrs. Delia Brennan, was sung in St. Patrick's church, Monday at 8 o'clock, by the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May.

Tuesday at the same hour there was a third anniversary mass in remembrance of Mrs. Alice Londergan, offered by Monsignor May.

Sorted Pupils' Gifts

The provisions, etc., donated by the Norwich school children toward providing Thanksgiving dinners for the city's needy families were sorted and prepared for distribution Tuesday in the vacant store 43 Broadway. The use of the store was donated by the new owner of the property, The Dime Savings Bank.

Friend Saved Mrs. Wilhelmy

"Overwork, worry, no appetite, no sleep, I looked like a corpse," says Mrs. Mary Wilhelmy of St. Paul, Minn. "and to add to my troubles my physician advised an operation. A friend, however, asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so, and you should see the improvement. I eat well, sleep well, have gained in weight and strength and feel fine." That is what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Wilhelmy, and it will do as much for any suffering woman. au12sd

CHAPMAN'S EXECUTION TO BE DEFERRED TILL MARCH 3

Paper to Be Signed by Governor Trumbull—Decision Reached Following Commutation by President Coolidge of Mail Robber's Unfinished Term at Atlanta Penitentiary—Legal Point to Be Raised is Based Upon Chapman's Refusal to Accept the President's Commutation.

HARTFORD, Nov. 25.—(A. P.)—Gerald Chapman, under sentence to die on the gallows in state prison at Wethersfield for murder and whose long unfinished term in Atlanta prison for mail robbery was commuted by President Calvin Coolidge today, has had another reprieve which will fix Chapman's death date as March 3, next, instead of the approaching December 3rd, which was the limit of the reprieve under which his life has been prolonged since June 25, last, the original date set by Judge Newell Jennings in the Hartford superior court after his conviction for the murder of Officer James Skelly, of New Britain.

New angles have come into the case and under the stay of execution which will come with the second reprieve, Chapman's counsel expect to go to the United States supreme court for decisions on points they will raise. Two of these points, will be based on the refusal of Chapman to accept the presidential commutation of sentence for mail robbery, and on his scope of his rights under the constitution, which are to be claimed at a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus in state prison before Federal Judge E. S. Thomas next Monday.

The changes in the Chapman case have been brought about by the service of the writ of habeas corpus upon Warden H. W. K. Scott, of the state prison, notification given Chapman in his cell by State's Attorney Alcorn that President Calvin Coolidge had commuted the mail robbery sentence to the term already served, the immediate refusal by Chapman, upon advice of counsel, to accept that commutation; a conference of the condemned man with his counsel; a conference of Joseph Freedman, Chapman's counsel, with State's Attorney Alcorn as to a second reprieve and finally an agreement on the application to Governor Trumbull for a second reprieve. It was arranged that R. L. Gideon, assistant state's attorney, as Mr. Alcorn's representative, should go with Mr. Freedman to Governor Trumbull's home in Plainville with the papers for signature which would fix the execution date as of March 3, 1926.

SUPREME COURT WILL DECIDE CHAPMAN'S FATE

HARTFORD, Nov. 25—(A. P.)—Governor Trumbull consented tonight to stay the execution of Gerald Chapman for three months until March 3, 1926. That was the date agree dupon this afternoon by State's Attorney Alcorn and Joseph F. Freedman, of counsel for Chapman to allow time for the supreme court of the United States to decide whether Chapman's refusal today to accept President Coolidge's commutation of his 25-year federal sentence nullified the commutation.

If the court should decide that the president has the power to shorten a federal prisoner's sentence without the consent of the prisoner, Chapman's last hope will be gone and nothing but newly discovered evidence sufficient to warrant a new trial could save him from the gallows.

QUIET DAY IN THE MURDER TRIAL OF OLYMPIA MACRI

LITCHFIELD, Nov. 25—(A. P.)—The second trial of Olympia Macri charged with the murder of John Bagnano, in New Haven last February, adjourned here today for the Thanksgiving holidays with several witnesses yet to be called by the state. Miss Macri today heard the testimony of Carrie Bagnano, John's widow, and heard read the record of testimony of several witnesses who testified at the former trial in New Haven concerning the defendant's age.

When the state's attorney dismissed Mrs. Bagnano, shortly after court reconvened after the noon recess, Mr. Alling, offered the birth certificate of the girl, saying that the state had no other witnesses to call today.

The birth certificate gave the date of Miss Macri's birth as July 9, 1904, the place, Meriden, and shows that the girl was the third child born to her father and mother.

The defense claims that Miss Macri was not born until July 9, 1906, which would make the defendant about 19 and one half years old at the present time.

After Mr. Alling had the birth certificate included in the evidence, counsel agreed that the defense could today introduce the record of testimony of witnesses who at the former trial established other dates than July 9, 1904, as the date of the defendant's birth.

Joseph Koletsky, defense counsel, then read the previous testimony of David Gibbs, superintendent of schools of Meriden, superintendent Frank H. Beede, of New Haven and Miss Rachel Webster, principal, of New Haven.

School records of Meriden show the girl was born on July 9, 1904, and also on August 6, 1906. Four of six schools registers admitted in evidence under Superintendent Beede's testimony give the date of Miss Macri's birth as July 9, 1905, another July 9, 1906. Miss Macri left school in 1919 to go to work claiming at that time that she was fourteen, the age limit, under which children may quit school to take up employment.

Others who testified at the former trial and whose testimony was read into the record were: Rev. Dominico Ricci, of Meriden; Rev. J. J. McLaughlin, of Meriden, and Freda Stock and Dominico Scarafino, of Meriden.

Today was the seventeenth court day of the retrial.

CRIME WAVE SWEEPING OVER NATIONAL CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25—(A. P.)—Coincident with the efforts of the Washington police to unravel and enforce an ever changing multitude of traffic regulations, a crime wave has swept over the capital.

Daylight holdups, heretofore rare in Washington, have become an almost daily occurrence. Residences as well as stores have been robbed and in one case a bandit spent an hour in a private residence trussing up the occupant, his wife and the maid, and then made away with jewelry and other valuables, using the owner's automobile to accelerate his departure.

Complaints have been made that while these crimes have been committed, large numbers of the police force have been busy tagging automobiles for over-parking or chasing other machines for minor infractions of the regulations.

The traffic code already has attained to a volume of 38 pages, and with amendments being added constantly officers charged with its enforcement must spend part time in a traffic school. Only this week 46 amendments have been added, one of these requiring pedestrians to heed traffic signals just as automobilists must do.

PROMINENT SOCIETY MAN FOUND DEAD IN HIS BARN

BALTIMORE, Nov. 25—(A. P.)—William A. Dixon, known in Baltimore, Washington, Philadelphia, and New York society, was found dead in the barn of his Kent county farm today, a few minutes after a shot had been heard. Near the body was a shotgun, one barrel discharged. Dixon, who was 31 years old, was a brother-in-law of Childs Frick, son of the late Henry C. Frick, Pittsburgh multimillionaire steel magnate. Mrs. Dixon, who survives, was Miss Lilly Crisfield of Philadelphia.

MITCHELL COURTMARTIAL REACHING FINAL STRETCH

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25—(A. P.)—The army court martial trying Colonel William Mitchell for publicly assailing war and navy air service management turned late today into its final stretch, timing the movement precisely with the passing of the fourth week of its existence.

The defense recognized the date by resting its case, subject to the later introduction of one war and ten navy department documents which failed to reach the court today. As the defense rested, the prosecution immediately took up the trial, but soon was halted by the court's order for a recess over Thanksgiving and a Saturday holiday for the army and navy football game.

Colonel Mitchell appeared well satisfied that the defense had concluded, except for the delayed documents. He was plainly disappointed, however, by another development the war department's refusal to permit him to accompany Mrs. Mitchell to Detroit for a Thanksgiving visit with their three months' old daughter Lucy.

Lieutenant Colonel Joseph I. McMullen, of the prosecution counsel started the rebuttal by reading various documents telling of the air service bombing tests conducted against naval crafts some time ago off the Virginia Capes and in Chesapeake Bay. When the court reconvenes Friday, the prosecution will introduce its first witness.

TAX REDUCTION BILL IS GRATIFYING TO COOLIDGE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(A. P.)—President Coolidge is gratified over the action of the house ways and means committee in drafting a tax reduction bill on non-partisan basis.

General provisions of the measure, which would slash federal taxes by $336,000,000 annually, were outlined to the executive today by Chairman Green of the committee. While withholding comment on a measure yet to be presented to congress, the president did not conceal his pleasure over the committee's work.

Mr. Green informed the president that every opportunity for full debate and amendment would afforded house members but predicted the measure would be approved virtually as framed by the committee. An attempt to repeal the passenger automobile tax, he said, will provide the main fight. He was confident that the bill could be passed in the second week of the session.

Representative Rainey of Illinois, a democratic member of the committee, who will present a minority report on the measure assailed it in a statement issued today as giving "men of large incomes more than in their wildest dreams they expected." He also denounced the provision to increase the personal exemptions and the allowance for the "earned income" credit of 25 per cent., and urged that greater reductions be given taxpayers with incomes between $25,000 and $70,000 a year.

SHENANDOAH COURT HAS TEMPORARILY ADJOURNED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(A. P.)—With the possible exception of Colonel William Mitchell, the panel of witnesses in the navy's long investigation into the wreck of the airship Shenandoah was exhausted today and the court adjourned subject to the call of its president.

Judge Advocate Leonard will examine within a few days the testimony given by Colonel Mitchell before the army court martial trying him here and will then decide whether it can be concluded from this that Colonel Mitchell can give testimony germaine to the Shenandoah inquiry.

Colonel Mitchell was called before the naval tribunal last month, but after he had been denied the privilege to make a statement before the oath was administered, he refused to take the oath.

TO MAKE SHIPMENT OF $10,000,000 GOLD TO CANADA

NEW YORK, Nov. 25—(A. P.)—Gold valued at $10,000,000 was withdrawn from New York banks today for shipment to Canada. While no details were disclosed, it is assumed that the shipments represent foreign exchange transactions, as the Canadian dollar is quoted at a premium of 2-32 of one cent in the New York market.

Communist Leaders Convicted in London

LONDON, Nov. 25—(A. P.)—The trial of twelve communist leaders which ended today in Old Bailey with sentences of imprisonment of twelve months for the five principal prisoners, against whom previous convictions had been proven, and six months for the seven others, against whom no previous convictions were recorded, is the greatest blow the communist party has yet experienced in this country.

The men, who were charged with conspiring to publish seditious libels and with violation of the incitement to mutiny act, will be classed in the "second division," which means simply deprivation of their liberty.

Strong efforts were made to give the case a political aspect, but the judge, who instructed the jury to accord the accused the benefit of the slightest doubt, refused to admit the idea of political prosecution. He said if they were guilty it did not matter that they were prosecuted by a rival political party animated by the desire that they should be convicted.

The prisoners' counsel made a great play of alleging police espionage with political motives, but the judge defended the police, who, he declared, had no other means for the discovery of secret sedition.

In view of the leniency with which a number of fascists, who had attacked a newspaper van belonging to the Daily Herald, the labor organ, were recently treated, the case is certain to cause great political commotion. A joint meeting of the executives of the labor party and the trades union congress has been called for tomorrow in the house of commons to discuss the case.

SUPREME COURT SUSTAINS FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(A. P.)—The regulations issued by the federal reserve board prohibiting national banks and non-member clearing houses from charging exchange on checks drawn upon them and forwarded through federal reserve banks for collection, and the law under which the action was taken, were in effect sustained today by the supreme court.

The par clearance controversy came before the court in an appeal by the Pascagoula National bank of Moss Point and Pascagoula, Mississippi, which was refused in an injunction by the United States court for northern Georgia, where it first challenged the constitutionality of the law and the regulations under which the federal reserve bank of Atlanta required it to remit in full on checks drawn upon it.

Counsel for the Pascagoula bank was frequently interrupted from the bench as he presented his oral argument, the members of the court plainly showing their inability to support his contentions that the law and regulations took property from his client without compensation. When he had completed his argument, Chief Justice Taft, after a hasty conference with his associates, announced that it would not be necessary for the Atlanta bank to present any argument in defense of the statute or the regulation. The effect of this announcement, under the practice of the court, will be to bring dismissal of the appeal, thus giving full effect to the decision of the Georgia court.

STUDENT FINED $200 FOR TRANSPORTING LIQUOR

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Nov. 25—(A. P.)—Clarence H. Bouis of Baltimore, Md., a senior at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, was fined $200 in district court here today after he had pleaded guilty to a charge of transporting liquor that was destined for Williams college students.

Bouis, who is six feet, eight inches tall, said he was selling the liquor to support his wife and to help defray the costs of his education. He was caught in a Williams college dormitory last night while attempting to dispose of twenty quarts which he had brought into Williamstown concealed beneath the seat of his automobile.

CLEMENCY GRANTED 105 TEXAS PRISON INMATES

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 25.—(A. P.)—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, late today issued 185 clemency proclamations to Texas prison inmates, effective on Thanksgiving day. This is the largest number of such proclamations yet to be issued at one time by the governor since her inauguration, January 20, last, the governor has granted 1,126 prisoners clemency.

Coolidge is Studying The Coal Situation

Has Received a Summary of Reports of Developments in Soft and Hard Coal Fields.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25—(A. P.)—President Coolidge continued to deliberate today over the issues raised in the letter of John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, in which he inquired as to the administration's attitude toward enforcement of the Jacksonville wage agreement in the bituminous coal fields, but formulated no reply.

Late in the day, the president had a lengthy conference with Secretary Davis of the labor department, and the coal situation was one of the subjects discussed. Observers for the department have been keeping in touch with developments in recent years in both the bituminous and anthracite fields, and the secretary gave the executive, in addition to his own opinion, a summary of their reports.

INCREASE REPORTED IN BITUMINOUS COAL LOADINGS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25—(A. P.)—Bituminous coal loadings during the week of November 14 were placed by the American Railway association announced tonight at 213,252 cars, an increase of 26,215 over the corresponding week last year.

Loading of anthracite from stock piles, storage and washeries during the seven weeks period ending November 14, it said, totalled 45,799 cars, 5,277 of which were loaded during the final week. Bituminous loadings for the seven weeks aggregated 83,370,000 tons, which the association described as "the greatest for any corresponding period during the past five years."

SUICIDE ATTEMPT MADE BY DESPONDENT VISITING NURSE

NEWTOWN, Nov. 25.—(A. P.)—Miss Gerdia Anderson, 28, a visiting nurse, attempted suicide here this morning by taking poison. Despondency because of ill health is believed the motive for her act. She was taken to the Danbury hospital and tonight was reported to be resting comfortably and likely to recover.

Miss Anderson, who has been supplying temporarily the post of visiting nurse association here, has been living at the home of Mrs. Francis Scheermehorn on Danbury road. Details of the suicide attempt were not divulged. She was taken to the hospital by Dr. Walter Kiernan, of Sandy Hook but is now under the care of Dr. D. Chester Brown of Danbury, who admitted tonight that his patient had taken poison in a suicide attempt. Miss Anderson's home is in Bethlehem. She had previously been visiting nurse here for two years, 1922 and 1923.

IMPROVEMENT IN EARNINGS OF THE NEW HAVEN ROAD

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(A. P.)—The steady improvement in the earnings of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad this year was carried a step forward in October when net income mounted to $911,537 compared with $505,481 for the corresponding month last year. A comparison of gross revenues for the same period revealed an increase of $806,086.

Figures for the first ten months of 1925 showed even more striking gains, net income totaling $5,821,574 compared with $1,875,798 in the corresponding period last year.

GERALDINE FARRAR ILL AT HOTEL IN HARTFORD

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 25—Geraldine Farrar, exhausted by the strain of five strenuous weeks rehearsal on "Romany Love Spell," the new operetta which had its American premiere here last night, is seriously ill at the Hotel Heublein, necessitating the cancelling of engagement at Parsons theatre, and all future engagements for at least four weeks according to a statement made tonight by her manager, Charles J. Foley.

DETECTIVE INDICTED FOR COMPOUNDING A FELONY

NEW YORK, Nov. 25—(A. P.)—Noel C. Scaffa, private detective who was indicted for compounding a felony in connection with the return, for a reward of $65,000 of the $683,000 worth of jewelry stolen from Mrs. Jessie Woolworth Donahue on September 30, entered a formal plea of not guilty today before Judge Talley in general sessions. Scaffa was continued on his bail of $10,000.

HERRIOT TO ATTEMPT FORM A NEW FRENCH MINISTRY

Call For M. Herriot Was Forced by the Socialists and Extreme Radicals—Events Made It Clear to President Doumergue That M. Doumer Would Be No More Acceptable Than M. Briand—It is Assumed That the Socialists Will Attempt to Force a Capital Levy Through the Chamber of Deputies.

PARIS, Nov. 25—(A. P.)—The socialists and extreme radicals today finally succeeded in forcing the president of the republic to call on M. Herriot to form another cabinet. The group maneuvers in the past few days made it clear to President Doumergue, that Senator Paul Doumer would be unable to do better than M. Briand and that it would be useless to call upon any other public man outside the limited list of available men acceptable to the socialists.

After M. Doumer had given up the task this afternoon there remained only M. Herriot and Leon Blum to choose between. President Doumergue decided to send for the president of the chamber—M. Herriot—who, after an hour and a half of earnest talk promised that he would do his best to "respond to the confidence of the president." The studied avoidance of the word cabinet in this declaration and its vagueness are taken to mean that the former premier is none too sure that he will be able to set up a successful combination.

M. Herriot, it is declared by experts who are closely following the political crisis, will be obliged to rely upon socialist collaboration.

If M. Blum, the radical leader, and his friends are as exacting with the president of the chamber as they were with M. Briand they will demand the ministry of finance for Vincent Auriol, the ministry of war for Paul Boncour, the ministry of justice for M. Blum, agriculture for Comperemorel, public instruction for M. Locquin and three other portfolios.

Socialist participation in the government will, it is assumed, mean another attempt to force a capital levy through the chamber, that being the essential feature of the socialist program. All through the crisis the socialists have declared that this must be the price of their support of any cabinet. The duration of a ministry tied to such a program, it is thought, would be extremely doubtful.

SOCIALISTS TO GIVE A DEFINITE REPLY TODAY

PARIS, Nov. 25—(A. P.)—The success or failure of M. Herriot's mission to form a cabinet now depends upon the socialists, M. Herriot had a conference late tonight with the leaders of the left bloc of the chamber and the democratic left of the senate, at which views were exchanged as to the program for the prospective government, both financial and political, and the proportion in which the portfolios should be allotted to the different groups.

At the conclusion of the discussion the socialists announced that they would give a definite reply as to participation, and the conditions of such participation tomorrow after the party caucus, at which the question would be threshed out.

Until then M. Herriot will be obliged to mark time, for he cannot proceed with his choice of ministers until he knows whether the socialists' terms for collaboration are acceptable. Whatever may be the eventual composition of the ministry, M. Briand is almost certain to continue as foreign minister, for the premier-designate tonight asked him to retain his portfolio and it is understood he promised he would.

THANKSGIVING

Come forth, come forth, to the festal board,
As our sires were wont in the days of old;
The reapers are home with their harvest hoard,
The herds have hied to their wintry fold,
And the cullers of fruit our vaults have stored
With the wealth of the orchard's freight of gold.

Come forth, come forth, with your heartfelt praise,
For a lofty paean to God we raise.
Who hath scattered his love gifts far and wide,
And still, from the wan earth's earliest days,
His seed-time and harvest hath not denied.

* * * * * * *

We hallow these days as our fathers did,
With a mingling of gladness and praise and prayer,
With a willing boon for the lowliest shed,
That the hungry and poor in our thanks may share,
And the scantiest table be freely spread,
And the lip of the mourner a blessing bear.

For the sons of the feeble Pilgrim band
Who first on a distant rock-bound bay
Gave thanks for the gifts of the teeming land,
Have spread over mountain and stream away
And a song of praise shall to God ascend
From a myriad of burning lips today.

Come forth, come forth, with the chiming bell,
A joyous throng to the altar's side;
Come, mingle your tones with the organ's swell;
And, where the door of the feast stands wide,
Let the gray-haired sire to his grandchild tell
A tale of our nation's grateful pride.

—Hannah E. G. Arey.

PLANS FOR QUEEN MOTHER ALEXANDRA'S FUNERAL

LONDON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The shortness of the route of QQueen Mother Alexandra's funeral Friday morning from the chapel royal, St. James' Palace, to Westminster Abbey, which is only about half a mile, necessitates unusual precautions in handling the multitudes which will surge into the heart of the capital to view the gun-carriage bearing the coffin and the kings of England, Denmark and Norway and the king of the Belgians, walking through the troop-lined streets. They will be followed by a dozen princes and their equerries and suites and an elaborate procession drawn from many British military unions, the first of which will be a detachment of Alexandra's own Yorkshire hussars.

The pressure of the throngs in the mall, Trafalgar square, the short length of Whitehall and Around parliament square is expected to be overwhelming. The police authorities today warned the public to keep to the open spaces and the horse guards parade and the Mall, instead of jamming the narrow streets nearer the abbey.

QUIET THANKSGIVING FOR PRESIDENT AND CABINET

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25—(A. P.)—Thanksgiving day, for President Coolidge and members of his cabinet, will be a quiet holiday with their activities centering about church services and turkey dinners.

With Mrs. Coolidge, the president plans to attend morning services at the First Congregational church and pass the remainder of the day at the white house with his guests, Mr and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns of Boston, possibly devoting a little time also to his message to congress.

The white house turkey will be served to the Coolidges and their guests. The illness of the president's father at Plymouth, Vermont, prevented him from coming here for the occasion, and John Coolidge, the executive's son will remain at Amherst college until Christmas.

JEWELRY MISSING FROM HOTEL BOND, HARTFORD

HARTFORD, Nov. 25—(A. P.)—Jewelry valued at about $50,000, contained in three sample cases which were the property of William Voegeli, of Cross and Beguelin, number 13 Maiden Lane, New York. James W. Wortz, of 13 Maiden Lane, and Israel C. Stone, of Newark, N. J., are missing from the Hotel Bond. The three sample cases were checked by the men at the special checking room at the desk of the hotel last night, to insure their safety. When the men went for them this morning they were gone. The police, the hotel authorities and the Pinkerton Detective agency are working on the case. No one has been held in connection with it, and no theory to account for the disappearance has yet been advanced by the authorities.

Gold watches and chains, diamonds and other articles of jewelry were in the sample cases

ORDER ISSUED OF AUDIT BRIDGEPORT TAX BOOKS

BRIDGEPORT, Nov. 25—(A. P.)—An audit of the books of Tax Collector Howard S. Challenger by the public accountancy firm of Searle, Oakey and Miller has been ordered by the "ripper" board it became known today. The purpose is announced to be a determination to make certain the fact that records on had actually duplicate those shown in the 1922 tax book which disappeared from the vaults of the tax collector November 12.

FIRE IN CONNECTICUT REFORMATORY SCHOOL

MERIDEN, Nov. 25.—(AP)—QQuick action on the part of inmates of the Connecticut reformatory school in Cheshire checked what promised to be a disastrous fire with a damage estimated at $1,500 this morning. A hot blaze in an officer's tenement belonging to the school was well under control when the Cheshire volunteer fire department arrived.

RHINELANDER REITERATES HIS PREVIOUS STATEMENTS

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 25—(A. P.)—Recalled to the witness stand today after a brief respite from his week-long ordeal, Leonard Kip Rhinelander reiterated previous statements that Alice Jones had told him before their marriage that she was white. A little later the defense in the annulment suit produced a surprise witness, Ross Chidester, formerly chauffeur for Leonard's father. He said he told Leonard three years before his marriage that Alice's father was part negro, and that young Rhinelander answered, "I don't care if she is."

The recall of the plaintiff followed Supreme Court Justice Morschauser's announcement granting the plaintiff's request to amend the original complaint by charging that Alice defrauded Rhinelander by failing to tell him she was of negro blood. Previously the complaint had charged that she told him she was white.

Chidester's testimony was brief, but apparently was disconcerting to the plaintiff's attorneys. In December, 1921, he said, he visited Rhinelander in Stamford, Conn., and Rhinelander showed him a clock.

"I'm going to give this to Alice Jones for Christmas," he said Rhinelander told him.

"Don't you know her father is colored?" Chidester asked him and Rhinelander replied that he did not care.

Under cross examination, Rhinelander's counsel made efforts to show that Chidester's memory was poor, but without success. Asked why he had left the employ of young Rhinelander's father Philip K. Rhinelander, he said he had voluntarily resigned.

PROSPECTS NOT BRIGHT FOR TOBACCO FARMERS

HARTFORD, Nov. 25.—(A. P.)—Speaking as an individual tobacco grower with a comprehensive knowledge of the tobacco situation in New England, Joseph W. Alsop, president of the Connecticut Valley Tobacco association, today declared that unless the tobacco farmers in the valley not only curtail the acreage but refuse to raise any tobacco at all next year, the product will not reach a normal price level for more than ten years and the farmers will face ruin.

"Farmers will find it more profitable to spend the summer at the seashore than to stay at home and raise a crop that will serve only to increase the present over-supply," Mr. Alsop said. "The Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs is now working on a bulletin that, when distributed among the farmers, will enable the mto decide what other crop is best suited for being raised on their land."

MOTOR HEARSE NOW IN USE IN CONSTANTINOPLE

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The westernization of Turkey has touched even its funeral rites. The motor hearse has been introduced in Constantinople.

This innovation is the work of Emine Bey, the revolutionary prefect of Constantinople, who has decided that the old custom which prescribed that the nearest male relatives of the deceased should carry the coffin on their shoulders to the grave involves unnecessary hardship. He himself purchases the new hearses.

Under the old custom there were no carriages in the procession and no flowers, and women were never permitted in the cortege or at the cemetery.

WATERBURY PHYSICIAN CHARGED WITH PERJURY

WATERBURY, Nov. 25.—(A. P.)—Dr. Charles A. Farrell, of this city, was arrested on a warrant here this noon on a charge of having committed perjury at the murder trial in the superior court of 67-year-old James Gizzi. The authorities claim he did not examine Gizzi at police headquarters as he had testified as an eleventh hour witness. His testimony is said to have had much influence with the jury which acquitted Gizzi. Dr. Farrell was admitted to $5,000 bail.

WILLIMANTIC

SHORTAGE OF $2,619.61 PAID BY INSURANCE CO.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 25.—Figures appearing in the annual statement of Mayor George W. Hickey relative to the shortage in the accounts of Tax Collector Alfred J. Lariviere on the list of 1923 show that the bonding company has already paid in the sum of $2,619.61 to the city treasury. The statement follows: "The accounts of the tax collector of the list of 1923 show a shortage. The amount ascertained to have been received by him and not paid over to the city treasurer is $2,619.61.

"The probable loss to the city caused by his negligence has not been determined and practical steps should immediately be taken to establish the amount involved and its recovery.

"The collector furnished a bond to the city with the Hartford Accident & Indemnity company as surety, conditioned by the collector's faithful performance of his duties, sufficient to indemnify the probable loss.

"The indemnity company has already paid the treasurer of the city the sum of $2,619.61 being the amount ascertained to have been received by the collector and not paid by him into the city treasury. The representative of said company has expressed the willingness of the company to meet any further loss of the city directly due to the negligence of said collector.

"This is the first experience that the city has had with delinquent collectors. It is apparent that too much care cannot be exercised in selecting officers who have charge of the city funds and their integrity, competency and ability fully considered before election or appointment."

USUAL THANKSGIVING DAY PLANS FOR WILLIMANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 25.—Today, Thanksgiving day, will bring no new form of entertainment or observance to Willimantic. Manufacturing and mercantile establishments will be closed for the day. The banks will close and business will be curtailed at the post office. The money order and registry windows will be open from 7 to 10 a. m. There will be no deliveries by either the city or rural carriers during the day. The collecting and dispatching of mails will be as usual.

At St. Paul's Episcopal church at 10.30 a. m. a union Thanksgiving service will be conducted by the rector, Rev. Frederick C. Williams. Singing will be by the united choirs of the various Protestant churches. Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock, pastor of the First Congregational church will preach the sermon.

At St. Mary's and St. Joseph's churches masses of Thanksgiving will be celebrated at 8 a. m.

A fine choice of indoor entertainment has been prepared for music and dance lovers and theatre-goers. At the state armory a large cast of local entertainers will present the musical novelty, "Minstrel Mimics," which opened Wednesday evening under the auspices of Company C, 169th Infantry, Connecticut National Guard. The Al-Pierre Tabarin will be a favorite attraction by exponents of the terpsichorian art who will dance to music by the famous Mally's orchestra, which pleased a capacity crowd at the Al-Pierre Tab. Wednesday evening.

SUES TO RECOVER MONEY PAID FOR TAXES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 25.—Morris Schwartz of Hebron has instituted civil suit against Mrs. Annie Gilbert, assistant town clerk of Hebron to recover $125. Damages of $200 are claimed. Deputy Sheriff Allison L. Frink of Andover has served papers in the case which is returnable before Justice of the Peace Carlton B. Jones on Monday, November 30. Schwartz alleges that he rented a farm in Hebron with the understanding that he was to pay the taxes and a slight encumberance. The exact amount was not known but Schwartz claims he left $125 with the defendant to settle the matter and says the whole amount was paid to Mrs. Victoria Strong. He claims that he is entitled to the difference between the amount of taxes and the $125 which he gave the defendant.

BELIEVE YOUNG ITALIAN HAD BEEN SWINDLED

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 25.—The young Italian who committed suicide here Monday noon by leaping into the Willimantic river from the stone bridge at the foot of Jillson Hill was definitely identified Wednesday night by Emilio Cozzi of Norwich as Paradi Pegorari, aged 26, of Torrington. The spelling of this name differs somewhat from one previously made public as it had been deciphered from a soiled envelope found in the dead man's coat pocket.

The result of an investigation to determine if the young man had been swindled out of several hundred dollars is being awaited in order to throw some light on the cause of the suicide. Cozzi dispelled the opinion that the young man had been led to take his life upon receiving the knowledge that his father Faustino Pegorari, a town official and teacher in the town of Caposcio in the province San Derio had lost his mind. He maintained that his dead friend had known this when he left his native town and came to this country four years ago. Cozzi states that the man had about $600 in the Torrington Trust Co. The bankbook is now missing and he believes that Pegorari was relieved of the money in some manner causing him to become despondent and take the fatal step.

The young man visited at the home of Benediti Benner of 121 Washington street, Torrington, with whom he formerly lived last Sunday night. A male member of that family reported that his guest acted strangely and walked the floor all night as if in great excitement. The man made light of his troubles when questioned Monday morning and then left Torrington. This was the last time he was seen alive by friends and shortly after had received a letter from Italy.

Cozzi and his family rented the old Frank Gardner place at Gardner Lake last March from John Banko and about that time Pegorari came from Torrington to live with him. The young man became employed by Contractor D. Artagonal engaged in road building in Salem. The two men struck up a friendship. Pegorari did not feel safe with money on his person and he often left sums in Cozzi's care. A few days before his disappearance he had entrusted about $260 to Cozzi. The latter will use the money for funeral expenses.

Chief of Police Allan MacArthur and First Selectman Ernest T. Chesebro traced Pegorari's recent whereabouts during an all day search Wednesday. A picture of the dead man was secured from a friend and as added proof Cozzi and John Banko readily identified the deceased at the Killourey Bros. mortuary parlors. Selectman Chesebro will endeavor to locate the young man's savings in order to forward the money to the family in Italy and an effort will be made to notify a relative who is said to reside in Pennsylvania.

HARTFORD MAN DROVE CAR WITHOUT LIGHTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 25—Stephen Katzman of 111 Hanover St., Hartford, will appear in police court Friday morning charged with failure to display lights on his car after dark, as a result of a collision of his Ford touring car with a Studebaker owned and driven by Walter B. Knight of this city, at the intersection of Walnut and Valley streets at 5:15 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Knight was driving north on Walnut and upon approaching the blind corner at Valley street he sounded his horn and looked for oncoming headlights. Believing the road clear he drove on and suddenly sensed that his car was being pushed to one side. He veered to the left of the intersection, mounted the sidewalk and after breaking down the fire hydrant came to a stop on the lawn of the LaFleur home. Captain of Police Thomas S. Grady conducted an investigation and notified the Hartford man to appear in court.

STREETS GLAZED WITH ICE IN WILLIMANTIC

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 25—The light blanket of wet snow which covered the city streets Wednesday afternoon froze into a treacherous sheeting of ice in the evening, making automobile traveling and walking exceedingly dangerous. A number of drivers who started out unaware of the danger narrowly averted badly damaging their machines as they skidded at random.

Members of Engine Company No. 1 were called out Wednesday morning at 5.25 o'clock for a small fire in the building at 786 Main street owned by Benjamin H. Prag. The fire started in the cellar of the Modern Shoe store when woodwork adjoining the furnace became ignited. E. L. Sypher, janitor, discovered the blaze. Considerable damage was caused by water, chemicals and smoke.

A highly successful social and dance was held at the Al-Pierre by a circle of about 100 friends, known as the Century Social club. Luncheon was served by a caterer. The committee in charge of arrangements was composed of Alderman P. J. Laramee, chairman, Aime J. Martineau, Edward Rocheville, Alfred Lambert, Albert J. Piche and Alexis Caisse.

Members of the police department have made a second choice of the Al-Pierre Tombari as the place to stage their dace, the first social attempt by the department. Officer Arthur M. Hurley, chairman of the committee announced the change Wednesday.

A postponement was voted until next week in the election of a captain for the Windham High school football eleven of 1926, which was scheduled for Wednesday, Albert Lariviere, a sophomore and crack fullback is recognized as the logical possibility. He has played with the team two seasons. He is one of the hardest line plungers ever seen in action on a Windham squad.

Eugene J. Cotter of this city probably prevented the destruction of the wooden span over the Central Vermont railway tracks on the Coventry road, near Perkins' Corner, Wednesday morning, when he discovered a slight blaze on the bridge. He notified employes of the state highway department who were working nearby and the fire was readily extinguished.

Henry P. Sypher, assistant overseer in the shoe thread department of the American Thread company has resigned his position to become a solicitor for an insurance company agency in this city.

A public Thanksgiving entertainment will be held Friday evening at the local Salvation Army citidel.

The Holland Silk company and the Quidnick - Windham Manufacturing company will remain closed for the remainder of the week, having shut down Wednesday evening. The American Thread company plant, the Rosie Velvet and other concerns will close for Thanksgiving day only.

Willimantic was host to the nearest thing to a snow storm evidenced thus far this season. A moist snow fell during the afternoon and for the second time this year stationary objects were covered with a thin white blanket.

John Bonkowski of Andover, who was fined in the Andover town court Monday morning for the theft of gasoline from the state highway department supply station in that place, has recovered the four cows which he conditionally turned over to Deputy Sheriff Frink when the latter advanced the sum of $125 to pay up the fine and costs. Bonkowski was to raise the money in 48 hours or suffer the loss of the cattle. He made good with the sheriff Tuesday night and returned home with the cows.

Frank Hepton of Rockville, connected with the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company, drove his Ford truck into the silent policeman at the head of Railroad street at 10.45 o'clock Wednesday morning as he drove out of that thoroughfare to go westerly on Main street. Hepton informed Officer Nicholas Orlando that he would settle for the damage and no action was taken.

Frank J. Gorman, of Providence, a leader of the United Textile Workers of America arrived in this city Wednesday to take temporary charge of the strike of the former employes of the American Thread company. Friday morning at 9 o'clock he will conduct a mass meeting, restricted for men only, at Central Labor Union hall.

The state highway department gasoline supply station on Perkins Curve, just west of the Andover underpass, is apparently considered quite a place to get gas free of charge. The fact that John Bonkowski was caught redhanded in the act of stealing gasoline from the station Sunday night and heavily assessed in court, did not deter a second party from breaking into the place again late Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning and making off with a quanity of the liquid.

William A. Buck, Miss Elizabeth Buck and John Buck are spending the holiday with relatives in Brooklyn, N. Y.

JEWETT CITY RED CROSS HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

(Special to he Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Nov. 25.—The annual meeting of Jewett City chapter of the American Red Cross was held in the chapter room on Tuesday evening. Miss M. A. Burdick the chairman, presided. Mrs. J. H. Tracy read the annual report. A year ago in November 35 caps and sweaters valued at $50 were sent to the U. S. veteran hospital at New Haven. The amount reported raised in last year's Roll Call was $394.90. The public health Nurse was invited to meet with the board and give her repots, which have been sent to headquarters, as the local chapter helps finance her work. Miss Catherine Barnett was appointed as a representative of the Travelers' Aid society. Twenty five Christmas bags were made to be sent to soldiers away from home. Mrs. F. I. Ray made the bags, and Mrs. Tracy invited organizations to help fill them. These bags and contents were on exhibition in Finn Bros. window. The organizations which contributed were Faith Chapter, O. E. S., Ladies society, Congregational church, Harmony club, Ladies' Aid society, Newent church, St. Anne society, Dorcas Circle and Whatsoever circle of The King's Daughters, Pachaug Girls' club, Ladies society of Baptist church, Ruthie Rebecca lodge, A. Cheney and Miss Bertha Lewis.

STRANGE LIGHTS IN SKY TWICE THIS WEEK

JEWETT CITY, Nov. 25.—It appears from slowly gleaned testimony that this section had a Leonid visitation late Saturday night, and during the early hours of Sunday morning. The Leonids, said to be periodical November meteors, eminate from the region occupied by the constellation of Leo. At least two persons in the borough, A. A. Young and Oliver Carter, were awakened shortly after midnight Sunday morning by a distinct sound resembling the close by exhaust from an airplane motor. Both arose to try and locate the origin of the sound. The night was dark and still. Off over Ashland mill a strange light appeared, with varying colors, alighted at short intervals by a peculiar glow. Soon the phenomenon disappeared and the heavens became normal.

Everett Thornton, returning to his home on Taylor hill, late Tuesday evening, was not a little astonished to note in the western sky, well above the horizon, what appeared to be an incandescent globe of light, of a dim purple hue, which as he watched it, paled and shone, then faded and disappeared.

If a Leonid visitation is not answerable for the phenomena, what then? It is thought probable here that when this story is known, that others may tell of seeing the celestial display.

WAS LADY LUCK WITH OR AGAINST THIS MAN?

JEWETT CITY, Nov. 25.—There is nothing out of the ordinary that a man should decide to give his relative, and possibly his friends, a grand Thanksgiving dinner.

With this commendable end in view a local man Tuesday, purchased a 16 pound turkey. It seems that some weeks ago, a fact which had temporarily slipped his mind, he had purchased three tickets for a quarter, on a great 30 pound turkey which was to be given away by a local restaurant.

The bird he bought, which set him back a dozen perfectly good smoleons, he carried proudly home, and was even then preparing to admire its fine proportions at his leisure. The telephone rang, a voice called up to say. "You have won the great turkey at the restaurant." The man swooned, talking to himself something about the irony of fate.

At 9 a. m., this (Thursday) morning, the postoffice will close for the balance of the day. Outgoing mails will be dispatched as usual.

Several of the new Connecticut buses passed through the town Wednesday, with officers, operators and crews. The matter of zone system is being adjusted for the fare collection schedule.

Mrs. James B. Palmer, of Lisbon, comes to the fore as a turkey raiser. As a reward for continual care and attention, she has this year brought 35 fine birds to the marketable stage, with the supply nowhere equal to the demand.

Mrs. James LaPointe, who was operated upon at St. Joseph's hospital in Willimantic, Tuesday, was reported Wednesday night, to be in a critical condition.

The returns from the Red Cross roll call will be received at the home of the chairman, Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, until all districts have been finished. Up to Wednesday night, the amount of money received was $538.85, many districts not having been finished, and some not reported although all are being thoroughly canvassed. All contributions to the local chapter are kept in the treasury. Half of the dollar membership go to headquarters for relief work.

Named to be added to Red Cross membership are: Bethel district, E. J. Gustafson, R. H. Young, Mrs. Herbert Richardson, Mrs. A. E. Let your emergencies teach you

EVERY business man has used toll telephone service to get quick action. To rush an order for goods, to trace a slow shipment, to investigate credit promptly, to clear up a costly business misunderstanding — whatever the type of emergency, he turns to the telephone almost instinctively.

The thing to remember is, that what toll telephone calls will accomplish in cases of great urgency, they will also do in matters of everyday occurrence.

Day in and day out, toll telephone service performs the usual, as well as the spectacular, errands of business for many firms here in Connecticut.

As a faithful servant, a business-getter, a lubricant in the wheels of industry, it more than pays its own way.

CANTERBURY

The teachers of Sterling, Voluntown, Lisbon, Canterbury and Griswold held their institute at the Riverside Grammar school of Jewett City, November 20. At that meeting in connection with the institute, an art exhibit of work done by the schools of the towns mentioned was held.

The meeting opened at 9.15 a. m. with Mr. Clement of Jewett City in charge. Following this Grade 1 gave a number of folk dances. This was followed by a demonstration of two part singing by members of the Eighth grade. This was in charge of Mrs. Johnson and was appreciated by all.

Miss Tuttle gave a talk on Methods in Reading. She also taught a lesson for the various grades to give us an idea of how she would proceed in her classroom. During the noon recess she gave those who had the chance to hear her some reference material and books which she had used. All were very much pleased with her lecture and sincerely hoped to be able to hear her again.

As one of the main objectives in the state, in teaching this year, is Health Work, it was fitting that we discuss this matter. We are very fortunate in having Dr. A. G. Ireland, state health and physical director, to talk to us. His talk was very helpful to all who heard him. He had much to say concerning Relief Periods and to make his talk result in action had the teachers stand and then stretch so as to wake them up so to speak.

Mr. Boyd, supervisor of the four towns, then spoke on some matters of imporance. We were then dismissed for noon recess coming back to our meeting at 1.30 p. m.

The afternoon session was opened by Mr. Boyd at which time he took the opportunity to make a few announcements.

Along with our work in physical education we thought it appropriate to have another speaker, Robert C. Rice, physical director of New London. He gave us a talk on Objects and Obstacles of Phy Education.

Our next speaker was Miss Warner, school nurse. She gave us a short talk on School Health Work and some of the things we hope to accomplish this year along that line.

The last speaker of the afternoon was Frederick B. Noble, principal of the Willimantic Normal school. His topic for discussion was Arithmetic in the Upper Grades. All were much pleased with this address as we had many things of value given us in his talk. We have been very fortunate in having Mr. Noble address us twice this year at our teachers' meetings and hope we may hear him again.

This closed the meeting and all felt that it was a day well spent.

Livestock Exports

Inspections of livestock exported through American ports to various foreign countries during the year ended June 30, 1925, totaled 50,253 head according to a current report of the federal bureau of animal industry. The inspections were of veterinary character, involving tests suited for the different classes of animals, and also included supervision over the fittings of vessels to insure humane handling and safe transport. Cattle and sheep predominated in the shipments.

DANIELSON

WARDEN EXPLAINS HIS TALK BEFORE GIRLS' CLUB

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 25—There will be no woman's auxiliary to the Service battery. The bantering notice suggesting this in this column Wednesday morning, following a talk made by Warden Walter Anderson before the Girls' club and their guests at the Attawaugan hotel Monday exening, brought a statement from the warden Wednesday afternoon. In addition he made clear that what he said about a policewoman during the course of his talk was not intended to be taken as meaning an official who would do regular police duty, but act more as a monitor for girls at public dances or other such gatherings.

In his statement the warden says: "My remarks at the Girls' club banquet were practically as follows, as nearly as I can recall them without having any notes on the same. I urged upon them the real need of a sort of community center for the boys and girls from ten years, or thereabouts, up to an age where they could take up other activities—a place to play games, cards, for dancing and other such diversions, and have real enjoyment under the watchful eye and with the help of some competent person from the club.

"I was very glad of the opportunity, and I did the very best I possibly could to speak in the very highest praise of our borough and state officers, who by their good and conscientious work are keeping this the cleanest place I know of, yet I felt that one good policewoman could do more for our boys and girls than fifty policemen, because she could go where no man could go, she would understand the boys and girls better—would have that interest in them that only a woman could have."

"She would, therefore, be more of a monitor, adviser and friend, especially of our young girls at such places as public dances, than an officer of the law, for it is better to prevent than to punish or cure."

The Bulletin gladly makes the warden's idea about a policewoman clear to the local public. It also stresses the fact that the warden makes a very good point when he declares that Danielson is the cleanest place he knows. Danielson is not the perfect Utopian community, but it is, first and last, as clean a little town as New England boasts and as good as there is to live in.

ASCEPTIC PRODUCTS CO. WILL SOON CHANGE HANDS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Nov. 25—Negotiations which were said Wednesday afternoon to be incomplete, will when consummated, result in the Asceptic Products company plant at East Killingly passing into the hands of a new concern, the Acme Cotton Products company. It is understood the new concern will continue to operate the mill and manufacture the same lines as are at present produced there. The Asceptic Products company has manufactured great quantities of products for the American Druggists' syndicate.

OFFICIALS PLAN OUT SCHEDULE FOR BUSSES

DANIELSON, Nov. 25—Another trip was made Wednesday by officials of the Connecticut company and in one of the new busses over the Norwich-North Grosvenordale route. A careful survey is being made by the officials in figuring out running time and other details of the new service, effective next Tuesday morning.

The Bulletin's announcement Wednesday morning that trolley service will cease next Monday night came as something of a shock, though it has been known for weeks tha tthe trolleys were going. After all, there is a great deal of sentiment over the passing of the trolleys. But even those who express their regrets realize that the cars have not been operated at a profit for a long, long time.

Motormen who have been and are still operating trolley cars over the local line are picking their bus runs. These men have first call for the bus positions. There has been a near deluge of applications for these positions and they are now on file with the company.

The new busses that the Connecticut company is to use in this territory are good looking, well appointed and comfortable as to riding qualities. They were watched with interest here on Wednesday, though the general public has not as yet had an opportunity to inspect them in detail.

The new bus service puts Attawaugan in that village, which is located about a mile east of the trolley ing regular service. This will be pegan on a transportation line furnishline. For a time a few years ago, during a winter when the trolleys did not operate and busses were used in their place between Danielson and Putnam. Attawaugan did have a regular transportation service. It lost that with the public utilities commission decision that trolleys were to have the exclusive right to operate on the Putnam-Danielson line. Now go the trolleys and back come the busses.

NELSON A. JORDAN DIES AT PROVIDENCE HOSPITAL

DANIELSON, Nov. 25—Nelson A. Jordan, of Elmeville, for many years one of the best known business men of the borough died at 3 o'clock Wednesday morning at St. Joseph's hospital in Providence. His death was a very great shock to the people of Danielson, few of whom realized that he was ill.

A fortnight ago Mr. Jordan was took by a physician that his condition was critical and suggested that he enter a hospital for treatment. Mr. Jordan accepted this advice a few days ago. Tuesday afternoon his condition became highly critical and his family was summoned to the hospital.

Mr. Jordan was engaged in business in Danielson and other parts of the town of Killingly for more than a score of years, retiring in September of last year after he had sold the stock of his store in the town hall building to D. Blumenthal. His first business venture was a small one and was made at East Killingly. Prospering, he removed to a better location at Dayville Four Corners and eventually came to Danielson, leasing a store in the town hall building.

His business here was gradually expanded until his lines included a great variety of hardware, sporting goods, farm implements, automobile accessories, bicycles and numerous other lines. He was well liked, honorable in all his dealings and was rewarded with satisfying business returns.

Before retiring a little more than a year ago Mr. Jordan purchased a small farm place at Elmville. He had done a great deal to improve it, building buildings for an extensive chicken business and setting out fruit trees and plants. He had been so constantly at business for so long a time that the little farm place held forth the promise of recreation for him, yet with something well worth while to do. His host of friends, surprised at his unexpected death, regret that he could not have lived the years he had looked forward to in happy contentment with his family and in semi-retirement from active business. He had been in business here 34 years.

Mr. Jordan was born in East Killingly July 28, 1870, a son of Erwin A. and Anna Rouse Jordan. He had lived all of his life in this town, a worthy reprected citizen. Mr. Jordan is survived by his wife, a daughter, Miss Alice, a brother, Frederick, of Providence, and a sister, Mrs. Linden Gordon, of East Killinkly.

Service wires running from a pole at the corner of Franklin and Furnace streets to the John Tracy home ripped some boarding off the house when an automobile struck the pole during Tuesday night and caused it to sag. During Wednesday an effort was being made to ascertain who owns the car that figured in the affair.

People who own cottages at Alexander's lake will miss them next season. The trolley line bordered the eastern shore of the lake and was a great convenience to the cottagers and many others who liked to visit Wildwood park. But it is not unlikely that there will be a bus service over there next summer.

The bird hunting season of 1925 was not such a highly successful one hereabouts. A considerable number of cock pheasants were brought in, but partridges were not too plentiful nor were woodcock. Quail could not be taken this fall, as there is a continuing closed season upon them.

Killingly High school's football team will meet the Putnam High school team at Putnam this (Thanksgiving) morning.

For the holiday, Attorney and Mrs. A. G. Bill have as guests, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Roberts and daughter and Mrs. V. R. Burgess, all of Dover, N. H., where Mr. Roberts is clerk of the courts.

Mrs. George Stone, of Academy street has as holiday guests, her son, Donald, of Providence, Mrs. Ida Newell and son, Louis, of Salem, Mass., and Mrs Harold Stone, of Brooklyn.

James Monohan, Miss Alice Monohan, Mr. and Mrs. John Doyle and Thomas Monohan were at Providence, Wednesday, to attend the funeral of Archie E. Daniels, a New Haven road brakeman, who was killed by the cars during the early hours of Monday morning while making up a train in the Providence yards.

Mrs. Mary Main and Charles Main are spending Thanksgiving in Providence with relatives.

Scattered snowflakes drifting down Wednesday afternoon seemed to hold promise of a white Thanksgiving day.

George Stone, of Broad street, is continuing the Red Cross roll call canvass and up to Wednesday, with only half the borough covered, had about $250 in membership fees.

In observance of Thanksgiving and in gratitude for the blessings of the past year, there will be a mass at St. James' church this morning.

A dance that began at the state armory at 12:30 this (Thanksgiving) morning and continued until 4:30 a. m., attracted attendance from all the surrounding territory.

Postcards have come to his friends here, from Harry Warren, who motored to Florida, to remain for the winter season. His destination is Miami, but he has been visiting other cities in the bonanza state.

Mrs. James Monohan of the Riverview section, was reported ill at her home on Wednesday.

Attorney Louis A. Woisard is now engaged with his duties as referee in bankruptcy for Windham county

PUTNAM

STATE TRADE SCHOOL TAXED TO CAPACITY

PUTNAM, Nov. 25.—(AP)—he capacity of the State Trade school is taxed to its utmost. There has been a steady growth in the increase of students from less than 300 three years ago to more than 400 now. The authorities are of the opinion that more space will be needed if they are to take care of any more pupils who want vocational training.

In going through the various departments of the school the interested observer is impressed with the attitude of sincerity, thoroughness and care with which the student apprentice applies himself to the numerous items of instruction which go into the completeness of his trade. As one becomes familiar with the policy of the school and the nature of its instructions the conviction grows that very many elements enter into this form of training which do not appear in the outlined course of study it is quite necessary in the training of the boy to inculcate along with the subject matter of the trade a nice respect for the value of equipment, materials and time, as it enters into his shop work and academic preparation. It is also essential that he be instructed in the desirable habits of industry such as being on time, dependability in performance of his duties, precision and accuracy in statement and work, and the courage to attack new problems as they arise, as well as a good spirit of co-operation in working with his fellow students and the right sort of respect for department organization and authority.

There is a decided tendency in this type of instruction towards the development of character which can not be too highly estimated or encouraged. This sort of training properly organized and presented can do much to give balance and dependability as well as specific training both of which make for desirable, self-respecting, citizenship.

Throughout the school in every department the policy of instruction is upon this principal of a definite work for a definite end. Bringing the student apprentice into contact with current problems met within his chosen calling and above all requiring a degree of responsibility in the performance of his task which makes for pride in accomplishment and the lasting satisfaction that comes from work well done. Every course has its related academic subjects exploited in a manner requiring practical application to specific problems in planning, designing and building. In this manner the student makes definite use of mathematic principle, technical information, and trade formula in achieving desired results.

The new boy in going to the trade school is started upon elementary items of instruction best suited to his particular capacity, and gradually advanced as skill and understanding increase. All instruction is individual and each student is advanced as fast as his ability permits, the slower boy receiving every attention to facilitate his progress. Upon completing 4,800 hours trade and academic subjects to satisfactory standards the student is graduated as a journeyman in his trade equipped to render useful service to himself and his community.

The Putnam school is one of a system of ten schools under direction of the state board of education and is free to any boy or girl over 14 years of age resident of Connecticut.

Instruction is in demand and departments are filled to capacity. Evening classes are conducted for those employed during the day and constitute an important part of the school's work. At the present time well over 200 students are enrolled in this phase of the school's activity.

BUS SERVICE WILL ACCOMODATE WORKMEN

PUTNAM, Nov. 25.—Beginning Tuesday, December 1, a fleet of motor buses will be operated by the Connecticut Co. between Norwich and North Grosvenordale, taking the place of the trolley cars. The last trolley car will pass through Putnam at 10:45 o'clock Monday night, and the last through car from here to Norwich will leave here at 7:43.

The present motor-men will be retained as chauffeurs to operate the new busses. The same time schedule as the trolleys ran on will be maintained, at least for the present—a bus an hour each way. On weekdays a bus will leave here at 5:43 south bound and one at 6:30 northbound. This is to accommodate mill operatives. For the present all buses, going south as well as north, will stop at the New Haven station on Union square and passengers can make use of the waiting room, a privilege that they could not avail themselves of before as the trolley cars had to pass on the switch on South Main street.

Another change will be that the route of the bus will be out Grove street to the eastern end of Grove street cemetery and then down Killingly avenue. The trolley tracks run out Grove as far as King street; down King and South Main street and under the Arch bridge. It may be that the charter will require the busses to follow this same route until such time as it can be modified. By continuing this rout, the road would also retain a considerable number of city patrons who could not make use of the busses if they went out Grove street to Killingly avenue.

This quick action followed on the heels of the decision of the federal courts returning the ownership of the trolley line to the New Haven. What effect it will have on the Acme line which operates a line of motor buses between Worcester and Putnam, and between Putnam and New London, passing through Norwich, is problematical. The latter company has been well patronized but there is not enough passenger traffic to pay two lines and the New Haven and the Acme company will be in direct competition.

The new busses are painted yellow, the same color, as the trolley cars, have seats for 30 passengers, are substantial looking and are comfortable to ride in. Two cars have been in operation today, filled with "motor-men." These trial cars have been going over the route so as to judge highway conditions, the time required between stations, where lost time can be made up, and other matters that will enter into this rather radical change in transportation methods.

After a short deliberation, the jury in the superior court Tuesday afternoon returned a verdict for the plaintiff for $724 in the suit of Max Udell & Sons of New York city against Charles Seder.

The former asked damages for $1,500 which they claimed they had suffered because Mr. Seder did not deliver all of the 75 pieces of worsted cloth bought from him in the fall of 1922. He shipped them 75 pieces, and part of this they claimed was not a good quality as the sample from which they bought. Mr. Seder in one of the letters introduced as evidence that the goods were shipped direct from the mill, that it was a responsible concern and that they would not stand for the reduction asked for because they could sell their product at a much higher rate than what Udell & Sons were paying. He said that if they were not satisfied he would not ship them any more.

During the correspondence the price of worsteds was steadily advancing. The plaintiff says that he lost $1,500 as the result, the jury said $724.20, with interest at six per cent from the time of the contract.

E. C. Rogers will leave Sunday for Florida to personally inspect the 1140 acres of land that he owns in the Okeechobee region in the southern part of the state.

He will make the trip by automobile in company with L. S. Lockwood of Providence who made his home in Putnam for two years while he was operating the Dye mill at East Putnam that was destroyed by fire four years ago. Halfway down they will be joined by J. H. Thompson of Terre Haute, Indiana, who spent six weeks of the fall in hunting big game in New Brunswick in company with Mr. Rogers. Mr. Thompson has spent the winters in Florida for several years.

Mr. Rogers bought his large tract five years ago virtually trading his farm west of the city for it. To judge by the number and persistence of the people who want to buy the Florida land, and the figures they offer he made a mighty good purchase.

But before he sells it, if he sells it, he is going to look over his property. It is well located and since he acquired it a railroad and a state highway have been built across the land, greatly enhancing its value.

WESTERLY

WESTERLY CHURCHES HOLD THANKSGIVING SERVICES

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 25—Thanksgiving day observance in Westerly began on Thanksgiving eve when a union service of the Westerly churches was held at 7:30 o'clock in the vestry of Christ Episcopal church, it being the annual service arranged by the Westerly Pastors' association. The service was in charge of Rev. G. Edgar Tobin, rector of the church. The address of the evening was made by Dr. E. Earl Kartahan of Boston, who has been in Westerly conducting services similar to those held recently in Providence, Norwich and New London, and who spoke on the Thanksgiving day theme. The devotionals were in charge of Rev. Lewis A. Walker, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church. The collection taken at this meeting went to the support of the work of the People's Mission in Pawcatuck.

At this Thanksgiving time the Peoples' Mission has been active in the distribution of food supplies to needy families and individuals in Westerly. On Tuesday evening the Mission workers, of which Mrs. Dagmar Smith is the superintendent, distributed more than 36 baskets of supplies. Endeavor has been made to care for all needy cases which have come to the attention of the Mission's many faithful workers and donators.

Today (Thursday) the Westerly post office observes holiday hours. The Westerly town hall, banks, and all but a very few retail places of business remain closed for business all day. Many of the manufacturing plants, such as the Bradford Dyeing association and the press works of the C. B Cottrell and Sons company closed on Wednesday night, not to open until the first of next week, as has been the custom for some time past. The public schools also close for a like period of time.

A general exodus of the sport-loving people to Stonington is expected this (Thursday) morning, when the Westerly High school football eleven, champs of the Rhode-Island-Eastern Connecticut Football league, are scheduled to play the Stonington High school team at Owen field. On Armistice day in Westerly the S. H. S. defeated the W. H. S. players by the score of 16 to 7.

The funeral of Michael James Bray, husband of the late Amelia Celia Bray of Westerly, who died at the Westerly hospital on Monday morning was held from the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, with a solemn high mass of requiem by Rev. Julius P. Cassagne, assistant pastor. Following the funeral services interment was made in St. Michael's (new) cemetery in Pawcatuck, the bearers being Allen Driscoll, John Nagel, Thomas Holliday, Ictor Stockwell, Peter Shea and Thomas F. Lenihan.

Funeral services for Gurdon Whitely of Ashaway, R. I., a former well known professional baseball player, whose death occurred on Monday at a hospital in Providence, where he had been a patient for a number of years, was held at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from the Gavitt Home, 46 Granite street, Westerly, Rev. Alva L. Davis, pastor of the First Hopkinton Seventh-day Baptist church of Ashaway officiated. The bearers were brothers of the deceased and interment was in Oak Grove cemetery, Ashaway.

Recorded in the office of the Westerly town clerk, it appears: Nov. 24, Thomas J. Bannon to William J. Bannon, a certain lot or parcel of land on the Potter Hill road, near Potter Hill, on the east side thereof and extending to the Pawcatuck river.

Westerly Saving Fund and Loan association to D. Alva Crandall of Hopkinton, a certain lot or parcel of land at Bradford, on the north side of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company tracks.

Seventh-day Baptist church of Westerly, by its treasurer, William H. Barfnes and Albert Langworthy, clerk, to the Seventh-day Baptist Church Missionary society, a certain lot or parcel of land with buildings and improvements near Dunn's Corners, on the north side of the Boston Post road.

Nov. 25. Heirs of Robert A. Sherman to Leonardo Capizzano et ux a certain lot or parcel of land on the east side of Tower street, Lot No. Plat of Building Sites, R. I. Granite Works.

The annual roll call of the Westerly chapter of the American Red Cross, or drive for new members lags in Westerly for only eighty-seven new members and contributions of $128.50 have been received during the past two days. Of these additions, 50 members and $67.10 were received on Monday, while Tuesday's results were 37 members and contributions of $61.50. To date, the memberships total 1664 and the contributions amount to $2,346.80.

The greater part of the town has now been canvassed by the team workers with the exception of the manufacturing plants and the outlying districts.

Unless contributions come in rapidly during the next few days, the drive this year will fall short of last year's results, when 2,328 members were signed up and the donations amounted to $3,171.20.

A new schedule of bus service between Westerly and Norwich became effective the first of the present week, the change being made so that travelers may make better connections with the Hartford-Colchester and Middletown busses at Norwich terminal.

St. Michael's Council, No. 2497, observed open house Tuesday evening in the K. of C. hall on Liberty street. The affair was largely attended. It was preceded by a street parade of St. Michael's Fife and Drum Corps, the members of which wore their new cadet uniforms for the first time in public.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Davis, and daughters, Ruth and Vaginia, left daughters, Ruth and Virginia, left Westerly Wednesday evening for New York city and will be the guests of relatives over Thanksgiving day.

Word received from Miss Edith Carr, formerly of Westerly, a trained nurse for the past two years in the Canal Zone at Panama, by her sister, Mrs. Farquhar Smith in Westerly, stated that on Wednesday she sailed from Panama for San Francisco, Cal., and would be the guest of relatives in California until after Christmas.

Charles E. Sherman of Westerly returned the first of the week to New York city from an extended visit in Bermuda.

Reginald Peck of Watch Hill left Westerly on Wednesday evening for New York city to pass Thanksgiving with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Peck. He returned to Westerly on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Bannon of Westerly are in New York city where they are the guests over Thanksgiving day of Mrs. Bannon's sisters.

Following a vacation, part of which time was passed in New York city, John DeFanti has returned to his duties in a Westerly store.

To care for the Thanksgiving travel on the New Haven road, morning and afternoon through expresses making the Westerly station stop have been run in two sections. The number of passengers from Westerly did not equal the usual Thanksgiving travel.

The second snow storm to visit Westerly this season began with a drizzly rain at about 3 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon.

Many of the retail stores of Westerly continued open on Wednesday evening. Thanksgiving eve, as has been the custom for some years past.

THANKSGIVING DAY

It is a long time since the day of thanksgiving was instituted by the Pilgrim Fathers back in 1621, and then it was arranged for the purpose of rejoicing together and giving thanks unto the Lord for the mercies which had been shown them. And it will be remembered, as history reveals, that they had not been having anything especially attractive in the way of good times. They had experienced unusual hardships and had many more of them to look forward to, but they were not unmindful of the spiritual help that had been extended them. It was not because it came in great measure but because it came at all.

If there was cause for thanksgiving back in those dark days how much greater reason is there under present conditions right here in this same New England where Thanksgiving day was instituted!

In his proclamation President Coolidge directs attention to the fact that "We have been brought with safety and honor through another year, and, through the generosity of nature, He has blessed us with resources whose potentiality in wealth is almost incalculable. We are at peace at home and abroad, the public health is good, we have been undisturbed by pestilence or great catastrophe, our harvests and our industries have been rich in productivity, our commerce spreads over the whole world, and labor has been well rewarded for its remunerative service." Truly there is reason why this day should be set apart as a day of general thanksgiving and prayer. We, as a nation, alone observe such a day, but when we stop to think of the faith of those early settlers and their recognition of the spiritual aid for what stands out in such great contrast to what can be enumerated in the way of blessings today, we must pause and wonder whether the thanksgiving of the present time is as expressive of the gratitude we should show as was that of the originators of the day over three centuries ago. And we are truly thankful as we should be?

DISCOURAGING CRIME

It cannot be expected that any one individual, any one police official, any one prosecutor or judge, or any one parole board is going to be responsible for the checking of the increase in crime. That there has been an increase under present methods of dealing with it set forth a condition which cannot be ignored and neither can it be overlooked by the many individuals who have a part in endeavoring to check it.

In connection with the criticism which has been directed against parole and pardon boards it is to be noted that the parole board in New York state has apparently turned over a new leaf, and it is a move which might well be looked into by similar boards in other states. In view of the fact that there has been such an increase in the crimes of violence, the New York board has set out to have it understood that those who carry a gun in connection with any crime that they commit, or undertake to commit, remove all prospects of leniency so far as the parole board is concerned. Rating such persons as potential murderers they will henceforth deny parole to such prisoners. Whether it will have any effect upon the gunmen and the large amount of gunplay will be disclosed in time.

In another case where pardon was sought from the Pennsylvania board by a man who had killed three persons while driving an auto under the influence of liquor, the petition has been denied. The sentence was for six to ten years and not half of the minimum term has as yet been served. The board didn't explain its decision, but even though there was no opposition to the petition it apparently recognized the fact that to have given a pardon under such conditions would have simply indicated to others what they could expect, and it is an interesting fact that another man, charged with a triple killing by auto, is even now waiting sentence until it could be seen how the pardon board was going to act. If the pardoning board is going to break down the efforts of the courts it is folly for the courts to try to do their duty.

Crime does not get encouragement when there is an insistence upon the enforcement of the law. Leniency has the tendency to cause it to thrive.

TEXAS HOUSECLEANING

Once more the country seems in the way to witness the airing of the political affairs of Texas. It was just a few years ago that Governor Ferguson, the husband, was impeached and now the stage is being set for the impeachment of Governor Ferguson, the wife.

Texas is, of course, getting only what it invited. There is no one to blame for the conditions that exist there and the situation leading up to the issuance of an ultimatum to the governor, but the people themselves. They were thoroughly acquainted with the conditions which prevailed when James Ferguson was governor, but after he had been removed from office there arose an effort to have him whitewashed. That is one of the interesting flops that is occasionally encountered in politics, for those who were hurt by the Ferguson regime, or at least enough of the voters of the state rallied to his support and elected his wife as governor. Her election was expected to accomplish just what it did, that is, the restoration of the rights which were taken from him upon impeachment and the placing of him in control of the governorship in fact if not in name. That outcome was freely predicted if the candidacy of Mrs. Ferguson was successful, and that is what really followed. And now as the result of his guidance from behind the throne the conditions in the highway department are said to be deplorable.

There of course remains the showdown. The legislature will make its investigation and ascertain the facts first hand. But the situation which threatens impeachment harks back to other days. Somehow it seems to be no different than the people of that state had reason to expect in view of what had happened, what was reasonable to anticipate and what was predicted. The outlook is that Texas must do its housecleaning over again.

WATERWAYS

In the message which he sent to the Deeper Waterways association in session in Florida, President Coolidge directed attention to the attitude taken by the government in the furtherance of projects that coordinate railway, highway and waterway in the public service. In this connection he referred to the fact that next year there will be opened a twelve foot channel connecting Chesapeake bay with the Delaware in which there will be no locks, a nine foot channel in the Ohio river will be afforded through the building of dams and locks and in the Mississippi river the value of water routes has been demonstrated by experimental barge lines. This points to the greater utilization of the great river through increased dredging operations.

It would have been decidedly pleasing in this vicinity if it had been possible for the president to have included in the list of waterway developments the fact that the Thames river was going to be made fit for deeper draught vessels and its channel straightened during the coming year. This is a matter which has been urged for some time, but despite what seems to be convincing reasons for the deepening and widening of the channel between this city and Allyn's Point no discernible progress has been made.

Norwich has attached much importance to its water transportation in the past and it harbors the belief that it ought not to be deprived of it in the future through the effects of a narrow and steadily filling channel which fails to accommodate safely the prevailing type of vessels of the present time.

TONG TROUBLES

Chinese tongs have been creating much attention this year as their feuds have broken out in a number of cities to be followed by shootings and deaths. It has been the custom for tong members to avenge those in its membership who have been murdered by others. They seem to think that under such circumstances duty devolves upon them to take the law into their own hands and exact an eye for an eye.

Because of this it is significant that a convention of the Hip Sing tong in Cleveland has forbidden all members to participate in the Chin family troubles growing out of a Boston killing last spring. The matter came before the tong on an appeal from the family for an indemnity of $10,000 under the claim that the tong was responsible for the death.

Whether that is going to result in a new outbreak in a determination to seek vengeance, or whether it is going to have the effect of having such matters dealt with by the law of the land remains to be seen.

It is to be realized of course that as the result of the tong murders there has been adopted a policy in this country of deporting many Chinese. It is next to impossible to find the murderer, much less to get the evidence to convict him, under such circumstances but when the Chinese tong members realize that they are obliterated like others to respect the laws of the country, and if they do not they must go back to China or the country from which they came, they may be disposed to insist upon greater respect from their fellow countrymen for the laws of the country in which they have selected to live.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Do you appreciate the fact that it is one month to Christmas?

Thanksgiving day. Live up to its purposes but don't overdo the feasting.

It is well that there should be at least once each year when we should give a wee bit of thought to our blessings.

The sons of those boys who used to find much delight in flying kites are probably spending their time in roadsters and sedans.

If the coal strike can be continued until congress is in session there will be several there who can be interested in trying to start something.

There's to be an extension of railroad lines in Florida. There is an unmistakable sign of prosperity and increased business in that state.

There was a time when the coal consumers were begging the miners and operators to get together at most any price, but it is not so anymore.

That $5,000,000 which Italy paid on signing wasn't a tip because of the liberal terms. It simply means that much of the debt on which interest will no longer have to be paid.

SUMMER TRAVELS

Pitied

Mrs. Barney Weld, she who had been Donna Wastlake, was coming back for a brief visit, so her letter said, and the women who had been her friends in the old days before her marriage were curious rather than glad to see her.

"Poor thing," Mrs. Sutton said to Julia Shaw. "It will be like getting to heaven for her to be back here in Colchester after all those terrible years. You know she ought never to have married that man in the first place, and she probably knows it now to her sorrow. I've always pitied the poor thing, and now that she is coming I am going to do all I can to make up to her for those awful years she has spent on that God-forsaken ranch."

"We will do all we can," Julia answered. "I shall make several parties for her. Probably she won't have anything decent to wear, but we mustn't think of that. I presume her husband hasn't prospered. Even if he has, property doesn't mean anything out there."

Mrs. Sutton sighed sympathetically. She was Donna's cousin and had heard from Donna more often than anybody else during the years of her exile, and that was seldom enough, to say nothing of the fact that Donna always wrote with extreme reserve. No pictures of her life had come back to Colchester, no exposition of her affairs. And because her letters had told nothing of all her friends wished to hear they concluded that pride and suffering made her reticent.

Now, however, the truth of those twenty hideous years must out. Her appearance and conduct would tell the whole story, if she could not be got to speak. But she would speak. The barrier of silence must break down in the presence of her old friends.

Donna was to arrive by the 9 o'clock train. It began to rain early and by the time Hobart Sutton pulled out the big sedan to go to the station, the streets looked as if streams had flowed through them. Dora, at home, looked into the fire and waited for her guest. In her brown crepe with her hair carefully touched up and marcelled, she was a better looking woman than she had been 20 years before and she felt that Donna must admit it.

When the sedan returned she stood on the threshold to welcome the woman who came quickly in out of the rain.

"Well, I'm glad to get here!" Donna said, and she kissed Dora again. "You look fine, dear."

Under the living room lights Dora had to admit grudgingly that fine though she looked, Donna Weld looked still finer. Donna was a small woman, pleasantly plump, with brilliant gray eyes and hair that required no touching up. Her skin was as fresh as a girls, her mouth showed no hint of gold bridgework, and she laughed spontaneously. She was well-dressed, too, although in plain and simple style.

"No, I'm not a bit hungry," she said, I dined on the train. But it does seem good to get here. I believe I hate traveling by rail excessively.

Dora learned nothing that night nor next day. Donna didn't seem awed by her surroundings; she took everything calmly.

"But she must be made to speak," Dora persuaded herself.

Julia Shaw gave a dinner-party that evening and Dora, who had been somewhat troubled by what Donna was to wear, was still more troubled when her guest appeared in a charming dinner frock of gray lace with shoes and stockings to match. Not a woman there, she felt, would outdo Donna Weld.

She was quite composed at table, handling the intricate service deftly and responding with instant repartee. She had read — how she had read! Even Helen Day, who prided herself on keeping up on everything paled before Donna's superior knowledge.

Afterward in the Shaw living room while the men smoked in Albert Shaw's den, they tried to draw her out, these women who, though puzzled and disappointed by her appearance and behavior, still felt that she had something to tell.

And she told it. It all came out through a picture Julia passed 'round of her married daughter on horseback.

"Of course you ride," Julia said. "There isn't any other mode of locomotion out there." She laughed slightly.

"We have three cars," Donna said quietly. "Roads are getting pretty good now, and anyway, if you've got power enough in your engine you'll go along nicely. But I like my horse best, especially Dusky Star. I hope the boys will look after him well while I'm gone."

As the women grew silent with wonderment she went on gazing into the fire as if she saw pictures there.

"I suppose you girls have no idea what my home looks like. I'll try to describe it to you. The house is long and low, with a veranda across the two ends of it. My living room is three times the size of this room, with a great fireplace. From the windows I can look over miles of cultivated land —wheat lands, green in spring, yellow in summer. I wish you could see your bread growing. It is a beautiful sight." She smiled. "All the work is done by machinery nowadays so Barney doesn't have it very hard. Still, he keeps 15 men busy all the time. Of course that makes it necessary for me to have plenty of help in the house and I keep a good cook and two other women, which leaves me plenty of time to read and ride and run the player-piano and pick messages off the radio. My boy is a radio fan: he's entering Northwestern university next year. We don't have many neighbors, but such as we have are the real thing. And of course we get into a big city every now and then to hear lectures and music and buy necessary things. But I don't like cities. I'm always glad to get back to the peace and beauty of my wheat fields." Suddenly she laughed. "But there! I don't suppose I can give you the least idea of how we live out there. I'll tell you. You'll all have to come out next summer, and we'll have the biggest time yet. You'll love it just the way I do. I know you will. Promise me you'll come, right here and now, Julia, you were always the leader in the old days; you'll bring them, won't you?"

"Yes, I'll bring them," Julia said. "They shan't back out. We're really been awfully curious about the way you lived, you know, Donna. You never told anything in your letters —"

"I didn't want to brag," Donna said simply.—Detroit News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

The distinction of being the youngest president of any large railway system in the United States is claimed for Colonel L. H. Howard, who at the age of 41 has succeeded Samuel M. Felton, resigned, in the presidency of the Chicago Great Western railroad. The new president is a native of Iowa and a graduate of the United States Military academy at West Point. After his graduation he entered railway service as a civil engineer on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy road, later being promoted through the various grades to the position of division superintendent. During the World war he served in France as colonel of a regiment of railway engineers. After the war he returned to the Burlington road and remained in its service until 1924, when he was appointed general manager of the Chicago Union station.

From Small Beginnings

Robert Collyer, the Great Preacher

Imagine that you go into an English factory in the older days, when conditions were far from what they are today, and that you see there, among other children, a little boy of only 8 years. You see his pale face, and you think what a pity it is that he cannot be out in the fields at play, where children so naturally belong, in God's free air and beautiful sunshine. You think what a pity it is that the boy cannot have the opportunity to make himself into something other than a mere drudge for society. The picture you imagine is the picture you would have seen if you could have looked upon Robert Collyer at the age of 8.

Now imagine another picture. It is years later. In a great church in New York City, a dignified, white-haired man ascends the pulpit and with rare and charming eloquence presents the truths of righteousness. The people before him listen with the deepest respect; for they know the man's sincerity and earnestness, and they remember how he had fought against human slavery, how he had worked for the sick and wounded soldiers in the Civil War, and how he had preached with unusual eloquence in many pulpits. That preacher is the boy of the factory, changed by the years and by his own efforts into one of the most useful members of society.

Robert Collyer apparently had no chance in life. Long hours in the factory left him tired out. Six years after he had begun to work he was put with a blacksmith and taught how to shoe horses. Within the heart of Robert Collyer, boy, was a desire that lifted him out of the factories forever, and out of all rough work. That desire was the desire for learning. In spite of weariness, the boy studied every evening. He kept his ideals alive by attending church and taking part in religious exercises. When he became a little older he began to lead in worship, and thus, little by little, without really intending it, he developed into a preacher of great ability. At 27 he came to the United States, where he worked in a hammer factory and continued his preaching. At that time, just before the Civil War, talk of slavery was heard on all sides. Robert Collyer manfully declared human slavery a great evil, and so he was forbidden to preach. Good cannot be hidden, and he rose again greater than before. In the Civil War he gave great aid to the hospital service. After the war he gained full recognition as a great preacher and a great writer. His career is an example of what one may do, even under the greatest of handicaps.

Stories That Recall Others

A Born Economist

The Brown family was going to move and the family cat and her three kittens became a problem. Mrs. Brown wished to keep the mother cat, but felt the kittens could not be taken along. What was to be done?

Helen, the three year old daughter, heard the problem presented. "Why, mother," she said, "give one kitten to Buddie across the street, one to Ethel the next door and keep one ourselves. Then none of the kittens will be wasted."

Received the Hint

They had been roommates. Mary was a likable girl and her weaker roommate could not refuse her when she wished to "borrow" a tie, or a blouse or a stamp or two.

Last spring Mary asked her roommate if she didn't want to sell her patent leather pumps and her sport skirt and a few other things as she was about to go home for a stay. She did—provided Mary could pay for them now: Mary couldn't, but she would send a check in about two weeks. Couldn't Helen please mail the things to Mary's home address as her trunk was more than full now? She did.

If Mary promptly acknowledged the receipt of the things with thanks, but she did not say anything about paying for them.

In September Helen wrote: "Did you ever get the things I mailed you last spring?"

"Yes, I thought I acknowledged them long ago," Mary wrote.

In October Helen wrote: "Did you ever get the things I mailed you last June?" and Mary replied that she was quite sure that she acknowledged them long before this.

In November Helen wrote: "Did you get the things I mailed you?" and Mary's prompt reply was: "I got the things, also the hint. Enclosed find check."

In thanks at least we all can pay
For blessings we receive each day.
—Paddy the Beaver.

This is the day which has been appointed as Thanksgiving Day. I am quite sure that Paddy the Beaver would celebrate it by giving thanks if he knew anything about it. But he doesn't, in his house, snug and comfortable, he probably is asleep. Anyway, he is taking life very easy, eating, sleeping, taking a swim now and then under the ice for exercise, and worrying not at all. No, living there in his pond in the Green Forest, he doesn't know that this is man-made Thanksgiving Day.

But this doesn't matter. He has had his Thanksgiving Day. He had it in the summer. Yes, sir, he had it in the summer. It was the very day Peter Rabbit met him down the Laughing Brook some distance below his pond. And Peter was partly responsible for it. At least, he likes to think he was, and I guess he really was.

You see, when Peter remembered that it was a certain kind of tree that Paddy was looking for it popped into that funny little head of his that here was a chance for him to be of some use. He might help Paddy the Beaver. Why not? He could get around a great deal faster than Paddy could, so why shouldn't he have a look around for poplar trees? No sooner did the idea pop into his head than off he went, lippety-lippety-lip, as fast as his legs could take him. He didn't tell Paddy what he was going to do. He didn't even say good by.

"Humph!" muttered Paddy. "Humph! That long-eared bunch of curiosity hasn't any politeness. No, sir, there isn't any politeness in him. I wonder what is in that foolish mind of his now. Well, I can't stop to wonder. I want to find out about the trees we will need for next winter's food, and the only way to find out is to keep a-looking and a-looking. I haven't found enough in any one place yet."

So Paddy went on roaming about and getting farther and farther from the Laughing Brook. It made him nervous. Supposing Old Man Coyote or Yowler the Bob Cat should happen along and find him so far from water! Well, he would put up the best fight he could. That would be all he could do. He did feel most uncomfortable so far from the safety of water. A rustling in the bushes and the pat pat of hurrying feet made him pause and listen anxiously. Out from among some tall ferns burst Peter Rabbit quite out of breath.

"I've found them!" he cried.

"What have you found?" demanded Paddy rather crossly. You know, being startled is apt to make any one cross.

"The trees you are looking for!" cried Peter. "That is, I found a lot of poplar trees. Of course, you may not like them. They are quite a distance from water, but you won't find many that are near water down this way. I would like to show them to you, Paddy."

"All right," replied Paddy. "Go ahead; I'm willing to be shown."

So, Peter led the way and Paddy followed, doing his best to keep Peter in sight and finding it such hard work that he gave up at last. Peter discovered this and waited. At last they came to a little grove of poplar trees of all sizes. There was one great big one, a few middle-sized ones, and a lot of small ones. Paddy's eyes sparkled when he saw these. They were growing near together. Eagerly he went about looking them over and judging how many there were. They were at the foot of a little hill, some of them a little way up the slope. At last Paddy sighed with pure happiness.

"Peter," said he, "I am ever and ever

"I've found them!" he cried

so much obliged to you. This takes a great load from my mind. I was afraid that I might have to move away from this part of the Green Forest, but this settles it. You don't know, you can't know, how thankful I am. This is a regular Thanksgiving Day. Now I am going home to tell Mrs. Paddy and the children, and later we'll see what must be done to harvest this splendid supply of food. Thank you, Peter. Thank you a thousand times for your help."

"Don't mention it," replied Peter. (Copyright, 1925, by T. W. Burgess)

Fur Farming

Fur farming in the United States and in Alaska is steadily developing, says the biological survey of the United States department of agriculture, and certain phases of the industry are becoming a permanent addition to agricultural production. For the year 1924 there were approximately 2,000 fur farmers in the United States and Alaska, the majority of whom were raising silver and blue foxes. The total investment in the business is somewhere between $15,000,000 and $18,000,000.

CHILD TRAINING

JUDGMENT IN STUDY

Viola Woodville

Teachers with overcrowded rooms cannot always find out why children are failing in their work. Mothers must help. One mother of my acquaintance very greatly improved the quality of her children's school work without extra instruction. In the evening when they were gathered about the library table with their lessons, she quietly watched them work. She afterwards told me about it.

"My youngest boy," she said, "is a dreamer. He does well with English and geography because he uses his imagination and delights in dwelling on those subjects. But when it comes to arithmetic he dawdles over his sums and refuses to pin his attention on solving his problems.

"I introduced the time element into his work. Speed as well as accuracy is important in numbers and I wanted both for my son. I gave him an inexpensive watch and set him to doing his work in a stated time. Where similar sets of examples were given each night, he soon found that he was doing them in a shorter time and felt encouraged. He was looking at his work from a new view-point and interest was aroused.

"On the other hand, my eldest boy was so fond of arithmetic that he devoted more time than he could afford to it. His teacher often gave assignments beyond required work. Bob had been in the habit of leaving his other studies until all this work was completed. Consequently, very often, this other work was left undone. I persuaded him to do first the required work and leave the extra until after his other lessons were learned.

"My little girl grew sleepy over her studies. She is an active little thing, and wears herself out at work and play. I help her plan her study, encourage her to do only a part of the work in the evening and decide how long it will take to complete the rest. Then, when she has done the evening tasks, I send her off to bed, telling her that I will call her in time the next day. Before she was always a little sleepy-head in the morning, never willing to get up when first called. Now she makes no trouble at all.

"I wish you could see the difference in report cards," continued this happy mother, "but the best of it is the improvement lies deeper than school marks. I feel that the children are developing real judgment in planning their time."

CITIZEN OF NORWICH, ENGLAND, REACHES HANDS ACROSS SEA

The Chamber of Commerce is in receipt of a letter from a citizen of Norwich, England, with which he encloses a newspaper containing a historical sketch of the English city, believing it might be of interest to the people of the New England community of the same name.

Nov. 18, 1925

The Secretary,
Norwich Chamber of Commerce,
Norwich, Conn.

Dear Sir:

As a citizen of Norwich, England, married to an American, anxious to promote the friendship between the two greatest countries in the world, I submit a copy of the Norfolk News and Weekly Press of Oct. 31, 1925, in which is published a short history and description of Norwich, England, believing that it might be of interest to the citizens of Norwich, Connecticut.

If you are of the same opinion could you reprint this article in one of your leading newspapers? I should very much appreciate a copy of the paper should you do so.

Yours very truly,
BARRINGTON GARNHAM.

Describing Norwich, England

Norwich is at the present time a city of over 120,000 inhabitants. It is thus one of the larger cities of England, but within a radius of 100 miles there is no other place approaching it in size. Situated as it is in the purely agricultural county of Norfolk, in that eastern portion of middle England that faces Holland across the North Sea, Norwich seems aloof from the rest of the active and storied centres of England. Travelers who reach it for the first time across the Fen country or through the agricultural plains of Suffolk and Norfolk, are astonished to find a large and beautiful city, wearing the coveted marks and insignia of a long and honorable history, a glorious cathedral dating from 1096, built by Herbert de Losinga as a penance for an act of simony; a 15th century Norman castle dominating the very heart of the city, some 30 ancient churches in the demure dignity of worked-flint (one at least, St. Peter Mancroft, of almost cathedral majesty), old-time mansions of merchant princes, ancient gateways, picturesque bridges, thatched and timbered houses of Tudor times, Georgia ceilings, panellings and mouldings, at every turn something to delight the antiquary, the architect, or just the saunterer who takes beauty as it comes, the beauty that lingers because it must and was made so. All this on the scene of a bustling industrial town. Twin cities, it is difficult to say where one begins and the other ends. The traveller who comes to Norwich for business, and there is plenty of business there (and we want more) is astonished at its antiquities. The traveller who visits Norwich for its antiquities is surprised to find no sleepy hollow, no grass-grown streets, but as keen a business community as is to be found anywhere.

Thus isolated geographically from other large towns, Norwich has always shown a marked individuality in her social and industrial life. Her most attractive feature is her long historic continuity. Her career as an industrial town has been practically unbroken from the far-off days when her Anglo and Saxon burgesses minted money and caught fish. As the fishing passed, weaving was introduced from overseas, and was the main industry for centuries. When that began to flit north-westward to the coal fields the gap was filled by making boots and shoes, for which Norwich is now famous, while everybody knows that Norwich is renowned for its canaries and its mustard. Other old industries which still flourish today are silk fabrics, wrought iron work, and the making of organs. From the very earliest times, too, the city has been an important agricultural and stock market, and a social centre of distinction. Since Saxon times Norwich has been the capital of East Anglia. "The heart of East Anglia" it has been well called, in fact the first actual mention of its name occurs on coins minted here in the reign of the Saxon King Aethelstan in the 10th century. The earliest reference in script is in the Anglo-Saxon chronicle, which records that in 1003 Sweyen, the Danish marauder, came with his fleet to Northwich (then on an arm of the sea) and plundered and burnt the burgh. The Danes have left their mark, and a good mark too, on East Anglian blood and in its place names. But I am not going to weary you with much history, rather let me give you two other classic allusions to Norwich in English literature. During the reign of Charles I, Sir Thomas Browne, the Norwich doctor and author of "Religio Medici," that stately monument of latinised English and philosophic contemplation. Evelyn says, "He (Sir Thomas Brown) led me to see all the remarkable places of this ancient city, being one of the largest and certainly after London, one of the noblest of England, for its venerable cathedral, number of stately churches, cleanness of the streets, and buildings of flint, so exquisitely headed and squared, as I was much astonished; but he told me they had lost the art of squaring the flints in which they so much excelled and of which the churches, best houses, and walls, are built. The suburbs are large, the prospects sweet, with other amenities, not omitting the flower gardens in which all the inhabitants excel." Evelyn thus reminds us that Norwich has long been known as "The City of Gardens," as well as "The City of Churches." Of Norwich in 1685, Macaulay in his "History of England", writes thus in a well-known passage: "Next to the capital, but next to an immense distance, stood Bristol, then the first English seaport, and Norwich, then the first English manufacturing town. . . . Norwich was the capital of a large and fruitful province. It was the residence of a bishop and of a chapter. It was the chief seat of the chief manufacture of the realm. Some men distinguished by learning and science had recently dwelt there, and no place in the kingdom, except the capital and the universities, had more attractions for the curious. The library, the museum, the aviary and the botanical garden of Sir Thomas Browne, were thought by Fellows of the Royal Society well worthy of a long pilgrimage. Norwich had also a court in miniature. In the heart of the city stood an old palace of the Duke of Norfolk, said to be the largest town house in the kingdom out of London. When the Duke of Norfolk came to Norwich he was greeted like a king returning to his capital. The bells of Saint Peter Mancroft were rung, the guns of the castle were fired, and the mayor and aldermen waited on their illustrious fellow citizen. The population of Norwich at this time was nearly 30,000. Manchester had a population of less than 10,000 and Leeds less than 7,000. It has sent burgesses to parliament since 1272. In King Edward I. reign." From 1403 it has had mayors and sheriffs. Created lord mayors since 1911. But I must hurry on! Bygone history I must leave. What would interest you if you came to Norwich today? You would find that old Norwich is dove-tailed into the modern city. One after another of our most interesting old buildings has been divorced from their original uses and are fulfilling a better purpose than they ever did in the life of the city.

The Bridewell museum, for example, which was opened on Saturday by the Duke of York as an industrial museum to illustrate the evolution of the past and present industries of Norwich and Norfolk, is housed in the old city house of correction for rogues and vagabonds. Its exterior is considered to be the most remarkable specimen of squared-flint work in existence, and dates from 1402, when it was the home of the city's first mayor, William Appleyard.

Again, the house of Augustine Steward, one of the city's greatest mayors, built in 1549, and the adjoining house, Samson and Hercules house, built upon the undercroft of the Norwich town house of Sir John Falstaff, of Agincourt fame, these have been bought by the Y. W. C. A., and the Norfolk and Norwich Archaeological Trust, and were opened on Saturday by the Duke of York as a girls' club. A fitting place of happy rest, enlightenment, and sisterhood, for the hundreds of girls who find their work in Norwich. Again, the Strangers' hall, an old city merchant's mansion, and a perfectly delightful specimen of domestic architecture from Decorated to Jacobean, has been furnished and presented to the city by our well-known citizen, Mr. Bolingbroke. It is, I believe, the first and only folk museum of its kind in England.

Suckling house, connected with John Suckling the poet, and Nelson, whose mother was a Suckling, is another mansion possessing a Tudor banqueting hall. This has been presented to the city for public use by the Misses Colman, and was opened on Saturday by the Duke of York.

St. Andrew's hall, once the nave of the great church of Dominicans, and rescued from the dissolving maw of Henry VIII, by a far-seeing mayor for the ransom of £81 is our city hall. It is hung with magnificent painted portraits of former city and civic worthies. It is the scene of the Norwich Triennial Musical festivals, whose centenary we celebrated last year by a magnificent series of concerts in the beautiful old hall. The Blackfriars' hall adjoining, which was the old Dutch Reformed church, is also used in conjunction with St. Andrew's hall. In these halls is the centre of immense musical culture by men devoted to Norwich music—Bates, Williams, and Haydon Hare. Thus is Norwich blessed with public-spirited citizens and historic monuments they are proud to preserve, any and all of which are alone worth a visit to the city.

I mentioned Nelson just now, a Norfolk man. He went to school at Norwich Grammar school in the Cathedral Close, and a statue of him faces the school. In the council chamber—the early 15th century flint-faced Guildhall a beautiful panelled chamber arranged as a Tudor court of justice, on the walls hangs the handsome sword and sheath of a proud Spanish admiral killed at the battle of Cape St. Vincent. This sword was presented to the city by Lord Nelson, and his autograph letter hangs with it

The Guildhall contains the city regalia, among which are silver gilt and silver maces, a unique jewelled crystal mace, a cap of maintenance, costly plate, and a rose water tazzars and dishes. There are also Reeds Roll (1568), a beautifully embossed chased silver gilt work about 11 inches in height, and the Peterson cup (1574), by two Norwich goldsmiths. They are evidence that the work of the Norwich goldsmiths at that time could compete in quality with York and Exeter, and even London itself. The Guildhall council chamber is hung with ancient paintings of Norwich worthies, civic dignatories, recorders and sheriffs. Norwich is the jumping-off place for the famous waterways, the Norfolk Broads, and is within easy reach of the Norfolk coast, Cromer and Yarmouth, of Blickling hall, the home of Ann Boleyn, one of England's most beautiful Tudor mansions, of the ruined abbeys of Sandringham, the Norfolk home of his majesty the king, and Queen Alexandra. To many others a pilgrimage to Norwich will be in itself worth while in order to render homage at the quiet resting place of Nurse Cavell in "Life's Green" at the southeast angle of the cathedral, and to see Earlham hall, the birthplace of Elizabeth Fry, one of England's greatest women, the friend of the prisoners. Earlham hall and its beautiful grounds have just been acquired by the corporation for the use of the citizens.

Others again would come to see our Maddermarket theatre and its "Norwich Players." What it is (the only theatre in England with an Elizabethan apron stage, the kind of stage for which Shakespeare's players were set. The actors maintain strict anonymity.

Lovers of art will come for pictures of the Norwich School of Painters and foremost those of Crome, John Sell Cotman and Stark. Each a rich jewel in the city's crown, is well represented in the castle picture gallery, whilst the many-sided genuis of Cotman can only be studied in its full richness in the glorious nest of John Sells at Mr. Russell Colman's treasure house at Crown Point, Norwich.

For immediate visitors a really important loan collection of pictures is open at the castle for the next month. It is designed to show the place of the Norwich school in evolution of art from the 17th century. Pictures by Rubens, Hobbema, Turner, Cuyp, Gainsborough, Millet, Cezanne, Gaugain, and other giants have been allowed to leave the walls of inaccessible private and some public collections. They are to be seen for one month and no more, and must not be missed.

To Americans Norwich, when they get there, (and we earnestly desire to see more of them), makes a great appeal. Thirty-two of the original Mayflower pilgrims were Norfolk people. A weaver from the neighboring village of Hingham, who sailed for America in 1637 bore the name of Samuel Lincoln. In St. Andrew's church, Norwich, is a tablet to the memory of Abraham Lincoln, of a branch of the president's forbears. I like to tell of the negro who was seen to prostrate himself before it as before a holy shrine. Did it not bear the name of his liberator? The quiet picturesque Old Meeting house, built in 1692, commemorates Norwich as the first cradle of Puritanism. The city "At Home" to which I referred earlier this evening has been promoted by the Rotary club and is designed to stimulate local patriotism and to help the citizens, especially the rising generation, to realize the greatness of their heritage. We realize that such a city as this is not ours alone; it is the heritage of all of you.

I close with the apostrophe of another adopted son of Norwich, George Borrow, "Who can wonder that the children of that fine old city are proud of her and offer up prayers for her prosperity? I myself, who was not born within her walls, so do."

QUIETLY OBSERVED THEIR 50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

County Commissioner George E. Fellows and Mrs. Fellows quietly observed their golden wedding anniversary Tuesday at their home, No. 343 Franklin street, where they have resided for over 40 years of their half century of married life.

Their home has been in Norwich ever since their marriage on the evening of November 24, 1875, at the bride's home in the Long Society section of Preston, Mrs. Fellows being Lila Harvey, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harvey. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Kellogg, pastor of the East Main street Methodist church.

GEORGE E. FELLOWS

After their marriage they lived for four or five years on Sunnyside, but then removed to their Franklin street home. Mr. Fellows followed the occupation of a bricklayer and mason in his earlier days, being recognized as a leader in the craft locally, and in 1894 he received his first appointment as Norwich street commissioner and has had eight other different terms as street commissioner, an office in which he has shown marked ability and filled to the satisfaction of the citizens. He has been county commissioner for the past eight years. He is a member of St. James lodge, No. 23, F and A. M., and of Franklin chapter and Franklin council

The celebration of the anniversary Tuesday was a quiet family gathering attended by their three children, Miss Edith A. Fellows, Miss L. Louise Fellows, and George R. Fellows, who is assistant cashier of the Thames National bank.

COMMITTEE REPORTS ARE GIVEN TO ROTARIANS

With President J. Nelson Weymouth presiding and Grosvenor Ely acting as song leader the regular meeting of the Norwich Rotary club was held Wednesday noon at the Wauregan hotel. The business of the meeting was largely of a routine nature being the presentation of reports by the various chairmen of the standing committees.

Dec. 2, meeting to be in charge of Henry J. LaFontaine, who with the assistance of Charles Dyer, will give a musical program; Dec. 9, meeting to be in charge of Judge Nelson J. Ayling; Dec. 16, the business meeting of the committee, Charles Taylor, chairman, will be in charge of the meeting; Dec. 23, the meeting will be a Christmas meeting with Rev. Alexander H. Abbott as the principal speaker and a special program of Christmas carols and music being arranged; Dec. 30, the meeting will be devoted to business. Dr. Hugh B. Campbell will be the song leader for the month and the five-minute speakers will be L. M. Carpenter on Dec. 2, J. Lincoln Crawford on Dec. 9, William Burgy on Dec. 16 and William H. Oat on Dec. 30. There will be no five-minute speaker at the Christmas meeting.

Treasurer Clarence A. Spear reported that the recent concert had netted the Boys' Work Fund $184. A rising vote of thanks was given to Herbert C. Adams as chairman of the concert committee for his work. Mr. Adams responded briefly to the flattering applause.

Attention was called by President Weymouth to the honors recently bestowed upon Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, who was recently elected vice president of the National Tuberculosis association and who also had been made chairman of the New London county district for the Navy and Marine Memorial, which is to be erected in Washington for those of the Navy and Marines who have lost their lives at sea. Dr. Campbell spoke briefly on the memorial, saying that the New London county quota was between $800 to $900.

One feature of the luncheon was the delightful orphonic concert given by Adelard Morin of the Plaut-Cadden Co.

Fred C. Crowell was the five minute speaker of the day and outlined the civic program of the Chamber of Commerce saying that the Rotary club should cooperate with the chamber in putting this across.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after-effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

ACADEMY WILL CLASH WITH STRONG ALUMNI TEAM AT CAMPUS TODAY

This afternoon the Academy boys will play the Alumni in a game that has long been traditional at the N. F. A. Many of the boys on the Alumni team of this year were stars on the elevens of the local school in past years. This year's Alumni team is made up of men who have played football the greater part of the present season and last evening Capt. McGowan stated that his team was confident of beating Coach Whitney's charges. The local boys do not expect to find this season's Alumni as easy as those in the past have been and as a consequence they have been practicing long and hard this past week with hope that they will prove to the Alumni that all the Academy boys have not yet graduated

This year's Alumni game will not be the usual comedy game that has been seen on the local gridiron in the past few years. All of the men on this seasons team have played football this post season and are in excellent trim for the contest. Among the men who will play today will be seen: McNamara and Gilman, who made such an excellent showing on the Freshman team at Connecticut Agricultural college this season; Ringland, who was a member of the varsity squad at Tufts college; Steinman, who showed up well with New York University; and Haslam, Higgins, Hazberg, Lukoski, Carlin, McGowan and Chase who have been playing with two amateur teams in Norwich al ithe season. These men are in the pink of condition and are looking forward to today with high hopes of outclassing the local regulars.

Whitney had not decided on his starting lineup Wednesday evening but it is probable that the following team will start the game: Ends, McClurgage, Waters or Marks; tackles, Moseley, Kramer or Stefano; guards, Polsky, Fiddle, or Connell; center, Sullivan. Schwartz or Murphy; Norm Courbois at quarterback; Williams or Tombari at left half; C. Brewer at right half and "Radio Ed" Brewer at fullback.

The following is the team that will probably represent the Alumni: Ends, Chase, Carlin, or Ringland; tackles, McNamara, Lukoski or Sage; guards, Hazberg, Gilman or Mileski; Ray Reid or Covey at quarterback; center, Haslam. In the backfield will be seen Higgins, McGowan and Hinrichs.

The game is scheduled to start promptly at 2:15 p. m. and will be run off under competent officials, rain or shine.

BROWN-COLGATE GAME WILL BE THE FEATURE BATTLE IN NEW ENGLAND TODAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 25—(A. P.)—Gridiron cohorts of the east tonight were gathered near their holiday battle grounds for the last bold charge of the season tomorrow afternoon.

Unlike the Thanksgiving day games of so many previous compaigns, no championships awaited settlement on the basis of the resultant scores. But it is doubtful, nevertheless, if the program of any single day has brought together fore apparently more evenly matched than those which will take the field in such outstanding games as Cornell-Pennsylvania, West Virginia-Washington and Jefferson, Columbia-Syracuse and Pittsburgh-Penn state.

The passing of these teams from the chalk-line battle zone, together with Colgate and Brown among twenty-four other elevens, will leave only six teams to cover the eastern season retreat on Saturday. Army and Navy in their annual classic at the Polo Grounds will play the most important of the three curtain engagements, with Holy Cross-Boston college and Lehigh-Carnegie games as supporting attractions. Bucknell will also remain to stage the final inter-sectional game against Dayton at Dayton, O., on the same day.

Comforted by an easy victory over Canisius since its rout at Hanover before the Dartmouth assault, Cornell tomorrow will seek to retain the slender edge over Pennsylvania it has gained in this ancient series since Gil Dobie began to make his influence felt in 1921. The big Red team's triumph over the Quakers by 41-0 that year started Dobie's players on the road to three straight victories, a string which was broken a year ago by Pennsylvania, 20 to 6.

Until 1913, the series, which began in 1893, was almost an uninterrupted parade of Pennsylvania triumphs, except for a lone Cornell victory in 1901 and a scoreless tie in 1906. Philadelphia elevens won regularly, taking eighteen out of the twenty games played.

Both teams this year were toppled after promising starts. Pennsylvania's unexpected defeats at the hands of Illinois and Pittsburgh matched the Cornell stampede before Dartmouth's rush, 62-13. Cornell rules a slight favorite, a fact which may mean very little in this season of many upsets.

The Syracuse-Columbia struggle offers team records which defy forecasts. Columbia has been one of the most uncertain teams of the year, opening with an impressive start, then a stumbling in the Cornell and N. Y. U. games, only to come back with a surprising triumph over Army. Syracuse remained undefeated until the Colgate game, with its string of victories marred only by a tie with Ohio State, 13 to 3.

Columbia is the choice to win, but a close and hard-fought game is expected, with the New York eleven seeking to score its initial triumph over the orange team since they opened the series in 1901.

In spite of the fact that its lineup has been weakened by injuries, Brown has been hopeful that the Bruin team, fast but unbeaten Colgate, will feel the beneficent touch of lady luck so generously bestowed on the underdog this season. The game will mark the farewell appearance of Colgate's great halfback, Eddie Tryon, who will attempt to clinch his advantage as leading scorer of the east. Harlan Carr of Syracuse, now in third position in the standing, will try to overtake Tryon by a scoring spurt against Columbia.

West Virginia and Washington and Jefferson will fight it out at Morgantown, W. Va., to gain ranking among the topmost teams of the east. Both have chalked up good records. The mountaineers, with victories over Penn State, Davis-Elkins, Washington and Lee, and Boston college, lost only to Pittsburgh by eight points. Washington and Jefferson, the only team to defeat Lafayette, also suffered defeat at the hands of the Panthers, the margin being six points.

Penn State's strong defense will offer obstacles to the powerful Pittsburgh machine, but the latter team is expected to close with a victory.

Fordham, playing its final game against John Carroll at Cleveland, Ohio, and Bucknell opposing Detroit at Detroit, Mich., close with inter-sectional contests. So does Vermont, facing St. Louis in the mid-west.

Below are the results of games played last year by teams which will lock tomorrow:

Pennsylvania 20, Cornell 0.
Syracuse 9, Columbia 6.
Brown 20, Colgate 6.
Pittsburgh 24, Penn State 3.
West Virginia 40, Washington-Jefferson 7.

Hobart 42, Rochester 17.
Gettysburg 27, Franklin-Marshall 7.
Canisius 15, Bonaventure 0.
Dickinson 15, Delaware 0.
Johns Hopkins 0, Maryland 0.
Muhlenberg 41, Villanova 0.
Lebanon Valley 27, Susquehanna 0.

BRIDGEPORT ATHLETE DIES FROM HIS INJURIES

BRIDGEPORT, Nov. 25—James E. (Ching) Hammill, professional football star and widely known in athletic circles in the east, died at Bridgeport hospital at 7.40 a. m. today. Both Hamill's legs were amputated yesterday after he had been struck by an electric crane at the plant of the American Tube and Stamping company. He is survived by his parents and a bride of a year.

RED GRANGE PLAYS FIRST PROFESSIONAL GAME TODAY

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—(A. P.)—Harold "Red" Grange will plunge into the fortunes of professional football tomorrow playing with the Chicago Bears against the Cardinals with indications that the Chicago National league baseball park will be jammed with 45,000 or 50,000 fans.

If the crowd exceeds the 45,000 mark it will be the biggest that ever stormed the home of the Cubs. The situation reached such alarming proportions today that President Veeck of the Cubs asked that police establish a deadline around the park, admitting only those holding tickets. There will be a few hundred standing room seats sold at the park tomorrow morning, but after these are disposed of President Veeck figures that it will require the services of the police to keep the overflow in order.

Sixteen thousand standing room tickets were snatched up today as fast as ticket sellers could hand them out. More than 31,000 reserved seats have been sold, the scalpers reselling them for as much as $25, for choice seats.

The University of Illinois plans to drape Grange's famous "77" faded blue jersey inside a glass case in the Illini hall of fame, but Grange, hero as superattitudious ball player, is determined to go into professional action tomorrow with another number 77 on his back.

Grange is set for a battle. He has practiced with his team and most of the time has been devoted to developing interferences for him. With seven former Illinois football stars members of the team, Grange figures he will get the interference needed. They understand his style of running and his sensational stunts which thrill the spectators.

Everybody, it seems, wants to see Grange in action but will not, because the park is not large enough to hold them. The Wheaton ice man will cart from $20,000 to $30,000 tomorrow, depending upon the size of the crowd, as his contract provides for a liberal slice of the gate receipts.

He will get another chunk Sunday as he will appear in the Cubs park with the Bears meeting the Columbus, Ohio, Tigers.

The field, like a typical college gridiron, has been covered with a protection of hay and the only thing missing will be the cheer leaders on the sidelines.

SILVERS AND MANAGER ARE SUSPENDED IN CONN.

NEW LONDON, Nov. 25—(A. P.)—Marty Silvers, of New York, lightweight boxer, who met Joe Currie, of New Haven, in the ring in the star bout before the Nutmeg A. C., in New Haven last night, drew a suspension of thirty days tonight from State Athletic Commissioner Thomas E. Donahue for participation in a bout in New York last Friday night. Silvers' manager, Johnny Keyes, of New York, also was suspended for thirty days.

Silvers' violation consisted of breaking the rules of the Connecticut state commission concerning what is known as the "time clause." In that no boxer in Connecticut shall appear in a ring unless he adheres to the following rules:

"If a preliminary boxer he must adjust his dates so that six days shall intervene between engagements, seven days being allowed for semi-final boxers and eight days grace being permitted for participants in star bouts."

Commissioner Donahue learned that Silvers had boxed in New York before the Pioneer Athletic club last Friday night and upon receipt of this information he promptly suspended Silvers on all three clauses. On November 12, Silvers agreed to box Currie in New Haven on November 24.

"Evidently he seized the opportunity to box before the Pioneer A. C. at New York," Mr. Donahue said, "thus violating the Connecticut law with regard to boxing."

NAVY WINDS UP DRILL FOR ARMY WITH LIGHT WORK

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 25—Navy gridders completed their preparations for the annual clash with the Army football team on the polo grounds at New York Saturday with a brief work out on Farragut field today. A short signal and formation drill, with kicking practice, climaxed the work of the season.

A squad of 65 men consisting of 45 players with coaches and attendants will leave at 8.45 tomorrow morning for Philadelphia on a special train. After attending the Penn-Cornell game at Franklin field in the afternoon. The party will leave for New York, where the team will test the polo ground gridiron Friday afternoon.

PLAINFIELD FIVE OPENS SEASON WITH VICTORY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PLAINFIELD, Nov. 25—This evening in the Plainfield Community house the town team defeated the Kerr five of Fall River, 39 to 35, in the opening game of the season before the largest crowd that ever witnessed a game here. The game was the fastest and cleanest that was ever played on the local floor and the passwork of the local five had the Kerrs baffled throughout the game. Although the Kerr team had some good passwork there was always a Plainfield man on hand to catch the ball. At the end of the first half the score was 21 to 15 in favor of the home team.

The most exciting part of the game was in the last few minutes of the last half. Plainfield was leading by three points when Fall River caged another basket, making the score one point difference. Bissell scored a long shot and Norris caged a foul, as the game ended with Plainfield leading by three points. Normandin and Bissell played a wonderful game for Plainfield, Normandin scoring nine baskets. Higgins starred for the visitors. The lineups:

Plainfield

	G.	F.	Tl.
Dessinger, rf.	1	0	2
Normandin, lf.	9	0	18
Norris, c	2	3	7
Benson, rg	1	2	4

In the preliminary game which was very slow and uninteresting St. Mary's of Willimantic, defeated the Buddies by a score of 21 to 15. The game was played under amateur rules and it was the first time that the Buddies played under these rules.

NEBRASKA AND NOTRE DAME IN ANNUAL CLASH TODAY

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 25—(A. P.)—Nebraska and Notre Dame at Lincoln will hold the spot light in Thanksgiving day games on the Missouri Valley gridiron tomorrow. It will be the eleventh annual clash between the two schools.

Both Nebraska and Notre Dame have not been up to their usual form this year. Despite the fact that Nebraska has fared ill in the Missouri Valley conference this year, the cornhuskers are a strong aggregation and showed up well in non-conference contests, defeating Illinois and holding the University of Washington to a six to six tie.

In the past ten contests, Notre Dame has won five, Nebraska four and one was a tie.

Three conference contests will wind up the Missouri Valley play tomorrow. The second place Iowa State team will entertain the Kansas Aggies, who are in a tie for fifth with Nebraska. At Ames, Grinnell, plays the tail-end Washington university eleven at St. Louis and Oklahoma and the Oklahoma Aggies play at Norman.

The Drake Bull Dogs wind up their season at Dallas with Southern Methodist university.

The conference games tomorrow are not expected to have any effect on the standings. Washington and Oklahoma Aggies are in the cellar positions. The Iowa State-Kansas Aggie clash probably will furnish the most closely contested play in the conference games.

Missouri and Kansas finished their season Saturday, Missouri winning the valley championship when Iowa State defeated Drake.

PRINCETON BASKETBALL SCHEDULE IS ANNOUNCED

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 25—(A. P.)—A schedule of twenty games, ten of them league contests, was announced for the Princeton basketball quintet today by Charles W. Kennedy, chairman of the board of athletic control. Formal practice will begin after Thanksgiving. Al Wittmer, who last winter in his second season as coach at Princeton brought out a championship team will have to rebuild an entire team, as all five members of the 1924-1925 varsity quintet graduated.

The schedule: December 10, Lehigh at Princeton; December 19, Newark A. C., at Newark; December 28, Rochester at Rochester; January 1, Syracuse at Syracuse; January 4, Buffalo at Buffalo; January 6, open; January 9, Columbia at Princeton; January 13, Pennsylvania at Princeton; January 16, Yale at Princeton; January 20, Haverford at Princeton; January 23, Cornell at Ithaca; January 27, Penn Military college at Princeton; February 1, Dartmouth at Hanover; February 17, Catholic university at Washington; February 18, Maryland at College Park; February 20, Dartmouth at Princeton; February 22, Yale at New Haven; February 27, Cornell at Princeton; March 6, Dickinson at Princeton; March 10, Columbia at New York, and March 13, Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.

F. AND M FACULTY BAN GAME WITH MUHLENBERG

LANCASTER, Pa., Nov. 25—(A. P.)—The faculty of Franklin and Marshall college today failed to approve a football game with Muhlenberg college in 1926 because "of the manner in which Muhlenberg has gathered together and maintained a team," Wallace L. Robinson, graduate manager at Franklin and Marshall announced tonight. Other games of the schedule were approved.

President Henry H. Apple, who is chairman of a group of Pennsylvania college presidents working for the purification of college athletics, declared that the faculty had "registered its protest against Muhlenberg" and added that he had "a letter which is practically an affidavit of the manner in which athletics are conducted at Muhlenberg college."

MAJOR DALY RESIGNS AS BACKFIELD COACH OF HARVARD FOOTBALL TEAM

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 25—(A. P.)—Another figure has dropped from the Harvard football coaching picture. Recently Robert T. Fisher, head coach, announced that he had definitely decided to end his connection with Crimson football. Today, Major Charles D. Daly, backfield coach and former West Point mentor, announced that he "will not be available for any duties in connection with the 1926 coaching plans." Major Daly is connected with the military science department of the university and feels that his military duties will prevent his assisting with coaching.

With these two out of line as candidates for the 1926 assignment, discussion has brought eight others into consideration as possibilities for head coach next year. These include Reginald (Reggie) W. P. Brown, assistant coach at Brown university; Percy L. Wendell, coach at Lehigh and former Williams college coach; Charles A. Tierney, varsity line coach; Walter H. Trumbull, who has assisted off and on in recent years with Crimson coaching; Lothrop Withington, captain of the 1910 team; Paul Withington, his brother, who aided Percy Haughton at Columbia; Charles Crowley, present Columbia coach, and Ed Robinson, coach at Brown university.

At the same time, there is a strong movement afoot here to have Fisher reconsider his decision to retire. It is recalled that he was prevailed upon to return last year after he had decided to devote his time entirely to his business.

There is a strong undercurrent of opinion in Harvard football circles that Reggie Brown will be connected with Harvard coaching in some capacity next year and it is said he has agreed not to sign elsewhere for the coming season until Harvard's coaching plans have been made. Brown, two years a letter man, was fullback in 1896. For a number of years he coached the second team. He was first assistant to Head Coach William T. Reid in 1904 and 1905 and subsequently assisted Haughton at Harvard. He is known as a defense strategist and it was after he announced that Dartmouth's aerial attack could be checked this season that Brown held the heavy scoring Green team to 14 points.

Wendell captained the 1912 team as a halfback, and for three years guided Williams before going to Lehigh. Tierney, a right tackle in 1921, was for two years assistant freshman coach before he took over the line assignment this season. Lothrop Withington has aided in coaching here occasionaly. Crowley of Columbia played right end on Haughton's first eleven which defeated Yale, 4 to 0. Paul Withington was a 1909 lineman but is now said to be in Honolulu. Trumbull was acting captain when injuries kept Charlie Brickley out of the game.

TAFTVILLE AND JEWETT CITY CLASH IN OPENER TODAY

Everything is all set for the leading basketball attraction in this vicinity when the Taftville five clashes with the aggregation from Jewett City in the Parish hall, this afternoon.

The visitors, lead by Joe Faber, will endeavor to place Jewett City back on the basketball map after a belated absence from those environments for four years.

Trotting in the forward court will be "Mondi" Normandin, the flashy Emerald forward, Benjamin will be his running mate. Harry Mills will be at his old position at center, while Joe Faber and Provost will do the guarding. Blake and Barry will act as reserves.

The local five will be picked from the following men, "Slim" Harris, who performed in a creditable manner last season for Haskell Indians, Jim Murphy, Rabbit Gauthier, a youngster who shows considerable promise of becoming a star, the invincible Coleman brothers and Eddie and Buster Murphy.

The preliminary encounter is expected to furnish no little interest for the fans, as the Celtics and Burelle's All Stars are to meet in a battle of blood.

Mgr. Raymond, of the Celtics, declared that his team will defeat the All Stars so decisively that Mgr. Burelle will quit and forget he even managed a team.

SUB BASE AND COAST GUARD PLAY AT NEW LONDON TODAY

The game for the service championship of New London between the Sub Base and the Coast Guard, will be played Thanksgiving day morning at 10 o'clock at Morgan park. This will give all the fans who wish to witness the game a chance to reach the field without any trouble. At first the game was to have been played at the Submarine Base field but the managers of both teams deemed it best to stage the game at Morgan park. As this is a neutral field neither team will have any advantage over the other. Both clubs have played at Morgan Park this season.

ARMY HOLDS FINAL PRACTICE IN SNOW STORM

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 25—A driving snow storm prevailed as the Army football squad went through its practice today in preparation for the Navy game on Saturday. The field was slippery and but little offensive work was attempted. The men were given one more look at the Navy plays in a brief dummy scrimmage.

Tomorrow the Cadets will have their last home practice and will leave Friday morning for New York. They are due for a brief workout at the Polo grounds Friday afternoon.

EASTERN HOCKEY TEAMS WIN AT WELLESLEY

WELLESLEY, Mass., Nov. 25—(A. P.)—Fairchester, New York, and Philadelphia won their games today in the second day contests of the fifth annual inter-city tournament of the United States Field Hockey association. The Philadelphia women shut out Baltimore 12 to 0. New York defeated Boston, 4 to 4. Fairchester won from Chicago, 4 to 1. Philadelphia, twice champion, has not been defeated in two contests to date. New York, which has played one game also is undefeated.

WALKER BEATS FRIEDMAN IN NO-DECISION BOUT

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 25—(By the A. P.)—Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, retained his title tonight when he gained a newspaper decision over Sailor Friedman, Philadelphia challenger, in a 12-round no-decision contest in the Newark armory. According to newspaper critics at ringside, Walker had a margin in ten rounds while two went on the records as a draw.

Except for the 11th and 12th rounds, Walker was master of the situation. A desperate rally by the sailor in the closing rounds threatened to cut Walker's lead but the champion recovered from the storm which Friedman directed at him and earned an even break for the rounds.

The titleholder easily outboxed and outpunched his challenger throughout but he could not muster the blow which would lower the sailor to a horizontal position. Centering his attack at the body, Walker took the aggressive at the start and held it during all the fight, but Friedman weathered the storm to the finish and appeared to be in just as good condition as Walker at the closing bell.

Several times Walker's clubbing blows staggered the challenger and sent him reeling on his heels but he came back after a necessary clinch and appeared willing to mix it with the ambitious champion.

The sailor called upon all his powers of resistance to remain upright in the seventh round when Walker appeared at the peak of his form. He took everything which Mickey sent but he was too busy receiving to do much sending himself. Twice he was stung by blows which threatened to sweep him from his sturdy legs but he was game and he carried on despite the drubbing.

The champion's judgment of distance was good and he showed excellent skill in timing his blows but he never caught Friedman when he was set. The challenger boxed cleverly at all times and although he took a beating, except for a time in the seventh round, he was never in danger of being stopped.

The Preliminaries

Joe DeFilipo, of Newark, and Joe Horbelt, of Passaic, featherweights, fought a draw, in the opinion of newspapermen at the ringside in a six round no-decision preliminary, the opening match of the card.

George Courtney, of Oklahoma, did everything but score a knockout over Lew Perry, of Harrison, flooring his opponent in every one of the ten rounds but the Harrison boy gamely remained upright and the referee refused to interfere. The fighters are middleweights.

Jack Rappaport, of South Orange N. J., won a decision over Sergeant Sammy Baker, of Mitchell field, on a foul. The referee, Danny Savage, awarded the fight to Rappaport when Baker hit low soon after the start of the second round. The fight was scheduled for ten rounds. The men are welterweights.

SUSIE AND BOY FRIEND HAVE MADE UP

Dear Sports Editor:

Whadda ya know? Me and the Boy Friend have made up. He eats turkey with me Thanksgivin'. Ain't it grand. I wish you the same.

SUSIE.

Ed note: Thank goodness.

CORNELL AND PENN ARE READY FOR GAME TODAY

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 25—(A. P.)—In the face of a brisk snow storm and, apparently as gloomy as the weather, Coach Gilmour Dobie led the Cornell football squad into Philadelphia today for the annual Thanksgiving day gridiron battle with the University of Pennsylvania, thirty players were in the party.

Coach Dobie took the squad to Franklin field to look the stadium over, but there was no practice. The snow, which melted almost as fast as it fell, had made the gridiron soft and Dobie decided that rest would be of greater benefit to his warriors than practice under such conditions.

The Pennsylvania team, which has been putting on the finishing touches for the contest at Absecon, N. J., was sent through only a light signal drill today. The ocean air was cold and damp and Coach Young left his men take it easy.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Willard Tibbetts of Harvard, victor in the intercollegiate cross-country championship, and his teammate, "Soapy" Watters, also held down jobs as cheer leaders. They were on the sidelines during the Harvard-Yale game when Harvard's need of a "running backfield" was all too apparent.

The vogue of the "huddle" system of football signal-calling, creation of Coach Bob Zuppke of Illinois, now is nationwide. It has been used this season by such outstanding teams as the University of Washington, Pacific coast champions, Michigan, leading middle western eleven, and Princeton, "big three" titleholder.

Arthur Wood of Syracuse, by defeating Joseph Concannon of Brooklyn Tuesday night, won the New York state pocket billiard championship with seven games won and one lost.

President John Conway Toole has announced that the International league will meet in New York December 7, at the same time the majors are in session.

Red Grange has played to 738,555 football spectators in his three years at Illinois. And many times that number never have set eyes upon him.

Frank Garran, Fordham football coach, has placed himself on record as against development of star players by colleges just so they made trade in their football reputation for money.

Jimmy DeForest's "correspondence school" boxers won six of ten bouts with New York professionals Tuesday night and gained a draw in one.

Arthur DeChamplain, 114, of Wallingford, Conn., and Harry Traub, 113 3-4, of New York, fought to a draw.

Basketball rules for the season at hand were given approval by 200 coaches and officials at a dinner in New York Tuesday night.

Jimmy DeForest's "correspondence school" boxers won six of the four-round bouts with New York professionals the other night and one was declared a draw. There were three knockouts two of them technical, during the program.

SEVEN CASES OF SCARLET FEVER WERE REPORTED IN NEW LONDON WEDNESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 25—After a lull of many months in the existence of maladies of a contagious nature, the health authorities today are confronted with the task of curbing the outbreak of a scarlet fever epidemic, for during the day seven cases were reported to the health department. Of this number two are adults and one was removed to the Mitchell ward of the Lawrence-Memorial associated hospital. The others are students at three of the public schools.

Those afflicted are Frederick M Furlong, 37, a carpenter, 15 Willetts avenue, now receiving hospital treatment and Mrs. Grace Brown, 36 Howard street, who is confined at her home together with her three children, Richard, 10 1-2 years; John 8, years and William 7 years. The trio of children have been pursuing studies at Saltonstall school. Another is Miss Helen Eastland, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Eastland, 57 Norwood avenue and the seventh is John R. Latham, 14, son of Mrs. John R. Latham, 45 Summit avenue. The Latham youth is a student at Bulkeley High school.

The homes of the seven were fumigated today by Deputy Health Inspector John G. Arnold and the victims will continue to be treated for the contagion at their respective homes unless their condition becomes such as to require hospital treatment. This condition, it is believed by the health authorities, will not develop.

Following the reception of the report by Health Officer Pennell of the existence of the numerous cases of the disease, Dr. Pennell is warning parents to watch for a rash developing on the bodies of their children or the youngsters suffering illness of the stomach. If either condition developed, Dr. Pennell advised that the victims be examined at once by a physician.

EMPLOYES GIVEN FINE THANKSGIVING PRESENT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 25—The Paty-Schwartz company this afternoon presented to the seventeen persons in its employ an insurance policy for $1,000. The gift was made as a Thanksgiving present. The act is setting a new order of things for this city.

MITCHELL SECURES NUMBER OF BONDSMEN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 25—Floyd Mitchell, manager of a club for colored men on Atlantic street, is held for presentation in the police court next Tuesday to answer a complaint alleging that he attacked Benjamin Hankin, alias Hoffman, with a gun and sent two bullets after him as Hankin tried to get behind a partition. Mitchell was in court today having been held since Tuesday because he could not furnish a bond of $5,000. That same bond was required of him today when the case was adjourned on the motion of his attorneys. The claim of the state is that there was a poker game in progress at the Mitchell place during Monday night and that the players had not finished gambling at 7.30 o'clock Thursday morning. In a dispute over the amount of a "pot" a time came when Mitchell ordered Hankin to get out of the place. Hankin demurred and Mitchell resented it, so he proceeded to the rear of the room and going to a locker got out a revolver which he loaded and then came into the room prepared to enforce his order to Hankin. A bystander sized up the situation and pushed Hankin from the room. Then the spectator himself ran for cover and got to it. This act may have spared two lives. Mitchell made no statement in court today so his defense is not known, if, indeed he has any defense to make, that will disclose that his assault was not of a felonious nature. There are eight witnesses detained, some of them in jail because they could not supply bonds of $1000 each and two of them at liberty with bonds on which abundant security was furnished. Mitchell obtained a bond that was endorsed by Edward Connell, Alex Benois and Edee Reid. The latter gave a surety in real estate on Atlantic St., where the Mitchell place is located. The witnesses detained as material are Enique Blanco, George Westlet, James H. Suggs, Charles Nathan, William McKee, Nathaniel Mandis, William Franklin and Charles Stoakly. Whether they had participated in the gambling is not known, but they saw all that happened and they have told officers investigating the case every detail of what happened. They have sworn to the statements they made and their recital has been written out. The Mitchell place has been in existence many years. In fixing the bail bond there was a colloquy between the attorneys for the defendant and the prosecuting attorney, the latter insisting on $5,000 to hold Mitchell, who he declared, was fortunate in not having a charge of murder to meet, as was represented by the defendant that Mitchell had always borne a good character and that there was no doubt as to whether the accused man would be on hand to answer to any offense he had committed. Judge Prince informed the attorney that reputation amounted to nothing in this case. He said the accused is charged with attempt to kill and for that the bond is to be $5,000, even if Mitchell has resided here for 25 years.

Harold Lewis, residing in Groton, was found technically guilty of evading responsibility after an auto mishap on the Thames river bridge, but no fine was imposed as the court did not consider that Lewis was really an offender in the sense that he fled from the scene.

Albert Shanka must have impaired vision, or else he was trying to "kid" the police court today when he claimed he did not see a stretch of curbing 50 feet long that warns autoists not to park on the east side of Bank street in front of the custom house. He had to pay a fine of $5 nevertheless.

Wallejaria Wiszcorek, the mother of nine children, was charged with beating her 15 years old daughter. The girl said her mother went to Groton last Sunday and came back intoxicated and then beat her. Mrs. Wiszcorek denied this. She was under suspended judgment of a fine of $25, so the suspension was revoked and the woman was ordered to pay. This she would not do though she is understood to be the possessor of real estate in east New London. She said she would prefer to go to jail and her preference was recognized.

Mrs. Chester Phillips and infant daughter, 28 Linden street; James Molonson, 31 Cutler street; Mrs. Thomas Sinnot, Fort Wright, Fishers Island, N. Y., Miss Beverly Grinner, 16 Latham street, Groton; Mrs. Frank Hale, 283 Eastern Point road, Groton, and Thomas Walsh, 859 Boswell avenue, Norwich, were patients discharged at Lawrence hospital.

Niagara Engine company held its anniversary at the Mohican hotel this evening with an attendance of more than 125 members and guests, the latter including the members of the city council and representative citizens to whom the company feels itself obligated.

A lighted cigarette thrown from an apartment in the upper part of the Hull building, corner of Main and Masonic streets, this afternoon, caused an awning in front of the Book Shop, to ignite. A still alarm was sent to fire headquarters and Nameaug Engine company responded. The awning was lowered and the fire extinguished.

Ray S. Justus, seaman first class, stationed at the submarine base, who has been tried the past two days on a charge of theft before a court martial, was acquitted of the charge at the conclusion of the trial this afternoon. Justus was charged with stealing $77 from a fellow sailor, Howard Fern, 1110 Ocean avenue.

Mrs. Henry Gardiner and infant daughter, 138 Vauxhall street; John Sheehan, 75 Crystal avenue and Carl Fleischman, 1110 Ocean avenue, were patients dismissed at Home Memorial hospital today.

The funeral of Raymond Nelson, formerly of Uncasville, who was almost instantly killed last Sunday afternoon, when the automobile in which he was riding with four companions, overturned at Quaker Hill, took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of his mother-in-law, Mrs. John Clark, Uncasville, and was attended by a large number of relatives and friends. Services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Smith, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Montville. Interment was in Comstock cemetery, Montville.

The funeral of Miss Mary Donnally was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, a mass of requiem being conducted by Rev. Alexander Wollschlaeger. The bearers were Thomas F. Hamilton, William H. Morris, Dennis Devine, Jr., and John P McCarthy. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

P. LeRoy Harwood, administrator of the estate of Lyman B. Pendleton, has sold a building lot, corner of Broad and Learned streets, to Patrick F. Day, Sr.

Charles Louis Gordon has sold a house and lot on Willetts avenue, corner of Riverview avenue to Vincenzo DiMaggio.

O. C. Wolfe, C. E. Small and H. L. Prentis have sold a parcel of land on Williams street, north of Mohegan avenue to Raymond H. Stearns.

Margaret W. Mahan, administratrix of the estate of Bryan F. Mahan, has sold a building lot on Lincoln avenue to Hannah Daly.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles today suspended the licenses of J. Goodman, 113 Bank street; Richard Shea, 17 Viets street, and William Chappell, 29 Belden street.

The first of the Thanksgiving celebrators landed in a cell at the police station late this afternoon when a fellow staggering under a heavy "load" crashed through a large window in the building, 37 North Bank street, and but a few doors from the police station. The inebriate was taken into custody by Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolman Clyde Murphy.

The continued case of Ruby Parker, Flanders storekeeper, who was arrested a fortnight ago by State Police Officers Bernard Kenerson and Fred Caron, Groton barracks, charged with violation of the prohibition law, came up before Justice of the Peace Charles B. Watrous in Odd Fellows hall, Niantic, last night, and although the case was started shortly after 7 o'clock it was nearly midnight when it was concluded. Parker was found guilty on two of three counts. The accused was charged with actual sale, keeping with intent to sell and reputation, for Parker had been previously arrested for the same offense. Justice Watrous imposed a fine of $200 and costs and sentenced Parker to jail for 30 days on the first count and on the second count a fine of $200 and costs and a jail sentence of 15 days was imposed. On the third count a nolle was entered. Parker took an appeal to the next term of the criminal superior court and furnished a surety on his bond of $1500 for his appearance at that time.

Parker, who is a former merchant of New London, but who has been engaged in business at Flanders several years, sold Constable Stedman of East Lyme a bottle of whiskey and in payment for the liquor Stedman gave Parker a marked bill, furnished by the state police. After Stedman procured the liquor and delivered the purchase to Officers Kenerson and Caron, Parker was taken into custody and when searched the marked bill was found in his possession.

The fire department had two runs late this afternoon in response to alarms for blazes of little moment. Shortly after 3 o'clock a parked automobile in front of the premises, 393 Main street caught fire presumably because of crossed wires beneath the car. Northwest and Thomas Hose companies responded and a small quantity of chemicals sufficed to extinguish the fire. The second blaze occurred at 5.30 o'clock when an accumulation of inflammable material deposited on the city's dumping grounds off Riverview avenue became afire despite the fact that a drizzling rain had been falling three hours. Some excited person ran to Box 55, corner of Riverview avenue and Alger place and pulled in an alarm. The fire was quickly subdued with chemicals.

Montauk avenue, the most heavily traversed highway in the city by automobiles, is being given the attention it deserves from the street department. Today Highway Commissioner Courtland E. Darrow had a force of men and teams at work laying a composition of tar and gravel surface in such places where depressions have resulted from constant travel.

TODAY'S EVENTS

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

Fred Ireland the producer of so many famous Broadway hits among which are such successes as the brazen Widow, the Bon Ton Girl, Paris by Night will be the feature act at the Palace Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Mr. Ireland comes with his own selected review. Al Bayes and Harvey Speck as The London Johnnies offer a comedy talking and singing act. The Oxford Trio play basketball on wheels and offer a novelty that is not seen very often.

The Three Orettos are masters in the art of dancing. A study in dancology will please all who enjoy good dancing.

Johnnie Jiggerlegs is all that the name implies. He will surprise everybody.

Betty Bronson, the charming star of "Peter Pan" and Ricardo Cortez are featured in the principal roles of the Paramount picture, "Not So Long Ago" which will be shown at the Palace Theatre today. Betty is a romantic miss in crinoline skirts and black curls in this production, directed by Sidney Olcott, who made "Little Old New York". Cortez has the role of an 1850 Beau Brummel.

Laurence Wheat, heading the supporting cast, loves Betty, but his affection is not returned so he tells Betty's father about the secret love affair she is having with the son of the rich Ballards. Dad is very bitter. He has no faith in the idle rich because once upon a time he was fleeced of a lot of money. And he certainly needs a lot of it right now, in a few days, the horseless carriage he is working on will be taken away if he can't meet his debts.

Then comes a race that will draw laughs and gasps. Wheat in an old track suit, races the horseless carriage down Fifth avenue. Betty, having quarreled with Cortez and lost her job, has promised to marry Wheat if he wins the contest.

A great crowd is on hand. First a fair start. At the starting line the car does refuses to move. Then with a sputter and gasp it's off. Near the finish, it seems as though it's going to win—when the boiler explodes with a bang.

The money-lender throws him "I O U" away in disgust and Cortez rescues it from the gutter, sets fire to Betty's father and puts himself in right with the girl.

Breed Theater

When a woman chooses to be a wrecker of the lives of men, she can make a World war seem trivial.

Look at Helen of Troy; look at Cleopatra; think of the countless thrones that have been won and lost through the machinations of clever and unprincipled courtesans of royalty!

It is on such premise that the plot of Havoc is founded—that sensational play which has been picturized by William Fox under the direction of Rowland V. Lee and which will open here at the Breed theater Thursday, for three days.

While the background of the story is the western front in France, the unfoldment of the plot has more to do with the devastation wrought by one designing woman than with that done by shellfire and bayonet. The war serves to emphasize the havoc motif, and the picture contains sequences of trench fighting.

The war scenes are true to life—or true to death, whichever you choose. Perhaps it is because Rowland V. Lee, who directed, was an officer in the American army in France as well as because three hundred extra actors appearing as soldiers actually saw service overseas in either the British or American forces.

And no less true to life are the scenes showing the havoc in men's hearts that comes from the cruelty of one woman. Violet Deering, played by Margaret Livingston, originally is engaged to Capt. Roddy Rundon (Walter McGrail.) Tessie Dunton (Madge Bellamy.) Roddy's sister, is in love with Dick Chappel, played by George O'Brien.

But Violet Deering once had been fond of Dick and when the latter returns to London on furlough from France, Violet discards her fiance and becomes engaged to Dick. Of course, Dick realizes it may mean permanent estrangement between himself and Roddy Dunton, who is in his same command overseas, yet he consents to take Violet's letter and ring to Roddy when he goes back to his regiment.

Violet, realizing her perfidy, offers to marry Dick anyway, but he calls for the hospital orderly to take him away. Tessie comes to his side and gives him her hand. Together they walk away, to find happiness in their new-found sympathy and understanding.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

With the news that Douglas Fairbanks in his latest screen success, "Don Q, Son of Zorro," will be the feature attraction next Sunday at the Palace theatre, comes the added announcement that this famous star has, for the time being, stepped out of his role of the historic character—such as "The Thief of Bagdad," and will be seen in his new photoplay as the romantic adventurer: winning hearts and plaudits with his inimitable athletic prowess.

This new film, "Don Q, Son of Zorro," is by no means a screen version of the Cervantes classic, "Don Quixote," as some have thought, but has been adapted by Jack Cunningham from the novel, "Don Q's Love Story," by K. and Hesketh Prichard.

Don Q, the son of Zorro, is sent from California to Spain to complete his education. There he wins high favor at the Spanish court, only to be accused of murder. To escape disgrace he pretends suicide and becomes an outlaw. Of course, there is a most romantic love story, and Don Q's quest for the heart and hand of a beautiful senorita eventually meets with success though beset by many tribulations.

Never in all Fairbanks' career, it is said by critics everywhere, did he have a photoplay vehicle that gave him such splendid opportunities for athletic stunts—the type of film portrayal which brought him his earlier successes, and in "Don Q, Son of Zorro," there are feats of nimbleness and daring that are said to be far in excess of anything the redoubtable "Doug" has ever presented.

WILLINGTON

Miss Doris Bentley has secured a position with the American Thread company of Willimantic.

Miss Florence Fourtrey is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Fourtrey. Miss Fourtrey assists her uncle, who is lighthouse keeper at Stonington.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Joslin and family are spending Thanksgiving with Mrs. Joslin's sister, and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Burchnall at Hampton.

The public schools closed Wednesday for the Thanksgiving recess.

Mrs. Emma Dodge of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Benton, are Thanksgiving guests of Mrs. Ida Brown.

William Pelkan, who has been employed in Hartford, has returned home.

Mrs. Estelle Pratt is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Richard Burchnall at Hampton.

Clinton Eldredge is fixing the town roads in the eastern and southern part of the town. Selectman W. C. Ruby is putting truck loads of gravel on the northern section. The mile long Wenberg hill is having repairs made.

Fred Bentley of Canaan spent Sunday at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Lyon of Staffordville were recently in town visiting old friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Meyers recently visited the latter's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Burdick. Mrs. Eddy Burdick is seriously ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Case and Mr. and Mrs. Holcomb of Granby were guests of Mrs. Lincoln White and Mrs. Julia Clark, Sunday. Mrs Case was formerly the wife of the Willington Congregational pastor, Rev. Mr. Weed, who died several years ago.

Miss Lydia Bentley is caring for her grandmother, Mrs. Lydia Harris, at Eagleville.

Mrs. Gilman Lougee of New London was a week-end guest of her parents, Judge and Mrs. George P. Bugbee.

Nearly 200 people gathered at the town hall Friday evening to attend the entertainment given by the Ladies' Aid society. The Marley troupe from Rockville gave a pleasing program, and Frederick Hamilton of South Willington, rendered Scotch songs. The entertainment was in charge of Mrs. Frank Joslin, who sold nearly 100 tickets. The society cleared $25.

Miss Nellie Thrall of Hartford and Dwight Gardner of Rockville are Thanksgiving guests of Miss Genevieve Gardner.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert White, Miss Rena Korner and Miss Blanche MacDonald of Plainville are Thanksgiving guests at the Korner and Lyon home.

Mike Sedlar, whose right arm was nearly severed five weeks ago, is gradually recovering the use of the arm, and will soon return from the Johnson hospital.

Charles Lyon, Mrs. Mary Lyon, Miss Blanche MacDonald and Alfred Young visited relatives in Eastfod and North Windham last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lyon of Plainville are spending Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Cushman.

Rev. E. E. Sundt has visited all the town schools. He has been distributing magazines and usable clothing which were collected by the church, to worthy and needy families.

The Ladies' Aid society is doing quite a business tying quilts and is now meeting weekly. A quilt completed for Mrs. Clan Potter was pieced by her mother over thirty years ago, a log cabin design of woolen pieces. Another was for Mrs. Joseph Dimock, pieced by Mrs. Addison Dimock when about 83 years of age, just before her death, a wild goose pattern.

LISBON

Next Sunday morning Rev. Frank A. Fuller will preach at Newent church. Mr. Fuller supplied the pulpit for several years while living in Norwich Town and his many friends in town will be glad to welcome him.

POETRY

THE PILGRIMS' FIRST THANKSGIVING DAY—1621

Thus knelt the praying pilgrims, on the shore of the new world. . . . In the midst of omnipotence were these men indomitable. . . . Lastly, earth courageous, led by Spirit Divine. From everlasting to everlasting! Psalm XC.

"Thank God!" so breathed the pilgrim-hearts
That old November day:
"Thank God! for home and household peace—
Joy, in the Pilgrim-way:

"Our Fathers' God—our Guide Divine
Has brought us safely here,
Across the trackless ocean waste
We knew—we felt Him near.

From threatening foe Thou didst protect;
Now Lord, our faith inspire!
Prosper and strengthen all our toil!"
(So spoke each heart's desire):

"That we may keep Thy worship pure—
(That though through earthly loss?)
Uphold we in this wilderness
The banner of Thy Cross!

"Thank God,—for all the paths we've trod!
Fails not His promise yet:
His mercy, and His keeping care
O let us not forget!"

Through dangers? Yes! but still His hand,
As year by year departs—
We clasp His Hand—we breathe the prayer of
"Thank God!" from pilgrim hearts!

We—through the years.—are pilgrims too,
On this Thanksgiving Day
With them our hearts repeat "Thank God!"
For all the chosen Way!

—Martha Elvira Pettus, in Boston Transcript.

A Drop of Ink

This drop of ink chance leaves upon my pen,
What might it write in Milton's mighty hand!
What might it speak at Shakespeare's high command!
What words to thrill the throbbing hearts of men!
Or from Beethoven's soul a grand strain,
All life and death in one full compass spanned!
Who could its power in Goethe's touch withstand?
What words of truth it holds beyond our ken—
What blessed promise we would fain be told,
And can not—what grim sentence dread as death—
What venomous lie, that never shall unfold—
What law, undoing science with a breath!
But, mockery of life's quick-wasted lot—
Dropped on a virgin sheet 'tis but a blot!
—Joseph Earnest Whitney.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Visitor—I suppose they ask a lot for the rent of this apartment?

"Hostess—Yes, they asked Henry seven times last week.—Exchange.

"What do they mean by an elastic currency?"

"Something we can stretch to make both ends meet."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Husband — "Here's Fifty."—Williams Purple Cow.

Lady—"I suppose you have been in the navy so long that you are accustomed to sea legs?"

Sailor—"Lady, I wasn't even looking."—Amherst Lord Jeff.

"I suspect that is what those movie stars do when they are telling what salaries they get—$500 becomes $5,000."—Boston Transcript.

Prof (rapping on desk): "Order, gentlemen, order!"

Student (just awakening): "Egg sandwich and cup of coffee."—University of North Carolina Buccaneer.

Finally the orator himself realized that his discourse had been somewhat prolonged.

"I beg to be excused if I have detained you," he remarked.

"Oh, not at all," said a voice, "it has only just stopped raining."—Lustige Blaster, Berlin.

Prof. (to his class in surgery)—The right leg of the patient, as you see, is shorter than the left in consequence of which he limps. Now what would you do in a case like that?

KALEIDOSCOPE

Early as 1500 A. D., goldfish were brought to Japan from China.

There were 18,262,000 horses left on the farms of the country in 1924.

Miss Ethel H. Bailey, of Portland, Me., has the distinction of being the only woman member of the Society of Automobile Engineers.

China imported nearly 7,000,000,000 of cigarettes from the United States in the fiscal year just ended, thereby taking 72 per cent. of the total exports.

Davenport, England, home town of the arctic explorer, Captain Scott, has unveiled a memorial in his honor and that of his four companions who perished in the 1912 expedition.

A Thompsonville, (Conn.) woman has given up trying to go to morning service Sundays in a church across the street from her home. The stream of passing automobiles at that time is so great that she is afraid that any attempt to cross over will end in an accident.

A flat-fish on first hatching is symmetrical and swims with its edges verticle, but before the little fish is very old one eye gets the wanderlust and migrates around to the other side of the head. The fish then sinks to the bottom, where it spends the rest of its life flat on its side, eyes up.

Natives of India will not eat canned fish from the western world, because good Hindoos do not eat food prepared by any one but the women of their household or servants of their own caste. They fear it may be polluted by contact with persons below their caste, or adulterated with ingredients forbidden by their religion.

A dearth of professors of political economy in Russia recently was pointed out by Professor P. Schmidt of Frankfort University. Statistics compiled of last winter's term show that there were only fifty-nine professorships in political economy in Prussia, while for 6,000 law students there were 107 professional chairs.

A tree trunk of record size, that grew in the coal-making forests millions of years ago, has been discovered by Professor Carl Noe, paleobotanist of the University of Chicago. The find was made in a coal bed of the Carbondale formation, near West Frankfort, Ill. The circumference of the ancient trunk is ten feet and the length of the section unearthed about five. The whole tree, as it originally grew, may have been in the neighborhood of 100 feet high. Dr. Noe says. The surface of the trunk is covered with close-set pits, which are the scars left where the leaves once grew. These ancient trees had few branches and the leaves grew all over the trunk like the scales of a fish. The name of the genus, "Lepidodendron" means the "scale tree."

STOCK PRICES ADVANCED

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—(AP)—Stock prices bounded upward today on a subsidence of selling pressure with practically all groups participating in the advance. Net gains of 1 to 5 points were numerous at the close, a few stocks showing advances from 6 to nearly 12 1-2 points. Total sales, however, were well below the 3,000,000 share mark.

Speculators for the advance started to bid up stocks at the opening on the theory that forced liquidation had been completed, and that the market was entitled to rally on technical grounds. Special strength quickly developed in the rails on publication of additional favorable October earnings statements, and soon spread to the steels, motors, tobaccos, mercantiles, chemicals and specialties.

The strong character of the buying soon led to extensive short covering, the rapidity of the advance in some issues suggesting an overcrowded short interest. Several large blocks of stocks were thrown into the market at intervals, but they were well absorbed and prices moved steadily forward, the closing quotations generally being around the day's high.

Pittsburgh and West Virginia was the sensational feature in the rail group, soaring 12 points to a new high record at 120 1-2 onports of competitive buying for control. Atlantic Coast Line closed over seven points higher at 226 while Atchison, New York Central, Southern Railway, Canadian Pacific, Rock Island, Chicago and Northwestern, St. Paul preferred, Missouri Pacific and Delaware and Hudson were among the many issues to show net gains of a point or more.

Motors also were heavily bought for both accounts. Chrysler closed 12 3-8 points higher at 183 7-8 after having sold slightly above that figure and General Motors showed a net gain of 3 3-4 at 111 1-8.

U. S. Steel common closed 3 points higher at 130 3-4. Among the many new high records established during the day were Tobacco Products A, Liggett and Myers A and B, Consolidated Cigar, Gimbel Brothers, Weber and Heilbronner, Norfolk and Western, Postum Cereal, Sloss-Sheffield Steel, Foundation Company and Devoe and Reynolds.

Call money held steady at 4 3-8 per cent., all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Renewed weakness of French francs, which broke below 3.75 cents to a new low record for the year, was the feature of the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling held steady at $4.84 1-8 but moderate recessions took place in most of the other European rates.

MRS. GARDNER TO BROADCAST FROM FOREIGN CITIES

Norwich friends learn that Mrs. Lelia Troland Gardner, of New York, formerly of Norwich, is to sail soon for a tour abroad which will take her to the Mediterranean. She will visit Portugal, Egypt, the Holy Land, Greece, Italy, France, the British Isles, sailing home from Queenstown, Ireland. The trip will be made on S. S. Transylvania.

Mrs. Gardner resumed broadcasting from WEAF, New York, the 13th of this month, following her return from her summer home at Huguenot Park, Staten Island.

While abroad, she is to broadcast from Italy, Paris and London, there being an insistent demand for the negro spirituals which she sings so well.

OCCUM TALENT APPEARS IN MINSTREL SHOW

A large attendance witnessed the splendid minstrel show staged by local talent in Parish hall, Occum, on Tuesday evening for the benefit of St. Joseph's parish, Occum. The programme was as follows:

Moonlight and Roses, Miss LaVallie; I Want You, Dear Heart, To Want Me, Mr. Mossy; Let It Rain, Let It Pour, Miss Eva Rainville; Pal of My Cradle Days, Ernest Disco; In the Garden of Tomorrow, Peter DeVito; Let Me Call You Sweetheart, Miss Rose Connors; I Don't Care What You Used to Be, William Gordon; My Sunshine, A. Desurreault, closing chorus.

Preceding the minstrels there were cleverly rendered piano selections by Miss Irene LaVallie and John Hubert. Miss T. LaVallie was accompanist for the minstrels and Peter DeVito was the interlocutor. The end men were A. Disco, W. Gordon, G. Peltier and W. LePage.

Delays Bridge Building

Because the stone being excavated in the state highway improvements on the hill below Hall's Mill, Trading Cove, has proved too soft for the bridge foundation, the work is delayed. The stone required is being obtained up a road to the left, on the top of the hill.

JURY GIVES $6,000 VERDICT FOR WILCOX AGAINST LENNEN ESTATE

Late Wednesday afternoon the two day trial of the $25,000 suit of Lucius H. Wilcox of this city against the estate of the late Captain James Lennen came to an end when the jury returned a verdict for $6,000 in favor of Wilcox. Judge C. L. Avery accepted the verdict.

The jury received the case about 2:45 and gave its verdict at 4:30, having come in once in the meantime to ask a question that indicated they were to give a verdict for the plaintiff but were uncertain about how to arrive at the amount. Frank Brewster was foreman of the jury.

Judge Avery gave his charge to the jury after the 1 o'clock recess, speaking for a little over half an hour. He quoted decisions that were intended to assist the jury in interpreting the law in the case and told the twelve men that there were three angles for them to consider: First, was there an agreement at a stipulated price and had services been rendered; second, was there an agreement at no agreed upon rate of compensation; third, had such services been rendered as were entitled to compensation at a reasonable rate.

The judge's charge followed the arguments by the attorneys, G. Curtis Morgan opening for the plaintiff, followed by Arthur M. Brown for the defendant, executors of the Lennen estate, and Abel P. Tannar closing for the plaintiff. These were concluded just in time for the noon recess which was taken at 1:15.

The morning hours of court before this were occupied with the closing evidence for the defendant estate and rebuttal by the plaintiff.

Undertaker C. A. Gager was the first witness called by the defense when court opened. He testified to bringing the body of Captain Lennen to this city from Hartford at the request of Harold M. Christianson. He was followed by William S. Allen of the undertaking firm of Church & Allen who testified to having charge of the funeral arrangements.

Harold M. Christianson, a New London stock broker, testified to financial transactions with Captain Lennen and said that he took the captain to Hartford for an operation on his eyes.

Evangeline M. Perry, who lives upstairs in the Lennen house, testified that Lucius Wilcox had only called Captain Lennen on the telephone three or four times in several years and had called Mrs. Lennen on several occasions.

Judge George E. Parsons, one of the executors of the Lennen will, was the final witness for the defense. He read from the superior court records the dates of the two trials over the assault upon Captain Lennen, one trial lasting nine and the other seven days. Captain Lennen was present and a witness at both trials.

Judge Parsons said that he first knew Captain Lennen about 1900, when he was judge of probate. The witness testified that he drafted the Lennen will after considerable conferring between him and Captain Lennen, and that Captain Lennen's physical condition was better than usual for men of that age and his mental faculties were good. At the time the will was drawn in 1923, Captain Lennen told him, the witness said, that he owed no bills except for his last sickness.

An exhibit, identified by the witness, was a receipt from Lucius Wilcox, admitting payment of $10 for conveying Captain Lennen to New London. An order on the Merchant's National bank for $20, payable to Lucius Wilcox, and signed by Captain Lennen was identified. This was given for papering and painting the house. Another check for $11.76, payable to L. H. Wilcox, given by Captain Lennen was also read. The witness said that the stub in check book read, "Paid L. H. Wilcox for painting and papering my house at 40 Boswell avenue."

On cross-examination, Judge Parsons testified that there were no vouchers, papers, etc., to show that Captain Lennen paid Wilcox for auto riding, painting the outside of the house, and other work done, except those introduced by Attorney Brown. "The contents of that will were James Lennen's will," said the witness in answer to a question from Attorney Morgan if Judge Parson had advised Captain Jesse Wilcox $20,000.

The defense at this point rested.

Lucius Wilcox called to the stand for rebuttal, said that the six dollars for the auto trip was when his (Wilcox's) car was out of order and he hired another machine for $6. Captain Lennen re-imbursed him. The $11.76 check was for material which N. K. Lester bought. The $20 check was for Lester, as Lester, now deceased, was a drinking man, and stated that he (Lester) would rather have the check made out to him (Wilcox) instead of Lester.

SCOUT LEADERS COURSE HAS THREE SPEAKERS

The fifth session of scout leaders was held at Scout Headquarters Wednesday night.

The speaker of the evening was Reve J. Harlow Graham who brought a Thanksgiving message to the leaders. He said: "The origin of the words 'Think' and 'Thank' is the same." Scouts bring all classes together for service. Fellow workers in scouting bring together all classes for a common purpose. We never miss a good thing till it is gone. We should not hesitate to recognize qualities of fellow workers. We need the Thanksgiving spirit in all our relations with our fellow men. Appreciate fine points in one another. Confidence is what binds a community together.

When I came to Norwich four years ago I picked up a copy of the annual report of the Boy Scouts of Norwich, and said to myself 'what a great amount of activity goes on in an organization of this kind.' I felt I would like to write the scout executive a word of commendation and did so as follows:

Mr. F. A. Benton,

Dear Sir,

I want to congratulate you on the very fine showing which your year's work makes when set down or is reported in today's "Bulletin." It looks looks like work well done justifying all its cost in effort and responsibility.

Fraternally,

J. HARLOW GRAHAM."

Rev. E. C. Dunbar followed Mr. Graham with an excellent, practical and concise plan of setting up exercises. He stated that systematic exercises were valuable to ward off diseases. He indicated the following points:

1. For general health and vigor. Impaired health handicaps the keenest mind. 2. Co-ordination between mind and body. 3. Muscular strength. The fellow with the hardest muscle will last longest on a hike. 4. Self reliance. Hints: 1. Make exercises quick and vigorous. 2. Do not overdo. 3. Never give backward bending exercises. 4. Exercise all parts of body. 5. Good position of attention. 6. Plenty of air; avoid drafts. 7. Loosen the clothing. 8. Never take exercises just before or just after a meal. 9. Use variety. 10. Must have co-operation of the boy.

Arthur L. Peale gave an interesting talk on hikes. He believed in the great benefit derived from hikes and took them when ever possible with the troop. Over night hikes were of doubtful value on account of lack of sleep, but are always remembered. Hikes to historic spots were his specialties, for by so doing new boys learned the country's history.

General discussion followed the subjects presented and songs were interspersed in the program.

The next meeting will be held out doors, Saturday of this week. It is planned to go to Beach Pond for the afternoon and spend the night there; the program of activities is made up by the Scout executive.

SCOUT TROOP IN POQUETANUCK STARTED

Wednesday night the boys and troop committee of Poquetanuck met at the school house to form a scout troop. This is the second meeting and much interest is being shown by the residents in organizing the troop.

Frederick A. Benton, Jr., is the Scoutmaster and Irving Keller, assistant scoutmaster.

Rev. Thomas Ockford and Mr. Appleton Main are members of the troop committee.

Another member of the committee is to be chosen. The troop will meet at the school house Wednesday nights.

In Springfield for the Holiday

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. McNeely and daughter, Barbara, with Mrs. McNeely's sister, Miss Rachel Bolton, are spending Thanksgiving Day and the week end in Springfield at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Buffan. Mrs. Buffan is Mrs. McNeely's sister. They are making the trip by motor.

Boy Scouts Thanksgiving Food Turn

Twentyfive scouts in uniform volunteered their services Wednesday morning to the United Workers and aided them in distributing about 100 baskets of food for Thanksgiving dinners to families in Norwich and vicinity.

BIG CROWD ATTENDS K. OF C. DANCE AT ARMORY

Approximately 1,000 people attended the annual Thanksgiving Eve dance held Wednesday evening at the state armory under the auspices of White Cross Council, No. 13, Knights of Columbus. The dance programme was furnished by The Collegians of Hartford and was thoroughly enjoyed by the large crowd of dancers. Dancing lasted until one o'clock this morning.

Grand Knight Thomas F. Shea was general chairman and was assisted by the following committee—

Henry Gorman, chairman, Daniel J. O'Brien, M. Frank Leonard, Francis T. Diggins, William P. Ward, Jeremiah Sweeney, James Crawford, Ray Wozniak, Richard Marks, Jr., Bernard Coyle, Walter F. Casey, John F. Donnahue, John O'Rourke, Jeremiah A. Desmond, Charles Rinella, Thomas H. Beckley, James Brady, Philip Leeney, James P. Sheridan, Philip O'Brien, William Corrigan, John Shea, Jr., Michael J. Curran, Patrick Coleman, James Mahoney, Fred Kingsley, Cornelius J. Downes, C. E. Wright, Joseph A. Donnelly, Martin Burns.

Morgan G. Cronin had charge of the decorations which featured the national colors and an illuminated emblem of the Order. Martin Burns had charge of the coat room, Joseph Donnelly sold tickets, M. J. Curran took tickets at the door and Walter G. Casey served as treasurer for the dance.

COMMON PLEAS JURY HAS HEATER CASE

The $500 damage suit of Sharaf's Furniture Co., of New London against Harriet Scheele, owner of the Rotisserie Inn in Waterford on the New Haven turnpike, went into the hands of the jury in the court of common pleas at New London late Wednesday afternoon, following spirited arguments by Attorney Perry J. Hollandersky for the plaintiff and Attorney Russell H. Corcoran for the defendant. The jury was instructed by Judge Charles B Waller.

Attorney Hollandersky argued that the only warranty given by Mr. Sharaf to the defendant was that the pipeless furnace, which was alleged not to have been paid for, would heat the store and send some heat upstairs. The place was then known as the Post Road Inn.

Attorney Corcoran in his arguments maintained that the plaintiff had warranted that the furnace would heat the whole place and had said he would take it out of the establishment if it did not. He asserted that it had not heated and that the plaintiff would not reclaim the heater.

Attorney Hollandersky, following the conclusion of Attorney Corcoran's argument, again spoke briefly to the jury.

FOUR DIVORCE SUITS ENTERED IN COURT

Lizzie Bruce Robbins of East Lyme seeks divorce from Herbert E. Bruce, formerly of New London, now of parts unknown. They were married March 21, 1908. She alleges desertion on March 1, 1909, and she asks the custody of a 16 year old daughter.

James F. Clarke of Groton asks divorce from Maud Jeffrey Clarke of Groton on the ground of desertion since April 15, 1922. They were married October 24, 1894.

Abraham Jacob Meyer of New London sues for divorce from Lizzie Meyer of Providence. He alleges desertion March 1, 1920. They were married Oct. 26, 1913, the maiden name of the wife being Lizzie Slutsky.

Lucy Whitmore Storey of New London seeks divorce from Samuel F. Storey, now of the Sailors' sanatorium, Fort Stanton, New Mexico. She alleges desertion from the marriage date of Jan. 5, 1917.

SUE BECAUSE BID AT AUCTION WAS REFUSED

On the claim that they made a bid of $9,100 at an auction on October 27 for the Niantic Menhaden Co. property and profferred ten per cent. of the bid, but this was refused, Morris L. Elman and Frank A. Rolston of Manchester, this state, have brought suit in the superior court here against Frank Stell and others of Baltimore, Md. Damages of $15,000 are sought.

OBSERVING THANKSGIVING IN NORWICH INSTITUTIONS

Norwich institutions will in general observe Thanksgiving day with special turkey dinners. The United Workers are taking a prominent part in providing Thanksgiving cheer at the institutions and as usual Mr. and Mrs. George W. Carroll are providing turkeys for several of the homes.

Wednesday under the direction of Miss Julia C. Corcoran, the family welfare workers of the United Workers distributed about 118 baskets of food to the needy poor of Norwich. This annual custom is greatly appreciated by those who would otherwise be unable to enjoy Thanksgiving dinners.

As has been the custom for many years the school children of town and city contributed much of the food that went into the 188 baskets. Many barrels of vegetables, fruit, delicacies, etc., were contributed by the children and collected from the schools Tuesday.

The distribution headquarters was in the old Shields property on Broadway. Sedgwick post, No. 1, G. A. R., loaned the use of tables for the work and under the supervision of Scout Executive F. A. Benton, local Boy Scouts assisted in the distribution of the baskets, the deliveries being made by the local squad of the Family Welfare department. Those who assisted Miss Corcoran in the work included:

Miss Nancy Lucas, chairman; Miss Mary Porteous, Mrs. Robert W. Perkins, Miss Jane E. Bill, Mrs. John D. Hall, Miss Marion Bishop, Mrs. Gardiner Greene, Miss Martha Osgood, Miss Edith Bliss, Miss Sarah Armstrong, Mrs. Archibald Torrance, Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, 4th, Mrs. John H. Barnes, Mrs William Wade, Mrs. Morris L. Bergstresser and Miss Alexandrine Trumbull.

An elaborate menu will be served this noon to the 150 patients and 40 employes at Uncas-on-Thames. The menu will be as follows: Grape fruit halved, marashino cherries, roast turkey, dressing, giblet gravy, mashed potatoes, mashed turnips, cranberry jelly, celery, olives, pumpkin pie, hot rolls, salted nuts, fruit, coffee and cider.

Tuesday and Wednesday morning communion was given to the Catholic patients at the institution by Rev. Myles P. Galvin, of St. Patrick's church. A service for the protestant patients was conducted by Rev. J. Eldred Brown, rector of Trinity Episcopal church.

A roast chicken dinner will be served the 2,005 patients at the Norwich State hospital while there will be a roast duck menu for the 350 employes at the institution. It will require 1,800 pounds of chicken for the patient's dinner, all the chickens being raised on the hospital farm. All of the food, even to the chickens and ducks, has been raised on the farm at the institution. The dinner will be served at the usual hour. In the evening the Riverview club will observe its 12th anniversary with a masquerade dance. At 7 o'clock in the evening a huge bonfire will be set off at the hospital grounds.

The annual roast pork dinner will be served to the 20 patients at the New London county jail and as usual Jailer Oscar H. Main will provide "smokes" for the men.

Supt. F. Leon Hutchins has arranged for the service of a roast turkey dinner at 12 o'clock this noon to the 136 patients and employes at the W. W. Backus hospital. The turkeys, trays, favors and Thanksgiving napkins have been furnished by the holiday committee of the hospital auxiliary. Park church is furnishing the ice cream, the United church is providing the cake, and the Woman's auxiliary contributed $30 towards the payment for the turkeys.

Mr and Mrs. George W. Carroll have furnished the turkey for the Thanksgiving dinner at the New London county home. There are 61 in the family with five workers.

The family of 41 at the Norwich almshouse, 27 men and 14 women, will be served their annual Thanksgiving dinner, the food for which was raised on the almshouse farm. To top off the menu there will be a large pumpkin pie.

Through the kindness of Mrs. George W. Carroll there will be a roast turkey dinner for the family of 17 and five workers at the Sheltering Arms this noon. The dinner will be served at the usual noon hour.

The 39 children and eight employees at the Rock Nook Children's home Norwich Town, will be served their usual roast turkey dinner this noon. The family at the Rock Nook home is somewhat larger than it was last year.

JACK HORNER PIE CONTAINED SHOWER GIFTS

A reception and miscellaneous shower was held Tuesday evening in the reception room of the J. B. Martin Co., in honor of Miss Sarah Coveau Miss Coveau is employed as invoice clerk at the plant and is soon to be married to Harold Bennett. The gifts were concealed in a large Jack Horner pie which Miss Coveau opened. One of the gifts was an electric lamp.

Refreshments were served during the evening, the dining room being attractively decorated in pink and yellow. Music and dancing were enjoyed until a late hour.

POST OFFICE HOURS FOR THANKSGIVING DAY

The Norwich post office will be open from 7 till 10 a. m. The money order, postal savings and carriers windows will be closed all day.

Outgoing mails will close as usual, the last mail for New York and Boston will close at 8 p. m. There will be a collection from the same street letter boxes as those taken on Sundays at 4 p. m.

As this is a national holiday no deliveries will be made by either city or rural carriers.

No money order business will be transacted at any of the sub. stations.

Return From Florida

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fish of Noank have received word of the return of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fish (Althea Chesebro) from Rocky Water tourist camp, East Gallie, Fla. Mr. and Mrs. Fish who left Florida on Sunday by train arrived in Taftville Tuesday noon and are Thanksgiving guests of Mrs. Fish's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Linderson. When leaving Mystic Oct. 15 the trip to Florida was by automobile.

Grants Certificates

Because of the holiday today, Archibald W. Buchanan, agent of the state board of education, made his weekly visit to Norwich at one o'clock Wednesday instead of on Thursday. Five school pupils applied for working certificates, two being granted Wednesday.

Calvin H. Frisbie Improves

Calvin H. Frisbie, of 53 McKnle avenue, president of the Bard Unio Co., the Attawaugan Co., and the Occum Co., who has been seriously ill, is recovering following a surgical operation Mr. Frisbie was able to sit up for an hour during Wednesday.

FRANCIS P. BENT CALLS ON TAMMANY LEADER

George W. Olvany, leader of Tammany Hall, returned to his desk at the Wigwam in Fourteenth street, Tuesday afternoon, said a New York paper Wednesday. For fully four hours he listened to suggestions and appeals on behalf of "deserving" democrats who his district leaders thought had earned rewards in the shape of municipal jobs. Mr. Olvany held off the patronage seekers with the brief statement that nothing would be decided concerning appointments until Mayor-elect Walker returned from his vacation in the south.

One fact emerged from the talks Mr. Olvaney had with his leaders. It was that John H. McCooey, democratic leader in Brooklyn; Borough President Maurice Connolly, leader of the democratic forces in Queens, and David S. Rendt, the party leader in Richmond, all of whom backed the primaries, would get recognition in the distribution of patronage.

To what extent they will be recognized will depend, of course, on Mr. Olvany. As the result of the Walker victory on election day, he finds himself in a position of power in his party which his immediate predecessor in the leadership, Charles F. Murphy, did not gain until he had fought for a dozen years. Mr. Olvany made it clear to persons who talked with him Tuesday afternoon that he considered the good showing made for Mayor-elect Walker in the three boroughs of McCooey, Rendt and Connolly entitled those leaders to a fair share of patronage.

One prominent follower of Mayor Hylan who now occupies a highly paid position under the board of estimate, is Francis P. Bent of Brooklyn, formerly of Norwich. He was one of the first callers to get Mr. Olvany's ear at the Wigwam Tuesday afternoon. The purpose of Mr. Bent's visit was not revealed.

The Savings Bank of New London sues for foreclosure of a mortgage for $1,600, dated Feb. 4, 1920, against Nathan Belcher, administrator of the estate of Annie Rathbun, late of Waterford.

SEEK $7,500 DAMAGES FOR EXPLOSION BURNS

Charles H. Brown of Mystic, an employe of Emma Bucklyn of the same place, has brought suit against her in the superior court for $7,500 damages for injuries he received by the explosion of a metal tank on May 8, 1925. In his complaint he alleges that a second hand dealer who was removing the tank struck it with an axe or some other article, causing an explosion in which Brown was covered with the blazing contents of the tank and was so severely burned that he was in the hospital for 13 weeks and has been totally incapacitated.

Eastern Connecticut Health

The weekly morbidity report issued by the state department of health for the week ending November 21st, shows that two cases of diphtheria and one case of measles were reported from Norwich during the week. Communicable diseases reported from towns in eastern Connecticut were as follows:

Diphtheria—Groton, 1; New London 1; Norwich, 2.

Scarlet fever—New London, 1.

Whooping cough—Jewett City, 3.

Typhoid fever—Jewett City, 1.

Plaut-Cadden Houses

As a finishing touch to the renovation of the two frame houses on Church street owned by the Plaut-Cadden company, one of these just below the Community House being a double house—painters are at work touching up the exterior woodwork. Sides as well as roofs of both houses have been shingled.

Wants Real Estate Divided

Suit for sale and partition of real estate has been brought by Lillie M. Beckwith of Waterford, administratrix of the estate of Elias Beckwith of Montville, against Isham Beckwith of Montville. The suit is returnable to the superior court in December.

Brings Suit on Notes

Suit on two notes has been brought in the superior court by Charles Arthur Richards of New York city against the Connecticut Silica Corporation of Ledyard and North Stonington. There are two counts in the complaint, one on a note for $1,680, dated January 15, 1924 and the other on a note for the same amount, dated March 27, 1925.

In 1924 smokers paid the government more than $825,000,000 in revenue stamps.

GENERAL OBSERVANCE OF THANKSGIVING IN NEW YORK

Bishop Manning at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine Gave as Reasons For Thankfulness the Growing Desire For Justice and Brotherhood, For the Prevention of War, and the Breaking Down of Intolerance and Narrow Prejudice in Our Religious Life—Service in Memory of Dead American Legeonnaires Was Held in St. Patrick's Cathedral—Special Observances of the Day Were Made in Public Institutions and Private Families.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26—A custom of hundreds of New York children, who dressed in vari-colored costumes, beg for alms on Thanksgiving day, was protested today by more than 500 members of the Madison Square Boys club who took part in a parade against the practice. The boys were dressed in home costumes and carried banners reading: "American boys don't beg."

Churches, public institutions and private families made the day one of special observance. With a pound of turkey ordered for every man in the United States army, soldiers from Panama to Nome and garrisons in the far west joined in the Thanksgiving celebration, it was announced here.

A special service in memory of dead American legionnaires was held in St. Patrick's cathedral, with the Rev. Daniel C. Cunnion as preacher. Father Cunnion said that the United States has wandered from trust in God and quoted President Coolidge on the need of religion and tolerance in national life. Special services also were held in Jewish synagogues and other churches. All the city institutions served Thanksgiving dinners.

The Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires, who was consecrated bishop of Long Island on Tuesday, delivered his farewell sermon as rector of St. Thomas' Protestant Episcopal church this morning. It was the twenty-fifth Thanksgiving sermon which Dr. Stires has delivered to the congregation of St. Thomas'.

Hundreds of the congregation remained after the services to bid farewell to Bishop Stires.

At the cathedral of St. John the Divine, Bishop William T. Manning told his congregation that the American people are learning "to respect, to appreciate and to love those whose faiths differing from their own." He gave as three reasons for America to be thankful, the following:

"The growing desire among all our people that the spirit of justice and brotherhood shall prevail in all the relationships of life; the strengthening desire among the nations of the earth for the prevention of war and for the establishment of world brotherhood and lasting peace; and the breaking down of intolerance and narrow prejudice in our religious life."

QUIET THANKSGIVING DAY IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—One of the several gift turkeys sent to President Coolidge graced the white house table tonight, the feast rounding out a quiet Thanksgiving day for Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns of Boston.

At special services at the First Congregational church, the President and Mrs. Coolidge with their guests heard his pastor Rev. Dr. Jason Noble Pierce give his thanksgiving sermon. Special organ and choir music filled nearly an hour of the hour's service, and Dr. Pierce took his text from the 147th Psalm assuring that "God's goodness is our inheritance."

"We have abundant cause to be thankful," he declared. "God has been good to us, too good for our own good."

Immediately after the service the presidential party returned to the white house. The president had hoped to have his father with him today, but Colonel Coolidge was held at Plymouth, Vt., by his recent illness. John Coolidge, the executive's son, who is at Amherst, is not expected to visit his parents until the Christmas holidays.

The simple program adopted for the day by the president was followed by official Washington generally. Church services largely occupied the cabinet members, and others during the morning with the holiday football games furnishing attractions for the afternoon. Secretary Wilbur had a party of guests at the Georgetown-Marine game and Evergit Sanders, Mr. Coolidge's secretary also had a box at the game.

COL. COOLIDGE ENJOYED HIS THANKSGIVING DINNER

PLYMOUTH, Vermont, Nov. 26—(AP)—Colonel John C. Coolidge, father of the president, tonight was enjoying renewed strength in his fight against the heart blocks which had sapped his vigor. He ate early this afternoon, an old fashioned New England Thanksgiving dinner which included many of the best known dishes although it was not hearty. His nurse afterwards declared that his appetite had been good and that he had assimilated the food well.

His household, consisting of the nurse, his house-keeper and the watchman who guards the little White Farm house, sat down with him and did justice to the chicken fricassee, vegetables, pudding, pies and milk. Although the Vermont turkey boasts his lordship of the market, in the Coolidge home as in many others of the state, chicken is the Thanksgiving favorite.

Tomorrow the Colonel is looking forward to a visit from Attorney General John G. Sargent, who is now in Ludlow.

HOW AMERICAN COLONY GAVE THANKS IN PARIS

PARIS, Nov. 26—Live turkey symbolic of Thanksgiving day as observed in the United States, was paraded down the boulevards of Paris today, receiving an enthusiastic reception from the American colony as well as French onlookers.

This morning the American colony gave thanks at numerous church services. The American ambassador Myron T. Herrick, spoke at the American church. The keynote of his remarks was: "Our thanksgiving is defective if it is not charged with neighborliness; the command 'Love thy neighbor as thyself' applies to nations as well as individuals."

Cardinal Dubois, archbishop of Paris gave a special blessing to American Catholics at the Madeleine church where the famous organ pealed forth the strains of "The Star Spangled Banner" at the conclusion of the service. Dean Beekman, held services at the American pro-Cathedral.

DEBATING SETTLEMENTS WITH HOHENZOLLERNS

BERLIN, Nov. 26—(AP)—An acrimonious debate involving the question of the settlements to be made with the Hohenzollern family headed by former Emperor William, and with other unemployed German royalties, seems likely to enliven the sessions of the Reichstag as soon as the Locarno treaties are out of the way.

The Hohenzollerns, who are fighting for their claims aggregating hundreds of millions of marks for the retention of their large estates, castles, city real estate art treasurers, the crown silver and other objects of value, in dispute since the revolution, are showing a growing disposition to demand their pound of flesh despite the country's poverty. Producing ancient documents purporting to show personal ownership by the Hohenzollerns of the disputed lands and objects, they have won every case thus far decided in the courts.

The contention of the Prussian state that the holdings in question came to the Hohenzollerns only by virtue of their being kings, and therefore reverted to the state with the abolition of the monarchy, has won no favor with the judges.

In the course of the next week the Prussian finance ministry, in consequence, expects to introduce a bill in the diet by the terms of which it is reported most of the Hohenzollern's claims will be acknowledged. This prospect has so agitated the Democrats, the Socialists and the Communists that they are threatening not only to fight the bills but also to throw the whole matter of the Hohenzollern settlement into the Reichstag by proposing a law regulating the settlement both with the Hohenzollerns and the other deposed German rulers, such as Rupprecht of Bavaria, who claims 10,000,000 marks, and the Thuringan houses, 7,000,000 marks, which would drain the resources of that little state.

DIFFERENCE OF OPINION IN FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—Commissioners Thompson and Nugent of the federal trade commission tonight made public their objections to a majority decision refusing to give the attorney general access to records and files which had been voluntarily delivered to it during an investigation without the "express consent" of the respondent involved.

The dissenting commissioners contended that the ruling which was effected January 16 and has been followed in a number of cases, was against the public interest, not warranted by any provision of the federal trade commission act, and tended to hinder, delay and defeat the ends of justice.

The vote establishing the ruling was taken when the then Attorney General Stone asked for access to certain records concerning the Aluminum Company of America, in which Secretary Mellon was a stockholder, given to the commission during the investigation of household furnishings industries asked by the senate. The Aluminum company was charged in the commission's report with holding a "monopolistic position" and having "apparently engaged in various practices" forbidden by judicial decree under the Sherman act.

CONFESSED THROWING BOMB AT PRESIDENT OF POLAND

BERLIN, Nov. 26.—(A. P.)—Teofil Olshanska, recently reported to have confessed that he threw a bomb at President Wojciechowski, of Poland, last year, has voluntarily delivered himself to the Berlin police. He has made a detailed confession, in which, according to the authorities, he admits that his attempt to assassinate the Polish president was by order of a secret Ukrainian military organization which has now instructed him to make the report to the police to prevent the conviction of Stanislaw Steiger, a Zionist student undergoing trial on the charge of having thrown the bomb.

The police declare that the details of the confession clearly prove Olshanski's guilt.

The trial of Stanislaw Steiger, charged with attempting to assassinate President Wokciechowski of Poland, is progress in Poland for several months, has come to be known as the "Polish Dreyfus case." It has aroused much interest and agitation among the Jewish population in Poland, Steiger being regarded as a martyr and a second Dreyfus.

DECISION AGAINST DANGER FOR EVAN BURROWES FONTAINE

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—Evan Burrowes Fontaine, dancer, today lost her fight against going to California to stand trial on contempt of court charges. United States Commissioner Glass held her for removal to San Francisco and set her bonds at $5,000.

The contempt charges grew out of Miss Fontaine's second suit against Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney for $1,000,000 for breach of promise. After her first suit, for the same amount was dismissed, a federal injunction was granted restraining her from entering another suit.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Tablet for Mussolini's Escape

ROME, Nov. 26—A marble tablet commemorating Premier Mussolini's escape from death at the hands of an assassin is to be placed on the Chigi palace by the provincial federation of ex-combatants.

SHOOTING AND STABBING AFFRAYS IN BRIDGEPORT

BRIDGEPORT, Nov. 26—(A. P.)—Within less than half an hour this evening a shooting took place in the South End and a stabbing took place in the North End. Neither of the victims was seriously injured and the assailants in each case escaped.

About 7 o'clock at Columbus place and North Washington avenue, two friends became engaged in a carving match which resulted in one landing in St. Vincent's hospital with a stab wound in the right side of his neck, and the other although injured, managed to escape.

Tony Florino, thirty-seven, of 94 Lexington avenue, is at the hospital, while police are looking for his friend, Joseph Leona, 196 North Washington avenue, who is alleged to have stabbed Florino.

Just how badly Leona was cut by Florino the police were not able to determine. After Leona felled his assailant, it is claimed that he fled in a car.

While detectives were busy on the stabbing case, word was received that a woman had been shot in a rooming house.

Mrs. Mabel Hutchinson McKenzie, negress, 35, was shot through the left shoulder by her husband, William Hutchinson McKenzie in the rooming house at 29 Drouve street, where the woman was employed as a housekeeper. The couple resided at 74 Gregory street. The woman was taken to St. Vincent's hospital and it is expected that she will recover.

Police were unable to establish a motive for the shooting, while the victim at the hospital stated that she believed that her husband did not mean to shoot her.

The bullet entered the woman's shoulder and traversed along the blade and lodged at the base of the skull. The husband escaped immediately after the shooting, and went to the Gregory street address and picked up a few clothes, which he carried away in a bundle.

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE MEDAL FOR MISS CUSHMAN

NEW YORK, Nov. 26—(A. P.)—"For bravery under fire," in protecting the 1500 orphans under her care, Miss Emma D. Cushman, of Boston, former head of a Near East Relief training school at Corinth, Greece, was announced today as the winner of a distinguished service medal of the Near East Relief.

During a revolution in Greece last spring, Miss Cushman summoned some of the larger boys of her school and with their aid rolled five rebel airplanes a half mile away from the school campus where they had been parked and had drawn the fire of the loyal forces.

The former American battleship "Iowa," now a Greek battleship, fired long range shells in an effort to frighten the rebels, and Miss Cushman instructed the children in her care to flatten themselves on the ground. She sent peremptory letters to the commanders of the opposing forces, demanding that they move their war away from her orphanage.

SCORE OF LIVES LOST IN STORM IN THE NORTH SEA

LONDON, Nov. 26—Sea captains arriving at London today on ships caked with frozen spray to their funnel tops described a storm which raged in the North Sea yesterday as the worst in their experience.

Reports from the northern European countries indicate widespread damage. Three high wireless towers at Norddeich, near Bremen collapsed, while in Denmark the storm, which caused the king to change his route to London for the funeral of Queen Mother Alexandra, disorganized traffic generally and severed communications.

Along the North Sea coasts of England and the continent numerous fishing boats and small craft were wrecked with a score of lives lost.

"At one time," said the skipper of a channel boat from Amsterdam, "the wind was so strong it flattened out the waves until the sea looked like a great expanse of white table cloth spread around us. In all my years at sea I have never seen anything like this."

INFECTION WITH MALARIA NO CURE FOR PARESIS

CHICAGO, Nov. 26—(A. P.)—Infecting patients suffering from paresis or softening of the brain with malaria to check the paresis has been tried out here, Dr. Sydney Kuh, psychiatrist at Rush Medical college of the University of Chicago, announced tonight.

The treatment which produces an "artificial disease" in the patient, is not a cure for paresis, which thus far has been found to be incurable, but in certain persons has checked the disease for a time.

The tests have indicated, Dr. Kuh said, that patients may be brought back to normal temporarily and may be restored to usefulness for a given length of time, although results remain a matter of conjecture. The treatment is unsuccessful if the patient shows a negative test for tolerance to quinine for the quinine is necessary to check the malaria. In that case death might result sooner from malaria than from paresis.

SAFE-BREAKERS GOT BUT $90 IN NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 26—Burglars entered the office of the Loose-Wiles Biscuit company at 11 Albert street, sometime last night and after battering the safe with a hammer and other tools, made their escape with its contents which amounted to $90. The place is near the railroad and it is believed that the burglars smashed open the safe while trains were passing, so that the noise of the engines would deaden the sound of their hammer.

TWENTY DAYS AND FINE OF $85,000 FOR PROFITEERING

VIENNA, Nov. 26—Arthur Fired, known as "a fabulously wealthy" director and shareholder of the Vienna Anker Bread factory, must serve 20 days imprisonment and pay a fine of $85,000 for profiteering under a decision handed down by the appellate court today.

A lower court had found Fried guilty of the offense in January, sentencing him to three months in prison and a fine of $240,000.

Reichstag to Ratify The Locarno Treaties

Formal Action Comes Today —Next Month Germany Will Make Formal Application For Admission to the League of Nations.

BERLIN, Nov. 26—(AP)—By an overwhelming majority the Reichstag today adopted, on the second reading, the law approving the security pact and arbitration treaties initiated at Locarno and Germany's entry into the League of Nations.

Tomorrow the treaties will be formally ratified with the third reading of the measure, thus enabling Chancellor Luther and Foreign Secretary Stresemann to proceed to London to sign the pact and treaties. In the course of the next month Germany will make formal applications for admission to the league.

The only opposition to the various treaties came from the German nationalists, Communists and extreme nationalists, led by General Ludendorff. The attempt of the nationalists to forestall Germany's adhesion to the league of demanding the enactment of a special law authorizing such procedure, was defeated by a heavy vote.

With regard to Germany's entry into the league, the Centrists, German's people party and Democrats have adopted a resolution "to urge the government to exercise all possible energy to obtain amplification of the concesions in accordance with the spirit of Locarno prior to Germany's entry into the league."

The resolution will be supported by the social Democrats.

BRIDGEPORT BOY VICTIM OF MYSTERIOUS STABBER

Bridgeport, Nov. 26—(A. P.)—For the first time since the mysterious stabber who has claimed ten victims, all of whom have been young girls, has been at large here a young boy was stabbed this evening by an unidentified assailant about 5:20 o'clock, at about the same time that the notorious stabbing fiend has made other appearances. Police do not believe that the person who did the stabbing this evening was the same one who has spread terror into the hearts of many Bridgeport girls because of his fiendish acts.

The victim this evening was Stephen Horn, 14 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Horn, of 69 Wayne street. The boy was walking on Wayne street between Savoy street and Westfield avenue, when the stabber jumped out from behind some bushes in a vacant lot and made a lunge at the boy. According to the story of the boy, he ducked as the man swung, when he noticed a knife in his hand. The descending knife struck the boy's right hand and inflicted a wound on the little finger which was dressed at St. Vincent's hospital.

After the stabbing the man jumped back into the bushes and disappeared quickly into the darkness, while the alarm was spread.

FIVE COLLEGES FOR WOMEN, OPPOSE STUDENTS SMOKING

NEW YORK, Nov. 26—(A. P.)—Five eastern colleges for women have gone on record as being opposed to following Bryn Mawr's action in permitting students to smoke, the New York Herald-Tribune will say tomorrow.

Officials of Wellesley, Russel Sage, Smith, Pennsylvania College for Women, and Mount Holyoke college, in answer to telegraphic queries by the Herald-Tribune to determine the attitude of their colleges toward smoking, stated emphatically there is no prospect of an "immediate change of attitude."

Russel Sage college reported that "smoking has never been a serious problem." Pennsylvania College for Women answered: "The consensus of opinion at a recent meeting of the college council was that the students' sentiment is so against smoking at this college that no legislation is necessary here."

LADY ASTOR'S VIEWPOINT OF OLD MAIDS AND BACHELORS

LONDON, Nov. 26—Lady Astor paid tribute to the old maid and expressed sympathy for the bachelor in her remarks as presiding officer at the final session of the social insurance conference today.

"The bachelor is the most helpless creature that ever was," Lady Astor declared. "He is the one thing making matrimony possible. If married women look at a bachelor they get a little more reconciled to their own husbands.

Lady Astor said she couldn't say the equivalent about the old maids. They carried on the work of the world, whereas the bachelors got crochety and narrower as they got older.

"Old maids expand; old bachelors concentrate," she added, "old maiden ladies usually become more beautiful as they grow older, while man—the poor, lonely animal—the older he gets the lonelier he becomes."

AFTER THE BALL FIREMEN WERE CALLED FOR DUTY

BIDDEFORD, Me., Nov. 26.—(AP)—Firemen of Biddeford and Saco who had danced until after midnight last night at the annual firemen's ball were called early this morning to fight a stubborn blaze in the business district. The fire started in a Main street barber shop and spread into the stores in adjoining buildings, doing damage of $30,000 and driving the occupants of the upper floor apartments to the street scantily clad.

SON KILLED HIS FATHER MISTAKING HIM FOR DEER

WOODSTOCK, Me., Nov. 26—(A. P.)—Albert Silver of Woodstock was killed by his son Charles of Norway while hunting on Stearns mountain today. Mistaking his father for a deer the son fired two shots both of which took effect, causing death within half an hour.

BODY OF BABY BOY WAS FOUND HIDDEN IN BUSHES

WATERBURY, Nov. 26—The body of a five months old baby boy was discovered this noon hidden in bushes near the abandoned Meriden railroad tracks on the Plank road. It apparently had been there several days. It had no clothes and was wrapped in a newspaper dated November 20.

Funeral Services For Queen Mother Today

Alexandra's Body Rests in Chapel of St. James' Palace, London—Will Be Taken to Westminister Abbey This Morning.

LONDON, Nov. 26—The body of Queen Mother Alexandra rested tonight in the chapel of St. James palace, guarded by gentlemen-at-arms and yeomen of the guard. At a few minutes before 11 o'clock tomorrow morning the coffin will be taken to Westminster Abbey, where funeral services are to be held. Throughout the afternoon the general public will be permitted to pass through the abbey to pay their respects to the queen mother. In the evening the body will be taken to Windsor Castle, and on Saturday morning, after a committal service, attended only by the royal family and the members of Alexandra's household, will be placed in the royal tomb house under the chapel. Upon completion of the sarcophagus for Edward VII and Alexandra in the chapel, the body will be placed there.

With the simplicity that marked her life, the queen mother made her last journey from Sandringham to London today. After luncheon the royal family went to the little Sandringham church, where the body rested since last Sunday. There was a short service, then tall grenadiers carried the coffin to a gun carriage, on which it was borne to a black draped train waiting at the Wolferton station for the journey to London—a distance of about 100 miles.

As the procession passed through lanes made through a thin layer of snow the king walked immediately behind the coffin with the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York and Prince Henry. Queen Mary and other ladies of the royal party followed in carriages; then came the household staff, the country gentry, tenants and even the most humble of the servants.

There was only a momentary suspension of traffic as the motor hearse proceeded from the railway station in London to St. James Palace. The time and the route had been kept an official secret out of deference to the wishes of the royal family hence there were no crowds along the way.

CHURCH WARDEN KILLED WHILE MUFFLING BELLS

SUNDERLAND, England, Nov. 26—As he was muffling the bells for tomorrow's memorial service for Queen Mother Alexandra, C. Hudson, warden of the Bishop-Wearmouth church was killed today. A big bell which had been tilted fell over and pinned him to the floor of the belfry, with his head and body badly crushed.

ATTEMPT TO SEIZE MUKDEN HAS NOT BEEN SUCCESSFUL

PEKING, Nov. 26—(A. P.)—The attempt to seize Mukden, engineered by General Kuo Sung-Lien, at one time one of the strongest followers of Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, the Manchurian war lord, apparently has not yet succeeded, but it is reliably stated that he has made prisoners several Manchurian officers of Chang's army. He is said to be at the head of an army of about 100,000 men, while Chang has 50,000 troops under his command. Chang is reported to be keeping General Kuo's family under strictest surveillance.

An additional division and a brigade of troops of General Feng Yu-Hsiang, the "Christian general," who appears to be in control of the balance of power in the present embroglio, have entered Peking.

Teng Yu-Chun, a prominent Anfu party leader and adherent of Marshal Wu-Pei-Fu, Chih-Li war lord, was arrested this afternoon. Other Anfu leaders fear they will suffer a similar fate.

The attitude of General Li Ching-Ling, civil governor of Chih-Li, is still doubtful, but he appears to be prepared to resist any invasion of his province.

INVENTION TO DISPENSE WITH THE RADIO HORN

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—(AP)—Dr. Lee DeForest, inventor, announced today that he had patented an invention which he asserts gives clarity and absolute naturalness in the reproduction of sound on radio receiving sets. Correct amplitude in all directions is obtained, he said, and use of the invention makes it possible to dispense with the radio horn.

The apparatus was described as a cylindrical floating membrane capable of uniform vibration over its entire surface, differing from the diaphragm action now used in all telephone earpieces and radio loud speakers.

BANK OF AMERICA AND ITALY TO DOUBLE CAPITALIZATION

ROME, Nov. 26.—(A. P.) — The board of directors of the Bank of Aemica and Italy has decided to double the bank's capitalization to 200,000,000 lire (about $8,000,000 at the present rate of exchange). The American group affiliated with the bank agreed to take up three-fourths of the new capital.

OBITUARY

Philip G. Arnold

HADAM, Nov. 26.—(AP)—Philip G. Arnold, 58, former member of the general assembly and brother-in-law of Ellwyn W. Clark, of Higganum, well known republican committeeman, died today after a long illness. He lived in East Hampton for twenty years and went to the legislature from that town in 1907. Moving here he become active in politics and again went to the house in 1923. He had also been first selectman, justice of the peace, road commissioner and held other town offices. He was a democrat.

Mr. Arnold was born in this town and leaves a wife, a son, Philip, a brother, Ephriam, of Hartford and two sisters Mrs. Wilton A. Taylor, of Meriden and Mrs. E. W. Clark, of Higganum.

The funeral will be on Sunday at the Congregational church in charge of the Masonic lodge.

Mr. Arnold had an automobile which he had fitted up for touring and which had a living apartment on the chassis. He called it "the Wanderer" and among his long pleasure trips were two to Florida for a stay and one to Canada. The car became well known throughout the eastern part of the country and it was in use by Mr. Arnold a good deal.

BRIAND BESOUGHT TO STEP INTO THE BREACH IN FRANCE

M. Briand Has Consented to Make Another Effort to Form a Cabinet—President Doumergue Called Upon Briand After Consulting With Federal Leaders—Union of Parties May Be Made to Eliminate the Socialists Influence—Object is to Form a Ministry That Will Last Long Enough to Untangle the Financial and Political Situation.

PARIS, Nov. 26—Aristide Briand, former premier, tonight was making his second effort of the week to constitute a cabinet to succeed the Painleve ministry which resigned Sunday.

The failure of Former Premier Herriot to form a cabinet, made known to President Doumergue this afternoon, brought the crisis back to the point where it was at the beginning of the week. The president, before seeking a fourth cabinet maker, conferred again with the parliamentary leaders and then appealed to M. Briand to step into the breach again and prevent the situation from going from bad to worse.

M Briand, who was minister of foreign affairs in the Painleve cabinet, found the situation quite different than when he tried to make up a ministerial combination early in the week. The Socialists in the meantime had by their manoeuvres forced President Doumergue to call on M. Herriot, and it was discovered that they had made it impossible for M. Herriot to succeed in forming a government.

The experiments remaining to be tried were a socialist cabinet or a concentration government which would be formed regardless of the socialist vote in the chamber. A good many radicals, and some of the more moderate parliamentarians advised that the socialists be given a chance to show what they would do in power. It was thought the venture would last only a few weeks, when the situation would be cleared of socialist obstruction and a stable government could be formed.

President Doumergue decided, however, that the experiment was too dangerous and would be likely to bring further depreciation of the franc, disorganization of the country's finances and further tangling of the political situation. He gave preference to the idea of a concentration cabinet, and called M. Briand again after consulting with the radical leaders as to the possibility of rallying the radicals to a union of parties that would eliminate the socialist influence.

Although preferring to take second place—that is minister of foreign affairs—in a cabinet combination, M. Briand consented to make another effort. The general opinion tonight is that, if he choses to rely on a majority composed of radicals, republicans of the left and other moderate parties, he will be able to form a government that will last long enough to untangle the financial and political situations.

TO SUGGEST BASIS FOR COAL STRIKE SETTLEMENT

NEW YORK, Nov. 26—(A. P.)—The committee on coal and giant power, comprised of engineers, economics, publicists, lawyers and business men from all parts of the country, today announced the issuance of a suggestion for a basis on which to settle the present strike in the anthracite coal fields. The plan, which has been sent to officials of both the miners and operators, contains the following suggestions:

A wage increase of 50 cents a day for the lowest paid miners, that is, day workers, who now receive between $4.62 and $5.86 a shift.

No price increase over the average 1924-25 pre-strike prices for companies showing over a ten per cent. return for that period.

An increase of 25 cents a ton on only domestic sizes of coal. This, it is explained would cover the cost entailed by the increased wages.

A check-off of regular union dues only by operators of mines where a ballot of all the workers shows a two-third vote in favor of it.

Immediate appointment of a committe by the operators and miners to work out an adjustment of piece-work rates, and to supervise the balloting on the establishment of the check-off.

This same committee to submit to the consuming public six months before the expiration of the new agreement a complete report on the state and needs of the industry.

GOVT TO BUY BONDS OF THIRD LIBERTY LOAN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—The treasury tomorrow will attempt for the first time in modern financing the experiment of dealing directly with the holders of government securities in making purchases of bonds for retirement from the sinking fund.

Between tomorrow and December 10, the treasury announced tonight, it will buy bonds of the third Liberty loan up to fifty million dollars as the first step in determining the feasibility of an arrangement between government security holders and the government itself, it will buy at the lowest prices offered, but will pay as high as 101 and one half and accrued interest. Payment for the bonds accepted will be made Dec. 29.

Under the plan, the bondholder will deposit his security with a bank or trust company as the means of setting in motion machinery which will stop when the treasury's acceptance results in payment direct to the owner. Brokerage charges thus will be eliminated both for the security holder and for the treasury.

UNEMPLOYMENT DEBATED IN HOUSE OF COMMONS

LONDON, Nov. 26—During a debate on the unemployment question in the house of commons today, J. Ramsay Macdonald, former labor premier, declared nothing had done the British business reputation and politics, intelligence more damage in the United States than the widespread belief there that the unemployment dole in this country is a state charity instead of a state insurance, as is the case. He ridiculed the contention that re-imposition of the McKenna duties has been followed by greater employment.

The debate was precipitated by an attempt by the labor party to censure the government for not dealing with the unemployment problem in an adequate manner. Although official weekly figures in recent months have shown a gradual reduction in the number of unemployed persons, Tom Shaw, who introduced the resolution of censure, stated the present fixure of 1,193,077 unemployed was misleading, and that at least 7,000 more should be added.

NEW YORK COUPLE HELD FOR TRANSPORTING LIQUOR

STAMFORD, Nov. 26—Denario Di Orio and his wife of 19 Grand street, New York, are being held by the police here charged with transportation of liquor. In their automobile the police found 113 pints of whiskey, 160 quarts of wine and whiskey, and two quarts of champagne. Di Orio told the police the liquor was for his own use and that he was transferring it from his New York home to his summer home, the location of which was not mentioned.

MISS GERALDINE FARRAR IN SERIOUS CONDITION

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 26—(A. P.)—Miss Geraldine Farrar, star of the operetta "Flomany Love Spell," who yesterday was forced to cancel her engagements yesterday for the next four weeks at least because of a breakdown in her health, was still seriously ill at the Hotel Heublein here tonight. Miss Farrar was able to sing the leading role in the operetta at Parsons' theater at the premiere Tuesday night but was unable to continue with her work yesterday and the Hartford engagement and one following in New Haven were cancelled. The company was sent to New York to await Miss Farrar's recovery. Miss Farrar's physicians arrived from New York this morning and after an examination of the star, decided that it would not be advisable to move her from the hotel today. She was unable to leave her bed during the day and her manager said tonight that she was still very ill.

Sidney Farrar, of Ridgefield, Conn., Miss Farrar's father, also arrived here this morning. It had been planned to take Miss Farrar to her Ridgefield home today, but upon the advice of her physician, it was decided to postpone this until tomorrow. If she shows improvement during the night, she will be taken home tomorrow morning.

TO FORM NEW ENGLAND SHEEP BREEDERS' ASS'N.

HARTFORD, Nov. 26—(A. P.)—The need, opportunities and facilities for increasing the sheep raising industry, because of the convenient markets, the great demand for the products and the amount of waste land which might be utilized, makes the sheep breeders of Connecticut in accord in favoring the project to form a New England Sheep Breeders' association to advance the growth of the industry, Frederick S. Champman, of Old Saybrook, president of the Connecticut Sheep Breeders' association, said today.

First steps in the forming of the New England association were taken at a meeting in Boston several days ago. Growers from all New England states were represented and tentative plans were outlined which will be submitted to various state associations for consideration.

There are now between 8,000 and 10,000 sheep in flocks of less than sixty, in the state, Mr. Chapman estimates. The industry has received impetus in the past few years due to the failure of Australian and Western markets to meet the demand for wool and mutton. Previously the industry had deteriorated, until but few farmers kept more than one or two sheep, mainly for exhibition purposes.

YALE'S MEMORIAL FOR 227 WORLD WAR VICTIMS

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 26—(A. P.)—A colonnade on the south side of the Yale dining hall, with an altar of liberty in the center, will be Yale university's memorial to her 227 students and graduates who lost their lives in the great war. Alterations will be made in the Hewitt quadrangle in front of the colonnade so that it will become a part of the memorial.

The funds for the memorial have been presented to the university by the alumni advisory board, whose committee, under the chairmanship of Frederic W. Allen, '00, interested Yale men in the proposal.

The memorial colonnade will complete the buildings erected in 1901 to mark the 200th anniversary of the founding of Yale. The original plan for the group called for a row of columns facing the main axis of approach. The colonnade now to be constructed will follow the general lines of that at first proposed using the Corinthian column and entablature, and forming an approach to the bicentennial buildings.

DRUSE TRIBESMEN BURN AND PILLAGE VILLAGES

BEIRUT, Syria, Nov. 26—(A. P.)—The rebellious Druse tribesmen, recently routed by French reinforcements in the vicinity of Rashelya, west of Damascus, are retreating precipitately, burning and pillaging villages in their flight.

The losses of the tribesmen are reported to have been heavy. They left on the field in the vicinity of Rasheiya, more than 300 dead, and it is known that they carried many of their dead away with them.

TWENTY-ONE CARS FIGURE IN HOLIDAY ACCIDENTS IN OR NEAR WILLIMANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 26—By far the highest record for accidents occuring within a radius of 18 miles of Willimantic went down into the annals of local history Thanksgiving day when reports of 14 accidents occurring within twelve hours and involving about twenty-seven automobiles were secured. The damage runs up into hundreds of dollars but fortunately the only injuries consisted of slight bruises which did not require medical attention. All of the accidents were directly caused by skidding on stretches of thin ice, where the wet snow which fell Wednesday afternoon had frozen and remained on the highway, a trap to motorists until late Thursday forenoon. As a result of the accidents some fifty would-be visitors entirely lost the spirit of Thanksgiving day and many turkey dinners which had been anticipated the day previously were left untouched. As far as could be learned in only one instance, a triple accident near Hampton Hill, were the state police were summoned, and all of the mishaps were said to have ben unavoidable, due to the condition of the highways. Seven of the accidents occurred Wednesday evening while the remainder took place between 9 and 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning. A resume of the information gatherde relative to the accidents follows:

At about 5:30 o'clock Wednesday night a Ford Coupe owned and operated by Miss Della Guilford of Arnold's Lane, this city, skidded through a fence on Ripley Hill, South Coventry and the left side of the body and glass in the car were demolished. No injuries.

At 6 o'clock Wednesday night a Dodge touring car owned by John Ashton of this city skidded around in the road in Barber's Village, South Coventry, breaking a rear spring and putting a hole in the gasoline tank. This car was hauled to Leonard's Bros. Garage.

At 7 o'clock Wednesday night a Hupmobile car, owned by a Massachusetts party, left the road and toppled down a 15 foot embankment about one quarter mile east of the base of Hampton Hill. A Connecticut man driving a Gardner sedan and having his wife and small child as passengers came along and upon reaching the scene of the accident applied his brakes. His machine turned turtle. No one was injured. The driver of the Hupmobile miraculously escaped without a scratch. While the wrecker from the R. G. Remington, Inc., garage of this city was drawing the Hupmobile up the bank by means of a steel cable another machine came along. The driver saw the cable too late although he had been warned to stop as he approached. The top of his machine was ripped off when it struck the stel band. A member of the Danielson state police barracks was called to the scene. From the scene of this triple accident a good view of Hampton Hill could be secured and a large crowd which had gathered lost all interest in the immediate doings to observe the antics of cars coming down the hill. Many of these had hair-breadth escapes from plunging to destruction to the valley several hundred feet below the top of the incline.

At 7:30 o'clock Wednesday night a Flint touring car driven by L. Lanzevin of 38 Thomas street, Springfield, Mass., who was on his way to spend Thanksgiving day with relatives on Main street, here, skidded into the side of the road near Eagleville on the Stafford-Willimantic highway. The front and rear right wheels were crushed and the front bumper broken. The machine was hauled to this city by the Jordan Buick garage wrecker.

At 10:20 o'clock Wednesday night a Hupmobile S, registered in Connecticut and a Massachusetts Cadillac Sedan met and ripped away fenders as they skidded on the treacherous curve at the Andover railroad underpass.

Misfortune for motorists started in with a bang at 9 o'clock Thanksgiving day morning when eight cars, representing Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts and incidentally several of the well-known makes of cars, rioted with damaging results at the railroad underpass in Andover. Former Selectman George A. Merritt heard a crash and rushing to the underpass which is recognized as one of the worst death-traps in Connecticut he found that the place was the scene of much activity. Three cars were already locked together. Suddenly still another machine rolled into view, skidded on the exceedingly slippery surface, struck the other machines and thus added to the collection. In rapid succession and before warners could be sent out on either side to give warning four more machines joined the frolic. A big Buick sedan danced along the road, pinched at the already damaged fenders of the foe of the melee. Still another machine other machines and halted in the center and repeated the act. The grand finale came when a Ford and a Chevrolet simultaneously bunted their way thru the flock. During this time Mr. Merritt had been unable to secure any assistance from the excited group of drivers and passengers. As the only recourse he notified a state highway employee and a load of and was quickly brought to the scene, thus preventing further collisions. With much difficulty the machines were disentangled and driven away under their own power, all carrying off dented fenders, smashed running boards, broken windshields and other memos of the experience.

At 10 o'clock Thursday morning, about one mile from the scene of the collision of eight cars in Andover a Dodge touring owned by a local man skidded at the curve in Andover Village near the Thompson home and rolled over on its side in the road. The top and windshield were smashed and the frame bent. There were no injuries.

At 10 o'clock a Hudson sedan, owned and operated by John Roman of New Britain, skide dfor front of McQuillan's store on upper Main street and after climbing the sidewalk came to a stop against the stone wall at the corner of Winter and Main streets. The front end of the car was damaged and it was hauled away by Leonard Bros. Inc., garage.

At 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning a Studebaker sedan, owned by Sebastien Bourcier of Woonsocket, R. I., and operated by Arsene Rondeau of Diamond Hill road, Woonsocket, skidded on ice and went through the state fence and plunged head-first down a four-foot embankment, about one-quarter of a mile east of the entrance to the Columbia road on the Hartford-Willimantic highway. The four passengers escaped injury but the machine was damaged to the extent of a bent front axle, bent front fenders and broken front and rear bumpers. The car was hauled to Leonard Bros. garage here for repairs.

At 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning, three hundred yards from the scene of the wrecking of the Studebaker sedan operated by a Woonsocket man, an other Woonsocket car, a Rickenbacker coupe, owned and driven by Dr. Allen A. Weeden of that city, was struck head-on by a Hudson coach operated by E. F. Whitley of 25 Prospect Place, Bristol, Conn. Dr. Weeden was heading west and was on his way to Waterbury, Whitley was coming toward this city. As he was about to meet the other machine Whitley applied his brakes when he noticed that he was coming onto a stretch of ice. The Hudson skidded toward the left of the road and the bumper and left front fender jammed into the left front part of the Rickenbacker, which was stopped within a few inches of the state fence on the right side. Dr. Weeden stated that his car was only one week in his possession and that he was driving under 25 miles an hour in conformance with the rule applied to new motors. The Hudson spun around and blocked traffic for some time until a dozen or more autoists assisted in dragging it to one side. It was later hauled to this city by Leonard Bro. garage wrecker.

An innocent bystander was the only victim when a taxicab and two trucks collided on a busy street in Boston. John Bowell of the South End district, a pedestrian, was struck by one of the trucks as it recoiled after the collision, thrown into a trench and killed.

CHIEF OF POLICE RIDES IN CAR REPORTED STOLEN

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 26—Chief of police Allan McArthur had the rare occasion Wednesday night of being a passenger in an automobile while the owner, Harold I. Phillips, of 349 Ash street, was at police headquarters reporting to Captain Grady that the machine had been stolen. Phillips had left his Dodge sedan in front of police station while he visited with the police officials. About this time Emilio Cozzi, of Norwich Town, drove up in a Ford sedan and entered the police headquarters. He notified Chief McArthur that he had come to identify the body of Paridi Pegorari, the young Italian suicide. The chief walked out and believing that the Dodge was Cozzi's car got into the back seat to ride to the funeral parlors. Cozzi believed that the Dodge belonged to Chief McArthur and noting that he was expected to drive, got in and drove off without asking any questions. While the party was at the undertaking establishment Phillips came out and found nothing but a Ford. He did not feel that the exchange was a profitable one and he notified Captain Grady. After a brief search, in which M. E. Sullivan, a friend of Phillips, assisted materially, the wrangle was straightened out and the parties involved shook hands.

MINSTREL MIMICS WELL PRESENTED BY GUARDSMEN

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 26—The Minstrel Mimics, a unique and "different" type of minstrel, was well received by large audiences who attended the presentations at the state armory Wednesday and Thanksgiving day evenings. The minstrel was given under the auspices of Co. C, 169th Inf., and was directed and staged by Harry E. Farnham, of an Ohio producing company. Constant applause marked the appreciation of the audiences for the local talent. The characters appeared in colorful costumes of excellent design, in keeping with the settings for the various parts. During the opening part home-town minstrel jokes caused much mirth. The casts and programs of the two parts follow: Part one—First Mimic, "The Hunt Club Frolic," hunt master, Geroge H. Millerd; jockeys, Francis McCarthy, James Simon, Roy Howlett, Eugene Brousseau, Ernest Jacobs, Joe Bernet; huntsmen, Andrew Dziekan, Harry Nolan, Jack Ogushowitz, John T. Burnore, Edward Curran, Stephen Nacsin, Arthur Pelletier, William Donovan, Walter Dziekan, Anthony Jolie, Alonzo B. Mott, Arthur Brousseau, Richard Moriarty, Arthur Barry, Louis J Wojick, Theodore R. Perkins; Paul C. Webb, Stanley Horvath, George B. Phoenix, Charles B. Rayhall, Walter Williams, Francis Sullivan; musical program in First Mimic, 1. Opening chorus by ensemble; 2, Alone at Last by Ernest Jacobs; 3, Away From You, by Edward Curran; 4, Angry, by Francis McCarthy; 5, My Sweetie Turned Me Down, by Flo Jarvis and boys; 6, You and I, by Jack Ogushowitz, 7, Roll 'Em Girls, by Joe Bernet; 8, Dreamer of Dreams, by Eugene Brausseau; 9, Show Me the Way to Go Home, by Roy Howlett; 10, grand finale by ensemble. Part two—Second Mimic, "It's a Pop Pop Popular Song," by Miss Francis Foley, assisted by the Pop Pop Girls, Irene Chamberlain, Louise Belanger, Irene Nolan, Helen Nacsin, Eva LeClair, Arline Richmond, Pearl Wheaton, Ruth Esterbrooks. Third Mimic, Dancing Shoes, Miss Lorraine Turner. Fourth Mimic, Melodies by The Imperial Quartette composed of Arthur L. Clark, Ray B. Tallman, Edwin F. Cross and Claude Ide. Fifth Mimic, The Isle of Never Known, cast of characters: Queen Bambaloona, Flo Jarvis; Inkypas, her prime minister, James Simon; Kalau and Killa, her nieces, Gladys Powell and Elinor Connor; Tom Randolph, U. S. naval officer, George H. Millerd; Jasper Fishbait, just a gob, Joe Bernet; Ephriam Fewclothes, ship's cook, Eddie Curran; herald, Francis McCarthy; royal guards, Roy Howlett and W. C. Peck; group of island belles, Angeline McClure, Mary Dronczyk, Catherine Kegler, Mildred Welson, Sophie Kucha, Helen Meck, Alice Chamberlain, Edna LaFlamme. The fifth mimic closed with the singing of I Want To Be a Bride, by the ensemble assisted by the entire aggregation. Dancing followed the minstrel. Music was by the Peerless Eight orchestra. Mrs. A. J. Dubruell was rehearsal pianist. Members of Company C, who acted as a committee of arrangements for the affair were: Captain Joseph R. Morrison, chairman; lieutenants, first, Ellison S. Smith, second, Edward A. Morrison; Sergeants Oscar L. Keith, William C. Peck, Ernest A. Jacobs, William D Nicol, Corporals Raymond W. Peck, Geroge A. Thompson, Richard T. Moriorty, Privated Clarence Moriarty, Arthur V. Barry, Louis J. Wojick, Florimond F. Jolie and James K. Elmon.

An instructive and interesting talk on Finance will be given at the December meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, next Tuesday evening, by John Wadhams, of Torrington. Mr. Wadhams is ably equipped with practical knowledge of the financial world and most fitted to speak on this subject. He is chairman of the state board of finance, treasurer of the Torrington Savings bank and widely known as the chairman of the special commission appointed by Governor Trumbull under a special act of legislature, to investigate the management of state institutions. The purpose of the commission is to conduct a survey of the economical status and cost of operation of the institutions, with a view of affecting a lower cost. The meeting

W. DAVIS DISCHARGED AS TEMPORARY RECEIVER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Nov. 26—Following a satisfactory adjustment of the differences involved, Irving W. Davis has completed his duties as temporary receiver for the Phoenix Building company and has been discharged from the duties of that office. Earlier in the month minority stockholders sought and obtained through the superior court the appointment of a temporary receiver. Purchase by majority stockholders of the minority stockholders who brought the receivership such stock as they held allowed of closing the receivership.

GILBERT DISTRICT SCHOOL DESTROYED BY FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Nov. 26—Flames that threw a red reflection on the sky west of here Thanksgiving evening about 10 o'clock, were from the burning Gilbert District school, in the town of Brooklyn. This school is on a road leading to Pomfret, out of Brooklyn and about a mile north of Brooklyn village. Twelve pupils have been attending school there and Miss Mae Franklin, of Danielson, has been the teacher.

It was stated Thanksgiving day that the school closed Wednesday, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and that no wood had been placed in the stove, used to heat the small frame structure, since noon, Wednesday. Further, it is stated, that early observers of the fire said that the building was burning at the front of the structure when they arrived, this being away from where the stove was located.

While no definite knowledge is at hand as to the origin of the fire there is a possibility that it was incendiary. It is probable that the school will not be rebuilt and that children in the district will be given daily transportation to the school at Brooklyn Center.

It is understood that there was a small amount of insurance on the destroyed building, which was of the old district school type, and has been in use for many years.

Building of the bridge rails, or sides, of the new concrete bridge over the Assawaga river in Main street has been started. This work will be completed within a few days. The main part of the bridge poured a week ago today, is hardening rapidly and can be opened for use in about two weeks. All of the wooden supports and forms that entered into the construction of the bridge are to be removed as soon as the bridge is in use.

Towns to the south of here, from Central Village down the line, are curious to see how the busses will handle the heavy Saturday afternoon and evening traffic southward and return. They are dubious over a bus with a seating capacity of 29 duplicating the adequate service of the trolley cars. However, the Connecticut company has said they will have an ample number of busses on the route Saturday afternoons and evenings. Then, it will be recalled, the New Haven road is said to be willing to run a train south from Putnam to Norwich early Saturday afternoons, this train returning in the early evening. This would rate a shoppers' train. No announcement as to when the talked of train will go into service has been made.

Supt. Oliver Bassett and Mrs. Bassett, the matron, at the town farm, served a splendid Thanksgiving dinner to the inmates. Chicken, a variety of vegetables, fruits and other things were on the menu for the day, and most was the pleasure of those who sat down to the bountiful feast. There are 22 inmates at the town farm at the present time, 16 men and 6 women. Prisoners at the county jail in Brooklyn also enjoyed a special dinner on the holiday.

Thanksgiving morning the funeral of Leodore Parent was held from his home on the West side with a requiem mass at St. James' church at 9:30, Rev. Joseph Deschaux, M. S., being the celebrant. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery. The bearers were Emil Gaudette, Alcid Godreau, Lionel Boulay and Leo Giguere. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

At All Hallows church, in Moosup, Thanksgiving morning there was a solemn high mass of requiem for William J. Kennedy, of that place. The officers of the mass were Rev. J. C. McCarthy, Rev. J. C. Mathieu, Waureean, and Rev. Oscar Norman. Burial was in the Sacred Heart cemetery at Waureean. The bearers were Thomas Kennedy, Francis Kennedy, Thomas Meehan, John Fay, Joseph Goyette and Austin Conklin. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements.

There was no real outstanding feature of the holiday in Danielson, lest the innumerable family gatherings for the traditional Thanksgiving feast might be so regarded. As delightful a Thanksgiving, weatherwise, as one could wish, it was seized upon by many for motor trips and even long walks in the open. The business section was practically deserted throughout the day.

The Killingly town school committee, following its yearly reorganization is now constituted as follows: Chairman, F. E. Bitgood; teachers' committee, Miss Emma F. Pilling, Mrs. Agnes M. Paine, Damase Boulais, William S. Hunter, Dr. R. C. Prisque; finance, Messrs Boulais, Hunter, Prisque, William Kinder and Mrs. Paine; purchasing committee, Damase Boulais, Arthur Bruton, Mrs. M. V. Woodworth; transportation, Messers Bruton, Hunter, Kinder; supervisor, for Killingly, Mrs. Agnes H. Paine, for Brooklyn, J. Dyer Potter; Evans fund, Mrs. M. V. Woodworth, Miss Emma F. Pilling, Dr. R. C. Prisque; library fund, Mrs. Agnes H. Paine.

Now that trolley service is to be discontinued next Monday, it may be possible to have some very dangerous places between the trolley rails in Water street repaired. The job is a small one, but it has been neglected for months and months. Good fortune alone has prevented some serious accident where the dirt is gone from between the rails and where a gutter letting water run off an embankment into the river invites disaster for someone every day.

Next Tuesday afternoon members of the Fortnightly club will meet with Mrs. W. P. Perkins of Broad street.

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Stone and Miss Ruth Fiske are to leave Tuesday evening for Sanford, Fla., where they will spend the winter.

Miss Margaret McBride is to leave about mid-December to spend the winter season at Clearwater, Fla.

Thanksgiving morning there was a celebration of holy communion at St. Alban's church.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Plummer and their daughter, of North Sterling, have taken a home in Danielson for the winter. Mr. Plummer is engaged in business here.

Miss Florence L. Leach, student at Boston university, spent the holiday with her grandmother, Mrs. Theodore F. Bailey of Broad street.

A union Thanksgiving service was held at the Baptist church Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred L. Reed are entertaining Mr. Reed's mother, Mrs John Reed, of Melrose.

Officers are to be nominated this (Friday) evening at a meeting of Dorcas Rebekah lodge.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaston A. Maindon motored to Providence Thanksgiving day.

The First Ecclesiastical society (Unitarian) Brooklyn, has voted to call Rev. William I. Lawrence for the months of June, July, August and September, 1926. Rev. Mr. Lawrence has preached at the church from time during the past three years.

Enrollments in Christmas clubs for 1926 are already underway at Danielson's banks.

Mr. and Mrs. George Witter, of Brooklyn, were Thanksgiving day guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Carl Witter, of Cottage street.

A considerable number went from Danielson to Putnam, Thanksgiving morning to see the final football game of the season for Killingly High school, playing against Putnam High.

"Well, it's a nice day for it," remarked a man who gazed skyward Thanksgiving afternoon, his vision following a speeding aeroplane.

The Sewing society of St. Alban's church has a meeting scheduled to be held at the parish house this (Friday) afternoon.

There will be few objectors to the statement that Thursday was as fine a Thanksgiving day as anyone here can recall.

A sentimental indulgence for many this week-end will be the taking of a trolley ride over the local line, which will cease to operate next Monday night.

Arthur P. Choquette is the executor of the will of his father, Moses Choquette, who died recently in the Mashentuck district.

Frank W. Hazard, for many years a resident of Oneco, has sold his business in that place and is to go to Providence to make his home. Mr. Hazard is a native of Providence.

Charles E. Ayer has been named as trustee of the bankrupt estate of Carroll B. Allen and of the bankrupt estate of Joseph E., and Florence M. Hopkins, of East Killingly.

This is the morning to get out and dust off the slogan "Do your Christmas shopping early." It's good advice, too.

Maurice Douglas Flattery, lawyer and financier, whose colorful career included the activities of soldier, teacher, playwright, musician, novelist and patron of science, died in Boston. He collapsed on the street and his body was identified by his secretary several hours later.

PUTNAM

HOUSE AND CONTENTS DESTROYED; LOSS $15,000

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Nov. 26—The boarding house of Miss Elinor C. Mathewson at Pomfret, was burned to the ground shortly after noon today. All of the contents were destroyed, including the personal possessions of the fifteen guests, who were making their home there for the winter. They had just sat down to a typical New England Thanksgiving dinner when Dr. Henry Mathewson, of Providence, a brother of Miss Mathewson, who had driven over for the day, saw smoke issuing from a clothes closet. When he opened the door of the closet the smoke poured out in a dense cloud and also came up from the basement in such volume that the occupants of the house had to fight their way to the safety of out-of-doors.

A few minutes later the house, which was of wood, was a seething mass of flames. Within half an hour it was level with the ground. A Bible with a record of the Mathewson family dating back more than 150 years, and two portraits were all that was saved. One of the guests, a Mrs. Lowell, is an invalid, and she was taken out in a wheel-chair.

Pomfret has no means of fighting a fire and aid was asked of Putnam. A motor truck was sent over, and although it arrived there in a few minutes the blaze was beyond control. It is not known how it started or how it could have gained such headway before it was discovered. The value of the house and furniture is estimated at from $12,000 to $15,000. The personal property of the guests consisting of money, valuable papers, jewels and clothing, will make the loss several thousands more.

The summer home of Mrs. Katherine Noyes, of New York city, is but a short distance from the Mathewson place and although it had been closed for the winter Miss Mathewson and her guests are housed there temporarily. Notwithstanding the scarcity of fuel and with the Noyes hose bin empty, a supply was secured during the afternoon, a telephone installed, and the burned-out occupants have been deluged with offers of help from friends.

On January 1, 1915, Miss Mathewson suffered a similar loss, her house and all its belongings being lost in the same way.

MRS. GEORGE C. HOLT DIED AT POMFRET HOME

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Nov. 26—Mrs. George C. Holt, wife of Judge George C. Holt, of Woodstock, died this afternoon at Pomfret, where the family had gone for the winter. She is the mother of Hamilton Holt, president of Rollins college, Florida, and democratic candidate for United States senator against Hiram Bingham at the special election last winter. She is the sister of Herbert L. Bowen, of Woodstock, formerly U. S. minister to Venezuela. Her husband was a federal judge for the southern New England district including Connecticut and part of New York. He retired several years ago.

The State and Forestry commission commission has acquired 287 acres of land in Pomfret, in the vicinity of the Wolf Den.

The state now owns 90 acres there, including the natural cavity that was the scene of one of General Putnam's best known exploits. The addition adjoins this land and extends to the state highway, which means a large state park and a proper and perpetual setting for its most historical spot.

Frank O. Davis of Pomfret was the medium through which the state became the owner of the land. He was at one time a member of the State Park and Forestry commission and is familiar with its policy of acquiring and preserving large tracts in different parts of the state and its plans for improving them.

Ninety-two acres of the land belonged to the estate of the late John Ash. This land adjoins the Wolf Den property on the east. Running for a distance of about two miles from the Wolf Den to the state highway is a second tract of 180 acres which is part of the state's purchase. It belonged to Martin G. Sproul and is well adapted for a forestry preserve. Nearly 170 acres of it are wooded land. A third tract, five acres in area, fills in and rounds out what will eventually become a very attractive park.

One of the principal features of the transaction is that it will permit the state to build a road that will make the Wolf Den accessible to the public. Under the condition that now prevail it is very difficult and at times almost impossible for an automobile to negotiate the road that now leads to the Wolf Den, although the number of visitors who come here annually to visit the spot is very large and is constantly increasing.

Elizabeth Porter Putnam Chapter of the D. A. R., in order to preserve the place, bought the land around it several years ago, and last year they transferred it to the state, which, through its park commission, is the logical owner.

Judge Edwin C. Dickenson made a very favorable impression on the local attorneys, court attaches and others who attended the session of the superior court, here, Tuesday, when he presided for the first time since his appointment to the bench. He was courteous and considerate, tried to defer as much as possible to the wishes of the attorneys when the assignments were called, but he was very sure of himself when pasing on objections in the one suit that was tried, that of Max Udell & Son vs. Charles Seder.

He was also insistant that no hearing should be started in any case unless the attorneys were satisfied that they could be through by Wednesday afternoon. Neither for the jurors, nor for himself, did he wish to have a case half tried when the Thanksgiving holiday made its advent.

Two attorneys were here from Willimantic but the suits in which they were retained were continued.

The jurors sworn in were: Edwin Cross, Windham; Jesse E. Rich and Charles Clemens, Putnam; Frank Babbington and Henry N. Amidon, Ashford; Sherman L. Russell and William N. House, Brooklyn; William Wright and Fred Cone, Canterbury; Wesley E. Deming and Charles F. Locke, Chaplin; George Griggs and Wilfred J. Latham, Eastford; Frank Kenyon and Patrick Navin, Hampton; Henry J. Kosmaler, Killingly; Fred W. Keen, Pomfret; L. J. Moffitt, Scotland; Charles Gardner, Sterling; Leonard Mills, Thompson; Olin Chaffee, Woodstock.

Harold Cunningham of Pomfret has filed suit for $3.50 against Tony Postemsky also of Pomfret, which he claims is due him for money advanced the defendant.

The actual amount loaned Mr. Postemsky was $1.70 but interest and the trouble resulting from trying to collect it brings the amount to $3.50. As security a Pomfret constable stated in the writ that he had "levied on a black and white cow, without horns, the property of the defendant."

The case reached superior court through an appeal from the finding of Walter Bryden, justice of the peace. It was tried in his court and Cunningham was awarded $1.70 and the costs amounting to $10.34 were taxed against Postemsky. But Mr. Cunningham insists that he is entitled to $3.50 and he has accordingly appealed to the superior court.

Another suit in which the same parties are principals and which probably has a bearing on the $3.50 one has reached superior court through the same channel.

On November 9, Tony Postemsky obtained judgment before Justice of the Peace Bryden for $50. According to the complainant Cunningham sold him a cow for $90., which was guaranteed to give an average of more than 12 quarts of milk daily. The average, so Tony avers, is not half that. He wanted the $90 that he paid for the cow. Mr. Cunningham denied these allegations and he appealed from the finding.

The public and parochial schools closed Wednesday at noon for the remainder of the week.

A number of Putnam musicians will go to Webster, Mass., Monday night to give a concert to be broadcasted from the radio station there. The party will consist of Mrs. Pearl Wheaton, Mrs. Katherine Lowne, Miss Alice Stevens, Miss Elsie Rouse, Mis Elnora Fisher and Wallace Smith.

Michael Zotto is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital and his condition is considered very serious.

At the A. O. H. hall in Pomfret Wednesday, a very successful rummage sale was held for the benefit of the Day Kimball hospital. It was conducted by Mrs. Luis deFlores and the receipts will make a welcome addition to the funds of the hospital.

Mrs. Mary Stone, mother of Rev. Albert Stone, formerly pastor at the Baptist church in this city, has been visiting friends here. Mrs. Stone has just returned from a two years visit in England. Chaplain Stone is now located in Panama.

Mrs. Thomas Rawley of School street has been the guest of friends in Willimantic.

A new Ford touring car owned by Francis Boucher, son of Mr. and Mrs Delphis Boucher of this city, which was stolen from him Tuesday night while he was attending a dance in East Hartford, was recovered Wednesday night by state police officers, who were notified that it had been located in Jewett City.

Martha M. Lyman died at her home, 318 Valley street, at 12:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon. She was the widow of William C. Lyman. The deceased was born July 5, 1838, a daughter of Marcus and Maria Gurley Barrows. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Clifford J. Alpaugh and Mrs. John W Wood of this city.

FINGERPRINTING

One does not have to spend much time in research work to discover the value of fingerprinting. It speaks for itself wherever used in strong terms. It is of great benefit for identification purposes, it stands in the way of fraud and it is of immense assistance in connection with the tracing of criminals.

Just because it is so extensively used in connection with criminal records there has been a disposition to fight shy of its use in other directions, but that should have no bearing upon the general use of something that is protective and positive. Because it is used in connection with criminal records does not mean that everyone who has his fingerprint taken is a criminal, any more than the same deduction is possible from the photographing of individuals. Just because there are rogues gallery does not mean that it is fixing place for all photographs. Because certain banking houses require fingerprints of all depositors does not mean that there is any criminality involved. The fingerprinting of babies in hospital to make sure of their identity does not cast any suspicion upon their future careers.

When United States Attorney Buckner of New York advocates the launching of a reform that will revolutionize fingerprinting in this country he gives recognition to the merits of this old, but not extensively used idea and urges a better understanding of it, being confident that such will do much to remove the opposition to it that now prevails.

Federal Attorney Buckner has not outlined just what course should be followed in accomplishing the reform, but he indicates that it ought to be in general use and if every child should be fingerprinted at birth it can be appreciated that it would prevent many of the cases of mistaken identities, lost persons and misrepresentation. The country would no doubt like to know more about what is contemplated by the proposed reformation.

PENNSYLVANIA'S DUTY

Interest in the situation which surrounds the coal strike is naturally keen in Pennsylvania, which state has a monopoly on anthracite. It is for the interest of that state that the production should not be stopped. It affects business, other industries and labor generally when the coal mines are not in operation.

It is therefore interesting to note that even citizens of the Keystone state are alert to the position in which that commonwealth stands before the nation. If we can judge from the communication to the press of that city by T. B. Stork of Philadelphia in which he says:

"Mr. Lewis and his miners possess a monopoly: a monopoly got by themselves at their own urgent request. Armed with their certificates, these miners have the sole right to mine coal in Pennsylvania; no other man or group of men dare take a pound of anthracite coal from the earth under penalty of the law. With such a monopoly goes the right of regulation. . . . The miners cannot have it both ways; insist upon the government-bestowed monopoly and refuse the corresponding obligation to submit to regulation. . . . The state of Pennsylvania has exercised its powers to create this monopoly and it cannot now escape its duty to regulate it. It cannot call upon the federal government or any other authority to remedy a condition which it has itself created and for which it is responsible. One of two things it must do if it does its duty: abolish the monopoly or perform the work of regulating it."

Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania has been interesting himself in the coal strike, but it will be noted that he has been devoting his efforts to getting the coal miners and operators to come to some agreement, presumably a compromise that would increase the price of coal as in the case of the last strike adjustment, without giving any attention to such regulation as Mr. Stork suggests.

THE CONFERENCE ON CHINA

In one way or another China is receiving the attention of the world. This great big under developed nation is having a revolution, suffering from a flood, experiencing a shortage of food or is involved in some sort of a conference relative to its relations with other nations.

Just now there is underway at Peking an international conference, the Chinese Customs conference, the outcome of which means much to the whole world, but particularly to China. China is in a position to get recognition from the leading powers that it has undergone changes for the better and as a consequence entitled to a greater independence. It has in the past been guided to a large degree by what other nations have permitted. Gradually it seems to be in a way to get away from some of the restrictions which have been regarded as handicaps to real nationhood.

Control of China's commercial relations has rested with the so-called treaty powers in the past because these nations had gained through treaties the right to establish the Chinese tariffs. Already the conference has got to the point of assuring to China the right to make its own tariffs, and that must be regarded as a decided forward step, the benefits of which cannot be misunderstood by China. It means that China has changed, that it has progressed and that it has got to the point where it should not be kept submerged. China has obtained its new right which becomes effective in 1929 by agreeing to abolish provincial duties, and now there remains to be considered the question of extraterritorial treaties. It may not be too much to hope for equally satisfactory results in that direction.

In days that are gone China has had reasons on many occasions for appreciating the altruistic efforts of the United States. These have been increased in this present conference by the championing of China's cause by the representatives of this government. Our efforts to aid China are sincere and commendable. This is indicated by the way in which others have acquiesced.

TRAIN CONTROL

A few days ago information was offered concerning the test made of a radio device for controlling the operation of trains. By it trains would be brought to a stop in conformity with signals even if the engineer failed to act in response thereto.

A more recent demonstration has been that on the Lackawanna line before the representatives of several railroads and the reports of it are most promising. It was demonstrated that had it been in use at the time of the recent wreck at Plainsboro, N. J., where the engineer ran past a danger signal in the fog the train would have been halted and the rear end collision prevented.

Regarding its operation under various conditions it is reported that "experts witnessing the tests gasped in astonishment" which indicates the impression made upon those who understand railroad operation and who therefore could fully appreciate the results obtained.

Since it became apparent that railroads must become equipped with such safety devices much progress has been made in developing them. Apparently defects in the early train controls are being overcome, and certainly when devices are put on the market which will meet all contingencies there can be no hesitancy on the part of the railroads in adopting them with as little delay as possible. For the protection of the traveling public they cannot be provided any too soon.

THE TACNA-ARICA PLEBISCITE

Just what the outcome of the Tacna-Arica dispute is going to be is a bit difficult to tell. The complications are of such long standing that while the adjustment might seem simple enough the fact is that it is not.

It was with surprise that Chile and Peru were brought to the point of agreeing to have their dispute over this territory settled by a plebiscite. There has been ill feeling for so long that there is no disposition to concede anything to the other side and in the preparations for the vote of the people it is a most difficult task that is imposed upon the commission. Instead of having confidence in the acts of the commission there are strong indications that whatever move that is made that favors one side or the other is regarded by the other as favoritism. This quickly arouses suspicion on both sides and it has been evident on several occasions that the ill-feeling has not been put aside even temporarily.

The commission has now been at work several months. It has made uncertain progress and it has encountered disconcerting handicaps, so much so that Chairman Pershing has indicated his willingness to quit. Certainly he has reason to feel that both countries are more disposed to resume their old feud than they are to effect a settlement. This gives ground for the belief that regardless of the outcome of the plebiscite, if the time is ever reached when that can be obtained, it will be a long time before the ill feeling will be eliminated.

It was a hard place for anyone to be put as the head of that Tacna-Arica dispute and the difficulties that have arisen are in keeping with anticipations. Instead of each country doing its best to aid they seem to be devoting their efforts to blocking what they have approved unless it can be conducted according to their particular views.

FIGHTING WORD

The girl in the advance fall hat looked twice and then darted around the corner of the handkerchief aisle to catch up with the young woman in the green sports suit.

"Why, Marina!" she cried, "so you didn't go to the country after all! Where have you been keeping yourself since last June? You were so sure you were going——"

"I did go—I am gone," the girl in green insisted with some indignation. "I just ran into town to do some shopping for——"

"Oh!" commented the girl in the fall hat, with a note of chagrin. "Well, it must be an awful disappointment to go to all the expense of a summer at the lake and not show a scrap of sunburn or tan! It hardly pays, does it, because lots of people would think you hadn't been at all, and were just pretending—if they didn't know you, I mean! Of course, if you sit around most of the time and never get asked out sailing or swimming or anything, it's next to impossible to get a coat of tan!"

"Why, I go in the water every day!" the girl in green declared with some vigor. "I take care of my complexion and, anyhow, I have a good skin."

"Yes, a thick, coarse skin doesn't tan like a delicate one," agreed her friend. "My, you ought to see me if I am out one single hour on the lake I burn perfectly red. A fine, delicate complexion like mine is a care. Harry says—oh, you don't know Harry Crete, do you? He came to town after you left, and, my dear! Talk about devotion! Hes one the prone every minute and takes me everywhere! Between him and Lawrence Billings I keep up a merry pace, and it's some job to keep both those boys happy and not jealous. I know just what lake resorts are in the summer—all doddering old men or mere schoolboys too young to have to work, and I sympathize——"

"I'm having a grand time," insisted the girl in green. "There's a jolly crowd and something doing every minute. I am surprised to see you, Callie, for you talked as though you were going to Europe with your aunt——"

"Poor auntie!" cried the girl in the new fall hat, with a sympathetic sigh. "Do you know, just as we were about to get our passports her physician said he wouldn't let her go and we had to give it up. But I didn't mind, because simply everybody went to Europe this season and made it terribly common, I——"

"Well, it would have been a change, anyway," said the girl in the green suit, "and that would have been so nice for you! Staying right home and doing the same old thing sort of rests, I think, don't you? Takes away all enthusiasm and vivacity from a girl! Harwood always said——"

"Oh, my dear!" the girl in the new fall hat rippled with laughter. "Speaking of Harwood reminds me! When he came around the other evening — I have an awful time making space for him with Harry and Lawrence there every minute! Well, he had just got back from spending a weekend at some girl's at a summer resort, you'd have died to hear him tell about it!

"In the first place he only went because she kept writing and writing and asking him and he hated turning her down cold. He said his kindly deed certainly did not bring its reward because he never was so bored in all his life—the girl wouldn't let him breathe out of her sight and it was positively pathetic! I knew you'd be amused, because you used to know Harwood so well before he met me!

"I don't see how any girl could be so deluded, do you? As for myself, I'm so sensitive that I positively can feel emotions in the air, and I know right away whether or not anybody is really fond of me! Poor Harwood was so glad to get back——"

"Was he?" dreamingly asked the girl in green. "I never should have thought it from the way he hated to leave! You see it was my house where he visited, and I'm right here, Callie, to hand you the prize of a pink, plush-lined bathtub for being the cutest little liar left high and dry in a deserted city! Harwood and I are going to be married the last of this month, and I'm here buying my trousseau! So-o-o sorry we won't see you at the wedding! Good-by."

"My land!" gasped the girl in the advance fall hat, sinking down on a stool at the counter and resting her head on one hand.—Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Jan Ciechanowski, the new Polish minister to the United States who is now on his way to his post in Washington, is one of the youngest men ever appointed to represent a foreign government in the American capital. He is only thirty-eight years of age. Having graduated from the University of Birmingham in England he has a wide acquaintance with English institutions and language, which doubtless will prove a great asset to him in his duties in Washington. He has been connected with the Polish diplomatic service ever since the creation of the Republic of Poland in 1919. For some time he was on duty in the ministry of foreign affairs and afterwards as chief of the Anglo-American section. More recently he has represented his government at conferences of the league of nations.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Union Made Goods

Mr. Editor:—I would like to impose upon your good graces once more for a little space in your paper. Like the writer of the letter that appeared in The Bulletin this morning, signed Another Merchant who was interested in my letter I certainly am as fully interested in his.

He says the average union man buys where he gets the cheapest regardless of union or other labels which is very true but let us see what the merchants do to encourage the sale of union label gods. Do you ever see any union label merchandise advertised or on display by the merchants? No. If you go in and ask for a union made product they tell you that there is no call for the label so they do not carry it. If they do carry a few union made articles they will tell that they have the same thing without the union label for 25 or 50 cents less and try and discourage you from buying the label product. Why? Because the fair manufacturer who pays his employes a living wage has got to charge more for his product than the manufacturer who hires his work done in prisons or runs a sweat shop and naturally the merchant pushes the product that he makes the most profit on.

They say there is no demand but I say if the merchants' heart is with the labor movement it is a lame excuse to wait for just the union men to come in and call for union products because I don't think very many of his other customers will refuse to buy an article if there is a union label on it.

The merchants do not even patronize each other but go to Hartford, Providence and other cities and make their purchases claiming that they cannot get just what they want in Norwich. No, they can't get it as cheap in Norwich.

I heartily agree with the writer that the merchants cannot compete with the Norwich C. & E. dept., anymore than the local cigar manufacturers can compete with the cheap cigars made under unfair conditions elsewhere and dumped into Norwich. But I cannot agree with him when he places the blame on the vote of the union men of Norwich. This condition was brought about by the gas and electric commission and I don't think anyone had a vote on it except them or possibly the city council. Look them up and see if they are made up of union men. I think you will find they are mostly business men or merchants.

I also agree that the coal strike is another object lesson. The wages of the miners were just the same when they mined the coal that we are paying $18.50 for now as it was when they mined the $14.50 coal. It was all mined before the strike and piled up at the mines or coal dealers yards. Now where is that $4 going that the public is held up for? Take butter, eggs, potatoes and other commodities of life where there is no union to go on strike, where the prices are set by the trust or are gambled for in Wall street. There is some more Christian spirit for you.

Now, Mr. Merchant, I do not know who you are but I presume you are a member of the Chamber of Commerce or the Merchants' bureau. Why not have one of these organizations call a meeting inviting delegates from the different organizations in Norwich to be present to talk over plans for the correction of these evils and see if we cannot put over a concerted movement to boost Norwich. This cannot be done unless everybody in the community gets behind such a movement and as I said before you will be surprised how it works out.

Thanking you again Mr. Editor, for the space in your valuable paper, I beg to remain,

Yours truly,
Wm. H. Donahue, Secty.

W. H. Richmond living, and in Tampa

Mr. Editor: Some unknown friend sent me a copy of The Bulletin for Nov. 12, 1925, in which the account of the death of Thomas E. Lee, of Jewett City, was printed. The latter part of the article reads as follows: "His death marks the passing of the last of his generation. He is survived by only two of the next generation, Homer L. Lee, of Webster, Mass., and Melvin Richmond, of Moosup."

The article should have read. He is survived by only three of the next generation, Homer L. Lee, of Webster, Mass., Melvin Richmond, of Moosup, and William H. Richmond, of Tampa, Fla.

Melvin Richmond and I are brothers he being 7 years my junior. I was born in Norwich, Conn., April 16, 1865, on Franklin street. My parents were Henry H., and Lydia L. Richmond, nee Lee. I am at present a member of St. James lodge, A. F. & A. M., No. 23, of Norwich, Conn., and in 1892-3-4 was in the employ of The Shetucket and Falls mills. Coming to Macon, Ga., in 1894, and Florida, in 1911.

I am writing you concerning this, as I do not care to be put among the list of the dead, as some of my friends and relatives in the north might believe, should they have read the notice of the death of my uncle.

I will appreciate if you will make correction or give the same publicity to the true statement as the erroneous one.

Respectfully
W. H. RICHMOND.

Norwich Radio Artists.

Mr. Editor: Norwich people who tuned in on WCAC on Wednesday evening, November 25, were greatly delighted by listening to a fine concert given by Miss Eunice Taft, accompanied by Miss Mildred Cass, Warren Kane, accompanied by Joseph P. Downes, Prentice Chase, accompanied by Miss Mary Bresnahan, and the Roamers orchestra—all of Norwich. The Norwich Radio club is to be congratulated for enterprise and civic spirit in having Norwich local talent broadcast from Storrs' station. It was a great treat to Norwich radio owners to tune in on WCAC and listen to a comprehensive musical programme by talent from their own city. It was a unique thrill which only the modern invention and perfection of radio made possible.

Miss Eunice Taft, who on many occasions charmed her many friends and admirers in our city in various local amateur performances is to be congratulated for broadcasting her pleasant voice which surely thrilled all who are interested in the civic pride of our city and no doubt that her fine singing delighted many strangers and made them interested in Norwich. Miss Taft was ably assisted by Miss Mildred Cass at the piano. Warren Kane, our handsome, smiling hero, made his golden voice heard by whoever was fortunate in tuning in on WCAC. Mr. Kane's singing was greatly embellished by Joseph P. Downes' splendid piano playing, and the fine baritone solos by Prentice Chase were greatly enhanced by the beautiful piano accompaniment of Miss Mary Bresnahan. The Roamers played their orchestra music with very fine ensemble and perfect rhythm, like trained professionals. Great credit is due to our Norwich performers for their very fine showing. It was an excellent condition in the interest of boosting Norwich and a commendable example of civic interest worth emulating. I trust that this performance will be the forerunner of more such broadcastings by talented people of our city. We have many talented ladies in Norwich and equally able gentlemen who could do great credit to our city if they would overcome their modesty and express their beauty of soul and their noble hopes and aspiration through instrumental music and singing voice and have their friends enjoy their accomplishments. All beginnings are difficult—but now that a beginning was made I hope and trust that more Norwich music will fill the air to the delight and edification of our people and of other radio listeners.

OBITUARY

Perry D. Palmer

Perry D. Palmer, of Ledyard, died Wednesday evening in the Hartford hospital following a serious illness of about five weeks' duration. He had been in poor health for some months. Mr. Palmer was born in Ledyard, 63 years ago, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Donald S. Palmer. His younger days were passed in the town of his birth but during the greater part of his life he was employed on ocean steamers as head steward. He had taken many long trips and had been around the world.

For the past two or three years he had made his home at the Palmer homestead in Ledyard. Mr. Palmer never married. He leaves an only sister, Mrs. C. P. Norman, of Ledyard.

Mrs. Charles B. Ladd

The death of Ella Coombs, widow of Charles B. Ladd, of Norwich, occurred Wednesday evening, following a shock which she suffered a week ago and a sudden turn for the worse last Saturday evening.

Mrs. Ladd was born in Tama county, Iowa, Dec. 23, 1857, the daughter of Oliver S. Coombs and Wealthy Ann Church, but had lived in Norwich ever since her marriage here, May 3, 1877, to Charles B. Ladd. Her husband died about nine years ago.

She is survived by three children, Mrs. George E. Goss, of Norwich, George C. Ladd, of Mystic, and Edgar P. Ladd. She also leaves seven grandchildren, a sister, Mrs. Calvin Miner, and a brother, Charles Coombs both of Norwich.

Mrs. James LaPointe

Following a short illness, Louisa Morey, wife of James Lapointe, died Wednesday about 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's hospital, Willimantic. Mrs. Lapointe was born in Canada, the daughter of William and Harriet Gashnat Morey, July 4, 1850. She came to the United States when a young girl and on August 1, 1878, was united in marriage with James Lapointe. Forty years of their married life was spent in Griswold.

Surviving Mrs. Lapointe are the following children, Louis of Southbridge, Mass., James of Wauregan, William of Jewett City, Mrs. Elizabeth Auclair of Hartford, and Mrs. Lynwood B. Crary of Preston. There are also four sisters three brothers and nineteen grandchildren. Mrs. Lapointe was of a home loving disposition and was ever ready to lend a helping hand wherever needed. She leaves many friends who sincerely mourn her death.

Frederick L. Stearns

After an illness of considerable duration the death of Frederick L. Stearns occurred Wednesday morning at his home in Winchendon, Mass. Mr. Stearns was born in Winchendon, Aug. 31, 1850 and was a resident of this city for three years about 1877 when he was with the Boston and Norwich Clothing Co. He then returned to Winchendon, going into the clothing business and had resided there since. He was a past master of Artisan lodge, F. & A. M., in Winchendon. Besides his wife and his daughter, Arline D. Stearns, he is survived by his brother, Will L. Stearns of this city.

BARRELS WERE BURNED ON THANKSGIVING NIGHT

The time honored Norwich custom of barrel burning on Thanksgiving was not neglected as a number of barrel gangs started their fires as soon as it was dark on Thursday.

Good sized strings were early burned on Jail Hill and there were blazes from points on Division street, West Pearl street and off Maple street, where the barrel gangs set fire to the strings they had erected during the day.

The Masked Raiders had six strings burning at 122 High street. The Raiders give their membership as follows: John Murphy, captain; Joe, of Meyer's college, H. Chick Ceccolini, P. (Duke) DeSio, Walter Wodka.

Mrs. Berry Patroness

A Hartford paper Thursday pictured a summer cottager at Ocean avenue, Ocean Beach, Mrs. Peter Berry, who was among the patronesses for the annual assembly of the Catholic Junior League of Hartford, given Thanksgiving evening in the ballroom of the Hotel Bond.

Small Chimney Fire

There were no calls for the Norwich fire department Thanksgiving day. Wednesday night after 11 o'clock the department responded to a telephone call for a chimney fire at No. 425 Main street, occupied by Mrs. Nellie A. Tanner.

CHAPMAN NOTIFIED OF HIS SECOND REPRIEVE

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 26—(A. P.)—Gerald Chapman was notified today at the state prison that Governor John H. Trumbull had consented to set forward the date for his execution from next Wednesday to March 3, to allow time for his appeal to the supreme court of the United States.

The news was carried to him by Joseph M. Freedman, one of his lawyers, who visited the condemned man just after the latter had finished his Thanksgiving day dinner. "Take nothing for granted," had been Chapman's last plea to Mr. Freedman the previous day when the latter stopped for a talk with him after Chapman had declined to accept a commutation of his twenty-five year federal sentence.

Chapman was relieved today to learn from Mr. Freedman that there was no doubt about his second reprieve, which Governor Trumbull is to sign tomorrow. The fact that the stay of execution remained to be secured disturbed him Wednesday and he asked Mr. Freedman to make a special trip to the prison to notify him the moment the reprieve was assured.

It cost market men and grocers $2,000,000 to order the Thanksgiving dinners for Connecticut people.

TUMBLE FROM RUNNING BOARD ENDED BOY'S UNEXPECTED JOY RIDE

Little Morris St. Lawrence, two-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander St. Lawrence of 353 Yantic street, unconsciously embarked upon a joy ride about noon Thursday that will be enrolled in the family annals and recounted to him in later years.

In the course of his play Thursday in the neighborhood of his home, little Morris came across an automobile parked along the sidewalk. The conveniently near running board offered an invited place to sit and the boy took his place on it. While the little fellow was seated there, John E. Fitzgerald, a well known insurance agent, came to the car, entered and took his seat and started off without knowing that he had a little passenger on the running board. As he had entered the car from the left, he knew nothing of Morris sitting on the right hand running board, but the residents along the street knew it and shouted at Mr. Fitzgerald to attract his attention.

Little Morris enjoyed the sensation of motion and sat on the running board contentedly, with his feet hanging off, as the car passed on out of Yantic street, up through Lafayette street, into Washington and up through Town street until Mr. Fitzgerald rounded the flashing beacon at the Johnson home at the Norwich town green.

Here the swing of the automobile and Mr. Fitzgerald drove around the beacon towards Yantic tossed little Morris off almost at the feet of two Norwich Town women, who had watched with amazement as they saw the automobile approach and observed a pair of child's feet projecting from the side.

Mr. Fitzgerald drove on, still unconscious that he had deposited the little joy rider in the highway, while the two women who were waiting for the Hartford bus, picked Morris up and took him to the Rock Nook home for attention for a considerable abrasion on his forehead where he had hit the ground.

Meanwhile the Falls section was in a tumult, trying to locate what had become of the little fellow whom residents there had seen carried off right before their own eyes. Everybody knew Mr. Fitzgerald and his machine and the effort was to find out where he had gone and what he had done with Morris. Officer William Ryan was brought into the case and police headquarters was enlisted in the effort to locate the Fitzgerald machine, but it had disappeared absolutely. One man took up the trail in another car and went as far as Yantic but returned without having learned where Mr. Fitzgerald had driven to.

Meanwhile those at the Rock Nook home with the little boy in their charge were wondering whose child it was. They thought it must belong in the neighborhood and that before long its parents would naturally come looking for it so that it could be restored to them.

Nearly two hours had gone by from the time the child started on his ride from the Falls, when a telephone message from the Rock Nook home to police headquarters started to unravel the mystery. It didn't take long for the police headquarters to connect up the two ends of the story and find that the child at the Rock Nook home was the same that had ridden away from Yantic street about two hours before. Then little Morris was restored to his parents.

Whether Mr. Fitzgerald had learned of the part he played unconsciously in the Thanksgiving day ride of the little Yantic street boy had not been learned late Thursday afternoon.

DIOCESAN BUREAU ADDS TWO WORKERS

The Catholic diocesan bureau of social service has recently added two new workers to its staff: Miss Regina O'Connell of Marlboro, Mass., in the children's work in Hartford and Mrs. Frances H. Girroir, of Montreal, at the New London office.

Miss O'Connell is a graduate of Trinity college, Washington, D. C., and took post-graduate work at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and at Harvard.

Mrs. Girroir attended Notre Dame Academy, Ottawa, Can., and later took a course at McDonald College. Her courses in sociology and social service was taken at McGill University, Montreal. She has been associated with the Family Welfare Association of Montreal.

NEARLY 500 ATTEND MASS AT 7 O'CLOCK THURSDAY

The regular week day parish mass at St. Patrick's church, Thanksgiving day morning at 7 o'clock was attended by a congregation of nearly 500. The low mass was read by the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May.

A large number in the congregation received holy communion, in thanksgiving for the blessings of the past year.

The date was the feast day of St. Sylvester. Among the congregation were members of the Apostleship of Prayer (League of the Sacred Heart) who, during this month, have been praying for the intention recommended by the Holy Father, which is "The salvation of the dying."

POST OFFICE CLERKS TO MEET AT MIDDLETOWN

Middletown will entertain the state convention of the Connecticut section of the National Federation of Post Office clerks on Washington's birthday, February 22, 1926. No meeting place or banquet arrangements have been made yet.

Arthur L. Clark, clerk in the Middletown money order department, is general chairman of the committee in charge of the gathering.

Calendar Day For December

Today, the 27th, is what is popularly called almanac day for the coming month. With the moon gaining in size—it will be full Monday next, the 30th—the weather sharps are looking for a fairly pleasant holiday month. The predictions are for some snow, several heavy rains, but in the main fine, clear, winter weather. A fall of snow is foretold for the day before Christmas.

WINNING THE FIGHT AGAINST TUBERCULOSIS

The annual sale of Christmas seals now in progress to collect funds with which to combat tuberculosis serves to remind us that the fight against this disease is a winning fight, says the weekly bulletin of the state board of health. Averaging the tuberculosis death rates in Connecticut for five year periods during the past thirty years so as to smooth out irregularities in annual rates gives the following results:

5-yr. Period	Average Death Rate
1895-1899	171.4
1900-1904	170.7
1905-1909	161.5
1910-1914	145.8
1915-1919	138.6
1920-1924	95.4

It will be noted from the foregoing table that the average rate has almost been cut in two in this time. In fact the tuberculosis death rate for 1924 was only 81.4 per hundred thousand population which is less than half the average rate for the ten year period 1895-1904 inclusive.

That tuberculosis has lost its place as king of the Men of Death is indicated by the following table which shows cancer and pneumonia as each claiming more victims than does tuberculosis:

Death rates from tuberculosis, cancer and pneumonia in Connecticut:

Year	Tuberculosis	Cancer	Pneumonia All Forms
1920	118.5	99.5	149.6
1921	95.6	97.4	97.2
1922	92.7	104.2	121.8
1923	89.3	98.3	127.3

Rates are per 100,000 population.

Certain other diseases such as apoplexy, heart disease and Bright's disease also cause more deaths in Connecticut than does tuberculosis but this is no reason for letting up in the tuberculosis campaign. Rather the success of the campaign should be considered reason for keeping it up.

The prevention of tuberculosis requires the patients to be cared for in sanatoria where they will not spread the infection to others or that they be adequately supervised in their homes. The state tuberculosis commission provides sanatoria for such patients. Local boards of health, tuberculosis societies, visiting nurse associations and other organizations throughout the state provide for the instruction and care of such patients in their homes to safeguard the spread of infection to others. The funds received from the sale of Christmas seals are used to make possible certain essential activities not provided for from public funds.

Investigations have shown that children often contract certain forms of tuberculosis by drinking milk from tuberculous cows. As a means of safeguarding children from this hazard the State Commissioner on Domestic Animals weeds out tuberculous cows from dairy herds and the State Commissioner of Dairies and Foods fosters and supervises the pasteurization of milk to kill the dangerous germs.

Keeping the front lines unbroken in the attack on tuberculosis requires cooperation and co-ordination of efforts by both official and voluntary agencies. In order to insure funds for activities not taken care of by public appropriation the sale of Christmas seals merits public confidence and support.

LENNEN ESTATE NOT FIGHTING WILCOX VERDICT

The twenty four hours in which a motion to set aside the verdict and for a new trial could be filed in the Lucius H. Wilcox suit against the estate of Capt. James Lennen, in which a verdict for $6,000 was given Wednesday afternoon at 4:25 in favor of Wilcox, passed Thursday without any such motions having been filed with the clerk of the superior court by the attorneys for the estate.

The apparent conclusion is that the verdict against the estate will be accepted by the executors and that there will be no further contest over the Wilcox claim.

CONDUCTOR DEWITT TO LEAVE TROLLEY EMPLOY

Frederick Dewitt, for the past year or two one of the most obliging and faithful trolley conductors for the Connecticut company, running on the Yantic line, is to complete his services with that company on Saturday evening. Conductor Dewitt, who at one time had the New London run, has at two different periods managed the one-man trolley on the Norwich Town route through to Yantic. The patrons on that line, especially elderly women, have greatly appreciated his courtesy and thoughtfulness in assisting them on and off the car. Mr. Dewitt is to take up work in a manufacturing plant in Jewett City Monday night.

Icy Walks Sanded

Street Commissioner John C. Donovan's men looked after a number of icy places on the walks, when the storm of late Wednesday night had ended. Several glare places on Bath street and the bad corner near the Otis library were sanded early Thursday morning.

COVERED 3,883 MILES ON FLORIDA TRIP

Judge Allyn L. Brown of 262 Broadway and Frank L. Arnold of 90 Cliff street returned late Tuesday afternoon from a trip to Florida which they took together in Judge Brown's automobile, occupying 18 days to cover the 3,883 miles which they covered going and coming. On the trip south which was through Washington they made 1,683 to Miami and on the return trip the distance was 2,200 miles as they came back through Harpers Ferry, the Blue Ridge mountains, Gettysburg, and over the Storm King highway and Bear Mountain bridge in New York state. In the whole distance they found only about 150 miles of bad road, the poor parts being in the sand of Georgia which was much like the road through the Pines at Brewsters Neck before a modern road was built there. Judge Brown was the driver for the whole distance.

The trip was full of interesting experiences, especially as they entered Florida and came to the small towns that are entered on the way to Miami. At every little town they met a booster for that community, who declared that his town was the finest spot in the state and predicted that the hordes of tourists who were hastening towards Miami would all come back that way and stop right in the home town of the booster. Miami, these town boosters declared, was much overrated, was much too crowded and altogether not to be compared to the particular community which they inhabited. "Why," said one restaurant proprietor when Judge Brown and Mr. Arnold stopped for a while at his place, "this rush for Miami makes me tired. These people drive in here and ask me how far it is to Miami. I tell them 350 miles. 'Give me a ham sandwich and a cup of coffee,' they respond, and they grab it and gobble it and git for Miami. But they come back."

The two Norwich men declare that the bustle and whirl of crowds and excitement in Miami make New York seem tame. Hotels and houses rise almost overnight, as if by magic, the banks are so crowded during business hours that it is almost a fight to get inside the lobby for a place in the long lines that the customers form, the streets are filled with automobiles from practically every state in the Union and of every variety of make and vintage. But Judge Brown and Mr. Arnold did not experience the excessive overcharging for accommodations and for meals which has been broadcasted as the thing to be expected in Miami. But they had an indication of it when room rates that had been quoted to them at $7 per day were jumped to $18 per day at noon as it was learned they were to stay only two or three days. They passed the place up at that price, but were fortunate to find excellent accommodations somewheres else right in the heart of Miami at the $7 rate. They found no difficulty in getting meals of good quality at moderate prices.

They spent three days in Miami, and while there saw William F. Hill and his son, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hagbere, E. Walter Phillips and his son, and Dr. and Mrs. Franklin S. Wilcox, all of Norwich. Mr. Hill, Mr. Phillips and Mr. Hagbere are at Hileah, one of the sections of Miami.

Parking regulations in the Florida city are most liberal as Judge Brown drove his car up in front of the place where they were staying and left it there for two days at the curb without moving it. They spent three days in Miami and left there Sunday, Nov. 15, for home.

Other Florida places visited were Jacksonville, St. Petersburg, and Tampa. They rode over the celebrated seven mile bridge and were much impressed with the West Coast of Florida.

NATIONAL CRIME COMMISSION ANNOUNCES ITS PURPOSE

The National Crime Commission is founded upon the willingness of American citizenship to give service where service is required. The suppression of crime and lawlessness in the United States appears to be an emergency requirement of this period. The National Crime Commission dedicates its service to stimulate public interest and action in the restoration of respect for the authority of the state in the performance of its fundamental duty of protecting the persons and property of its citizens.

The executive committee has considered carefully the specific functions to be undertaken by the National Crime Commission.

It expressly disclaims any purpose to take from the authorities of the federal government, states, municipalities, communities or citizenship the responsibility which rests squarely on their shoulders. It will refuse to attempt to replace public authority just as strongly as spirit and citizenship shall act as an auxiliary and stimulator to public authority. It will conceive one of its primary purposes to awaken public opinion but it will make available facts upon which intelligent and assured conclusions and decisive action can be accepted and undertaken.

Immediate Purpose.

In the interest of good organization it will assist in the creation of local crime commissions, not only for academic surveys but, in addition, for such action as may be desirable to put a stop to law breaking and primarily those forms of criminality which threaten with violence the safety of persons and property, the disturbance of peace and the flouting of public order.

With such local organizations of citizens desiring to be sure of their ground and inflexible in their determination to stand upon it, the National Crime Commission hopes to obtain a nation-wide co-operation and singleness of purpose and method. As a certain body it not only hopes to keep alive a national vigilance and to unify opinion but will attempt to obtain standardization of criminal statistics, current information, better methods of criminal identification, and the general improvement of police, criminal procedure and penal results.

It is by co-operation between communities and the states of the nation rather than by federal action, that the tide of crime can be turned. Toward such co-operation the National Crime Commission will devote its efforts and offer its auxiliary aid. This labor is not the labor of a day, nor will it stand firmly unless painstakingly founded upon solid information and careful organization developed with great pains.

Not Given to Theory.

The chairman and the executive committee invite the support of all individuals and organizations by information, co-operation and willingness to serve.

The National Crime Commission is not to be the instrument of any particular theory of cause of crime or punishment for crime. It recognizes that causes may be remote and fundamental or obvious and immediate. It recognizes that punishment for crime may err by being inhumane or by being pampering. These are matters to be weighed in due time. For immediate results, however, it places dependence upon methods not characterized by unnecessary brutality or which consider only the welfare and reform of the guilty, but upon those which will restore swift and certain justice dedicated to showing this generation that the cost of defiance of general welfare and authority is still too high to pay.

The organization adopted for this work is the executive committee, under the chairman, which at present consist of Dr. E. A. Alderman, president of the University of Virginia; Hon. Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war; Hon. Richard Washburn Child, former ambassador to Italy; Mrs. Ethel Roosevelt Derby; Hugh Frayne, who is authorized by the president of the American Federation of Labor to directly represent them in our councils; Hon. Herbert S. Hadley, chancellor of Washington university and former governor of Missouri; Hon. Charles Evans Hughes, former secretary of state; Hon. Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois; Hon. Franklin D. Roosevelt, former assistant secretary of the navy; Hon. Charles H. Rowell of California, member of the railroad commission; General James A. Drain, former commander of American Legion; General Samuel McRoberts, treasurer; Charles H. Sabin, chairman of the finance committee of the commission, and F. Trubee Davison, chairman of the commission.

Sub-committees, which will report to the executive committee, consist of:

Local organization, Richard Washburn Child, chairman; police, Chester H. Rowell, chairman; social, educational and industrial conditions affecting crime, Newton D. Baker, chairman; legal procedure, prosecution and judicial administration, Herbert S. Hadley, chairman; medical and expert testimony, Mrs. Ethel Roosevelt Derby, chairman; legal education and standards of professional conduct, pardons, probation, penal laws and institutional correction.

Each of these sub-committees will employ expert assistance.

In addition to this a statistical and research bureau will be established in the executive offices, which will conduct research work and gather such information and statistics as are requested by the various sub-committees and the executive committee.

The funds for the work are now being received.

WEDDINGS.

Friedman—Nowick.

Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Nowick of 15 Slater avenue their daughter, Rae, became the bride of Joseph Friedman of this city. The Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin was played by Miss Leah Addleston and the ceremony was performed by Rabbi Max Stamm. The bridesmaid was her sister, Sarah, and the best man was Irving Friedman, the groom's brother. The bride was gowned in golden georgette, trimmed with filet lace, with hat to match, and carried white chrysanthemums.

Following the ceremony supper was served and later in the evening the bridal couple left on their honeymoon. The grooms is associated with his brother in the Norwich Auto Parts Co., of North Main street and the bride was formerly employed at the Boston Store.

Thurber-Smith

At 4:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, Miss Verne I. Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Smith, of the Jewett City road, Lisbon, was united in marriage with Fred E. Thurber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Thurber, of Central Falls, R. I. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents, and the ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Harlow Graham, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, this city. The wedding march was played by Miss Blanche Fontaine.

The bridesmaid was Miss Josephine Smith, a cousin of the bride, and Richard Hodson, of Central Falls, a brother-in-law of the groom, was the best man. The bride was beautifully gowned in brown chiffon velvet and carried a shower bouquet of roses. Following the wedding a turkey dinner was served for the guests, covers being laid for 20.

The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl necklace and the bride's gift to the bridesmaid was a silver bracelet with sapphire setting. To the pianist the bride presented a silver mesh bag. The groom's gift to the best man was a pair of pearl cuff links. The bride received numerous handsome and useful gifts.

During the evening the bride and groom left for an extended trip to Florida and on their return will reside at No. 74 Rand street, Central Falls, R. I.

Mr. Thurber is employed as yard conductor for the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad at the Providence yards. His bride has been employed as a clerk in the inspecting department at the plant of the J. B. Martin company.

Guests were present from Central Falls, Taftville, Norwich and Lisbon.

Bennett—Coveau.

A pretty wedding took place Thursday morning at 10 o'clock at St. Patrick's rectory when the pastor, Monsignor M. H. May united in marriage Harold Jones Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Bennett of East Great Plain, and Miss Sarah Elizabeth Coveau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Napolean Coveau of 346 Franklin street. The bride was attended by Miss Viola Virginia Bolduc and William Sharvan acted as best man.

The bride was most becomingly gowned in pencil blue satin with gray trimmings and hat to match and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses. The bridesmaid was attired in porcelain blue satin with gold trimmings and hat of gold lace to match and carried a shower bouquet of Columbia roses.

After the ceremony a Thanksgiving dinner and reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for immediate relatives and friends.

The bride's gift to her bridesmaid was a freindship bracelet of blue and white sapphires. The groom's gift to the best man was a pair of white gold cuff links. The bride received many beautiful gifts including silver, cut glass, furniture and gold pieces. The bride's going away costume was a navy blue ensemble suit trimmed with French Coney fur and wore a silver metallic hat.

After a short honeymoon trip by motor which will extend through Vermont, the former home of the bride, the newly married couple will reside at East Great Plain.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Bennett extend to them hearty good wishes for a happy and prosperous future.

HELD FOR THEFT OF TWO CARLOADS OF GRAPES

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 26—(A. P.)—After a chase through New Haven streets today, Natale Minervino, of this city, was placed under arrest charged with being a fugitive from justice. He will be taken to Hoboken, N. J., to answer to a charge of the theft of two carloads of grapes which he is believed to have sold for $1,400.

A Hoboken policeman, accompanied by a witness who knew Minervino, appeared at police headquarters this morning

ACADEMY TEAM LOSES FINAL GAME OF SEASON TO STRONG ALUMNI TEAM

The flashing feet of Jack Hinrichs, star of last year's Academy team, were seen again on the Academy campus Thanksgiving Day afternoon and it was those feet that carried the ball across the last chalk mark for the only touchdown of the game which gave the Alumni team a 6 to 0 victory over the Academy varsity in the last battle of the year. The Alumni team proved to have unusual strength and although the players had had no practice together they played a brilliant game against the well coached high schoolers.

The lone touchdown came in the final period after three periods of scoreless play in midfield. The touchdown came as a result of Hinrichs long run around end and a forward pass put the ball on the Academy's one yard line. Three line plays failed to advance the ball more than a yard and on the fourth down Hinrichs was given the ball. He plunged through center like a shot without any opposition for the only score of the game.

Only once did the Academy threaten to score this being in the first period when by the forward pass game they brought the ball to the Alumni five yard line where they were forced to kick it up after attempting three forward passes that were grounded. This was the only real threat of the Academy against the veterans. Neither team could make consistent games through the line or around the ends and the distance gained was by the forward pass route or through punting.

There were several bright spots in the game these being long runs by Covey for the Alumni and by Turnbull and Brewer for the Academy. Covey got away twice for runs of 40 and thirty-five yards only to be driven off side by the Academy tacklers. The first run came early in the game when Covey took the ball through the entire Academy team only to be thrown off side by Schwartz who was the last man between the runner and the goal line. The other run came in the fourth period when Covey caught a drop-kick on his ten yard line and ran it back to midfield being driven off side on the center line.

The Alumni line played a brilliant defensive game, the work of Marty Gilman and Paul McNamara, members of the Connecticut Aggie Freshmen team, being especially good. Jack Hinrichs who has been playing football all season with the Brown Freshman team, played his usual spectacular game in the backfield but his interference was a trifle slow.

Hymie Schwartz continued the brilliant defensive work that he has shown in the last few games and it was his hard tackling that broke up many of the Alumni plays. It was he who at one time stopped what seemed an almost sure touchdown.

Coach Whitney threw all his reserves into the game and one who showed particularly brilliant was Kahn with his hard and sure tackling. Tombari showed up well in the punting and he outpunted his opponents many times.

The game was played on a wet and slippery field which more or less handicapped both teams. The Thanksgiving Day crowd was large and well repaid for their attendance.

The lineups for both teams were:

N. F. A.		Alumni
Sargent, McCluggage,	L. E.	L. E.Fox
Moore, Kramer,	L. T.	L. T. Lukoski
Mousely, Connell, Columb,	L. G.	L. G. Mileski

The officials were: Referee, McKay; umpire, McKnight; field judge and Head Linesman, Madden; timers, T. F. Brewer, Dr. J. J. Lynch.

FUMBLE GIVES PENN BREAK THAT ROGERS CONVERTS INTO WINNING SCORE

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 26—(By the A. P.)—Before a crowd of 70,000, the largest that ever witnessed their annual holiday classic, Pennsylvania conquered Cornell today, 7 to 0, in a spectacular battle.

The Quakers outrushed nearly two to one and outplayed for the greater part of the game, won by capitalizing the only "break" in their favor, a fumble by Tilton, Cornell halfback, in the final period, which Charley Rogers, Red Penn ball carrier, plucked out of the scrimmage and converted into the only touchdown of the game with a 45 yard dash.

This sudden turn of fortune decided the game but Penn's stonewall defense within its own ten yard line saved it, for the big red machine, constantly threatening, was checked three times inside that mark, losing the ball on downs each time with a touchdown seemingly in their grasp.

Cornell gained almost twice as many yards as Pennsylvania, 275 to 147, and registered fifteen first downs to nine for the Quakers, but in the final analysis it was the lack of a decisive punch when within sight of Pennsylvania's goal line that cost the Ithacans a triumph.

Two of Cornell's big drives were stopped in the final quarter after Rogers scored for Pennsylvania. A sustained march of 62 yards in which off tackle smashes were mixed with several short passes, came to naught on the five-yard mark when Pennsylvania held for downs. Shortly afterward another Cornell attack, in which two passes gained 31 yards, was halted on the eight yard line, and the last opportunity of the Ithacans was gone.

Cornell not only showed the most effective attack, but also put up a brilliant defense which stopped the bullet passes of Al Kreuz for the most part and also broke up a sensational passing offensive launched by Penn in the third quarters.

Two Rogers' hurling rifle shot passes to all corners of the field in the second five of which were completed to Thayer and Wascolonis for gains, two Quakers threatened to score twice, failing to break through, but once got beyond the 30-yard line to give Twins Cornell, with Isaacson coming out of the defense, intercepted a pass while another time, on the opposing 3-yard line, Kreuz's attempted field goal from the 40-yard mark was blocked.

The passing spurt, during which Cornell completed eight of her nine first attempts, was the only sustained Quaker offensive of the game, the weakness of Penn's attack shown by the fact that Rogers scoring play and the one set up in the second period were the only times Penn's backs were not thrown for a loss or smothered before they could get started.

Penn took advantage of the breaks in the game in its favor, Cornell failing to take advantage of the opportunities offered Penn. A fumble by Douglas in the last quarter gave Cornell the ball on Penn's 27 yard line but Penn's guard, missed an attempted goal from the placement. Twice in the second period Cornell got off poor kicks that put the ball well into Quakers territory but each time Penn "braced" was capitalized. In the third period Cornell missed its chance to score, losing the ball on Penn's 4-yard line when Kreuz's fourth down attempt to gain was nullified by a penalty for holding which set back the ball behind 27-yards. Although passing, Cornell completed only twenty three for gains of 147 yards, while Penn completed eight of fifteen for 71 yards.

The lineup:

Douglas	Left End	Fennell
Wilson	Left Guard	Carey
Gelbert	Center	Affeld
Hoffman	Right Guard	Munns
Wagner	Right Tackle	Evans
Thayer	Right End	Eddy
Rogers	Quarterback	Butterfield
Wascolonis	Left Halfback	Gessner
Mahan	Right Halfback	Tilton
Miller	Fullback	Pratt

Pennsylvania ..... 0 0 0 7—7
Cornell ..... 0 0 0 0—0

Referee Tom Thorp, Columbia. Umpire Victor Schwartz, Brown. Linesman, Charles Beetes, W. and J. field judge, A. W. Palmer, Colby. Time of periods 15 minutes.

SYRACUSE PROVES TOO STRONG FOR COLUMBIA

NEW YORK, Nov. 26—(By The Associated Press)—Syracuse scored its fourth victory over Columbia, 16 to 5 at the Polo Grounds today, in the fifth annual contest between the two institutions.

The orange offensive, aided by a dry field, displayed a strong potent game against the Morningside Heights aggregation, scoring two touchdowns and kicking a field goal. Columbia scored its five points on a field goal and a Syracuse safety.

Brilliant broken field running by Harlan Carr and Captain Foley, and the excellent judgment displayed in the use of the air game, gave the orange its two touchdowns. Columbia using deceptive air attack threatened the Syracuse goal twice but was unable to muster the power to penetrate the line near the goal and kicked a field goal on one occasion and lost the ball on downs on the other.

The Syracuse team displayed both power and speed and this coupled with a versatile attack, contributed largely to the downfall of the team which only two weeks ago lowered the standards of the Army eleven.

The line-ups:

SYRACUSE		COLUMBIA
Archoska	L. E.	L. E. Wagner
Bailey	L. T.	L. T. Reynolds
Bass	L. G.	L. G. Shaw
Freeman	C.	C. Schimmitsch

WACHSMUTH WINS ANNUAL MILLROSE A. C. MARATHON

BERWICK, Pa., Nov. 26—Slushing his way over the nine miles 386 yards of snow and slush covered roads this afternoon, Fred Wachsmuth, of the Millrose, A. C., New York, won the 16th annual Berwick marathon in 49 minutes, 54 seconds, two minutes slower than the course record. The course was never in worse condition.

Wachsmuth, Henigan, John Bell, of Syracuse University; Omar Prim, New York; Michaelson of Stanford, Conn., William Myers and John Gray of Philadelphia, were bunched within a hundred feet for the first three miles, but the long grind up the first mountain put the number to Wachsmuth, Henigan and Prim, with Clarence de Mar, veteran, Medford, Mass., runner coming up to join them on the down grade. Wachsmuth took the lead which he increased slowly to 300 yards at the finish.

Jack Chandler, Pennsylvania State college, surprised the spectators with his showing, finishing ninth, while Carl Davis, also of State college won the prize for the first local man to finish.

COWBOYS FORWARD PASS WAY TO VICTORY

HARTFORD, Nov. 26—The Kansas City "Cowboys" forward passed their way to a clear cut victory over the Cleveland Bulldogs, 1924 champions of the National Professional Football league here today at Clarkin field in the first national league game ever played in Connecticut, winning by a 17 to 0 margin. The opposing lines were impenetrable, only once giving way for a substantial gain. That time Dave Noble, former Nebraskan who twice defeated Notre Dame almost single handed, found a hole through tackle and dashed sixty yards before being hauled down.

The Cowboys proved themselves masters of the aerial game, several long heaves bringing the crowd to its feet.

PITTSBURGH CLOSES SEASON WITH SMASHING VICTORY

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 26—Riding roughshod over the Penn State College eleven this afternoon, the University of Pittsburgh gridders closed their record for the year shows only one defeat. State excelled in only one department—forward passing.

Pitt, with Big Andy Gustafson in the star role, started the scoring early. A batch of mud 30 yards from the State goal line, aided Pitt to make its first touchdown in the opening period. Roepke in position for a punt, slipped in the mire, the ball striking him in the face. Salata, a Pitt guard, scooped it up and ran 25 yards for the score. Gustafson added the point. A moment later Welch, Pitt halfback, got around the State right end for sixty yards and Gustafson booted a 33 field goal.

Michalske, Weston, Lundgren and Stamp then opened with State's most effective weapon. On a lake forward pass, Roepke ran 15 yards for a touchdown. Weston added the point. This was State's only tally.

Pitt scored again in the second period. Gaining the ball on a punt on the State 40 yard line, Welch, Brown and Gustafson plunged the ball half way down the gridiron. Gustafson carried it over and also added the point.

Six points were added by Pitt in the third period. Unable to gain, state punted. It was Pitt's ball on its own nine yard line. After several plunges by Harding, Gustafson shot a pass to Welch, who ran 85 yards for the score. Gustafson's boot for the point was wide. This ended the scoring.

YALE LOSES TO HAVERFORD SOCCER TEAM

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 27—The Thanksgiving day soccer game played on the Yale baseball field this morning between the varsity teams of Yale and Haverford resulted in a two to nothing victory for the visitors. The Haverford soccerists had just enough experience to offset the steady work of the Yale team, who outplayed them during the second and third quarters. The weakness of the three inside forwards did not allow the Blues to score.

W. VIRGINIA PILES UP BIG SCORE AGAINST W. & J.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 26—West Virginia University piled up a 19 to 0 victory over its ancient rival, Washington & Jefferson today in their annual Thanksgiving day game. A varied attack, aided greatly by consistent training of Bahnum and Glenn through the opening tackles, gave the Mountaineers their victory against a team outweighing them 15 pounds to the man. Long forward passes figured in plays that preceded each of the touchdowns.

FORDHAM WINS FROM JOHN CARROLL UNIV., 13-7

CLEVELAND, Nov. 26—Fordham University, New York city, defeated John Carroll University, 13 to 7, here today. Zev Graham. Fordham quarterback ran 13 yards for a touchdown in the first period, and drop-kicked the extra point. In the second period Graham passed 15 yards to Woerner who ran 38 yards for touchdown. Graham's try for the extra point was blocked.

Carroll scored in the third when Marrie made a touchdown and Parilla kicked the extra point, from placement.

Forward Pass Wins for Georgetown

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—Georgetown, flashing a forward passing game won its first victory in four years from the Quantico Marines today, 16 to 0. The game drew the largest crowd of the local season, including Secretary Wilbur and many high officials of the navy and the marine corps.

JEWETT CITY FIVE BEATS TAFTVILLE IN OPENING GAME OF THE SEASON

Joe Faber's Jewett City All Star basketball team got away on the right foot Thanksgiving day afternoon when they trimmed the Taftville Five, 28 to 19, in the opening game of the season at Parish hall. The hall was packed to capacity and from indications it would appear that basketball will be on a firm footing in the village this season.

Taftville started off with a well-working machine that piled up a 13 to 2 lead in the first half and then seemed to go to pieces in the last half of the game, Jewett City after being played to a stand-still in the first half came back strong in the second half and ran up 26 points while the Taftville team was able to add only seven points to their total.

Jewett City had a smooth working set of forwards in Normandin and Benjamin who between them scored enough points to beat the Taftville team, Benjamin getting six baskets from the floor and Normandin 4. Harry Mills at center for Jewett City shot three baskets but was almost completely covered by the Taftville aggregation.

The preliminary game between the Celtics and Red Burelle's All Stars resulted in a close victory for the Stars, 17 to 15. The game was a fast passing game in which the Stars had a slight edge on the Celtics.

The following is the lineups and summary for the game between the Taftville Five and Jewett City:

GRANGE PERFORMS WELL IN FIRST GAME AS PROFESSIONAL PLAYER

CHICAGO, Nov. 26—(By The Associated Press)—Harold "Red" Grange today stepped from a college hero into business life as a professional football player, gained the hearty applause of a crowd of over 40,000, some $20,000 as his share of the receipts and a black eye. His team, the Chicago Bears, played a scoreless tie with the Chicago Cardinals their bitter rivals of the south side.

"I never played against a more expert team of football players," said Grange after the game. "I don't remember how I got the black eye, but I never saw a bit of intentional roughness and I enjoyed my first professional game immensely. I did my best but was able to practice with the team only a few days."

The Cardinals made every effort to keep their punts out of Grange's hands, but he managed to get hold of three which he run back for 14, 25 and 30-yards. His longest gain from formation was but six yards and that was the next to the longest of the gain for either side. He made one of the two first downs for his team. Joe Sternaman, also a former university of Illinois player, made the other.

Paddy Driscoll, former northwestern star, made the only first down for the Cardinals and Grange stopped him after a five-yard gain, his only tackle of the game. The Cardinals only tried that one time around Grange's end. Driscoll once attempted a 43-yard drop kick, the ball sailing into a goal post later from the 64-yard line his attempt was blocked.

Grange rested for a few minutes near the close of the second period and the start of the third, but rushed back into the game when the Cardinals reached the 19-yard line, in time to intercept a pass under the goal posts and head off a touchdown. The Bears only good chance for a score came later in the third period, but Sternman fumbled on the 12-yard line and a dash through guard and the Cardinals recovered.

Grange opened up with passes in the last few minutes of the game, but all were knocked down by the Cardinals.

In fourteen plays, Grange gained a net of 40 yards and added 60 more in running back three punts. He was sweeping around the end in one of his characteristic runs when the pigskin cracked ending the game at Midfield.

Thousands swarmed on the field to reach him, but police rescued him and later formed outside the dressing room door to control the crowd.

Officials of the team refused to give out the total attendance and receipts, but the paid attendance ran over the 40,000 mark and the receipts around $80,000, according to estimates Grange's share was 40 per cent., of the receipts, it was understood, his own net income being 45 per cent of the 40 per cent.

Johnny Layden, one of the "four horsemen" of Notre Dame a 1924 team, was to have been in the backfield of the Cardinals but his father dissuaded him. One of Layden's predecessors, Johnny Mohardt, played in Grange's place while he was out.

Most of the Cardinal plays spilled harmlessly against Fleckenstein, former Iowa guard, Healy, former Dartmouth tackle and McMillen, who was a guard, preceded Grange in the capitalency of the Illinois eleven by two years.

Hanny of Indiana, punted the play deep into Cardinal territory most of the time. Driscoll's efforts to keep his punts out of Grange's hands were obvious to the crowd which gave a resounding groan at every Cardinal punt.

In the middle of the fourth period, after little of the spectacular had been vouchsafed the packed stands, Grange got loose with a punt on his 40-yard line and sprinted diagonally across the field. The crowd let out a tremendous yell, but Grange was stopped after a net advance of 25 years.

This evening the red-head was guest of his manager, C. C. Ryle for Thanksgiving dinner. Pyle announced some of Grange's personal business affairs, that he had made arrangements with a banker friend in Champaign, where he became famous, and another in Wheaton, his home town, to invest for him all his football winnings over $100 a week.

The lineup and summary:

STAR INDOOR GAME AT "Y" PROVES EXCITING

Indoor baseball of championship calibre helped to sharpen Thanksgiving dinner appetites in the YMCA gymnasium yesterday morning, when three games in the boys city league took place. Each game was fast and exciting, and enough swatting, base sliding and "muffing" was furnished to keep everybody chattering and on "their toes."

The "star" game was that played by the St. Louis and Pittsburgh teams the latter winning, 20 to 4 with the help of the pitching skill of Flaherty who was not overgenerous with his hits. Ernie Stevens proved to be the "king of swat" for the day.

The officials were: H. Ludlow, A. Brown, F. Lambert, S. Tombari, Murphy.

Results of other teams: Chicago 11, Boston 10; Washington 25, Detroit 3.

Standing of teams:

St. Louis	2	0	1000
Chicago	1	0	1000
Pittsburgh	1	1	500
Washington	1	2	334
Detroit	0	1	000
New York	0	1	000
Boston	0	1	000

Next games: Friday 4-6 p. m., Detroit vs. Chicago; Friday 7-8 p. m., St. Louis vs. Boston.

BLUES AND REDS TO CLASH AT HARTFORD SUNDAY

The Hartford Blues and the New Britain Reds, those greatest of all state football rivals, will clash in the second game of their series for the state title Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock on Clarkin field in Hartford. New Britain expectedly won the first game of the series two weeks ago and their supporters are confidently expecting them to repeat but Manager George Mulligan has strengthened the Blues so that they will be able to make better use of their great resources than they did in the last game when they wasted many of their scoring chances.

Mulligan has added two men to his Blues' backfield whom he thinks will furnish the necessary punch. One of these is Don Miller, a member of that famous Notre Dame Four Horsemen backfield last year and the other is Herb Kopf, former captain and backfield star at Washington & Jefferson. These two men with Silent John Devis and Harry Stuhldreher will make up the backfield when the Blues take the field against the Reds Sunday afternoon.

TRYON DECLARES HE WILL NOT PLAY PRO FOOTBALL

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 26—"My final football game," declared Eddie Tryon, Colgate captain, as he doffed his gridiron togs at the conclusion of the Brown game here today.

"I wouldn't play professional football if they offered me $10,000 a game," was Tryon's reply to a question of a friend if he was considering any of the offers tendered him.

Nebraska Beats Notre Dame

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 26—Nebraska's crimson hosts realized the hopes of a year today, drubbing Knute Rockne's Notre Dame football team 17 to 0.

The bitter defeat suffered last year at South Bend was evened, and the all-time record was proved a prophet as well as a coach—for he predicted two defeats for his team this year, and Army gave it the other one.

Joy Smoke Wins Feature

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 26—(AP)—Joy Smoke won the Thanksgiving day handicap, mile and three-sixteenths for three year olds and up, $10,000 added. Princess Doreen was second and Senator Norris third. The time was 2:02 1-5. A $2 parimutuel ticket on the winner paid $10.70 to win, $4.20 to place and $3.50 to show.

Negro Teams Play to Tie

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 26—Howard and Lincoln Universities battled to a scoreless tie today in their annual contest for the negro football championship of the east. Each team several times had the ball under the shadows of the other's goal, but was unable to score.

Field Goal Beats Grinnell

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 26—A field goal by Captain Levy from his 30 yard line in the final moments of play enabled Washington University to defeat the powerful Grinnell team, 3 to 0, and register its first Missouri Valley conference victory in two years.

GENERAL SHAKE-UP IN MISSOURI VALLEY CONFERENCE

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 26—(A. P.)—The closing of the Missouri Valley conference football season today brought a general shake-up in the standing of the teams and witnessed the triumph of the University of Nebraska over Coach Knute Rockne's Notre Dame eleven.

Missouri's hold on the mythical conference championship for the second successive year was not affected the Tigers having closed the year last Saturday in undisputed possession of the title, notwithstanding a defeat at the hands of Kansas in the final game.

The positions of the other teams were shifted today, however, Drake displacing Iowa State as the runner-up as the result of Iowa State's defeat by the Kansas Aggies, 12 to 7, the Aggies and Ames ended up in a tie for third place.

Oklahoma improved its place in the standings by overwhelming Oklahoma A. and M. college, 35 to 0, leaving the latter institutions at the bottom of the list without a single victory in its first year of competition in the conference. Washington pulled out of last place by a 3 to 0 victory over Grinnell. This left Oklahoma, Nebraska and Grinnell hunched ahead of the University of Kansas, with Washington and Oklahoma A. & M. college trailing.

Nebraska's turning back of Notre Dame crowned a season, which other wise had verged on disaster for the conference record shows two defeats and one tie against the Cornhuskers.

Drake, playing outside the conference, lost to Southern Methodist university at Dallas, 21 to 6.

The conference standing:

	W.	L.	T.	P.	OP.
Missouri	5	1	0	110	44
Drake	5	2	0	59	20
Kansas Aggies	3	2	1	70	43
Iowa State	3	2	1	107	93
Oklahoma	3	3	1	93	44
Nebraska	3	2	1	52	29
Grinnell	2	2	1	52	69
Kansas	2	5	1	30	68
Washington	1	4	1	29	96
Oklahoma Aggies	0	3	1	24	106

INDOOR SPORTS MAKE ENTRANCE TO SPOTLIGHT

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—(By the A. P.)—Individual factors drew as much interest as team circumstances today in the analysis of the past week's football record.

Red Grange's decision to turn professional, now that his college career is ended, has attracted nationwide interest and focused increased attention upon the "pro" development of the sport, but there was a marked contrast to the Illinois captain's move in the refusal of Andy (Swede) Oberlander, backfield ace of Dartmouth's great team, to accept a professional contract offered him by Florida promoters.

Mike Tully, star Dartmouth end, already has jumped into the professional game and Oberlander, an outstanding favorite for All-American honors, was understood to have been approached with a substantial contract by Tim Callahan, former Yale center and captain, now recruiting an eleven to play in Miami, Fla. Oberlander, however, followed the example of Eddie Tryon, Colgate's star, in refusing to turn "pro."

Perhaps the outstanding result of Saturday's eastern play, the features of which were Harvard's scoreless battle against Yale and Georgetown's decisive upset of Fordham was to emphasize the dominant position of Dartmouth.

The big Green eleven, which closed its season a week ago by trouncing Chicago and establishing a strong claim to national honors, now stands in the east as the only aggregation neither beaten nor tied. Fordham shared this distinction until yesterday but the downfall was accomplished by Georgetown in the outstanding form reversal of the day.

Alabama, southern conference leader, is the only other major team anywhere in the country still boasting a record matching that of Dartmouth, although Michigan's one-point defeat in the mud at Northwestern's hands is the only thing that keeps Tost's men from the top.

Kansas ousted Missouri from the unbeaten list yesterday in the middle west, so that the only other undefeated elevens of importance are the University of Washington in the far west, Tulane in the south and Colgate in the east. Each of these, however, has suffered one tie.

Harvard's "moral victory" over a Yale eleven which went into this annual clash a heavy favorite, restored Crimson's hopes of a football renaissance, even if the final statistics rank the Cambridge eleven far down the list.

There was no question of Harvard's gameness under heavy odds, Yale twice being checked on the two-yard line, but the Crimson's greatest need is an attack to profit by its fighting defense. Yesterday's tie was the sixth deadlock in the 54 years of Yale-Harvard history, the first since 1911. All of them have been scoreless.

Yale thus failed in her two main objectives of 1925, where a few weeks ago the Blue was a top-heavy favorite to take the "Big Three" crown for the third straight year. The uncertain and faulty performance of the Elis yesterday convinced observers that had not rallied from the effects of the stunning setback handed them by Princeton, the new ruling form of the "Big Three."

Lafayette's two-touchdown victory over Lehigh followed form and removed another ancient classic from the 1925 gridiron slate, which will be checked off with the engagements scheduled Thanksgiving Day and next Saturday.

Cornell and Pennsylvania, opponents at Franklin Field in the leading holiday encounter in the east, had no active competition yesterday but Columbia and Syracuse turned up for their clash at the Polo Grounds by trimming Alfred and Niagara respectively.

Thanksgiving Day features will involve Penn State and Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh, Brown and Colgate at Providence and West Virginia and Washington & Jefferson at Morgantown, W. V.

The Army trounced Ursinus as a final competitive workout for the annual struggle with the Navy, to take place at the Polo Grounds next Saturday, while Holy Cross cast a bit of apprehension into the Boston College camp by swamping Boston University in a final warm-up for the Catholic college classic at Boston Saturday.

PUTNAM WINS EASY VICTORY OVER KILLINGLY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Nov. 26.—Putnam High school defeated Killingly High school here this morning by a score of 26 to 0. This made the ninth consecutive victory for Putnam, the team having won every game they have played. Although today's contest was interesting the result was assured almost from the start. Danielson was outplayed but they put up a good fight and at the end of the first half the score was only 6 to 0.

Kilburn as usual was Putnam's star player making two touchdowns and extra points.

BLESHINGER WINS TEN MILE N. E. ROAD RACE

BOSTON, Nov. 27—(A. P.)—Frank Fleshinger of the Dorchester Athletic club, won the annual 10 mile New England championship road race over the Dorchester course here today in 49 minutes 18 seconds. The time, although a new record, probably will not be recognized by N. S. A. A. U. officials as they believed the course was short. Bob Dalrymple, running unattached, finished second and Ed Bocklu of the Boston Athletic association beat out Eldredge Stevens of the Dorchester A. C. for third place. Dorchester took the remaining places with the exception of eight, which was won by Tom Quinland of Medford. Nineteen started.

HOW TO FORGET

If you were busy being kind,
Before you knew it you would find
You'd soon forget to think 'twas true
That someone was unkind to you.

If you were busy being glad,
And cheering people who are sad,
Although your heart might ache a bit
You'd soon forget to notice it.

If you were busy being true
To what you know you ought to do,
You'd be so busy you'd forget
The blunders of the folks you've met.

If you were busy being right,
You'd find yourself too busy quite
To criticize your neighbor long
Because he's busy doing wrong.

—Rebecca Forsman.

Mrs. Urban Whitford with her two children, of Old Mystic, spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Warren Wheeler.

Elsie Miner has been with her cousin Sanford N. Billings for several days.

SCOTLAND

The Grange elected the following officers for the coming year, at a recent meeting: master, Mora Perry; overseer, Charles Perry; lecturer, Maud Roberts, steward, Henry Clark; secretary Mary Phinney; treasurer, John Bass; chaplain, Susan Willis; assistant steward, Clarence Spencer; gatekeeper, Morrell Roberts; Pomona, Helen Amidon, Ceres, Lucille Perry, Flora, Helen Cary and lady assistant steward, Belle Raclot.

Mrs. Paul Sanger has gone to a New Haven hospital where she will probably be operated upon this week.

The body of Mrs. Mary Wood of Centerville, R. I., was brought here Tuesday for burial in the family lot. She was the mother of Frank Wood of this place.

The C. E. meeting was led Sunday evening by Howard Amidon and Clarence Spencer. They conducted a good and well attended meeting.

The body of Mrs. Mary Lawton was brought here last week for burial. She was a former resident of this place, being the widow of John A. Lawton, a Civil war veteran.

The grange here is contemplating an addition and extended repairs to its present building. Work will probably be deferred until spring. The plan is to put in a dining hall and new stage with dressing rooms.

Mrs Jennie Franklin is planning to build a bungalow, on property owned by her, on what is known as the Pudding Hill.

The selectmen, under the direction of Samuel Pearl, have completed scraping the roads for the fall season.

Nearly all have finished husking the corn crop, although some continue to husk in the cold fields.

Mrs Henry Clark is expected to return home this week from the hospital with her two weeks old daughter.

In Court Thanksgiving Morning.

Five cases were before the city court on Thanksgiving morning.

On a breach of the peace charge a West Side man was fined $7 and costs, paying $16.50. Another breach of the peace charge cost the accused a fine of $5 and costs on which he paid $14.50. A man who had made a former appearance before the court was given a 10 day jail sentence on a breach of the peace charge.

Two men were before the court on intoxication charges. One was sent to jail for 15 days and the other was fined $5 and costs, paying $12.50.

TAXATION AND UNDEBTEDNESS

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

Consider the case of Yonkers, N. Y. We may do so with the more freedom because Yonkers being over in New York, we are not likely to tread on any Connecticut toes, no matter how closely we press nor how recklessly we prod.

At the same time, we may discover something bearing on Connecticut problems and interesting to Connecticut pocket-books. For we shall have to take Yonkers as just a typical American city, inhabited by typical citizens and managed with typical ideas and in a typical spirit. What we find in its ways of doing things, municipally, we should probably find in almost any other city of similar size in almost any part of the east.

To begin with, Yonkers had a total revenue from all sources of $8,037,920 last year. That same year Yonkers spent $10,317,456, or $2,229,536 more than its income.

How did it get that $2,229,536 outside of its income? Why, by borrowing of course: issuing long-term bonds the principal and interest on which will, by the time they are paid off, have cost the taxpayers of Yonkers something over $2 apiece for every $1 they now get.

In 1917,—only eight years ago,—the debt of Yonkers amounted to $94.38 for every man woman and child then dwelling within its borders. Last year the debt of Yonkers aggregated $134.69 for every one of its inhabitants.

In 1917,—only eight years ago,—the cost per capita for maintenance and operation of the general city departments of Yonkers was $24.08. Last year the per capita cost for the same purposes was $49.60, something over twice as much. That is, for an average family of five persons the Yonkers taxpayer chipped in $120.40 a year in 1917 to keep the town going. Last year the same taxpayer had to dig up $248 for exactly similar use.

Yet, while taxation was thus more than doubled, the city had been borrowing to make up deficits incurred in the face of increasing onerous imposts so that the debt owed by the city was more than 42 per cent greater in 1924 than eight years ago.

Mind you, this taxation and this debt we're talking about were purely city affairs. Neither the United States government nor the New York state government paid or collected or had anything whatever to do or say about them. They were absolutely and entirely within the control of the voters of Yonkers and of Yonkers alone. The voters of Yonkers made the figures for themselves and could have made them more or less just as they pleased. It was their own picnic and they could spend and borrow what they pleased for it.

While this thing was going on in Yonkers,—and in a hundred other cities of lesser or greater population,—the United States government was cutting down its debt and, with its debt, its interest bill. Already more than three billion dollars of the debt bequeathed by the Wilson administration has been paid off and the annual interest bill decreased more than a hundred millions. Now the ways and means committee has prepared for congress a revenue bill cutting down present taxation by the gross sum of over three hundred million dollars. Judging from what I see in the newspapers this action appears to meet a wide popular approval. Even the cartoonists of the semi-illustrated press hardly let a day pass without a more or less comic picture showing "Mr. Taxpayer" throwing up his hat or dancing in wild glee over the news that taxes are going to come down.

As the Frenchman would say: "It is to laugh." Look at the thing with both eyes for a minute. A reduction of $300,000,000 in the federal tax bill means something less than $3 apiece for the more than one hundred million inhabitants of the United States. Yet the people of Yonkers have, in the last recent years, voluntarily increased their purely local city taxation from $88.60 to $49.60, or by $25.52 a year. And the same ratio holds good in 99 out of every 100 states other communities in the United States.

Taking the while country as a unit, federal taxation declined $125,000,000 last year—That has nothing to do with the additional $300,000,000 lessening proposed for this year.—Yet in that same year state and local taxes were increased by the action of state and local communities by $266,000,000.

While Coolidge and congress have been saving $125,000,000 the states, cities, towns, villages and school-districts have been squandering $266,-000,000.

In the very same month in which the ways and means committee met to plan a further cut in federal taxation, the free and unframmeled voters of the empire state of New York deliberately forswore the pay-as-you-go policy what has been the rule of that state for 50 years, and ordered the issue of $100,000,000 blanket bonds to be spent for whatever purposes the Tammany grafters in power may see fit to use the money. That means that they deliberately saddled themselves with an unnecessary debt and increased taxation.—The "upstate" voters did their best to prevent this. But they were swamped by the Tammany-controlled mobs of New York city, few members of which pay any taxes to anybody at any time.

This seems to be the universal trend, from Maine to Texas. The whole country stands on its hind legs howling like mad for a lessening of federal taxation while, at the same time, deliberately piling a steadily increasing load of local taxation on its own shoulders.

Yet federal taxation touches none of us farmers directly and comparatively few of us with any hardship whatever. I have yet to hear of a New England farmer having to pay an income tax, for the excellent reason that I don't know of one whose income reaches as high as the exemption limit. Other federal taxes are laid on imports from abroad, tobacco, theater-tickets and some such other things.

Many of us who talk together in this column are Grangers. Said Master Taber of the National Grange, the other day:

"Taxation as it affects the farmer in a direct way is almost entirely local."

And he went on as follows:

"In some states practically all of the farmer's direct tax remains in his county, township and school district; consequently, relief can come only through economy and efficiency in the county and smaller units of government, and by seeing to it that every class of property contributes its proportionate share to the support of government. In some sections of the nation we have found agricultural taxation almost confiscatory in its nature."

You may not think I am much of an authority, but you can't dismiss the master of the National Grange with any snap of the finger. And if what I have quoted doesn't back up my contention about local taxation, as distinguished from federal, I don't know what would.

As to bonds, Master Taber is just as emphatic and outspoken.

"The increase of bonded indebtedness is becoming a curse upon the taxpayer," he says.

Could anybody say anything much stronger than that, if limited to the use of dictionary English?

I see, also, that the University of Ohio is credited with the statement that, in 88 rural towns of that state, the taxes in 1924 were 420 per cent higher than in 1880.

I don't doubt it. While I haven't saved my own tax-receipts so far back as that, I have saved them for nearly 30 years. At that time this town had something over double its present population. And my state, county and town taxes were less than a third of what they came to last year. Also at that time, my local school district had a school attendance of something like 30, whereas its school population this year is just two. Yet my school taxes are nearly twice what they were. This though we do not pretend to maintain the little red schoolhouse nor hire a teacher for the two pupils. They go to school in the next neighboring district, and we have to pay tuition and transportation. That's all. Yet the taxes are doubled.

As Master Taber of the National Grange well says: "Ignorance is more expensive than education." Good schools and good roads we need and must have but, he goes on to say:

"They cannot be long maintained at the price of a taxation rate which destroys initiative, depresses land values, and injures agriculture."

There are lots of rural townships in New England today which are decreasing in population and going back to woods quite as much because of over-taxation as of any other single reason. My own purely farming town affords me an illustration. Forty years ago a six acre field which I can see from my window sold for $1,600. The last time it changed hands it brought $40. Today it wouldn't sell for half even that. Why? Well, one reason is that the taxes on that field amount to fully three per cent of its assessed valuation. And it is assessed for double what it would sell for. One recent year it paid within two mills of four per cent in taxes.

What inducement has an owner to keep his money in real estate and pay practically four per cent on it in taxes, when he can put the money in a savings bank and draw four and a half per cent?

What temptation has a possible buyer to invest in such land, when he knows it is subject to such confiscatory taxation? The initiative of the unfortunate owner is impaired and the selling value of his property decreased by these high taxes. Yet his taxes keep on rising. He is annually bidden to supply more bricks and is given less straw to make them with. His assets are diminished and his liabilities increased.

Why in the name of obsolete com-mon sense don't the people of the states, cities, towns of this country see that they can't get a goose to lay more golden eggs by cutting its head off?

THE FARMER.

WESTMINSTER

Mention was made at morning worship last Sunday, that it was the anniversary of the fire destroying the parsonage and uninsured contents, last year and of the great goodness of God through friends in town and in nearby churches in supplying the pastor's needs. A new parsonage has been built and is being occupied though not yet fully completed and with considerable yet to be paid toward its cost.

The President's Thanksgiving Proclamation was read, followed by a very suggestive sermon from the Congregationalist written by Rev. George W. Owen of Fairhaven, Mass., on the text "In Everything give Thanks."

In the evening Professor and Mrs. Brundage, the former well known through the state as leader of club work for the boys and girls of Connecticut accompanied by four of Storrs young people, three of whom spent a Sunday here just previous to the parsonage fire, held a service in the church with a double audience. Clarence W. Mell was the leader having The Bible and Prayer for the subject, reading the passage of Jonah calling to the Lord in his extremity, then leading in prayer. Familiar hymns several other short talks by members of the Storrs group, a group song and several inspiring instrumental duets by Mr. Jacobi on his violin and Miss Burdick on the organ furnished a helpful evening greatly appreciated by all.

Prof. Brundage's talk developed the thought that God wants His children enthusiastic in all they do; that is a part of real living.

The Storrs party had an ideal evening for their trip to Westminster, and report the road from Scotland much better than for three or four years.

Mrs. Charles Robbins and daughter Viola Bennett began working in Willimantic Thread Mills a week ago, coming home for the week ends.

Paul Miller has work in Willimantic and his son, Paul, Jr., and daughter Dorothy are in the Thread mills.

Miss Florence Newton is also working in Willimantic thread mills.

Mrs. Robbins' daughter Laura Bennett married George W. Couch, Jr., of Danielson at the Episcopal rectory Nov. 19th.

Ralph and Harold Olsen who have been for some weeks at work in the Underwood factory, Hartford were at home Sunday. They spent Thanksgiving in East Hartford with their married sister, Mrs. Clarence Bengtson and family, with whom they board as do their sisters, Anna, in an insurance office in Hartford and Edith studying at a business college.

There was no school Friday of last week, as the teachers of the four towns having Edwin B. Hoyt for supervisor met at Jewett City for an all day institute, having a profitable as well as an enjoyable session.

Schools of the town closed Wednesday for the Thanksgiving recess many having closing exercises.

Westminster Hill had a junior exercise with various Rey-woods made by pupils bearing the letter spelling Thanksgiving with recitations accompanying. Clara and Lillian Green had a folk dance well executed. The older Thanksgiving Proclamation and its Results, very cleverely. Sandwiches, coffee, cake and candy were served. The evening showed much painstaking work in rehearsals and many compliments were earned by Miss Gold and her pupils.

Gayhead school Miss Esther Kimball, teacher had its Thanksgiving entertainment Wednesday afternoon and Raymond, had its on Wednesday evening; with an admission of ten cents, the proceeds to go to the town library.

Albert Pellett has finished building his icehouse.

In connection with the Six Church Fellowship here, last week, several parties inspected the parsonage bungalow with which they pronounced themselves well pleased.

Mrs. Moody's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gustaf A. Karlson of Nooseneck Hill, R. I., visited at Restawhile, lately.

Mrs. Fannie Brassie recently visited her mother, Mrs. Brown in Groton.

A change in the time for collection of personal taxes caused a second visit within 1925 of James Towne, the collector at MacLeod's store Nov. 11; the change of date was not unanimously approved as it caused two such payments within a comparatively short time.

Fred Oats of Danielson, staying with Mr. St. John, since his automobile accident, attended Westminster church Sunday morning.

The final Six Church Fellowship of the South Windam Conference met at Westminster Tuesday Nov. 17th, an inauspicious day, weatherwise affecting the attendance. In the unavoidable absence of Edwin St. John, pastor of the Plains church, Rev. Edwin G. Crowdis of Taftville conducted the morning worship in earnest and impressive thought with inspiring singing by all.

Rev. Yvo O. Wain of Abington, clerk of the Windham association, gave a sermon address, tracing our ideals as Christians and in religions, back to their recorded incention in remote antiquity, a scholarly masterpiece.

After a hymn, Rev. William Fryling of Wauregan gave a comprehensive report concerning the topic for the day, The Recent Meeting of the National Council of Congregational churches at Washington.

Following the very enjoyable social hour with its basket lunch and coffee, Miss Lucy Baldwin, Supt. of Evangelism for Buell Union Canterbury W. C. T. U., ably conducted a devotional service of Bible-reading with comment and prayer. The business session followed with its reports and roll call with inspiring brief reports of the churches. The committee appointed in the morning to nominate a scribe in place of Rev. Fryling, resigned brought in the name of Mrs. Ida Pegrune of Central Village who was unanimously elected. It was voted for one year that each church keep the offering of its fellowship to defray its expenses or for other use. The scribe was requested to send a letter of sympathy to the pastor at the Plains, seriously injured recently in an automobile accident.

One of the very enjoyable numbers of the afternoon was the impressions of President and Mrs. Coolidge and of some other high officials received at the National Council as given in charming style, by Mrs Fryling, followed by a Summary of Other Important Council Items by Rev. Yvo O. Wain, substituting for his wife who has not yet returned from Ohio, where both visited after the council. The speaker was greatly enjoyed and given credit also for his temerity in conducting so absorbing a subject in such happy fashion.

After a hymn the surprise feature speaking was spirited. The fellowship concluded with Blest Be the Tie That Binds and benediction pronounced by the senior pastor, Rev. T. Edward Davies.

FRIED CHICKEN

Very young and tender chicken should be selected for frying. Singe, and remove the pinfeathers, clean and disjoint, as for fricassee. Dust each piece with salt and pepper, roll in flour, and brown in a frying pan in sufficient Snowdrift to prevent sticking. The chicken should be turned only once, the frying being accomplished slowly in about twenty minutes. Then place the chicken in a pan, dot it with a little extra Snowdrift, steam it for an hour and serve with a gravy made of the drippings in the frying pan. It will probably be necessary to add an extra tablespoonful of flour, a little more salt and pepper; and instead of water, as usual, pour in a cupful of very rich milk or light cream.

FORMER DEPUTY SHERIFF ACQUITTED FOR SPEEDING

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 26.—(A. P.)—Gustave H. Uhl, former deputy sheriff and who as town constable of North Haven frequently stopped automobilists and haled them into town court on the charge of speeding through his town, and who himself recently was accused of reckless driving, was acquitted in common pleas court this afternoon. Uhl was fined $25 and costs in the city court and took an appeal. In the trial today a state witness swore that he and Uhl were together at a house in North Haven at 1:15 a. m., and that Uhl went home put up his car and was in bed at 1.30. The prosecution had alleged that Uhl was driving too fast for safety through Grand avenue in this city that morning at 1.30.

Counsel for Uhl at once asked for his discharge and the court granted it.

Sir Horace Rumbold and the commission appointed by the league of nations to investigate the recent Greco-Bulgar clash in Macedonia, have completed their work and left Sofia for Geneva.

WESTERLY

THANKSGIVING WAS QUIET IN WESTERLY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Nov. 26—Thanksgiving day in Westerly passed quietly this year, unmarred by accidents or mishaps of any nature. On Thanksgiving morning there was a general pilgrimage to Stonington borough, to witness the annual football classic staged between the elevens of the Westerly and Stonington high schools. At Owen Field there were gathered nearly two thousand loyal supporters of each of the warring teams, who witnessed their plowing up and down a muddy field, in a tie game ending in a score of 6 to 6. The point getter for Westerly was Fullback Salemano, while Left Halfback Turrisi for Stonington, scored their touchdown. The snowstorm of Wednesday evening cleared before 10 o'clock and although muddy going was experienced Thursday hardly a cloud obscured the sky during the day and the light snow soon melted.

Favorable weather caused a fair attendance on Thanksgiving afternoon at the Westerly athletic field where a scheduled game of football, resulting in a tie score of 6 to 6 was played between the Bradford team, for which was substituted the heavy U. S. S. Hus[illegible]well players of New London and the Torpedo Station eleven from Newport, R. I.

The annual Poultry show of the South County Poultry and Pet Stock association drew many attendants at the state armory on Dixon street, where more than 600 birds were exhibited in the large drill hall. Judges Daniel P. Shove, C. D. Snow and Fred Rogers began the work of placing ribbons at 9 a. m., so that the exhibitors placements became known early. Visitors thronged the exhibit from two to ten o'clock.

For the Red Cross drive ending on Thanksgiving day, Miss Kathryn Cottrell, treasurer, reported a total of 1664 members and a collection amount of $[illegible] to date, although returns are incomplete for the reason that reports are looking from some of the manufacturing plants and the outlying districts, like Hope Valley and North Stonington. Last year's report showed 1625 members and a collection amounting to $3,471.20. The returns are to be made to state headquarters, but even then a few straggling December additions are to be anticipated.

A regular session of Third District court, with Judge Michael J. Turano on the bench, will be held this (Friday) morning in the district court rooms on Union street. A general attendance of attorneys may be looked for, for session of superior court for Washington county, November term, will not be resumed at the county court house at West Kingston until next Monday.

Progress in the excavation of the trench up West Street and through Railroad avenue to near the junction of High street, has been rapid with the aid of the steam shovel, for no rock, boulder or ledge has appeared to slow down the work. At the corner of High street and Railroad avenue the shade trees have been removed and the stone coping taken out on the property of the Standard Oil company, formerly owned by Charles Fonda, to make way for the installation of a gasoline filling station there.

On Tuesday the second story window sashes were placed in position in the Westerly United Theatre building on Canal street, being erected by Samuel Nardone. The residence, formerly occupied by Dr. Harold Kenyon, has been nearly located, having been moved back to a site at the rear of the theatre lot.

Miss Bernice E. Whipple, a teacher of Spanish in the public schools of New York city, is the Thanksgiving recess guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Whipple, at their home in Westerly.

Richard Conway of Philadelphia is the week end guest of relatives and friends in Westerly.

Miss Lucinda Barber is enjoying a week's vacation from her duties at the office of a local concern.

Henry Hughes of Westerly and Watch Hill, one of Westerly's well-known perennial visitors to the southland, who last year interrupted for the first time, his previous unbroken record of forwarding a live alligator to the museum of Wilcox park, is booked for passage to Jacksonville, Fla., on the Clyde line steamship, "Cherokee", sailing from New York next Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The annual Thanksgiving ball of the Westerly High school alumni was held on Thursday evening at the Rhode Island hotel ball room and was very largely attended. The Noyes Melody orchestra of Mystic furnished the music. The chairman of the committee of arrangements was Henry Hughes. Among the patrons and patronesses were Mr. and Mrs. Harry O. Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mitchell.

Miss Ann Elizabeth Carr of Westerly was the guest over Thanksgiving day of her mother in Bristol, R. I., and before her return to Westerly she will be the guest of Mrs. Dr. Chapin, who was formerly Miss Ann Mitchell, a Westerly visiting nurse, at her home in Springfield, Mass.

Police Patrolman Robert M. Kessel began a week's tour of day duty on Wednesday, succeeding Police Officer George L. Madison, who returned to the night patrol duty.

George Leonard left Westerly Thursday morning to be the guest of his parents in Newport, R. I., over Thanksgiving day, and to begin a two weeks' vacation from his duties in the drafting room of a Pawcatuck printing company.

Westerly Ticket Agent George A. Golden of the New Haven railroad, accompanied by his wife, were the Thanksgiving day guests of relatives in New London, making the trip by automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Hall of Pawcatuck were the Thanksgiving day guests of relatives in Pawtucket, R. I.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Nichols, accompanied by their daughter, Margaret, of Providence, were the Thanksgiving day guests of Mr. Nichols' brother and sisters in Westerly.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Phatteplace of Pawcatuck, motored to Boston Thursday, to be the week end guests of relatives and friends there.

MYSTIC

The union Thanksgiving service was held in the vestry of the Baptist church Wednesday evening, Rev. J. G. Osborn was in charge. The choir and congregation sang two hymns. The choir sang the anthem Bless the Lord, O My Soul. Scripture reading and prayer Rev. J. G. Sallis, pastor of the Methodist church and singing, Faith of Our Fathers. The sermon was preached by Rev. Lucius W. Shey rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church and was listened to by a good sized congregation. It was full of thanksgiving for blessings during the past year which should be shared with those less fortunate. The closing hymn was All People That On Earth Do Dwell."

Instant Beauty

Gleamy, Thick, Wavy Hair in a Moment

Girls! Try this! Shampooing and brushing your hair, just moisten your hair brush with a little Danderine and brush it through your hair. The effect is startling! You can dress your hair immediately and it will appear twice as thick and heavy; an abundance of gleamy, wavy hair, sparkling with life, incomparably soft, fresh, youthful.

Besides beautifying the hair, a 35 cent bottle of refreshing, fragrant "Danderine" from any drug or toilet counter will do wonders, particularly if the hair is dry, thin, brittle, faded or streaked with gray from constant curling and waving which burn the color, lustre and very life from any woman's hair.

"Danderine" acts on the hair like fresh showers of rain and sunshine act on vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates, nourishes and strengthens them, stopping falling hair and helping the hair to grow thick, healthy and luxuriant.

Paddy Becomes Engineer

To lay work out as it should be An engineer you'd better see.
—Paddy the Beaver.

Having found the trees he wanted for a food supply, Paddy returned to his home in the pond he had made in the Green Forest and told the good news to Mrs. Paddy and to his nearly grown children.

"Can we dig a canal to them?" asked Paddy

"How near water are they?" was Mrs. Paddy's first question.

"Not as near as I wish they were," replied Paddy.

"Can we dig a canal to them?" asked Mrs. Paddy.

"I don't know yet," replied Paddy. "We'll go down there together some day soon and look the ground over. If we can take the water to them by a canal it will make the work easier. But if we can't we'll have to"——

"I know," interrupted Mrs. Paddy. "We'll have to build a new dam down the Laughing Brook and make a new pond down there so that the water will reach the trees and we can work in comfort and safety."

Paddy nodded. "Quite right, my dear. Quite right," said he.

"I hope it won't have to be a big dam," said Mrs. Paddy. "A big dam is a lot of work. It would keep us busy most of the summer. Do you think it will have to be a big dam, Paddy?"

"I haven't said there will have to be a dam at all yet, my dear," replied Paddy.

A few days later the whole family went down the Laughing Brook. It was sort of a picnic for the young Beavers. But Paddy and Mrs. Paddy were quite serious. The young Beavers were not thinking so far ahead as next winter, but Paddy and Mrs. Paddy were. They knew that their welfare next winter depended on what they did this summer and they were a little anxious about it. So, leaving the young Beavers to play in and around the Laughing Brook, Paddy led Mrs. Paddy to the little grove of poplar trees Peter Rabbit had found for him. The eyes of Mrs Paddy sparkled as she saw them. "My, these are nice trees!" said she, nibbling a bit of bark from one. "I don't think we ever have had finer trees. It is too bad that they are so far from the water. But we must get them somehow."

"We will," declared Paddy. "But it is a sure thing that we can't bring the water up here by a canal. The land is too high. Yes, sir, the land is too high This means that we must build a dam. The question is, where is the dam to be built? We'll have to go down the Laughing Brook and look it over to see where we can build adam the easiest, yet be sure that there will be water enough for our purpose."

Paddy led the way back to the Laughing Brook, where they rejoined the two young Beavers and all four started down the LauLaghing Brok. The young Beavers were told that their father was going to look for a place to build a new dam and make a new pond, so as to be able to get plenty of food for next winter."

"Huh!" exclaimed one of the young Beavers. "What is the use of worrying about next winter now?"

"Live and learn, my son," replied Paddy. "When you are older you never will ask such a silly question as that." Then he led the way down the Laughing Brook.

They traveled slowly, for Paddy was examining the bank on both sides, and often went some distance away from the water on either side. They had gone only a little distance when they came to a place that looked as if it was meant for a dam. It did so. There was plenty of material to build it of. It would not have to be very long in order to make a nice, deep pond. The work of building it would be easy. Mrs. Paddy ventured to say as much to Paddy.

But Paddy shook his head. "My dear," said he, "a dam here wouldn't back the water up far enough to reach those trees. It will have to be farther down than this, quite a bit farther down."

At last Paddy called a halt. He spent much time in looking over the land on both sides of the Laughing Brook. "I think this is the place," said he at last.

JEWETT CITY

MRS. JAMES LA POINTE DIES IN WILLIMANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Nov. 26. — Mrs. James La Pointe, 75, died on Wednesday in St. Joseph's hospital, Willimantic, following an operation performed the previous day. Mrs. La Pointe was the daughter of William and Harriet Gabant Morey, and was born in Canada. Her home has been in Griswold for years, where she was held in the highest regard. In her work as a dressmaker she was well known to many patrons and friends. For years Mr. and Mrs. La Pointe owned what was known as the Nehemiah Prentice farm. A few years ago they sold the place and bought two of the Brewster houses in Brewster court, occupying one of them. Mrs. La Pointe is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Auclair of Hartford and Mrs. Linwood Crary of Preston City, and three sons, Louis of Southbridge, James of Wauregan and William of Jewett City. She leaves a sister, Mrs. Anthony Bonney and a brother, William Morey, of Jewett City.

Additional names to Red Cross roll call in White, Tyler, Stone Hill and Johnson districts are: Mrs. Gerbitz, Mrs. William Griswold, Kenneth Griswold, Mrs. Adam Medick, Mrs. Joseph Roode, Ethel Roode, Mary Harvey, Mrs. Frank Geer, Mrs. William Duharde, Mrs. Raymond Krug, Mrs. Herbert Salisbury, Mrs. Eva Zvrngias, Mrs. Louis Gill, Etta York, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tipton, Mrs. Millovitcah, Mrs. Edward Cole, Mrs. Hermon Bitgood, Mrs. Victor Campbell, Mrs. Leon Young, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Morgan, Mrs. E. Iverson, Phillip Dudek, Jewett City, Joseph Wharton, Mrs. Peter Moodie, Mrs. Fred Bacon, Mrs. Henry Veglard, Lester Blanchard, Mrs. Wm. Sammons, Clara Wells, Velo Maynard, Agatha Teuczar, Alfred Mercier, Helen Magel, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Tripp, Chester Dudkowski, John Hourigan, Miss M. A. Burdick, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Belair, F. D. One of the old timers said he was thankful to have lived to see once more, snow on the ground for Thanksgiving. A temperature all day, well above freezing, with bright sunlight, caused the light dusting of snow which came Wednesday evening, to disappear before night fall, except in a few shaded spots.

Among the 1200 or more bushels of fancy apples raised by Simon Brewster there is to be seen outstanding among the several sorts, the Clark. They are not only large and fair, but they present a flavor all their own. Mr. Brewster gives much time and pays strict attention to the matter of systematic spraying. His fruit proves it and none would suspect that his fifty barrels of selected Clarks were grown in Griswold.

Jeremiah F. White, of Providence, R. I., and Miss Jane V. Blake were married with a nuptial high mass by Rev. J. J. McCabe, at St. Mary's church at 9.30 o'clock Thursday morning. The bride wore pencil blue chenile embroidered georgette, with gold and blue lace hat. She carried an arm bouquet of white chrysanthemums. Her bridesmaid was Miss Alice Brennan of Jewett City. She wore brown satin with gold and brown lace hat and carried yellow chrysanthemums. The best man was the bride's brother, John W. Blake, of Jewett City. He received a gold watch chain and guard, and the bridesmaid was presented an aquamarine ring. A wedding breakfast and reception to one hundred guests followed the church ceremony at the bride's home on Mechanic street. There the gifts of silver, cut glass, money, household furnishings, china, clocks, pictures, floor lamp, linen and bedding were much admired. Mr. and Mrs. White went to New York for their wedding trip. The bride wore a blue cloth traveling dress, with fur coat and lace hat. They will live in a newly furnished home at 198 Schofield avenue, Providence. Mrs. Blake is the daughter of Mrs. John Blake. Mr. White is the son of Patrick White, and is a stationary machine operator in Providence. Guests were present from Providence, Lowell, Attleboro, Norwich and Jewett City.

On Thanksgiving morning at 8.30 o'clock a very pretty wedding took place at St. Mary's church when Francis Crotty of Westerly, R. I., took Miss Elizabeth Stafford of this town as his bride, Rev. James J. Tyler officiating. The bride was very prettily gowned in a dress of ivory brocated satin taffeta, the cloth of which was 36 years old and wore a bridal veil of silk illusion, caught with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. The matron of honor, Mrs. Olive Thornton, a sister of the bride, was dressed in pencil blue georgette trimmed with gold, with picture hat, shoes and stockings to match. She carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums. The best man was Charles E. Greevy of Worcester, Mass. The groom's gift to his bride was a string of pearls and to his best man a K. of C. charm. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to the bridal party at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Stafford, 28 Anthony street, after which Mr. and Mrs. Crotty left for New York on their honeymoon. The bride's traveling gown was of oakwood georgette, trimmed with fur. Mrs. Crotty was the recipient of many useful and beautiful gifts, which included gold, linen, cut glass and silverware. Upon their return the couple will reside in Westerly, R. I.

Mr. and Mrs. William Purdon and children spent Thanksgiving with relatives in Needham, Mass.

Edward F. Burns, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Burns, died at his home on Mechanic street, Wednesday night after an illness of pneumonia and pleurisy. The young man was a native of Jewett City and his death came as a great shock to many friends. He is survived by his parents and one brother, Marcus Burns.

TRAVELING IN CHINA A DANGEROUS DIVERSION

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 26.—(AP) —Mrs. William S. Boura of No. 430 Prospect avenue, has received word to the effect that Dr. John C. Griggs and Mrs. Griggs, the latter her sister, were in one railroad train that was wrecked and another that was attacked by Chinese bandits, while traveling from Hong Kong to Canton, China, several weeks ago.

Five fellow passengers of the Griggs were shot and an arm of one was so badly shattered that he expected to lose it. The bandits beset the Chinese train in the night and as the bullets from their guns rained against the side of the coaches like heavy hail stones, the passengers dropped to the floor of the cars for protection.

"I was half sitting on the floor and three Chinese were lying across my legs," says a letter from Mrs. Griggs. After the first rush to the floor, not a sound was heard and nobody stirred. I found my hand resting on the top of a bristly Chinese head and let it stay there. Evidently the bandits were ranged along the track for quite a distance. The plucky engineer kept the old train going as fast as possible and the soldiers on the train kept on firing."

Dr. Griggs, a son of the late Rev. Leverett Griggs of Terryville, is a graduate of the Hartford Public High School class of 1885 and of Yale University, class of 1889.

The expenditure of $1,837,813 for new construction work was authorized by the executive committee of the New England Telephone and Telegraph company.

Get that toasty Scotch flavor; that famous Quaker flavor

ABOVE all things, it's flavor you want in oats! There is a world of difference. Originally a Scotch dish, it must have a Scotch flavor to be right.

Once you taste Quaker Oats you're spoiled for ordinary brands of oats.

Has that toasty Scotch tang . . . the famous Quaker flavor . . . no other brand has.

First spoonful tells the difference. It's due to exclusive Quaker milling of finest, plumpest oats. A flavor it took some 50 years to perfect.

Quick Quaker cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. That's faster than toast!

Due to Quaker milling methods, it supplies, too, the "roughage" you need to make laxatives seldom necessary.

Absolutely pure. "The powder that will not clog or enlarge the pores." Suits any complexion. Comes in a square gold box. Price, one dollar. Get a box today.

Try this New French Beauty Method at home

AFTER you have used Mello-glo Facial-tone Powder and found it the most wonderful toilet creation ever made, you will be interested in this entire French Beauty Treatment. Mello-glo Skin-tone and Beauty Cream are as different as is the powder from other face powders. One application will surprise you. Immediately you use this new French discovery your skin becomes fine, smooth, clear, and beautiful in its texture. Takes years off of your appearance. Don't take chances with your complexion. Keep it young. Let Mello-glo give you beauty and radiance.

A Perfect Mello-Glo Facial

APPLY the Skin-tone freely to the face and neck with the fingers and wipe it off with a soft cloth or cotton while the preparation is still moist. Do not let it dry on the skin even though you have to treat part of the face at a time. Then rub in Beauty Cream thoroughly for a few minutes and remove any excess the skin has not absorbed, before applying Mello-glo Powder or Rouge.

Mello-Glo Skin-tone

MELLO-GLO Skin-tone removes all dirt and foreign substances from the skin and out of the pores; keeps the pores small, refreshes the face, exhilarates the skin and makes it attractive. It imparts a cool sensation that is delightful, brings color to the cheeks and builds up the tissues.

Skin-tone is the ideal cleanser, tonic, and astringent. It does not dry the skin and is not sticky. It is harmless. You can feel and see it increase your attractiveness every day. Skin-tone is a hundred times better than creams and other cleansing methods. It does not contain fats or other greasy materials, although nothing could leave the skin softer. Will not grow hair and cannot produce any objectionable result. It has a strengthening effect upon the muscles. Keeps the skin and flesh firm, preventing lines and wrinkles. Enlivens and puts life in the face.

Mello-Glo Beauty Cream

MELLO-GLO Beauty Cream is unlike any cream you have ever used. It does not contain anything which could smart a tender skin. It is not greasy or sticky, neither is it dry. Suits either dry or oily skins. Whitens and clears up any imperfection. Blemishes or blackheads cannot exist in its presence. Takes even extreme sallowness away. Nourishes the tissues of the face and produces a beautiful, natural, pinkish, youthful complexion. Any girl who wants to acquire or preserve beauty should not be without Mello-glo Beauty Cream. This cream is unusual. It is not like ordinary cold or vanishing creams. You will get results from the first application. Gives a beautiful wild-rose glow to the skin and does not allow the fine lines and pores to show. Nothing in the world could be purer.

JOHN STEVENS HELD FOR ATTEMPT ON LIFE OF ANDREW PATTERSON, NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 26.—A sequel to the arrest of Floyd Mitchell, colored, proprietor of the gambling house, 11 Atlantic street, who was arrested Monday charged with assault with intent to kill, by firing two shots at Benjamin Hankiln following a dispute during a game of draw poker earlier in the day, took place early this morning when John Stevens, colored, residing at 42 Front street, and employed as engineer at the Crocker House, made an attempt on the life of Andrew Patterson, colored, employed at the Hotel Mohican as a bellman. Stevens wielded a knife and so vigorous was the attack made on Patterson that the knife blade penetrated his overcoat, making a slash a foot long, and passed through all of Patterson's clothing, making a wound on the left shoulder that required three stitches to close, besides making a slight flesh wound on the left forearm. Stevens was not apprehended until this afternoon and after being locked up in a cell about an hour his wife qualified as surety on her husband's bond of $1,000 for his appearance in the police court tomorrow morning.

Stevens and Patterson engaged in a quarrel in front of the Mitchell gambling house Tuesday night and it is understood that the row was precipitated by Stevens being called a "stool pigeon" by Patterson. Harsh words were exchanged at the time but the trouble was believed to have ended with the dispersement of the pair. Last night Patterson went to the barber shop of Spartam Brown, colored, next adjoining the Mitchell place and resorted to by colored men. While outside the place Patterson again addressed Stevens, who appeared on the scene and further harsh words were exchanged. Patterson went to the barber shop and hardly had he entered the place than Stevens entered. The pair exchanged incomplimentary words again and Stevens went to the rear of the shop and removed his coat. When he returned to the front of the place he approached Patterson who was standing within a few feet of the door. Stevens suddenly pulled a jack-knife from his pocket and opening it revealed a blade of about three inches. In an instant Stevens lunged at Patterson's chest. The latter observing the move of his assailant, turned and in trying to avoid Stevens' lunge, received the blade on the shoulder, close to the neck, the knife following along Patterson's back and cleaving the clothing at the elbow. Stevens then rushed from the place and disappeared. A short time later after his wounds had been dressed by a physician, Patterson went to the police station and lodged complaint against Stevens. Officers were assigned to make a search for Stevens but they were unsuccessful in locating him.

Third forenoon Sergeants Nelson Conklin and John Cavanaugh were assigned to the case and shortly after 1 o'clock Stevens was found in the engine room at the Crocker House and taken into custody.

Following his arrest Stevens made a confession of the attack upon Patterson and his only excuse for his act was that he lost his head. In relating his story of the attack Stevens stated that following slashing Patterson, the knife he used was given to William Davis, a Mystic negro, who was in the barber shop when the assault took place. This afternoon State Police Officer J. J. Bolnick, Groton barracks, located Davis at his home and ordered him to appear in the police court tomorrow morning and also to produce the knife that Stevens used in his assault upon Patterson.

Several other negroes who witnessed the assault, have also been ordered to appear in court as witnesses against Stevens.

Patterson's coat, showing the extensive slashing, has been taken charge of by the police and will be used as an exhibit in the prosecution of Stevens.

Motor meter thieves operated last night during the night and this forenoon the police received complaints of two such thefts. One of the victims was Miss Rose, daughter of Fire Chief Charles Rose, 11 Rosemary street, who reported that while her car was parked on Huntington street, near Bulkeley High school, the meter was disconnected and carried away. Last night Lieutenant C. Davis, Montville, reported that the motor meter was taken from his car while the auto was parked on Union street.

Roman Potkay, 38 Eastern avenue, and Victor Goski, 40 Eastern avenue, neighbors, engaged in a quarrel at the Eastern avenue house this afternoon and the police were notified of the brawl. Patrolmen were dispatched to the house and took both fighters into custody. Later Potkay and Goski were released upon furnishing a bond of $50 each for their appearance in the police court tomorrow morning.

John Pullen was fined $10 for intoxication in police court this morning. John didn't mean to get into that condition but he absorbed so much of the stuff that goes for whiskey that he was knocked off his feet.

Nathaniel Meadie, one of the men held as witness in the case against Floyd Mitchell, charged with assault with intent to kill, and which case is to come to a hearing next Tuesday, was today liberated from the jail on a bond of $1,000.

Charles Miller and family, Hartford, formerly of New London, spent the holiday as guests of Mrs. Miller's mother, Mrs. Mary E. Kelley, 26 Pearl street.

A automobile, owned and operated by John Loomis, attached to the United, to the United States Coast Guard boat, 126, state pier, and a machine owned and driven by Peter Smeraldi, 26 Belden street, were in collision last night on Main street. Both cars were damaged.

Edward L. Streeter, a member of the New London city council, returned from a business visit to Philadelphia, last evening. He reports business good in the sections he visited.

The motor screw boat Helen, laden with a quarter million cargo of liquor, seized about 25 miles off Block Island several days ago, together with the British schooner, Ocean Maid, by the crews of patrol boats stationed at the state pier, has gone to the bottom of the [illegible] for this morning while the craft were being convoyed to Norfolk, Va., by the destroyer Mojavve, the craft were caught in a gale and the Helen went down with her valuable cargo.

Following the seizure of the boats, which had departed beyond the 12 mile limit they were brought into port and remained here until Tuesday, when the trip was started for Norfolk. Favorable weather was encountered until early this morning when a strong gale prevailed. In combatting the heavy wind and strong seas the Helen's steams finally opened and the craft began to fill. The craft had reached a point 15 miles east of Northeast End light, which is 30 miles northeast of Cape May. Because of the craft being many miles from shore it was impossible to get the Helen ashore and beached before she went under.

Policewoman Jane Cassidy was absent from duty Thursday, having gone to New York to remain a few days as the guest of her daughter.

The pleasure of a Bulkeley High school-Williams Memorial Institute dance, last night, was marred by an automobile accident in which eight of the dance attendants were injured when the automobile, operated by Gino Montali, Shaw street, overturned. The injured, besides Montali, are Miss Miriam Silva, Shaw street; Miss Mary Curtin, Connecticut avenue; Roland Murphy, Starr street; Charles Leverone, Mill street; Francis Murphy, Rogers street; Miss Mary O'Neill, Ashcraft road, and Miss Anna Reisch, Chappell street, all of whom are patients at the Lawrence hospital suffering from minor lacerations, bruises and contusions. Most of the injured will probably be released tomorrow.

The young people were among attendants at the dance at the Bulkeley High school auditorium and at intermission, about 11 o'clock, they decided to enjoy a short automobile ride. Entering the machine the party started over the Hartford turnpike and when descending a grade at Flat Rock, that was somewhat slippery because of the fall of snow and rain, the car entered a skid and overturned hurling the occupants to the highway. A passing automobilist rendered assistance to the injured and brought them to the hospital, where they were attended by Dr. George P. Cheney. Today State Police Officer Henry Albright, Groton barracks, conducted an investigation and stated that the accident was undoubtedly the result of the slippery condition of the highway more than any reckless driving on the part of Montali.

TRIED TO FREE MAN BY A MISREPRESENTATION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 26.—Arthur W. Morris, of 30 Thames street, Groton, a chief petty officer at the Submarine Base, was fined $100 in the police court this morning for operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Morris was at the east end of state street where a crowd had collected that attracted the attention of Policeman Clifford. The officer went to the scene and took in the situation at a glance. Morris was intoxicated and the officer told him not to operate the car. He went away apparently and was gone some fifteen minutes when he returned, and, getting into the car, drove away. He was apprehended. Today he explained as best he could, but the explanation did not satisfy the court and the fine was imposed.

Morris, who was taken into custody shortly after midnight, evidently had a friend, who interested himself greatly in the arrest of the intoxicated driver, for about an hour after Morris had been locked up Desk Sergeant James Gaffney received a telephone message stating that the speaker was the duty officer at the Submarine Base and that it was highly essential that Morris be returned to the base. When informed that the only way that Morris could obtain his liberty was for the speaker to provide a bond of $150 for the accused's appearance in court this morning, the speaker then declared, that as he was an officer, he would personally become responsible for Morris's appearance in court if the prisoner was released. This assurance was not accepted as proof that Morris would be on hand when court convened today and it later was revealed that the speaker was not the duty officer, but had made that representation in order to obtain Morris' freedom until today. It is understood that the city officials will take up the matter of the misrepresentation with the base authorities Friday.

FOXES ARE TROUBLESOME TO NEW LONDON PEOPLE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON Nov. 26.—Foxes have become so numerous in the woods about this city and in Waterford that they are causing much annoyance to breeders of poultry. There is a nest of them in the woods off Ocean avenue, below Bellevue avenue. Their barking is heard at all hours of the night and the keepers of poultry, have suffered losses of many chickens. Dr. Bitgood, in a few days, has captured three of them, but that has not lessened the number appreciably. The foxes can be hunted only in the daylight and then with a dog. At night they cannot be seen, and that is the time when they are roaming.

NEW MANUFACTORY TO LOCATE IN NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 26.—It is believed that New London will in a few days, add to the number of its manufacturing industries for arrangements are being made for the location here of an establishment that will employ some twenty or more hands at the start and which will probably increase its working force very soon after the establishment of the plant. The Bulletin gets the information from an absolutely reliable source, but cannot divulge the particulars of the transaction at this time. Next week the information will be available.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Palace Theatre.

"The neighbor's kid is in the movies!

Anyway, that's the way you'll feel when you see Betty Bronson, of "Peter Pan" fame, in the Paramount picture, "Not So Long Ago," at the Palace theatre today. It's a Sidney Olcott production of New York life in 1850.

"Not So Long Ago" finds Betty as a romantic girl who works as a seamstress in a fashionable home that her father may continue tinkering around his pet invention, a "horseless carriage." She is the kind of girl who devours Bertha M. Clay novels and weaves pretty romances in the air.

The story is an adaptation of Arthur Richman's Broadway stage hit of the same name. A few of the big names in the supporting cast include Edwards Davis, Laurance Wheat, Julia Swayne Gordon, Dan Crimmins and Jacqueline Gadson.

Plenty of Sunshine For Children

Children need plenty of sunshine and fresh air. During these late fall days when there is a suggestion of winter in the air, children should not be allowed to remain in the house by the warm fireside. The playing out of doors is conducive to health. Warm sweaters and mittens will help to keep the cold out, and thus children can play with perfect freedom in any weather. Children who are thus allowed to play out in the open each day come in for their meals with glowing cheeks and laughing eyes, and are healthy in the extreme. The little children who are allowed to take their morning or afternoon nap on the porch, are likewise healthier, because they have had plenty of air and sunshine during this time.

Such factors in health are discussed at the well child conferences which are held monthly in Wauregan. The conference this month will be held on Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 2, in Company hall, from 2 to 4 o'clock.

Palace Theatre.

Douglas Fairbanks has never before produced a picture which offered him the latitude and scope of expression that is given in his new United Artists Corporation vehicle, "Don Q, Son of Zorro," scheduled for its initial showing at the Palace theatre next Sunday.

To begin with, this feature is replete with all the romantic dash and go of earlier productions, coupled with an unusual opportunity for histrionic work, due not only to the highly melodramatic nature of the story, but also to the fact that the star is called upon to carry a difficult dual role—difficult because he depicts youth as well as age. He will be seen as Zorro, a sedate Zorro, mellow and philosophical with the passing years but a fighter for all of that, his grim determination spelling indomitable—courage. As th seon, Don Q, he will reflect the dashing, devil-may-care spirit which made his Zorro interpretation famous.

Added to the opportunities for excellent acting are the hair-raising stunts which have always kept Fairbanks fans in a flutter between their seats and the ceiling, theoretically speaking. Doug performs feats in this picture that will seem incredible.

David J. Naylor, Civil War veteran, and among Hopkinton's oldest citizens, surrounded by members of his family from Danville, Conn., East Greenwich, Westerly, the home village and vicinity, recently celebrated his 82nd birthday, in a quiet but pleasant way.

SANTA CLAUS HEADED FOR PORTEOUS-MITCHELL STORE

The Porteous & Mitchell company is in receipt of a radiogram from Santa Claus that he is on his way to Norwich from his home away up in the Arctic Circle. For several weeks he has been busy, preparing for the long trip, and has so planned his journey that he will arrive on Saturday when the children will be out of school and when they can arrange to meet him as he reaches the final stages of his trip. In the radiogram which he sent he said:

"The Porteous & Mitchell Co.
Christmas Shopping Headquarters
Norwich, Conn.

"Am preparing to leave my home in the Arctic Circle for the trip to Norwich. Tell all my friends that I am bringing some wonderful new toys. My schedule will be as usual and will plan upon arriving at Norwich at 2.55, Saturday afternoon, November 28th. Tell the boys and girls to be on the lookout for me so that I may greet them as I journey along. Give my love to all the little boys and girls in Eastern Connecticut.

SANTA CLAUS."

Due to the fact that Santa Claus is planning to arrive in Norwich at 2:55 Saturday afternoon his schedule will be as follows: Moosup at 1 o'clock, Central Village at 1.15, Plainfield at 1.30, Jewett City at 1.45, Baltic at 2 o'clock, Occum at 2.15, Taftville at 2.30. Upon his arrival at Franklin Square at 2.55 he will immediately proceed to his workshop in the large window of the Porteous & Mitchell Co's. Store where he will make his headquarters until Christmas.

At the Breed

Once each season a motion picture comes to town that stands head and shoulders above all others. Our guess is that Havoc, the William Fox supreme attraction which opened a three days' engagement at the Breed theater Thursday, is that picture for this year.

It is a faithful reproduction of a great international stage success, which took London, Paris and New York by storm. But more important, in our humble viewpoint, is the fact that Rowland V. Lee, whom William Fox selected to direct this photoplay, evidently was thoroughly familiar with the subject in hand when he started making it and the result is a mighty authentic, human document, dealing with the havoc wrought, not by war, as one would gather from the many war scenes in the picture, but by A woman—a woman without a soul.

The story is not so much of the war as it is of the effect the war had on the world; the hysteria of all people affected by the greatest conflict the world has even seen. It shows London, masking its sorrow and bitterness beneath an exterior of scintillating gaiety; a mad whirl of night life with conventions cast to the four winds. And it shows a woman who brought havoc to innumerable lives—a Twentieth Century combination of Salome, Cleopatra, DuBarry, Delilah, Semiramis, Lucretia Borgia and the other celebrated sirens of history.

George O'Brien as the handsome young army officer gives the finest characterization of his career, not excepting his depiction of the leading male role in The Iron Horse. Walter McGrail, Leslie Fenton, Madge Bellamy, David Butler and the others of the cast also win new laurels in this splendid screen drama.

Broadway Theatre.

It was real happy throngs that paid tribute to the gala special holiday programme at the Broadway theatre yesterday. Capacity crowds was the rule all day yesterday, coming and going with happy, smiling faces.

Iris Greene & Co., en route, "Fiddling With the Law of Gravity," made a splendid opening attraction.

McGowan & Knox had a real funny offering in their skit, "Out of Gas."

"Honor Thy Children" was an unusual offering replete with comedy and real dramatic moments that scored highly.

Roth and Drake in a Dainty Aerial Offering, was a perfect closing number.

A story with real human interest is "Passionate Youth," Phil Goldstone's latest Truart production which is at the Broadway theatre today. The theme of the production is the entanglement of the affairs of a husband and wife by their daughter, a typical example of the modern girl, but not until the wife has learned through bitter trials that wealth and position Washburn, Carmelita Geraghty, Ernpiness.

The players include Beverly Bayne, Frank Mayo, Pauline Garon, Bryant Courage. As the son, Don Q, he will est Woods, and Ralph McCollough. Dallas M. Fitzgerald, director of many past screen successes has transferred the story to the screen in a most admirable manner.

MRS. C. H. W. FOSTER LEFT ESTATE OF OVER $1,100,000

Mrs. C. H. W. Foster, whose daughter-in-law is Mrs. Carl O. Foster, of New Bedford, the former Miss Betty Howland, daughter of Mrs. Harry R. Bond, Jr., left a large estate, A dispatch Thursday, read:

DEDHAM, Mass.—The will of Mrs. Mabel H. Foster, wife of Charles H. W. Foster of Needham, financier and sportsman, filed in Norfolk county probate registry Wednesday leaves an estate of more than $1,100,000 to be divided between a trust fund and outright bequests to seven children.

Among the public bequests were $1,000 to the Children's Island Sanatorium at Marblehead; $1,000 to the Society of Colonial Dames of America and $800 for St. Monica's Home for Colored Women.

The will provides that two sons and five daughters receive $50,000 outright, some smaller bequests are made, and the remainder left in trust, the income to go to Mr. Foster for life. After his death it will be divided in equal shares among the children.

The property consists of $936,000 personal estate and real estate valued at $365,000, consisting in part of estates in Needham and Marblehead.

The food sale given by the Womans Missionary society at the home of Mrs. F. E. Guild netted $30, and will be applied on the society's Home Missionary union apportionment. A birthday cake made by Mrs. Ada Larrabee, lighted by 40 candles in recognition of the 40th birthday of the Woman's Congregational Home Missionary union of Conn., were sold by Mrs. Graham and netted $2.40. Mrs. H. C. Lathrop was in charge of the food table, assisted by Mrs. Guy Richmond. Tea was served by Mrs. E. C. Higbee, assisted by Mrs. Dorothy Brown and Mrs. Larrabee.

The members of the Woman's Missionary society are to put their Thanksgiving offering envelopes on the plate next Sunday morning.

NORWICH TOWN

With beautiful weather predominating on Thanksgiving day, the union services at the First Congregational church, at 10:30 o'clock, when several neighboring churches joined in the religious worship, was largely attended. The congregation included a good representation from every church uniting. A special programme was carried out by the several clergymen present, the feature of the day being the splendid sermon by Rev. Norval E. Webb, pastor of the Bozrah Congregational church.

An exceptionally young organist, H. Dwight Richardson, of Norwich, who is a promising musician, presided at the organ and was listened to with much pleasure.

The artistic floral decorations on the platform consisted of bouquets of greens with red berries, also magnificent yellow chrysanthemums, as well as some very pretty copper color cultivated chrysanthemums.

Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, pastor of the entertaining church, presided and read the Scripture lesson. Rev. J. F. Speerli, pastor of Fitchville Baptist church, offered prayer, which preceded the sermon.

With fine delivery and a pronounced spirit of sincerity, Rev. Mr. Webb spoke interestingly from Matthew 26:27. "And When He Took the Cup, He Gave Thanks." In his introductory remarks Rev. Mr. Webb referred to the fact that he was a product of the Middle West, and would not preach an Orthodox Thanksgiving sermon, as we New Englanders, who were reared in this part of the country, were in the habit of hearing. The text of a Thanksgiving sermon is usually taken from the Psalms. The speakers idea of the greatest Thanksgiving was at the Lord's Supper. "And When He Took the Cup, He Gave Thanks." It was at the time when Christ was offering His crushed body for the sins of the world. Rev. Mr. Webb said in substance: Our attitude shows that for which we are the most grateful. We should not be thankful for material things, power and wealth, selfishly; but only as we, through them, can contribute to the work of Christ as His helpers. Prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Bailey at the conclusion of the sermon. The benediction was by Rev. Mr. Speerli.

Besides the officiating clergymen, Lay Reader E. Allen Bidwell, representing Grace Episcopal church, Yantic, was also seated on the platform.

Rev. James B. Aldrich pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, was unable to be present, because of spending Thanksgiving with his family in Boston. The ushers were George F. Hyde, Woodard Wheeler and Kenneth Gembel.

The West Town Street school observed Thanksgiving in every room. The upper four grades assembled for the last half hour of Wednesday morning in the senior room. A short programme of songs and appropriate poems was given, as well as the reading of the president's and governor's proclamation. Pictures and drawings in keeping with the holiday, were in evidence in each of the five rooms.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Peck and family, of Otrobando avenue motored to Colchester Thanksgiving and were guests of Mrs. Peck's sisters, Miss Annie Smith, and Miss Rose Smith, who also had as their guests, their cousins, Mrs. DeWitt Hill and daughter, Miss Dorothy Hill, of Willimantic, Mr. Peck's mother, Mrs. Theodore D. Peck and daughter, Miss May Peck, of Westchester and Mrs. H. P. Buell, of Colchester. A Thanksgiving dinner was served by the Misses Smith.

Mrs. T. D. Peck returned to Westchester, Tuesday, following several weeks visit at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Peck, of Norwich Town.

Rev. Myron E. Genter of Williams street, district superintendent of the Southern New England Methodist conference, will be the officiating clergyman at the Sheltering Arms service Sunday afternoon. There will be special music at this service.

During the musical hour at the Backus hospital, Sunday afternoon, George Guile, violinist, and Miss Amy March, pianist, will entertain with a program of popular music, for the pleasure of the patients. The affair is to be under the auspices of one of the circles of the Kings Daughters, with Mrs. Austin Perkins in charge.

HARD SURFACE HIGHWAYS REPLACING GRAVEL ROADS

Replacement of the graded and gravel roads in the Connecticut trunk line and state highway system by hard-surface roads is taking place rapidly, it is shown in a statement prepared by the state highway department for its annual report to the governor. Such a development, made necessary by the ever-increasing tire of heavy automobile and truck traffic through the state, is reflected in an analysis of tables covering the mileage of roads built since 1892, when the department was organized.

It shows that concrete, bituminous macadam and macadam now form the bulk of roads being constructed and reconstructed in Connecticut, and that the old type of graded and gravel roads, once suited to all the rigors of wagon and automobile traffic, will no longer meet the requirements of modern travel conditions.

A total of approximately 1,300 miles of the 1872 miles now comprising the trunk line and state aid systems is of concrete, bituminous concrete, macadam and bituminous macadam surfacing. There are 344 miles of gravel roads remaining, and 147 miles of graded highways under the care of the state.

During the last ten years, steady progress has been made in the replacement of the soft surface roads. During that time 201 miles of macadam, graded and gravel roads have been discontinued in favor of more improved surfaces and forty-one miles have been rebuilt with the same type of surface.

About twenty-one miles of concrete roads have been covered with a bituminous top and an aggregate of 278 miles of concrete roadway has replaced other types, the tabulation shows.

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. Frank De Biasi, of Noank, that their son, Lucio, has been awarded the most coveted honor in Fordham university; that of being named the most proficient student for the year, from among a large number of contestants.

With a whip for a weapon Douglas Fairbanks gives more laughs, more real thrills, more high speed, in "Don Q" than in any picture he has ever made.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS FOR CHRISTMAS MAIL

General instructions for Christmas mailing have been received by Postmaster Casper K. Bailey from the department at Washington. These urge the co-operation of the public, particularly in the matter of early mailing for delivery before Christmas. The co-operation of the people is essential to enable the postal department to handle the immense quantity of mail without congestion and delay. There will be no deliveries on Christmas day.

Packing

All parcels must be securely wrapped or packed. Use strong paper and heavy twine.

Umbrellas, canes, golf sticks should be reinforced their full length by strong strips of wood tightly wrapped and tied to withstand transportation.

Hats: Pack in strong corrugated or fiber boxes. Ordinary pasteboard hat boxes must be crated. Ladies' hats and stiff hats easily damaged should be marked "Fragile."

Shoes: Pack in strong boxes, preferably corrugated cardboard. Wrap with strong paper securely tied with heavy twine.

Cut flowers: Place in strong suitable boxes of wood, tin or heavy corrugated cardboard. Wrap with tissue to retain moisture.

Candies: Inclose in strong outside boxes or containers.

Drawings, paintings, unmounted maps, etc.: Pack or wrap in strong material to avoid damage. When not flat, roll around a wooden core and then wrap and tie carefully or place in strong pasteboard tube.

Sharp-pointed or sharp edged instruments or tools must have points and edges fully guarded to prevent injury to clerks in handling or damage to other mail. Crate suitably or thoroughly wrap so that they can not cut through the wrapping.

Articles easily broken or crushed must be crated or securely wrapped. Use liberal quantities of excelsior, or like material in, around and between the articles and the outside container.

Glassware, fragile toys, crockery must be packed so as to prevent the escape of particles or pieces if broken in transit.

Cigars: Ordinary boxes of cigars wrapped in paper only will not be accepted. Pack in a manner to prevent damage by shock or jar. Wrap in corrugated pasteboard or similar material.

All articles easily broken or damaged must be plainly marked "fragile."

Perishable Matter

Articles likely to spoil within the time reasonably required for transportation and delivery will not be accepted for mailing. Wrap or pack carefully, according to contents, and plainly mark all such parcels "perishable." Use special-delivery stamps to expedite delivery.

Addresses should be complete, with house number and name of street, post-office box or rural route number, and typed or plainly written in ink. A return card should be placed in the upper left corner of every piece of mail. If a tag is used, the address and return card should also be written on the wrapper for use if tag is lost, and a copy of the address should be inclosed inside the parcel.

Postage must be fully prepaid on all mail. Affix the required amount of postage in the upper right corner. Full information concerning postage rates can be obtained at the parcel-post or stamp window.

No parcel may be more than 84 inches in length and girth combined. For delivery locally and in the first, second, and third zones, 70 pounds is the maximum weight; in all other zones, 50 pounds.

Where to Mail Parcels

Unlabeled parcels 4 ounces or less in weight may be mailed in street letter or package boxes, at all classified stations and branches, and at such numbered stations as are designated to receive parcels. Parcels weighing over 8 ounces can not be mailed in street boxes, but must be taken to the main post office or classified station or branch. Parcels containing meat, food products, cut flowers or other perishable matter should be mailed only at the main post office or one of the large classified stations.

Christmas Cards and Parcels

Christmas gifts and cards addressed to points within one day's travel should be mailed not later than December 20; within two day's travel, not later than December 18; within three day's travel, not later than December 16; for more distant points, not later than December 14. Parcels and cards for local delivery should be mailed not later than December 22.

Parcels and envelopes may be indorsed "Please do not open until Christmas."

The early mailing of Christmas cards is just as important as parcels. Millions of these cards, separate and in envelopes, are mailed each Christmas. Consequently, great congestion and delay occurs in large post offices, where they are all mailed within a day or two of Christmas. Therefore, if you want your Christmas greetings to reach your relatives and friends on or before Christmas Day, follow the instructions in the preceding paragraph relative to mailing early and be certain of delivery before Christmas.

Not Mailable at Parcel-Post Rates

Written matter in the nature of personal correspondence can not be inclosed in parcels.

Communications attached to parcels: A letter placed in an envelope, addressed to correspond with the address on the parcel, and fully prepaid at the first-class rate, may be tied or otherwise securely attached to the outside of the parcel in such manner as to prevent separation therefrom and not obscure the address on the parcel.

Special-delivery service is obtained by affixing a special-delivery stamp of the proper denomination, or its equivalent in ordinary stamps, in addition to the regular postage. When ordinary stamps are used, the words "Special Delivery" must be written or printed directly below, but not on the stamps. Special delivery is for speed and not, for safety. Valuable mail should be registered or insured.

Insure or Register Valuable Mail

All valuable domestic parcel-post mail should be insured.

Insurance fees: Value not exceeding $5, 5 cents; not exceeding $25, 8 cents; not exceeding $50, 10 cents; not exceeding $100, 25 cents.

Coin, currency, jewelry, and articles of similar value should be sent us sealed, first class registered mail.

Collect on Delivery Service

Parcel-post, also third-class, matter may be sent C. O. D. from one money-order post office to another.

Fees (in addition to regular postage): Value not exceeding $10, 15 cents; not exceeding $50, 15 cents; not exceeding $100, 25 cents, to be prepaid with stamps affixed. The C. O. D. fee also covers insurance against loss of damage up to $10 for a fee of 2 cents; up to $50 for a fee of 15 cents; and up to $100 for a fee of 25 cents, actual value.

Parcels for Foreign Countries

Parcels of mailable merchandise may be sent (subject to certain limitations and conditions) by international parcel post to all foreign countries except Arabia, Spanish Guinea, and Tristan Da Cunha. Parcels weighing 4 pounds 6 ounces or less may be sent to Cuba subject to the domestic parcel-post rates and conditions. Foreign parcel-post packages should be mailed at the main office or large classified stations.

Owing to the long sea travel involved in most instances and customs inspection abroad, foreign parcels should be most carefully packed and mailed by November.

For further information on any of the above subjects or concerning any other postal matter, inquire at the proper window-stamp, parcel post, money order, registry, etc.—or see the postmaster or one of his assistants.

New Invention Saves Millions

A Lamp that Burns 94% Air.

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up. Is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, O. N. Johnson, 783 N. Broad St., Philadelphia, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

Last recitations included: The Thanksgiving Turkey, Richard Howard; Alone in He, Margaret Parker; What Do You Live, Christine Maynard; Mr. Chase and Mr. Careless, Richard Latimer and William McNaught. On Play, Ruth Allyn; An Old Time Thanksgiving, John Buckman. In closing Miss Whipple stated that the proceeds of the affair were to be used for the purchase of records, for the school victrola and new books for the library of the Sunday school. Miss Whipple also stated that the training for the operetta was under the direction of Mrs. Brown and the furniture for the stage setting, was loaned by Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt.

Nathan A. Gibbs and daughter, Miss Gibbs entertained on Thanksgiving day a family party, Mrs. Carleton P. Browning, who is the house guest of her father, Mr. Gibbs, her younger daughter, Emily King Browning, of Britannia Beach, B. C. and Mr. Mr Gibbs', brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Spooner of New Bedford.

Mrs. Henry W. Hurlbutt entertained a large family party at Wood Lawn farm, at dinner on Thanksgiving day.

Miss Susan Mathewson was the guest of relatives in New London over the Thanksgiving period.

Frank R. Beckwith of New London was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley C. Perkins for Thanksgiving.

Miss Sarah T. Latimer spent Thanksgiving with Mrs. Charles B. Jennings, at her home in New London.

Mrs. Edward B. Latimer and children, Richard and Enid, were members of a dinner party, with Mrs. Latimer's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hope, of Uncasville, for Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Eddie Simmons was the guest at dinner of her mother, Mrs. Ellen Coughlin in Norwich for Thanksgiving.

Rev. and Mrs. Allen Shaw Bush were entertained at the home of Mr and Mrs. Freeman Kennerson in New London on Thanksgiving day.

Nelson Parker, of Norwich, returned to his home here Tuesday, after a business trip, of three weeks.

Mrs. Delphine Fish left Wednesday to spend Thanksgiving with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Coleby Morgan in Mystic.

PIANIST PADEREWSKI HAS SPLIT A FINGER

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 26—(A. P.)—Ignace Jan Paderewski, pianist, split a finger on his right hand during the performance of his program at the New York recital yesterday afternoon and has cancelled his schedule of recitals until further notice. He was to have appeared in this city Friday night.

When the orchestra stops its surge of music—and the applauding couples begin to leave the floor—when you join the good fellows for jolly talk and friendship

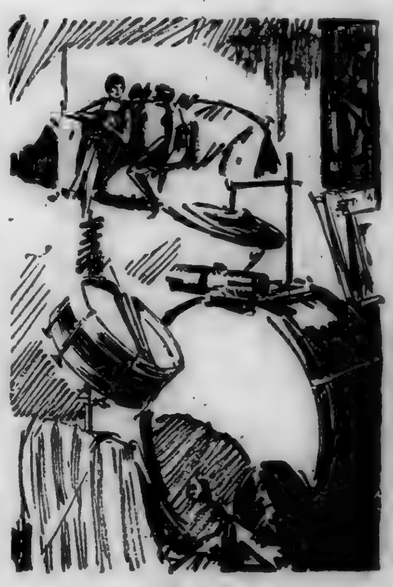
—have a Camel!

WHEN the orchestra gives you encore after encore, but finally stops. And the couples glowing with happiness reluctantly leave the floor. When you join the men for jovial talk until the next dance begins—have a Camel!

For no friend so enhances the joys of life as Camel. Camel makes every happy occasion happier, adds its own charm to every festive day, every blithesome evening. Camels contain the very choicest tobaccos grown in all the world. They never tire your taste, no matter how freely you smoke them. They're so skilfully blended they never leave a cigaretty after-taste. Rolled into Camels is every good feature you have ever wished for in a cigarette.

So, when you're waiting happily and confidently for your time to rejoin the dance—taste the smoke that's known and loved by the world's experienced smokers. No doubt about it, you'll never know how good a cigarette can be until you—

Have a Camel!



Our highest wish, if you do not yet know Camel quality, is that you try them. We invite you to compare Camels with any cigarette made at any price.

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.

Camels contain the very choicest tobaccos grown in all the world. Camels are blended by the world's most expert blenders. Nothing is too good for Camels. In the making of this one brand we concentrate the tobacco knowledge and skill of the largest organization of tobacco experts in the world. No other cigarette made is like Camels. They are the overwhelming choice of experienced smokers.

BOSTON MAN MISSING FROM A FURNESS-BERMUDA LINER

NEW YORK, Nov. 26—(A. P.)—S Parker Bremer, of Boston, head of the dry goods and cotton firm of Parker, Wilder and company, and member of an old Massachusetts family, was missed from the Furness-Bermuda lines Fort Victoria, as that vessel delayed by heavy seas, steamed toward New York from Bermuda today.

The room steward early this morning found Bremer's stateroom deserted and a note on the table which read:

"Please notify Parker Wilder and company, No. 215 Fourth avenue, New York, and No. 99 Chauncey street, Boston."

Mr. Bremer's clothing was hanging on a chair. Apparently he had left his stateroom in pajamas.

Mrs. Bremer, who had expected to spend Thanksgiving day today with her husband, and was awaiting him at the Hotel Gotham here, said that her husband had been depressed over financial reverses.

"He was the head," she said, "of the largest cotton concern in Boston and had heavy responsibilities and was over-worried. But his letters from Bermuda had been reassuring. He seemed to be well again."

Passengers said they had seen Bremer pacing the deck deeply worried. He kept to himself most of the time, they said. The room stewart saw him Wednesday sitting in pajamas on the edge of his berth and asked him if he was ill.

MAPPING OUT PROGRAM FOR MITCHELL COURTMARTIAL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—While the Mitchell courtmartial stood in recess today, prosecution mapped out a program for presentation of its evidence beginning tomorrow. The defense having rested its case yesterday, the war department will be given the right of way when the trial is resumed. It will made an effort at the outset to show what it has done in the way of promoting army air service activities as rebut as completely as it can, Colonel Mitchell's charges of neglect, incompetence and almost treasonable conduct of aeronautical phases of the national defense system over which he exercises control.

Major Francis Wilby of the general staff, has been given charge of the presentation of the war department's side of the case. He feels confident that, with the data he has collected and the officers he has selected for witnesses, that the rebuttal will be through a new light on the war department's air policies and the contributions it has made to air service development.

As the program was arranged tonight with a recess until Monday in prospect at the close of tomorrow's session, the war department will give way next week to allow the navy to bring in answers to Colonel Mitchell's charges before it concludes the presentation of its case.

All of next week may be needed for the navy to answer the Mitchell charges, and another week or more probably will be required by the army for the same purpose. Major Allen Guillion, assistant trial judge advocate, has been placed in charge of the navy's counter-attack upon Colonel Mitchell.

EIGHT PERSONS INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

BLACKSTONE, Mass., Nov. 26—(A. P.)—Eight persons were injured, two of whom are not expected to live, when a touring car which a policeman was pursuing, collided head-on with a Milliville bus here tonight. The injured were all taken to the Woonsocket, R. I. hospital and the driver of the touring car arrested there on a charge of reckless driving.

SCHEDULE OR SURTAX INCOME RATES WELL BALANCED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—(A. P.)—The revised schedule of surtax income rates in the tax reduction bill framed by the house ways and means committee was described today by Chairman Green as "the best balanced and most evenly graded schedule that has so far been drawn."

Representative Rainey of Illinois, a democratic member of the committee, on the other hand, has protested that the reductions in income rates have been so graded that persons with small and large incomes will receive most of the benefit to the exclusion of those with incomes between $25,000 and $50,000.

Answering this contention, Mr. Green today pointed out that the surtax rates have to be graded from one to 20 per cent., the maximum agreed by the committee.

"This resulted in those in the upper brackets getting a greater reduction in dollars than those in the lower brackets," He said, "but this was true because they had so much larger incomes. It is also true that those having incomes above $1,000,000 got a nearly 50 per cent., reduction but this was inevitable when the maximum surtax was reduced from 40 to 20 per cent., If such a reduction had been made in the lower brackets, we would not have had sufficient revenue to carry on the government.

"Under the proposed schedule, the total tax paid by any one advances as his income increases, so that with increasing amounts of income there is an increasing per cent., paid in taxes, and this increase is regular and uniform, as will be seen by examining the table of the percentages of rates"

PREPARING FOR RENEWAL OF RHINELANDER CASE

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 26.—(AP)—While opposing counsel for Leonard Kip Rhinelander and his negro wife, Alice Jones Rhinelander, today mapped out their strategy for the continuation of the Rhinelander annulment suit Monday, a report was circulated that the conclusion of the trial would find young Rhinelander nearly penniless, his fortune exhausted by legal expenses.

The New York World will say tomorrow that it has been learned from an authoritative source that young Rhinelander alone is bearing the expenses of the trial. His father, Philip K. Rhinelander, has not supplied a cent in the suit and has neither seen Leonard nor communicated with him since news of his marriage became public about a year ago.

On May 9, 1924, Leonard attained his majority and inherited $300,000 left by his grandfather. The investigation preceding the trial, lawyers' fees and trial expenses will use up practically all of this sum, the World will say, and he will be virtually penniless when the trial ends.

Investigating Mrs. Rhinelander's ancestry, one investigator was sent to Europe several times. This expense proved needless, as Mrs. Rhinelander admitted at the opening of the trial that she is part negro.

Isaac N. Mills, chief counsel for Rhinelander, announced that his client will be put on the witness stand Monday to deny the testimony of Ross Chidester, former chauffeur for the Rhinelander family, that nearly three years before his marriage Rhinelander was told by Chidester that Alice's father was a negro.

Mrs. Rhinelander will probably take the stand Monday, her attorney, Lee Parsons Davis, said, and will be subjected to brief examination. No such ordeal as that to which Rhinelander was subjected under cross-examination faces here, however, for Mr. Mills said his questions will be few.

"It will not be necessary to cross-question her at length," he said. "We have her letters. What is written, is written."

Whether or not any more of her 400 letters to Rhinelander will be read in court will depend entirely upon the developments of the trial, Mr. Mills said, he admitted that he was holding the "more expressive of them" in the eventuality of "unexpected incidents."

It is expected that Mrs. Rhinelander will testify that she did not deceive Rhinelander as to her color and that there was a full discussion of the question long before their marriage.

ESCAPED PRISONER AT LARGE BUT SHORT TIME

WINDSOR, Vermont, Nov. 26—(A. P.)—Stephen H. Hoppe, of Boston, who was arrested after an escape from the Maine State prison, at Thomaston, escaped last night from the Vermont State prison here but was recaptured this evening in West Claremont, N. H., after less than 24 hours of Thanksgiving liberty.

While a fugitive from Maine, Hoppe was shot in the leg and captured while attempting a store burglary in this state. Only recently he had been discharged from the prison hospital and since he was still using crutches, was allowed the freedom of the corridor. Last night he propped up a dummy in his bed which fooled the officers at the night "check off" and made his escape in a way still undetermined. Prison officials found him this evening just across the New Hampshire line. He was returned to await trial on the burglary charge.

HALF MILLION MILES OF SURFACED ROADS

The mileage of surfaced roads in the United States is nearing the 500,000 mark according to the bureau of public roads of the United States department of agriculture. Some weeks ago the state reports indicated that there were 128,347 miles of surfaced road on the state systems at the end of 1924 and similar subsequent reports from the states indicated that mileage of surfaced county roads was 339,558 making a total of 467,905 miles. While it is probable that the estimates county roads is not so accurate as that of the state roads, the above figure is probably not too large.

Since 31,541 miles of road was surfaced in 1924 by the states and counties and it is known that progress has been equally as good in 1925, it is probable that the construction season now drawing to a close will increase the surfaced mileage to more than 495,000. In this estimate allowance was made for a portion of the higher improvement of roads previously reported as surfaced.

In addition to the surfaced roads a considerable mileage has been graded and drained according to engineering standards. There were 288,294 miles of such road at the end of 1924, and of this 13,689 miles had been constructed during that year. These figures indicate that the improved road mileage of all classes is not far from 740,000.

The mileage in Connecticut at the end of 1924 was 12,218, surfaced state roads 1668 miles, surfaced county roads 743.

HEATER FAILED TO SATISFY TAFTVILLE CHURCH

A certain type of heater that failed to satisfy the Sacred Heart church and convent at Taftville and had to be taken out by Michael F. O'Hara of New London, who installed it, are the grounds for a suit for $7,500 damages brought in the superior court by O'Hara against the Trinity Oil Heating Co., and the Hartford Oil Heating Co., both of Hartford.

It is represented in the complaint that on Aug. 7, 1925, the plaintiff entered into an agreement with the defendant, the Trinity Oil Heating Co., now the Hartford Oil Heating Co., wherein the defendant agreed to supply to the plaintiff a certain number of automatic oil heating machines known and sold under the name and design of Electrol."

That as an inducement to the making of said contract, the defendant represented to the plaintiff that said Electrol Automatic Oil Burner would burn and consume in its operation any oil that would flow under extreme climatic conditions. The plaintiff relying upon the representations of the defendant and contract, sold and installed two of the Electrol machines in the rectory and convent of the Sacred Heart church at Taftville, in September, 1925, being installed under the supervision of a representative of the defendant company.

After said Electrol machine had been installed they failed to function and would not consume the oil that was supplied to them, notwithstanding that said oil flowed freely and was of good kind and quality, it is alleged.

The plaintiff notified the defendant of the non-operation of the heating machines and requested that they remedy the same or install new ones in their place and stead.

The defendants endeavored to repair and to effect an operation of the heating machines, but have wholly failed to do so. The plaintiff has requested the defendants to remove the heaters from the Sacred Heart convent and church but the defendants have refused to do so.

The plaintiff has been obliged to his own expense to remove said Electrol heating machines from the church and convent and has lost not only the profit of the sale of the heaters, but also expense incurred incidental to the installation and removal of said machines besides losing the profit on the sale and installation of a number of other Electrol, Automatic Oil Heating machines, to wit: An amount upwards of $5,000.

GIVES REASONS FOR THANKSGIVING IN SERMON AT UNION SERVICE

Rev. J. Harlow Graham, pastor of Trinity M. E. church, preached the sermon at the union Thanksgiving service held Thursday night at the Church of the Good Shepherd, Universalist, Broadway. The service had a large attendance, all of the united churches being represented in the congregation. Rev. A. N. Foster, pastor of the church, led the service and in the order of service, clergymen took part as follows: Invocation, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, pastor of the First Congregational church, Norwich Town; responsive Psalm, Rev. H. Hunzinger, pastor of the German Lutheran church; choral response, Rev. Edward C. Dunbar, pastor of the First Baptist church; prayer, Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church; hymn, announced by Rev. R. V. Panizzoli, pastor of the Italian mission at the Central Baptist church; first Scripture lesson, Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church; second Scripture lesson, Rev. David A. Pitt, pastor of the Central Baptist church; reading of the Governor's Thanksgiving proclamation, Max Hanover; hymn, announced by Rev. Dixon Brown, pastor of the McKinley avenue, A. M. E. Zion church; sermon, Rev. J. Harlow Graham, pastor of Trinity M. E. church; benediction, Rev. Myron E. Genter, district superintendent of the Methodist church.

Rev. Mr. Graham took as the text of his sermon, First Thess., 5:18—In everything give thanks for this is the will of God. In part he said:

The history of Thanksgiving days, feasts, rituals and observances among all peoples is a long and honorable one; it furnishes added evidence that man is essentially and incurably religious. That history is also of value as a comment upon the doctrine of progressive revelation. It is a story of a gradual refinement and punfication. The text chosen for tonight is an expression from the highest point in that long series of revelation. It strikes the deepest note possible in the gamut of thankfulness and thanksgiving.

Perhaps it is easy and natural to be thankful for those things which we call the blessings and mercies of life, our prosperities and successes, our bursting barns and heaping riches. Not all men reveal the attitude however. There is a materialism that takes and grasps without awareness of a giver or a sense of obligation of either stewardship or thankfulness. The rich fool who built the yet larger barns said within himself, "I have gotten this wealth. It is mine. I see no Giver. I am not beholden to any one. It will be mine tomorrow and forever." How large is this company of unthankful recipients? Let those who have had any large experience in charitable and philanthropic enterprises testify. Not long ago an outstanding physician of our state said in private conversation, "Probably it never does any good to a person to be helped. It helps the helper only." This is of course a needful libel on human nature but it contains just enough truth to pass as sound observation in some circles. Few lepers were cleansed, but only one seemed sufficiently grateful to return and say "I thank you." Such unthankfulness clogs the sources of more benevolence than we can ever know. There are even some who seem to feel that there is an element of servility in an attitude of gratefulness. And indeed a false pride, a haughty spirit cannot be truly thankful. For we owe more than we can ever pay. "We are debtors to the Greeks and to the barbarian." If we but know it therefore intelligence compels a humility and a thankfulness. And how potent is gratitude. It alone cancels most of the debts of life. Parenthood asks for nothing more from childhood but it does ask for this. "How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is to have a thankless child." "How can I ever repay you for all your nursing me back to health" said a wounded soldier to a 'best dressed woman in the world?'" "There is only one coin of payment that is not counterfeit to one who gives her life in service in my profession," said she, "gratitude."

So even if we be materialists we should be thankful and reverent. Materialism dotes upon the goods of life. It dreads plain living, it shuns simple tastes, it loves luxury and comfort, jewels and fine houses. Life for us in this mood means possessions in abundance. But it may be thoughtful and therefore reverent. We should all share in this kind of thankfulness. If daily bread is worth asking for it is worth thanking for. Let us not be deceived—life is adorned by and enriched by abundance of things possessed—but life does not consist in these things. But God is the giver of things. Let us therefore learn as the little child to say from our hearts.

"Back of the loaf is the snowy flour
Back of the flour the mill
And back of the mill is the wind and rain
And the sun and the Father's will."

And of all the peoples of history, Americans should most think back to the source of all wealth, for we are blessed with abundance as none other people have ever been.

But we be men and do not live by bread alone

"The spirit hath its need,
And on the ministry of truth
Its growing strength must feed."

On the sense plane a part of every life must be lived. But the life of the mind and the spirit is a dependant and as truly a debtor as that of the body. Our Pilgrim Fathers of Plymouth Colony were successful farmers and merchants and they thanked God for "a good increase of Indian corn." But they thanked God most for "freedom to worship God."

So we, for love of folks at home, for friendships true and strong, for high thoughts and fellowship in them, for a degree of success and the fruition of our hopes and ideals, for tasks worth while, for purposes which command, and compel all our strength of mind and heart, for such revelation of God's 'one increasing purpose' as He is pleased to disclose let us devoutly and unfeignedly thank our Heavenly Father.

But this order of St. Paul is on higher ground than just that of thankfulness for blessings. "In everything give thanks"—everything. That everything includes temptation, disappointment, poverty, pain, sorrow, failure, thwarted hopes, unrealized ideals. It is significant indeed that this word was written to a suffering persecuted church. He calls these saints not to submission or even to resignation, but to gratitude. Let us examine it a bit.

Many have been the preachments which have been put forth by moralist and mystics by religionists and philosophers of many kinds designed to reconcile us to our Gethsemanes.

For example the optimist with his Pollyanna philosophy, that this world is so very good. Pain may endure for a moment only, or those other Pollyannas who say there is no pain. The sun always shines. All's well with the world.

Or that other council "It might be worse." How much defeat has been explained away thereby. King George called the people of his empire to a day of thanksgiving after the close of our Revolutionary war. An intimate inquired the cause for thanksgiving. Shall we render thanks for a depleted treasury? No. For the loss of thirteen of the fairest jewels in thy crown? No. For the blood of thousands slain? No. Then for what? "For this, that it is no worse than it is."

Or the council of the stoic, "what can't be cured must be endured." There is no profit in repining. When life is hard meet it as you meet an enemy. Or the council of the fatalist. These and other like counsels may all have their place but Christians need not rely on them. "There is a teacher whose name is pain," says one. "Grief should be strong to consume small troubles, to commend. Great thoughts, grave thoughts, thoughts lasting to the end," says another.

Perhaps the author of our text would find solace in some of these ideals. I think he could say out of his own experiences:

"I walked a mile with pleasure
She chattered all the way.
But not a thing learned I
From all she had to say.

I walked a mile with sorrow
And not a word said she
But oh the things I learned of her
When sorrow walked with me."

But none of these are the key to St. Paul's remarkable grace. He bases it on the will of God and on the nature of God. This is the will of God for you in Christ Jesus. Paul learned this lesson in the school of Christ. If the God of life is like Christ this order can be obeyed, by rational beings. If God is like Christ in kindness, in utter sacrificial loyalty to truth, and to his human children what have we to fear. If God is like Christ then it is safe for use to propose, to plan, to adventure, but we must also be willing that God shall dispose. If God is like what Christ said he was like then he was a purpose in our lives. That purpose is not revealed much beyond the present but there is light enough for the next step. It is enough for Paul to be as his Master. In temptation he thanks God Knowing his Master was likewise tempted. If deserted by his friends, ill-treated and buffeted cast out, he counts it all joy to be worthy to suffer for him.

Rev. Mr. Foster announced that a collection will be used for the work of the Norwich Ministers' association. A union service having been arranged by the association.

POINTS OUT GREAT BASES FOR THANKSGIVING

Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock Thanksgiving service was held at Park church with a good sized congregation to hear the scholarly sermon by the pastor, Rev. S. H. Howe, in which the pastor pointed out the great bases for thanksgiving.

In part he spoke as follows:

Thanksgiving to which this day is set apart is an intensely religious word and act. It is the outbirth of a big way of looking at life, and a full inventory of the contents of our environment. It is not the product of our material prosperities in which we find ends and not means. The sentiment of the irreligious mind which turns them into ends is mere self felicitation. "God I thank thee that I am not as other men." Prospered conditions may become grounds of gratitude when they are resolved into means unto high services. So that the irreligious man who excludes God, as the controlling and masterful force in his life is likely to be halted at the threshold of the word. It is said "Life is a big thing and there is a big way of looking at it." And there is a big way of looking at life and the whole of life if we are to offer a real thanksgiving to Almighty God.

There is of course an ambiguity about the term bigness. We estimate things by the space they occupy. There are worlds in space that occupy more room than the little orb of stone and compacted matter such as ours. And yet, the tragedy enacted on our tiny planet may draw more attention from heavenly watchers than Sirius or Orion. A little pearl may be of more intrinsic value than a mountain of ashes.

You might be given the whole Atlantic for your harvest acreage and you would starve on its shore. The desert of Sahara might be given you without enriching you. And yet there are other than spatial area that connotes bigness. There are big ways of thinking of living, of hoping and doing. There is a big way of looking at life and destiny that furnish true grounds of thanksgiving. We may be living in too small a thought world but we can break out into a vaster thought world than the irreligious man knows. We may have too small an area for religious thinking for we must all do our share of it. We must all have a theology, extensive or limited. We cannot give ourselves to decrying the religious thinking of those who know more and believe more than we do; for we well know the man of limited knowledge and belief had the most intolerant of theologies. The decriers of bigotry are generally the most bigoted. The people who have so diminutive a conception of God that they perfectly understand Him are the most provincial people of the community. It ought to be evident that we need an immensely augmented conception of God to keep pace with the ever expanding universe which represents Him. All ancient conceptions of God, pagan or Hebrew, were narrow and provincial in comparison. The world was full of religions then as numerous as the races and as diminutive. Cosmical conceptions of God or unitary conceptions were rare and exceptional. One God for all nations or for the cosmos was then an unthinkable conception until the great prophets came. We have gotten well past all this but we need new and ever expanding conceptions as new provinces of the divine activity are opened up.

So we want great conceptions of His redemptive economy if our gratitude is to take on worthy proportions. The breaches of the divine order by what we call sin is a colossal fact that the universe must take account of. If man is to be recovered from the consequences of this world outlawry it must be on a cosmical scale. And it becomes us to take worthy account of the agent in this act of recovery. If human disloyalty is a trifling incident in the life and order of the universe then an unimportant redemptive agent may be invoked. But what if it is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God, than it must call for a colossal remedial agency of recovery. If a man, on your level and mine, can—mend this broken clay we wear, than we can do our little thinking and go our way. But some of us know we must have a Christ that cannot be crowded down into an acorn shell. We must have a figure that fills out all the categories of thought and be built on a scale of cosmic proportions.

The trouble with much of our modern Christology is that it is cut on too small a pattern—reduced in some quarters to a bird cage in which we cannot stretch our wings full pinion. The great thinkers have defined Jesus Christ in superlatives. He is the head of principalities and powers, the fulness of which fills all things. The head that gathers all things into unity. The beginning and end of all things whose creative might embrace all nature made by Him, and without Him was not any thing made that was made.

The salvation of a world or of a soul, yours and mine, is a big thing; and calls for a big author. When you cut Him down to human proportions, you cut your religious thinking down and your importance down to the thinking and importance of that of the dwarfs and pigmies. You may be satisfied with your small faith and diminutive objective but I can't stretch my wing in so diminutive a cage. I need not use the higher arches of my brain in that sort of pedestrian thinking and I cannot be grateful for the help such thinking supplies. God's work in my redemption must match His work in creation—Robinson Crusoe islanded in mid-ocean, may conclude that his island and his islanded thinking are the whole thinking, but some of us have been in four continents and we know the world is greater than Crusoe's tiny islet. The Christian church has been doing cosmic thinking for the past 2,000 years and it will always refuse to cut down its creed to the dimensions of a child's toy house. Then I say we need a big way of thinking about the redemption of the world to be grateful on this day and date.

But we want a big way of thinking of the fruits of redemption: If our breach with the order of the world is to be repaired, it is a great piece of repair work. It is a great thing to be a forgiven man, and a great thing to be thankful for. It is a great thing, yea a masterpiece, to be recovered to goodness, to be made new creatures, capacious of great loyalties and obedience; to be caught up into heavenly places, to be associated with the great ongoings of the Universe, to become the fellows and co-partners of the celestial citizenry in that realm behind the great silences of death is enough to awaken all the gratitude of my nature. It is a piece of work worthy of my creation. Then there is a big way of regarding the immortality which lies behind death. It is much to live at all; to live here through the long decades—and especially in a stormy epoch like ours, but to live in all the future aeons and grow and greaten into beings of such expanding life is greater by far. It is not for us to pace the floor, bemoaning our mortality or our momentary aspersities, for we shall pass them all on our endless march. We have a thousand ages to live and love and serve and rejoice and to be associated with the eternal ongoings which we have not yet the power of conceiving. How trifling are the things that harrass and hinder and defeat our happiness here if we are so soon to drink at all the fountains of joy.

Then there is a big way of looking at the work we have here to do. We labor to weariness in the routine and endless monotony and under the lash of the recurrent drives and urges of even our religious work and perhaps fail to take account of the outcome of it all and fail to take account of the issue and result of it all. But even if we are weary and heavily weighted it is well to remind ourselves that it is only a great soul that wearies or works to weariness. The eagle wearies of beating its great pinions against the gates of the sun while a sparrow never wearies of its noisy fluttering and idle chattering. But if we weary, it is because the work is great and the stake and issue great. We work on a big programme which requires many hands beside our own to bring to worthy conclusion. Conceiving of life then we will give little heed to the momentary attritions and pin pricklings which engross the thought of too many lives. We can live in freedom and courage and charity and hope of the coming liberation when we shall find rest in work and peace in toil and joy in toil.

I think we need some of these lines of thought to lay the foundation for lives of perpetual gratitude. The rehearsal of the mere material prosperities gets us only a little way. They are at least not ends, but means, and too seldom used as means, and not ends and finalities—as the men of the world use them. But beyond all material settings for our lives there are those eternal permanences that lay the basis for perpetual gratitude for life's great chances and possible becomings.

FOUR GENERATIONS AT THANKSGIVING GATHERING

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Marsh of Peck street entertained a family gathering Thanksgiving that included their son's, Ralph and Charles Marsh, Jr., a daughter, Miss Thelma Marsh, their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Smith, and another son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh MacDonald and their infant son, Daniel Francis MacDonald, all of Norwich, and Mrs. Marsh' father, Henry Cross, of Saco, Maine, who is spending the winter with his daughter's family. There were four generations present, Mr. Cross, Mrs. Marsh, Mrs. MacDonald and Daniel Francis MacDonald. The first generation is over eighty and the fourth, about two months old.

FAMILY GATHERING FOR 43RD WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

There was a delightful family gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Calkins No. 258 Asylum street Thanksgiving day when there was the observance of their 43rd wedding anniversary and Mrs. Calkins' birthday. All their six children, three sons and three daughters, and 20 grandchildren were assembled for the occasion, the turkey dinner and the happy reunion being equally enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Calkins were married in Blanford, Mass., by Rev. Daniel B. Lord but have been residents of this city for many years. Mr. Calkins was for a long time in the employ of the New Haven road.

The gathering included besides Mr. and Mrs. Calkins, Mr. and Mrs. Berlin Calkins and five children of this city, Percy and Abby Calkins Alden and four children of Chicopee, Mass., Jerry and Hazel Calkins Angel and five children, Mr. and Mrs. James Eugene Calkins and two children, William and Annie Calkins Buckley and three children, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore G. Calkins and one child, all of this city and Mrs. Carrie DeLaverge of Chicopee.

QUANTITY NOT QUALITY IN KING TUT EXCAVATIONS

Joseph Lindon Smith, speaking on "Excavations in Egypt at the Present Time" described to his audience at Connecticut college at New London Tuesday afternoon, the thrill of standing at the door of a treasure-filled tomb un-entered by man for 3,500 years, the infinite pains with which such a find, in these days of scientific archaeology, must be opened and studied, the maddening uncertainties which yet remain when the records of ancient history traced on carved walls, alabaster vase and gold encrusted sarcophagus fails to unroll to completion, and the astounding havoc which some finds make in history as we have supposed it to be.

Mr. Smith introduced himself as "not a practising Egyptologist, only a painter." His talk, however, evinced much knowledge of the Egyptian excavations of today. He spoke of the Tutankhamen find as "notable for quantity, not quality." Nothing has been found there that has not been found before, he said. He mentioned a more unique but less talked of discovery which was made a year ago, when a temple of pure Greek style was uncovered in the sand, which requires that "the history of Greek and Egyptian architecture must be rewritten," since there was no architecture at all in Greece at the time the temple was built.

A tomb, untouched since the fourth dynasty, Mr. Smith spoke of briefly as under excavation at present by Dr. Reisner of Harvard university, characterizing it as "probably the most astounding find ever." It holds within it an alabaster sarcophagus covered with mantle on which is inscribed the name of the builder of the first pyramid, with promise of many other treasures yet to be revealed.

This fascinating talk, which carried its hearers back to the most ancient days, was concluded by Mr. Smith's description of his personal experiences at the opening of the supposed tomb of Queen Tiy in 1907. He was the first to come into the room where lay the mysterious gold-wrapped mummy, which crumbled in his hands as he tried to unwrap it, and whose identity will probably never be known. The tomb was a scene of violence, which students ascribe to the priests of Queen Tiy, incensed against her famous son, Akhnaton, the heretic sun-worshipper. The body is believed by some to have been that of the queen, but others, on the evidence of the skeletal anatomy, think it was that of the great Akhnaton himself. So the tombs, giving up their treasures to curious hands, scientific though the curiosity may be, still keep some mystery of Egypt's glory to themselves.

FORECLOSURE SUIT ON MORTGAGE IN GROTON

A foreclosure suit against Diodato Ilvento of Groton has been brought in the superior court by the Savings Bank of New London on a mortgage for $2,000 on two tracts of land in Groveland park, Groton. The mortgage is dated Apr. 13, 1918. Barchard H. Bailey of Groton, who has a $500 mortgage and the L. A. Gallup Co. of this city, which has a $200 attachment, are made party defendants.

Awful Pains and Misery Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lima, Ohio.—"I want to tell you how your medicine has helped me. For weeks I suffered with awful pains from inflammation and I was in such misery that I had to bend double to get relief. I could not be touched or jarred, had awful pain all over my abdomen and could not touch my feet to the floor. It was impossible for me to straighten up and the pains never ceased. I took treatments for some time and finally was told I would have to have an operation. I do not believe in operations and I had read so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I told my husband I would try it before I gave up. I soon began to feel that it was doing me good. The awful misery began to leave me, also the backache. I have a good appetite and am gaining in weight. Taking this medicine was the best thing I ever did. I feel like it has saved my life and I do not hesitate to say so to my friends. It has saved me from a dreaded operation and I am still taking it."—Mrs. ETHEL THURSTON, 324 North Pine St., Lima, Ohio.

BRIAND MAY NAME NEW CABINET THIS AFTERNOON

Delay Was Caused by Difficulty in Persuading Louis Locheur to Assume the Post of Finance Minister—Partial List of New Cabinet as Given Out is Subject to Change at the Last Minute—The Composition of the New Ministry Shows a Slight Shift Toward the Right.

PARIS, Nov. 27—(A. P.)—Repeated attempts to constitute a cabinet since the Painleve ministry resigned almost a week ago have at last met with success, and the names of the ministers probably will be made known officially tomorrow.

Aristide Briand, already acustomed to the duties of premier, having served in that office a number of times, heads the cabinet. For the second time within a week he was requested by President Doumergue to form a ministry yesterday, and tonight he announced that he had been successful in the task and that the new cabinet was virtually complete.

Louis Locheur has been named minister of finance, but there seemed to be doubt tonight as to whether he would accept the portfolio. This ministry, according to opinion, is the only one lacking in the new government machine, although it was admitted that there might be last-minute changes in the list of ministers as made public tonight by the semi-official Havas agency. The list is as follows:

Interior, Edouard Daladier; navy, Georges Leygues; education, M. Rousselle; commerce, Daniel Vincent; public works, Anatole De Monzie; labor, Antoine Durafour; colonies, Leon Perrier; agriculture, Jean Durand.

After virtually completing his new cabinet, M. Briand broke off negotiations at 8:30 tonight on order to comply with his new rule not to do any night work. Just before he retired he announced that the cabinet would be completed tomorrow morning.

The formation of the combination went along smoothly today until early afternoon, when just about the time M. Briand was to meet President Doumergue he found it necessary to alter difficulties placed in his way by a few disgruntled elements of the old left coalition which are still unreconciled to the fact that the left bloc is dead.

The radicals raised the question of the financial policy of the new government: they wanted to know what measures it was proposed to substitute for the projects introduced by M. Painleve.

"I am the policy of the coming government," was the reply of M. Briand. "Until my cabinet has met to decide upon its ministerial declaration, I am the whole thing, and, if any group is dissatisfied with the choice made by the president of the republic, let them go to Elysee palace."

In the course of the day M. Painleve was asked to resume the difficult task of unravelling the financial tangle, supposedly with the view of taking up his own projects as they stood before they were revised at the behest of the socialists. He declared, however, that he preferred to leave the finance ministry, since it was as finance minister he was overthrown. He consented to return to the ministry of war and put through the scheme for reorganization of the army which was on the programme when his first government fell in October.

The new cabinet was now shaped, involves only a very slight shift toward the right. Former Premier Leygues is the only mark of the moderate groups in the new combination. Consequently, it is supposed that M. Briand is satisfied with a slight enlargement of the parliamentary majority to make up for the socialist defection, counting on the support of several independent groups not included in the new list.

RICHEST MAN IN FRANCE TO BE MINISTER OF FINANCE

PARIS, Nov. 27—After a long talk tonight, which kept M. Briand up far beyond his usual bedtime, the premier-elect finally persuaded M. Loucheur, who is popularly reputed to be the richest man in France, to preside over the ministry of finance.

It was decided that there will be no budget minister, the minister of finance taking entire charge of all departments of the ministry. M. Loucheur will be aided by an advisory committee whose duty it will be to study fiscal plans prepared by permanent officials of the ministry.

This committee, which will function under the general control of the cabinet, will include the best qualified representatives of finance, commerce and industry, regents of the Bank of France, executives of great banking establishments and presidents of chambers of commerce of the principal cities.

M. Briand was so elated at the success of his arguments with M. Loucheur that although it was nearly 11 o'clock he sped off to Elysee Palace to acquaint President Doumergue of the satisfactory progress he was making.

"Everything is going right," he observed smilingly as he left the presidential mansion. "I have just given the president an account of the labors of the day, the cabinet will be completed unless there is a hitch—which I don't anticipate—tomorrow, perhaps even tomorrow morning. I have an appointment with the president at 11 a. m."

EDUCATOR OPPOSED TO CENSORSHIP OF THEATRE

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 27—Opposition to censorship of the theatre was voiced by Samuel Harden Church, president of the board of trustees of Carnegie Institute, in an address today before a national conference of educators, playwrights and producers, called by the Carnegie Institute of Technology to study the progress of the drama in American universities and little theatres.

"Uncle Sam is showing a growing tendency to meddle in the affairs of his children and we must keep the dear old chap out of the theatre," Mr. Church said.

Motors, movies and radios have wrecked the "road" for plays, Brock Pemberton, a New York producer declared in his address on "Broadway and Main street."

The purposes of the conference was outlined by President Thomas S. Baker of Carnegie Tech, who said that he drama, as literature, receives but scanty respect and that facts were sought as to what the universities are doing to create an instructed and cultivated taste.

Otto H. Kahn, in his "reflections of an amateur" urged "emancipation from Broadway." In developing the local theatre and asked that young talent be given a guiding hand in acting, playwriting and producing.

DOUBLE TRANSMISSION IN RADIO BROADCASTING

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 27—(A. P.)—A system of radio broadcasting developed by Franklin M. Doolittle, for five years instructor in the department of communication engineering at Yale university, wherein by double transmission slightly different wave lengths simultaneously are sent out to fit the right and left ears, has been transferred to the Radio Corporation of America, it was announced tonight. The purchasing company takes over the patent rights and pending applications.

The system gives binaural effects equivalent to perspective invision, according to Mr. Doolittle, who is head of the company which operates station WDRC in this city. Experimentation with Mr. Doolittle's devices was carried out through his station some months ago.

The effect of the double wave broadcasting, it is claimed, is to give tone values by making it possible for a listener to determine the position of a player in an orchestra in relation to other instruments, or of a speaker or singer in a group instead of it being necessary for each person to direct their voice independently into the microphone.

ULTIMATUM PUBLICLY IS SERVED ON MARSHAL CHANG

PEKING, Nov. 27—(A. P.)—The "Christian general," Feng Yu-Hsiang, today served public notice on Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, once all-powerful ruler of Manchuria, to quite politics or fight. Feng sent the Mukden leader a message urging him to retire. Otherwise, he declared, he would attack immediately.

Peking remained outwardly calm in spite of this culmination of the spectacular march of events which has made the anti-foreign Feng practically master of Peking and threatens to eliminate Chang from the political arena.

WRANGLE OVER EVIDENCE IN MITCHELL COURTMARTIAL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—(A. P.)—With a wrangle over evidence from the start, the Mitchell court martial today listened for four hours to prosecution witnesses and then recessed until Monday, on the heels of a row between Brigadier General Edward L. King a member of the tribunal, and Representative Frank R. Reid, of Illinois, chief defense counsel.

Reports that because of the Reid-King incident and the sharp language used the general would resign or ask to be excused from further duty on the court failed tonight to bring any statement from him. He neither confirmed nor denied the reports.

Mr. Reid, however, set at rest other current talk to the effect that he would use the incident as the basis for a motion to have the trial reheard by another tribunal or would challenge General King's right to remain on the court. In a formal statement, he said:

"It is an unfortunate episode and I regret its occurrence. This court is an impartial tribunal. The remarks might be interpreted by some, but not by me, as an indication of one of the courts disposition toward the weight of the evidence.

"On Monday morning, I shall move to strike it from the record and I have so stated to General King. I shall take no advantage of the incident, although, as every lawyer knows, were this a civil proceeding, the jury would have been immediately dismissed."

The row was precipated during Mr. Reid's cross-examination of Major Jarvis J. Bain, a general staff officer and former assitant umpire of the recent joint army-navy maneuvers in Hawaii. The defense counsel had changed the form of his question several times and had moved, apparently unknowingly, close in front of the bench where General King was seated. Suddenly, he exclaimed:

"No, this is not damn rot and I object it is not damn rot in my mind and I certainly don't think it should be so considered by any member of this court."

Mr. Reid had heard and showed his indignation over a remark by General King to another member of the court. The general, hastened to apologize, explaining that he was "merely talking to another member of the court."

"I don't care who you were talking to," Mr. Reid returned hotly. "I heard what you said and I want it in the record. This may be very tedious to you, but I consider it very necessary to this case to question the witness thoroughly. I have a right to."

GERALDNE FARRAR HAS GONE INTO SECLUSION

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Arriving tonight from Hartford, Conn., where she suffered a breakdown this week, Geraldine Farrar went to the Biltmore hotel, where she immediately secluded herself. No one except her physician, Dr. James J. Russell, was allowed to see her.

Dr Russell, who met the singer at the train, refused to make any comment on her condition. Miss Farrar was singing in her new musical production "Romany Love Spell," when she collapsed from the strain of rehearsing. Later the show was closed and the members of the company paid off.

Pedestrians' Association

PARIS, Nov. 27—(A. P.)—Paris pedestrians have formed a Pedestrians' down the "Tyranny of 60,000 chauffeurs Protective association sworn to break and taxi-drivers over four million free citizens of Paris." The organization has announced it will work to aid and protect the pedestrian and to enact laws to bring guilty automobile drivers to justice. Headquarters have been opened in the Boulevard Malesherbes.

Italian Deputies Support Gov't

ROME, Nov. 27—The chamber of deputies today approved the government's bill to establish the rule of podestas, officials appointed by the central government, for municipalities of less than 5,000 inhabitants. Luigi Federzoni, minister of the interior, speaking in support of the bill, said the country was tired of party strife in the towns and that the bill will free small communities from struggles between local factions. The minister promised that the government would choose the podestas from among "absolutely honest and capable fascist persons".

SOLEMN FUNERAL CEREMONY FOR QUEEN ALEXANDRA

LONDON, Nov. 27—(A. P.) Throughout the chill afternoon and far into the gloomy London night, Queen Mother Alexandra's subjects, moving slowly in a tremendous sorrowing column, today and tonight passed by the scores of thousands into the dusk of Westminster Abbey to pay their last respects at the bier of their departed sovereign.

The vast queue, which stretched for more than a mile outside the Abbey, furnished an impressive closing picture for this day of final tribute. This morning, through the gently falling snow, a ghostly royal procession, proceedin gwithout sound along the white carpeted streets, followed the queen mother's coffin from St. James' palace to the Abbey, and after the solemn funeral ceremony was held there the public began its pilgrimage past teh bier.

An hour after the Abbey was opened to the people the queue was a mile and a half long with people six abreast, extending back from the doors through the streets. Those who went directly to the Abbey to gain entrance had to walk 20 minutes to Grosvenor Road to take their places at the end of the column.

Officials of the Abbey said late tonight that if it were necessary the doors would remain open throughout the night.

Early tomorrow morning a motor hearse will take the queen mother's body to Windsor, where burial will take place at 11:30 o'clock. The grounds of Windsor castle will be closed to the public, and only a brief private service for the royal family will be held before the remains are consigned to the tomb house under St. George's chapel. There they will rest until the sarcophagus in the chapel for Alexandra and her husband, Edward VII, is completed.

ANOTHER CONVICTION FOR THE MOUNT VERNON HOLD-UP

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 27—(A. P.)—David de Malo, the second of three men to be tried for the killing of two trolley company employes in a hold-up in Mount Vernon last July, was found guilty of first degre murder today by a jury in Westchester county supreme court. The jury had deliberated only ten minutes before reaching a verdict which carries only a death sentence.

Justice Arthur N. Tompkins, in his instructions to the jury, said, "the law must be upheld in Westchester county." When the verdict was reported the justice thanked the jury and said he believed they had found correctly.

De Malo took the verdict calmly and stoically but his wife, who was in the court room, became hysterical and had to be quieted by court attendants. The prisoner will be sentenced next week.

Frank Daley, the first of the trio to be tried for the double murder, now is in the death house at Sing Sing awaiting execution. The third member, John Marino, turned state's evidence and helped to convict his two former partners. As a result it has been announced that he will be tried for second degree murder only. Marino in his testimony declared that De Malo was the "brains" of the trio, and that it was he who planned the holdup.

ANDOVER, MASS., PATROLMAN SHOT DEAD BY A ROBBER

ANDOVER, Mass., Nov. 27—(A. P.)—Patrolman Robert Black of the local police was shot twice and instantly killed tonight by a man who had held up a store in Lawrence, a short time before. The man escaped.

Harcourt Amory

BOSTON, Nov. 27—(A. P.)—Harcourt Amory, for many years a leading figure in the textile industry, is dead at his home in this city, in his 71st year. He was identified with the Lancaster mills for 30 years and in 1895 became treasurer of the Indian Head mills in Alabama.

Dr. Thomas Grant Alcorn

THOMPSONVILLE, Nov. 27—(A. P.)—Dr. Thomas Grant Alcorn, 63, former state senator and widely known in the medical profession, died suddenly of a cerebral hemorrhage at his home on South street here this afternoon. Dr. Alcorn represented the town of Enfield in the legislature in 1911 and 1913, and then served as senator from the seventh district in the session of 1915.

Born in the house where his death occurred on September 20, 1867, Dr. Alcorn was a life-long resident of this town. He was graduated in 1898 from the College of Physicians and Surgeons in Boston, having previously studied medicine in Washington, D. C. He began active practice here the following year.

He was a former president of the Hartford County Medical association and of the Springfield, Mass., Academy of Medicine. He had been medical examiner of Enfield for many years and at the time of his death was chairman of the town school committee. For fifteen years he was chairman of the republican town committee of Enfield.

Dr. Alcorn leaves one brother, John S. Alcorn, of Waltham, Mass., and four sisters, Mrs. Charles Morrison, Mrs. James Patterson, Miss Emma Alcorn and Miss Isabel Alcorn, member of the republican state central committee. He was a cousin of Hugh M. Alcorn, state's attorney of Hartford county.

Germany to Join the League of Nations

Measure Was Approved in the Reichstag by Vote of 278 to 174.

BERLIN, Nov. 27—Chancellor Luther and Foreign Secretary Stresemann reaped victory today in their fight for parliamentary ratification of the Locarno treaties and German entry into the league of nations.

By a final vote of 291 to 174, the reichstag adopted the bill heralding the security pact drawn up at Locarno and the supplementary treaties with France, Belgium, Poland and Czecho-Slovakia. Approval also was given to the arrangement whereby Germany is to apply for membership in the league.

Parliamentary sanction came after a stubborn partisan battle lasting six weeks, the outcome was never really in doubt, but the chancellor and foreign secretary were confronted with unrelenting opposition on the part of reactionaries.

The security pact and the treaties were ratified by a separate vote, 300 to 174, while the question of joining the league was affirmed 278 to 183.

By a rising vote the reichstag adopted a motion submitted by the three middle parties, whereby the government is requested to use every effort in the time intervening between now and Germany's formal admission to the league to obtain from the allies a greater measure of alleviation in the Rhineland and other concessions than already granted.

Motions of non-confidence in the government proposed by the nationalists and communists, were defeated by a heavy vote, as was also a nationalist motion postponing the date of enforcement of the treaties.

The nationalists, communists and fascisti lined up solidly in opposition to the government and were given a dozen scattering votes from unattached parliamentary groups. The government's support consisted of socialists, centrists, democrats and members of the peoples party and Bavarian peoples party.

Nothing sensational was produced by the closing debate; the final result was no longer in jeopardy after the sentiment of the reichstag had been submitted to the test in the vote on the second reading of the measures yesterday.

Chancellor Luther and Foreign Minister Stresemann will leave for London on Sunday for the official signing of the Locarno documents by all the governments concerned. They will be accompanied by Herr Von Schubt, under secretary of the foreign office, and possibly Dr. Gauss, the department's legal expert.

Acting upon pressure from the leaders of the middle parties, the German delegates will frankly inform Austen Chamberlain, M. Briand and M. Vandervelde, representing Great Britain, France and Belgium, that the German people as a whole and the reichstag parties, who are nominally in accord with the policies inaugurated at Locarno, are impatient over the measure of concessions granted Germany by the allies.

President Von Hindenburg will affix his signature to the Locarno bill before the German delegates leave for London, thus making the law operative before the treaties are formally signed.

Eleventh hour attempts by opponents of the government to force a ruling whereby the treaties would have to be adopted by a two-thirds majority was voted down, as a constitutional amendment was not involved in the vote and therefore only a plain majority was required.

ONE THING TO LOVE A WOMAN, ANOTHER TO LIVE WITH HER

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 27.—(AP)—It's one thing to love a woman and another to live with her.

So testified Mario De Dominicis, art connoisseur, at the hearing today of his suit for divorce from Beatrice. De Dominicis, concert singer, on charges of neglect.

The testimony followed introduction of several endearing letters by defense counsel nad came before Mrs. De Dominicis testified how she lashed her husband with a horse whip until he knelt and begged forgiveness. Mrs. De Dominicis, in a counter suit, is seeking alimony.

Two Women Held up Bank at Renner, S. D.

While One Pointed Pistol at Cashier, the Other Scooped Up $500 in Silver.

RENNER, S. D., Nov. 27.—(AP)—With the daring and calm of seasoned bandits, two women wearing men's clothing walked into the First State bank here today, held up the cashier, picked up $500 in silver and disappeared in a decrepit touring car.

Sheriff's deputies hunting the pair, tonight reported their search had produced no tangible clew.

H. S. Wilkenson, cashier, and others who saw the women agreed they were about 25 and 35 years old, with black bobed hair, dark eyes and swarthy complexions. The younger was further described as "rather good looking."

The two women drove into the town, calmly entered the bank, and while one held a pistol under the nose of H. S. Wilkenson, cashier, the other scooped up all the silver in sight.

"Don't stir," the older woman ordered as she pointed the pistol at the cashier, "I hate to take a life, but I mean business and I'll do it if I have to."

Wilkenson offered no resistance and kept his hands up while the younger woman looted the till and took some money from the safe, missing a package containing $300 in currency.

Then, backing out as they kept Wilkenson covered, the women leaped into their car and drove rapidly away.

Immediately Wilkenson with three other men started after the car, but soon lost the trail.

There was nothing in the actions of the women to indicate they were any more nervous than robbers of the "gentler sex." Wilkenson said, adding that they "acted like they knew what they were doing."

"I'M TOO BUSY."

A woman was worn out shopping around—trying to buy a particular something-or-other. Hours had been spent, also strength and temper—and the desired article had not been found.

She was asked if she had read the advertisements to see where it could be found—before wasting time in fruitless search.

The answer was: "No, I never have time to read advertisements. I'm too busy."

Yet in the first paper that was picked up thereafter the article she wanted was advertised; its price and merit told; also where to get it.

Reading advertisements is a time saver. It's a good, safe investment in information concerning the best things the market affords you and where to get them.

Take time to read The Bulletin's advertisements—and you'll save time and money in buying the kind of product you want.

DEPT STORE SALES RECORD FOR OCTOBER

BOSTON, Nov. 27.—New England department store sales for October were the largest on record for that month, and after adjustment for the usual seasonal variation in sales, October business was the most satisfactory in over a year and a half. The improvement in retail trade during the late summer and this fall has now brought the sales volume of the average New England concern for the year to date above that of the same period last year. With the exception of a slight decline in Vermont trade, all sections of New England during the first 10 months of this year have had a larger volume of sales than during the same period of 1924. The average New England store has not accumulated stocks of merchandise during this fall in proportion to the increased volume of sales. At the close of October stocks of the average store were nearly three per cent. less than at the same time a year ago, a condition which has accompanied the hesitancy of the average store to increase its volume of future orders.

COMPLAINT FILED IN $250,000 BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—(AP)—The complaint in the $250,000 breach of promise suit brought by Marguerite McNulty, motion picture actress, against William Andrew Clark III, grandson of former Senator William A. Clark of Montana, was filed today in the supreme court by her attorney.

On January 15, last, the complaint alleges the plaintiff and defendant became engaged, with the understanding that they were to be married within a reasonable time. On the following October 30, according to the complaint, at the Hotel Belmont, the defendant refused to marry the plaintiff.

The complaint sets forth that the defendant is an engineer, associated with various copped, oil, mining and railroad industries, and maintains a residence at Los Angeles, Cal., with his father, William Andrew Clark, Jr., and executive offices in New York.

SECOND REPRIEVE FOR GERALD CHAPMAN SIGNED

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Governor Trumbull at 4:05 o'clock this afternoon issued a second reprieve for Gerald Chapman to expire March 3, 1926. The purpose of it is to allow time for Chapman's appeal to the supreme court of the United States to uphold his right to refuse a presidential commutation of his 25 year federal sentence which he claims stands in the way of his execution by the state of Connecticut for the murder of Policeman James Skelly of New Britain, October 13, 1924.

John Coolidge, son of President and Mrs. Coolidge, happened to be a visitor in the governor's office when the lawyers interested in the case appeared before the governor with the petition for the reprieve and witnessed the signing of the stay of execution.

PINCHOT HAS PROPOSAL TO SETTLE THE COAL STRIKE

Governor of Pennsylvania Has Invited the Anthracite Coal Operators' Negotiating Committee and the United Miners' Officials to Meet Him This Afternoon in Harrisburg—Members of the Special Mediation Committee of Scranton Chamber of Commerce Have Been Asked to Attend the Conference.

HARRISBURG Pa., Nov. 27—Governor Pinchot tonight called upon the wage negotiating committees of anthracite miners and operators to meet him here tomorrow to consider means of ending the suspension of operations in the hard coal field.

"I desire to lay a proposition before you," he said in identical messages to Major W. W. Inglis, chairman of the operators' scale committee, and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers. In each case he asked that besides the chairman the other members of the committee meet him here at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow.

At the same time he asked the members of a special mediation committee of the Scranton chamber of commerce to attend the conference of this committee, E. J. Lynett, Ralph E. Weeks and Ralph A. Amerman, conferred with him here today and his invitation to the operators and miners was issued while they were at his office.

While the governor's plan was not disclosed publicity it was made known at least in a general way, to the members of this committee and was said to meet with their approval.

Mr. Pinchot's action today was no first definite step toward bringing about an end to the suspension, which has been in effect since September 1, although it followed by less than forty eight hours conferences with Major Inglis and Mr. Lewis. These meetings, which were held here separately Wednesday night, were the third with each. All were held at the governor's invitation for the announced purpose of keeping the executive informed of the situation. In every case the participants kept silent as to the subjects discussed and declined to admit that any definite plan for ending the suspension was presented or considered.

The suspension of operations resulted from the failure of the miners and operators committees to reach any agreement upon the terms of a contract to replace that negotiated at Harrisburg in 1923. That agreement was brought about through the intervention of Governor Pinchot under circumstances similar to those which caused his action today. The governor then called the two groups into joint conference and presented a plan of settlement which, in general formed the basis of the contract finally negotiated.

The meeting, the governor said, will be open. It will be held in the executive offices at the capitol and while a set program has not been outlined, it is expected Mr. Pinchot will resume and will set forth his "proposition" at the opening of the session.

The suspension, which is approaching the end of the twelfth week, was called by President Lewis, when operators refused to concede the demands of the workers, which included a ten per cent wage increase, abolition of the check-off, and equalization of wages for day workers.

The Scranton committee which conferred with the governor today and which will take part in the conference tomorrow was the result of a movement launched by Scranton businessmen in an effort to speed the termination of the shutdown.

HOPE FOR EARLY PEACE IN ANTHRACITE COAL INDUSTRY

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 27—(A. P.)—Hope of an early peace in the anthracite coal industry was revived tonight by the action of Governor Pinchot in requesting the wage negotiating committees of the miners and operators to meet him in Harrisburg tomorrow.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, did not wait for the formal receipt of the governor's telegram to get the miners' representatives together for the meeting. But upon being advised by the Associated Press of its contents he immediately notified the members of the general scale committee to assemble in Harrisburg tomorrow.

28 PERSONS INJURED IN STREET CAR IN WORCESTER

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 27—(A. P.)—Twenty-eight persons, including passengers were more of less severely injured this afternoon when an outbound Leominster car of the Worcester Consolidated Street Railway company while traveling at high speed passed through an open switch near the company's storage yard on Grove street and toppled over when it struck soft ground.

Mrs. Catherine Barry, 60 years old, of West Boylston, suffered a mangled arm that had to be amputated and it is reported that she cannot live.

Joseph W. Ross, 40, of 43 North Main street, Ipswich, was slightly injured.

Mrs. Willie Ogg, wife of the golf professional, is at a hospital with head injuries which are not thought to be serious.

There were 35 persons on the car as it left Worcester. All seats were occupied and two passengers were standing. The car, one-man operated, turned off Main street, this city, into Grove, where unknown to the motorman, Harry A. Quirk, of Leominster, was an open switch, causing the vehicle to swerve off the track. The wheels sinking into the mud caused by heavy rain that was falling, caused the car to topple over.

A few minutes after the accident had occurred, every ambulance in the city was at the scene. A few of the others were taken to the City and Memorial hospitals.

An investigation into the accident will be made by Henry C. Page, general manager of the street car company and other officials.

REQUESTS SHENANDOAH COURT BE RECONVENED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—(AP)—The request of Joseph R. Davies, counsel for Mrs. Zachary Lansdowne, that the Shenandoah court fo inquiry be reconvened and witnesses recalled for cross examination on behalf of the widow of the airship's commander, was denied today.

Another request that a stenographic copy of the testimony of all witnesses heard by the court on any questions bearing on the controversy between Mrs. Lansdowne and Captain Paul Foley, former judge advocate of the court, whom she accused of attempting to influence her testimony before the court, also was denied, but no reference was made to Mr. Davies' other demand that the court be discharged.

The position of the department was set forth in a letter by Rear Admiral E. H. Campbell, judge advocate general of the navy, who was ordered by Mr. Wilbur to reply to the letter sent to him by Mr. Davies after the court, when it recalled Mrs. Lansdowne to inquire into the Foley charges, refused to permit him to act as her counsel, the court later exonerated Captain Foley.

The department's reply stated that, if Mrs. Lansdowne wished to present additional facts germane to the investigation, the judge advocate general would submit these to Mr. Wilbur when the findings of the court were reviewed it could then be determined, said the letter, whether the court should be reconvened and additional witnesses called.

COMEDIAN TINNEY AND WIFE ARE RECONCILED

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tinney, the black face comedian and his reconciled wife, buried the marital hatchet at a Thanksgiving dinner yesterday and tonight announced their plans for appearing together in vaudeville.

Mrs. Tinney will go back to vaudeville work starting next Monday and will prepare an act in which her husband will join her later. She expressed slight concern when told that her divorce decree might be signed soon.

PREPARED TO MOBILIZE ARMY OF 4,000,000 MEN

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 27—(A. P.)—Assurance that the United States is prepared to raise and equip an army of 4,000,000 men if needed, "more rapidly, more completely and more economically than a new army of that size has ever been equipped before," was given tonight by Secretary Davis of the war department in an address before the Union League club.

"That is because we have a systematic plan for the mobilization of industry in case of war," Mr. Davis explained. "We never have had any such plan in the past."

Reverting to World war conditions, the war secretary said:

"We put 4,000,000 soldiers in the field and equipped them fairly well in many respects in seventeen months. It was a remarkable achievement. It was x x x but this equipment was so incomplete that the combat units of the Expeditionary forces could not have stood a single hour against the enemy, except for loans and purchases from the allies to make up the dificiencies in out equipment. x x x x.

"We paid fifteen billions of taxpayers' money for such material as we got. That was too much. There was waste and extravagance; in some instances profiteering. x x x x.

Tomorrow morning, however, should an emergency require it, we could set machinery in motion which would equip an army of 4,000,000 more completely than we did in 1917 and 1918, and in a shorter time, and for several billion dollars less than was spent for equipment in the World war. That is because we now have a plan of industrial mobilization."

The secretary explained the operation of the industrial and man power mobilization plans in the Pennsylvania region under the national defense act. But asserted that further legislation to make these plans fully effective was needed. Calling attention to several bills introduced in the last congress to authorize the president in an emergency to establish control "of all industrial elements necessary for war as well as the machinery for providing our war time manpower and allotting that manpower to its task." He declared, the "government must be able to exercise more than mere moral suasion to keep down war costs in materials."

HOW SING SING PRISONER BLUFFED THREE GUARDS

OSSINING, N. Y., Nov. 27.—(AP)—A second Sing Sing guard, Edward Kennedy, was suspended today by Warden Lewis E. Lawes as the result of the escape last night of James Trana, who, unarmed, bluffed his way to freedom past three guards, two of them armed.

William H. Murphy was previously suspended for letting Trana escape and the third guard, Arthur Ferguson, was questioned by Warden Lawes.

Trana, whose home is in Brooklyn and who had served less than six months of a ten year sentence for burglary, escaped by spreading the bars of a window in a cell block forming part of the enclosure around the prison.

Walking directly towards Murphy, a keeper for nearly 25 years, Trana did not heed Murphy's warnings to halt. Kennedy, who was off duty, approached, and Trana, reaching towards his hip pocket, told both men he would blow their heads off if they made a hostile move.

Then, according to Warden Lawes he turned his back squarely upon Murphy and made Kennedy walk away with him. Murphy could easily have shot him as he walked off, the warden said.

As Trana was walking away with Kennedy, Ferguson, who was armed approached. No outcry was raised by Murphy or Kennedy and Ferguson passed, thinking that Trana was Kennedy's prisoner.

BOTH CANDIDATES FOR MAYOR ARE BUSINESS MEN

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 27—Political talk is increasing as December 7th, the date of the city election draws near. The fact that the public has failed to show very lively interest has not deterred political managers from doing their work industriously and accepting to bring home to the citizens that it is not a whim nor a mere pastime to vote but a duty. It is for the public to say who shall head the city government rather than sit back and then criticize the officials during their administration, the party leaders claim. Interviews with prominent politicians from both parties Friday showed that republican and democratic committees are strongly back of their respective tickets to the 'nth' degree.

John C. Tracy, republican nominee for mayor, has been chosen by his party to satisfy the public ear for a genuine business administration. His backers feel that with 10 years of a most successful career he qualifies as an excellent executive who could successfully apply sound business ethics and methods to the city government. "If Willimantic desires to be headed by a real business man," said a Tracy leader, "we cannot recommend one more worthy than Mr. Tracy who came here from Manchester nearly half a century ago and went into the jewelry and optical business in the old Windham house later moving to the present location on Main street.

One of republican parties favorite candidates is John R. Hilliard, nominee for city clerk and treasurer. Mr. Hilliard has had experience in the duties of that office having filled the unexpired terms of Lloyd A. Sanderson and Albert C. Seymour deceased. T. Frank Cunningham, a comparatively young business man, carries with him the unanimous endorsement of democratic party workers in his candidacy for the mayoralty. Mr. Cunningham was born and educated in this city. As a boy he learned the printing business and at the present time holds a managing interest in a progressive establishment. He is a World War veteran and a man of pleasing personality. He has been prominently affiliated with local social and fraternal organizations and is a past president of the Willimantic Business Men's association. With a slate of the qualifications of Mr. Cunningham, backed by a splendid ticket composed of popular vote-getters of financial and business experience, the democratic managers are highly optimistic regarding the success of their party. It is expected that they will roll up a substantial majority for their standard-bearer from the normally democratic third ward, where their candidate for alderman has no competition. A meeting of the workers and candidates of the democratic party was held at the Al Pierre Tabarin on Friday evening with about 75 present. Gratifying reports of the work of the ward committees were made. Chairman John R. Pickett was in charge.

The proverbial meanest man in Willimantic was detected Friday afternoon, as he was stealing cigars at the store of John R. McCarthy, who is blind. Joseph Smith, 23, of 5 Strong's Court, this city is the man who was nabbed, having stolen from the blind man. Smith has figured in several scrapes since he was in his 'teens. For some time past he had been assisting Mr. McCarthy in sweeping out the store and doing errands and he spent much of his time in the establishment. Through the checking system of the United Cigar company it became known that supplies were disappearing in some manner. On two occasions, this week while Mr. McCarthy was either out or alone in the store two thefts were committed and Friday a plan to trap the culprit was arranged. A friend of the proprietor acted as a spotter from a hiding place. Mr. McCarthy groped his way out of the store and he had barely gotten beyond hearing of his footsteps when Smith reached behind the counter and pulled out two boxes containing ten cigars each. Chief of Police Allan McArthur was notified and Smith was detained until the chief's arrival. In the young man's pockets were the two boxes of cigars. In police court this (Saturday) morning Smith will be charged with theft.

NORWICH PLUMBING CO. ATTACHED ROHDE STORE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 27—A search is being made for Herman Rohde, a former resident of Hebron who has disappeared and left behind him a long list of creditors, buzzing like a swarm of angry bees. John Wolff, of this city, formerly of Chaffeeville is one of those seekers. Some time ago Wolff bargained with Rohde for his business for $2,000. Rohde conducted a grocery store and depot for the sale of farm machinery in Hebron. Wolff laid down $200 for a binder to the bargain and then along came Deputy Sheriff Allison E. Frink who placed an attachment on the store and contents for $1,600, on behalf of the Norwich Plumbing company.

Rohde came from New York to Amston ten years ago and organized the Amston Co-Operative Dairy company, in partnership with a man named Kaneck. About a year ago Rohde withdrew from the business and located in Hebron where he went into business. Rohde sold his business to Wolff some time ago but the latter found an error on the bill of sale, also found that Rohde bequeathed the establishment a heavy indebtedness. He is now trying to undo the bargain and get back his $200. The store is closed and besides the fixtures is nearly empty. Hebron people believe that Rohde and his wife are in New York. The man took his household furniture along, when he left Hebron.

WE ARE PROPERLY MODEST— BUT FACTS TELL THE STORY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 27—Late last week the Tubridy-Weldon company of this city, inserted a 20 per cent. sale advertisement in The Bulletin. In one afternoon, less than five hours, the management checked up that that one advertisement had brought about sales amounting to nearly $500.

The second instance of the worth of Bulletin circulation was related Friday by Francis Boucher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delphis Boucher, of this city. Mr. Boucher's car was stolen in Hartford Tuesday night. Later in the evening the report of the loss came to local police headquarters and about midnight news of the theft, a description of the car and the registry number was forwarded to The Bulletin. The news was read by a young resident of Jewett City Wednesday morning and later that day he spotted the car. He notified the authorities and the machine, undamaged, was returned to the owner by members of the Danielson state police barracks.

Miss Bertha Houle of this city, and Rona Bourgeois, of Putnam, were united in marriage at eight o'clock Thursday morning at St. Mary's church by the pastor, Rev. J. J. Papilion performing the ceremony and celebrating the nuptial high mass. The attendants were Walter Bourgeois, brother of the groom and Miss Bibian Bourgeois, sister of the groom. The bride wore a gown of cocoa canton crepe with hat to match and carried a shower bouquet of white chrysanthemums. A breakfast was served at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Leopold Parenta, of 4 Ann street. Mr. and Mrs. Bourgeois are in New York. They will make their home in Putnam, where the groom is employed.

Stephen Katzman, 20, of 111 Hanover street, Hartford, was charged, in police court Friday morning, with failure to display lights on his automobile after dark. Katzman's Ford car struck a Studebaker owned and operated by Walter B. Knight, agent of the local mills of the Quidnick-Windham Manufacturing company, at the intersection of Walnut and Valley streets, late Wednesday afternoon. In trying to avoid a collision, Mr. Knight drove on the sidewalk and demolished a fire hydrant. It was his first accident in eighteen years. Through his guardian at Litch Probation Officer S. Arnold Peckham, Katzman pleaded guilty stating that his lights were not in working order and he believed he could reach Hartford before total darkness. He said that the Studebaker struck his car. Mr. Knight estimated the damage to his machine at $100, in addition to the cost of the hydrant. Deputy Judge Russell A. Andrews imposed a fine of $25 and costs, amounting to $31.15 which was paid.

Frank Mathieu, of Hartford and Miss Amelia Turcotte, formerly of this city, were married at St. Mary's church Monday morning at eight o'clock. Rev. J. J. Papillon performed the ceremony and was celebrant of the nuptial high mass. The attendants were Miss Emma Turcotte, and Wilfred Pageau, both of Hartford. Upon the return of the bridal couple from their trip to Utica and Plattsburg, N. Y., this (Saturday) evening, a reception will be tendered them at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Xavier Turcotte of 39 Ash street. They will reside in Hartford where the groom is foreman for the Capitol Lumber company.

Funeral services for Paridi Pegorari were held Friday morning with a requiem high mass at St. Joseph's church at nine o'clock. Rev. Charles M. Kelley was celebrant. Mrs. Edmund R. Fortelunce was at the organ. Miss L. Monica McKeon sang during the mass. Friends from Torrington and Norwich Town were in attendance. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery where Rev. Father Kelley read the committal service. Killourey Brothers had charge of the arrangements.

Evelyn May, infant daughter of Mr and Mrs. Henry W. Clark, of Scotland died at a local hospital at eight o'clock Friday morning. The child was born November 12, last, a daughter of Henry W. and Grace (MacDougall) Clark.

Superintendent and Mrs. Henry W Chamberlin provided a good old-fashioned Thanksgiving dinner at the almshouse for the inmates, twelve men and six women. Later, candy was distributed to the women and Superintendent Chamberlin gave a supply of cigars to the men.

The case of Captain William A. Wolfe, of South Coventry, charged with reckless driving, was nolled by Justice of the Peace Albert N. Gilman of the Coventry town court Tuesday evening when it was shown that the accident in which he had figured was unavoidable. A truck driven by Wolfe had collided with a machine driven by Madison Miller, of Hartford, after Miller had driven into a telegraph pole to avoid a smash-up with the Wolfe machine.

John Gaffney and William Gaffney, transients, who came to the police station in an intoxicated condition Thanksgiving night and told Captain Grady that they had no place to go were committed to Brooklyn jail, Friday morning. Deputy Judge Andrews imposed a fine of $10 and costs in each case and the men were unable to pay.

JEWETT CITY

ADEQUATE BUS SERVICE IS PROMISED PATRONS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Nov. 27—The Connecticut company is equipped to handle the extra Saturday afternoon traffic, when the new bus system becomes operative next Tuesday. The hourly service will reduce transportation problems to a minimum; then as an emergency measure, double service will be brought into requisition. When the system becomes auotmatically adjusted, it is promised that every person who wishes to travel north or south, at any hour in the day, will be accommodated without delay.

The fare from Jewett City to Franklin square will be, three tokens, 25 cents, the same as the trolleys have charged and with perhaps a few minutes' shorter schedule. The benefits to be derived from bus transportation between Central Village via Jewett City and Taftville station are evident when it is considered that for 15 years the trolley has been operated on a single iron, steam railroad, with meet orders and crossing necessities with the regular freight and passenger steam traffic.

There will be no waiting on a siding for an indefinite period for a train to pass nor will there be need of nervousness when a great 75-car freight, with a 200-ton mokul, rumbles by.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Nichols entertained guests from Worcester, Mass., Providence, R. I., and Danielson on Thanksgiving day.

Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Bliss are visiting their son, Leslie B. Bliss of Schenectady, N. Y.

Patrons of the Fine theatre learn with regret that a booking with the Ethel May Shorey Co., is cancelled for the present on account of illness in the family. This popular playhouse showed Wild Horse Mesa, Thanksgiving day, to over 1000 ticket holders the new screen plays which are booked to fill the dates, made vacant by the inability of the Shorey Company to fill their engagement, will be topliners and will include The Desert Flower.

From Voluntown which has already sent in eighty dollars are Mrs. Mandi Lambi, Rev. L. Paradis, Mr. and Mrs. George Briggs, Mrs. John Murphy, Marian Briggs, Mr. and Mrs. George Edmonds, Elsie Rose, Mrs. Fred Gray. The amount of money received to date is $685.75. The drive is not finished as the time will be extended until all sections have been thoroughly canvassed. Memberships may be left at the home of the chairman, Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, if desired. All canvassers' reports are to be left there now.

There was a noticeable absence of barrel swiping in this section lately. There seems to be a reason, when one of the smaller fry was overheard to remark, that nowadays instead of a barrel burning it would have to be a carbon conflagration.

Barrels are a scarce article in this section and apple raisers get a supply for shipping with difficulty.

There has been inquiry during the week about the Shoppers train that may be operated as a Saturday afternoon special, over the steam iron between Jewett City and Norwich. If such a train should become a reality it would have to be given a more appropriate name. Judging from the rushing trade done by local merchants "shopping train," wouldn't fit. Neither would "Theatre train" when 600 people attended the local movies at the Thanksgiving matinee.

Three newly married couples from Jewett City, all wedded this week are registered in New York hotels: Mr. and Mrs. J. F. White, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Crotty. The fair of the metropolis may look to their laurels when the brides appear on parade.

Thanksgiving guests at Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Whiting's were Mr. and Mrs. George Babcock and three children of Plainfield, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Olson and Allen Brown, of Jewett City and Ernest Brang's and Miss Jessie Brangs of Wellesley Hills, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Elias Bacela and daughters, Louise, Sophie and Addie of Worcester, Mass., were Thanksgiving visitor with Mr. and Mrs. A. Zegeer.

Richard Shea of Pawtucket is the guest of his uncle John Fitzgerald.

Miss Ida F. Foster visited Mrs. C. W. Chatfield in Voluntown this week.

Two notable, one-time customs were missing on Thanksgiving day. There always used to be a Thanksgiving service at one of the Protestant churches. The old time chicken shoot, which used to take place on the Spearmint brook lot, is also a thing of the past. Here every Thanksgiving day the marksmen of the village, young and old used to congregate to try their skill. Three shots, not finer than No. 6, in a three-inch ring at 10 rods, entitled the fortunate gunner to select an ancient bird from the coops, that were placed in a row nearby. Old army muskets, Queen's arms, in fact, anything that would throw shot were pressed into service. It was no easy job. One might try it some day, with any sort of shot gun.

A three inch white paper ring looks pretty dim 165 feet away. Yet some there were who could do it, and were even barred after three chickens had been won.

CANTERBURY GREEN

The guipit was supplied last week by John Crofts. Next Sunday it is expected that Rev. Mr. Sweet of Hopkinton N. Y., will be present and will preach at the church as a candidate.

MEANS OF BETTERING SOCIETY OF MAN SOUGHT BY STUDENTS

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—(AP)—If the church is an inadequate means of contributing toward a better society for man, other agencies will be sought at a conference of 1,000 students from colleges and universities to be held in Evanston during the Christmas holidays.

Denominations to be represented include the Protestant Episcopal, Baptist, Presbyterian, Christian, Congregational, Universal, Evangelical, Quaker, Methodist Episcopal and Methodist Episcopal, South. Others are expected to participate.

Matters pertaining to the student and the church, reports from students who have been conducting investigations as to what the church is doing in various fields and ways and means of the students acting through the church will be discussed.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Provision for an air service in the Kentucky National Guard may be submitted to the state legislature when it meets soon. Adjutant General Kehoe already has used airplanes in investigation work over the coal strike zones in the state.

Beat Klan In Detroit

KEYSTONE VIEW CO., NEW YORK

James W. Smith, the man who beat the Klan in Detroit. Newsboy at 6, he became Mayor of Detroit at 42. In the intervening years he had served in the Spanish American War, became a steam fitter, then a political district leader, then Deputy Labor Commissioner for Michigan; backed the Roosevelt Presidential campaign, became sheriff—then state senator. A year ago there was a vacancy in the office of Mayor and friends urged him to run. He won. The big fight came this year when the Klan organized to put in their candidate, Bowles. He won because of his life, his consistent work for the people, rather than because he is a Republican. Like Governor Smith, of New York, he is a man of the people and the people love him.

New Invention Saves Millions

A Lamp that Burns 94% Air.

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, O. N. Johnson, 642 N. Broad St., Philadelphia, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make

LEBANON

A Thanksgiving sermon of unusual interest was preached on Sunday morning, at the Baptist church, by Rev. A. G. Littlefield, who took for his text "What Shall I render unto the Lord for all His benefits toward Me? I will take the cup of salvation and call upon the name of the Lord," Psalm 116:12-13.

A duet was sung by the Misses Cora Chappell and Beatrice Littlefield. In the evening a union thanksgiving service was held in the Baptist church, the First Congregational, Goshen and Liberty Hill churches meeting for the service. The sermon was by Rev. Stanley Sellick. There was a solo by Mrs. F. N. Taylor.

At the First Congregational church, Sunday morning, Rev. Stanley Sellick preached a fine sermon on the subject, 'Thanking God. A solo, "Not a sparrow falleth,' was sung by Miss Julia Standish.

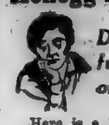
She suffered terribly with constipation—Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brought prompt relief!



Drive this frightful disease out of your system.

Here is a Philadelphia woman who lay awake nights suffering from the destructive work of constipation. Read her letter and think what Kellogg's ALL-BRAN means to her.

I am writing this letter to tell you what I think of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, and what it has done for me. I eat it daily and it has cured me of indigestion as well as constipation. I am a well girl again and I owe it all to wonderful Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Use this letter if it will help you and others. I thank you.

KATHERINE FITZGERALD,
121 S. 34th St., W. Philadelphia, Pa.

Rid yourself of constipation as thousands have done by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It has brought prompt, permanent relief after all else has failed.

If eaten regularly Kellogg's ALL-BRAN relieves the most chronic cases. It is guaranteed to do so or your grocer returns the purchase price. Eat at least two tablespoonfuls daily. Serve with milk and cream. Fine with fruits.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is made in Battle Creek, Michigan. Served in leading hotels and restaurants. Sold by all grocers.

WILL THE PINEY WOODS COME BACK?

When the southern lumberman cuts his forest land clean, instead of taking only the cream of the timber crop, he has a far-reaching effect on the next generation's lumber supply, according to the observations of the southern forest experiment station of the forest service, United States department of agriculture. R. D. Forbes, director of the station says clean cutting of the forest in recent years has left land in much poorer shape, because of the lack of good seed trees, than did the lighter cuttings of the early days.

This is apparent over wide areas, but even clearer is the evidence that where fire has run through the cut-over land any advantage that light cutting has over heavy cutting is obliterated. Save for a few fire-protected spots, much of south Mississippi is reported to be devoid of extensive forest growth because of the annual fires and close cutting of timber. Eastern Texas, on the contrary, had profited from a steady campaign against fires, and in many sections a new has growing on cut-over lands a second crop of timber that will soon be merchantable.

The forest experiment station will this year conduct a broad survey of cut-over lands in Alabama; North Carolina, nad Virginia, and later in Arkansas, Louisiana, Georgia, Florida and South Carolina. This survey is expected to give valuable information on the growth of the southern pines and the extent to which the cut-over lands are "coming back."

DANIELSON

THREE IN WRECKED CAR LAND IN TORN-OFF TOP

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Nov. 27.—What there was left of a Buick sedan, and that was not too much, was towed in here by a garage wrecker, Friday afternoon, from Little Rest Hill, five miles east of here at the Connecticut-Rhode Island line, the next hill east of Dark Lantern. The car, owned by Agnes V. Regnier of Reservoir avenue, Providence, skidded, turned over twice and tore its top off, in spraying about on the slippery highway surface. The two women and a man who were riding in the car escaped with barely more than a few scratches. Having been rolled about like marbles in a barrel, the trio were amazed to find themselves sitting in the torn-off and overturned top out in the middle of the highway after their terrible experience. The car was smashed wheels, running board, top and so many other things the matter with it, that, if it were a person, it might be said to be suffering with a complication of diseases.

A state officer was on duty over in the Dark Lantern and Little Rest hill sections during the rain of Friday afternoon, to warn traffic to proceed with caution. The state highway department has sanded Dark Lantern recently, as a precaution against ac-

The weather man was until Monday to make good the Cloud Digger's September prediction of "one big storm, probably snow, late in November." Weather reports Friday noon promised clear and much colder weather for today, with strong northwest winds. If this works out as forecasted, the Cloud Digger's prediction of a big November storm, probably snow, will be resting on the precarious margin of a 48 hour time limit. There have been some heavy rain storms in November, but these hardly measured up to what one might expect from the prediction and there has been but a trace of snow up to Friday night.

More or less amazing is information as to the number of radio receiving sets in use in the town of Killingly. Close estimate is that there are from 600 to 700 and if the manner in which the sets are selling is any basis for forecasting there will be as many radio sets as there are automobiles in this town in another year. Some of the villages of Killingly, have more sets in proportion to population than has Danielson. About every good set sells another, for the radio owners like to entertain guests, and guests frequently turn into radio fans.

Christmas seals through the Danielson chapter, of the American Red Cross are now on sale in Danielson. It is the hope of the chapter that the sales will reach 50,000 this year. Last year 43,373 were disposed of, so with all doing their bit in this matter it should not be at all difficult to reach the 50,000 goal.

As in other years 85 per cent. of all the money obtained for the seals will remain here and will be expended in doing good. This fund makes possible providing the district nurse with funds to purchase milk and eggs for homes where they are urgently needed in nourishing some sick person back to health, in assisting to pay expenses of persons who may have to be sent to a state sanitarium for treatment for tuberculosis and for other good work.

There are scores of purposes to which the seals may be devoted, by purchasers. On letters, cards and packages they carry to all who see them a message of a kindly heart and of sympathy for afflicted fellowmen. They are little badges of good will and good cheer. Numbers of business houses here make a practice of using them on all mail matter during the Christmas season, which may now be regarded as opened. The seals will be on sale at various convenient points about Danielson.

Arrangements have been completed, it was made known by J. Dyer Potter, Friday, to have the pupils of the destroyed Gilbert district school in Brooklyn absorbed in the grades of the Brooklyn Center school Monday, when sessions will be resumed, following the Thanksgiving recess. As there are but 13 pupils enrolled in the Gilbert district school they can readily be accomodated at the Brooklyn Center school without overcrowding of classes. Transportation will be furnished [illegible] the town.

[illegible] Gilbert school will be rebuilt. There has been agitation for its closing for some time past, that the pupils might have the additional advantages accruing from attending a larger and better appointed schools.

It is estimated that a cost of approximately $2,000 would be involved in rebuilding the school, though the destroyed structure, an old building, was not as valuable as that. There was about $300 in insurance on the structure.

It was indicated Friday that an investigation may be made to determine the cause of the fire. Early arrivals at the fire say the door to the school house was locked and that the fire was burning inside the building and away from the stove used to heat the structure.

Such a thing as a trunk line highway blocked by snow is expected to be a rarity in this section of eastern Connecticut in the future. For several years the state has made a splendid record in keeping these main arteries of highway travel cleared of snow and will be more vigilant than ever with this work now that they have come into use for passenger transportation by well established bus lines traveling on regular schedules. It is, of course, still possible for an extremely heavy snowstorm coupled with a strong wind to block a section of highway temporarily, but such a condition can endure only for a very brief time with the arrangements now perfected for keeping trunk lines open.

A considerable number of people going to Florida for the winter from territory hereabouts will have their season in the south and the good fortune to be paid for spending their time there. Men from Danielson already are at work down there at various occupations. They earn a liberal wage and find ample time to see something of the state, as well as enjoy its climate.

There have already been a great many members enrolled in the new 1926 Christmas club at the Windham County National bank.—Adv.

One of the New England Transportation line's busses that may later be put in service on the line from Providence to Willimantic is at the line's garage headquarters here.

PUTNAM

ATTY. JOHN H. CASSIDY ORATOR FOR ELKS' LODGE OF SORROW

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 27—At the last meeting of Putnam lodge of Elks, held in their rooms, several candidates were initiated. District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler Leo B. Santangelo made this meeting his official visit to Putnam lodge and after the business meeting addressed the members, as did several visitors from nearby lodges.

The memorial exercises will be held at the lodge rooms Sunday afternoon December 6. Attorney John Hughes Cassidy, of Waterbury, a native of Norwich, will deliver the address. The musical part of the program will be furnished by Misses Dorcas and Ruth Bartlett. Wallace Smith and Pep's orchestra of this city.

Friends of Mrs. Rose Johnson, of South Coventry, who is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital are pleased to learn that she is recovering steadily.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Grosvernor, of Boston, spent Thanksgiving with Mr. Grosvernor's brother-in-law and sisters, Mr. and Mrs. Omae Milot and Miss Josie Grosvenor, at their rhome on Fremont street.

Tuesday evening next, December 1, the Odd Fellows will work the first degree on a class of eleven candidates two being from Danielson.

For their guests that evening they will entertain members of the Danielson and Central Village lodges and the Granite lodge, of Pascoag, R. I. The grand master and past grand master of the state lodge of Rhode Island have been invited and will witness the working of this degree by the local lodge team, who have the reputation of putting this degree on in an excellent manner. After the meeting the refreshment committee will be in charge and this means a good social time.

Miss Constance Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rusell, has been visiting friends in Baldwinsville, Mass.

J. Richard Carpenter of this city, has been in Hartford on business.

Rev. E. M. Donnelly, of North Grosvenordale, has returned from a trip to Jackson City. Fr. Donnelly is pastor of St. Joseph's church.

Mrs. Catherine Hurry, of Putnam Heights, and Miss Gladys Stratton, of Putnam, have returned from a few days' visit to Boston. While there they heard Beethoven's Ninth Symphony at the concert in Symphony hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Flagg, of Woonsocket, spent the holiday with Mr. Flagg's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Flagg.

The local Red Cross chapter has made the following announcement:

The Red Cross Nursing committee is very glad to announce that there will be no lapse in the nursing service, as it has been able to secure the services of Mrs. Mary Doran Torrey, an experienced registered nurse.

Mrs. Torrey spent her girlhood in Putnam, going to the local schools, later taking her training at Memorial hospital, Worcester, Mass., also a course in public health nursing at Simmons college. She is a member of Memorial Hospital Alumnae association, Massachusetts State Nursing association, National Organization of Public Health nursing, and National Red Cross Nursing association. For 1918 and 1919, she was the Metropolitan nurse of this district and her many friends will be glad of her return to Putnam, and that she will serve this community as visiting nurse.

The hours of the nurse are from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m., every day except Sunday. She is not expected to be on duty Sundays or legal holidays, except at the urgent request of the doctors.

The Red Cross room is situated in the Bradley building, Front street, upstairs, and the nurse may be found there between 8 and 9 a. m. and 1 and 1:30 p. m. The office telephone is 866 and house telephone 832-13.

Rev. George J. Donahue, of Holy Trinity church, Pomfret, was the guest of Rose of Lima council, at Danielson at the recent banquet and entertainment. Fr. Donahue, successful writer and an orator of repute, was the principal speaker of the evening.

Mrs. Edward Burt has been in Willimantic, calling on friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren A. Looges, of Thompson, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mildred Doris, to Kenneth Dawson MacLeod, son of Rev. N. A. MacLeod, of South Windsor, Conn. The date of the wedding has not been decided.

Harry Sloan spent Thanksgiving here with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Padgett, of Fremont street. Mr. Sloan has been in Boston for the past two weeks doing the advance publicity work for "Lady Be Good," the successful musical show which has made Vinton Freedley of Pomfret, a lot of money, also made him one of the leading figures in the theatrical world.

Ensign W. J. F. Rafferty and Miss Arostine Scales, daughter of Rear Admiral Scales, of Philadelphia, will attend the Army and Navy football game at the Polo grounds in New York city, Saturday.

Henry G. Brousseau, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Brousseau, of this city, is to marry, December 11, Miss Elsie Irent Brunt, daughter of Mrs. Jennie Brunt, of Cambridge, Mass. The marriage will take place at Mt. Vernon Congregational church, Boston. Miss Brunt has been with the Henshaw Motor company, of Boston, for several years as private secretary to the general manager. Mr. Brousseau is chemical engineer with the Hood Rubber company, of Watertown. They will make their home in Watertown Mass.

NORWICH HOSPITAL, TOO, MUST SUPPORT PET CAT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Nov. 27—The trustees of the Day Kimball hospital will be called upon to decide whether they will release enough of the legacy left them by the late Irving Wood, of Boston, to provide one-third of an income of $100 to care for Mr. Wood's pet cat as long as it may live.

The provision for the care of the cat was not contained in the will itself but was a memorandum attached to it. This makes it necessary for the United States Trust company, of Boston, executor of the will, to obtain from the beneficiaries permission to set aside an amount estimated at $4,000 to produce sufficient income to see that the cat is taken care of.

The principal beneficiaries and the residuary legatees are the Day Kimball hospital, the Backus hospital, of Norwich and the City hospital, of Worcester, Mass. No accurate idea exists, at least in Putnam, as to the value of the estate left by Mr. Wood at the time of the filing of the will which was shortly after Mr. Wood's death six months ago, the statement was made in Boston and published in newspapers there and elsewhere that the value of the estate would be $500,000. Several annuitants are named in the testament which would require about $100,000 to produce the necessary yearly income. This would leave $133,000 for each hospital and when an annuitant died the income would be divided among the three hospitals. At the death of the last beneficiary the estate is to be settled and each hospital will receive its share.

But now the matter of the cat comes up. The United Trust Co., is willing to carry out the wish of Mr. Wood in seeing that the pet is taken care of; but it figures that the income of $4,000 is needed for this purpose.

A Worcester paper comments on the Cat fund as follows:

"The Worcester City council will be called upon to decide whether it will support one-third of the pet cat of the late Irving Wood, of Boston, and Webster. Following this action, it will be necessary for the trustees of the Day Kimball hospital, of Putnam, and the William W. Backus hospital, of Norwich, to decide whether they will each support one-third of the same cat.

"Just what will happen to this cat in case one or more of the parties decline to accept the responsibility is not determined. This state of affairs has been brought about by a memorandum attached to the will but not a part of it; therefore not binding upon the parties named. The Worcester hospital and the other two eleemosynary institutions are named as residuary legatees to Mr. Wood's estate, to the amount of $100,000 to $150,000 each, and it therefore becomes necessary for them to decide whether they will contribute, jointly or severally for the support of said cat, by providing an annuity of $100. The United States Trust company of Boston, executor of the will, is requesting the three parties named to set aside a special trust fund of $4,000 to provide for this fortunate feline."

That the legacy is a substantial one is indicated by the receipt two weeks ago by the trustees of the hospital of a check of $1,000 from the United States Trust company. What period that covers was not stated; it is also assumed that the estate still being in process of administration the amount sent to the beneficiaries will probably be increased.

FRENCH HIGH COST OF LIVING TAKES ELDERS BACK TO SCHOOL

PARIS, Nov. 27. (AP)—The high cost of living has made itself manifest in another French quarter. The French universities all report the enrolment of an unusual number of elderly and middle-aged pupils.

Retired officers, merchants, functionaries and others, finding their incomes from investments too small for present day needs, are seeking to perfect themselves in some subject with a view to reobtaining employment. The subject most patronized is law and after that, the modern languages.

A school for crippled children costing $215,000 will be built in Buffalo, N. Y. The building will be a hospital, school, playground, and home.

PLAINFIELD

CHRISTMAS COMMITTEE CHOSEN AT CONG. CHURCH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PLAINFIELD, Nov. 27—The executive committee of the Congregational church, has chosen the Christmas entertainment committee who will make preparations for the children's Christmas tree and other events for the holidays. The committee is Cecil Butler, Alfred Royle, Rose Beaudry, Mary Baldwin, Curtis Phillips, and Mrs. Dodge.

George Kay and family, of Northbridge, Mass., spent the holiday at the home of Mr Kay's mother Mrs. George Kay, on 7th street, and assisted in the choir, at the Union service at the St. Paul's Episcopal church.

For the first time in the history of New York city more than 1,000,000 children attended the public schools on the opening day.

WRECK OF JEANNETTE CAUSED AMUNDSEN'S POLAR FLIGHTS

SEATTLE, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Arctic navigators returning here from their summer incursions into the north by way of Bering strait recall that the wreck of the Jeanette originated the inspiration for the latest attempt of Captain Roald Amundsen to float a vessel across, or near, the North pole.

Commanded by Lt. George Washington de Long, U. S. N., the Jeanette moved into the Arctic through Bering Strait in 1879, and after passing Wrangell island and was locked in ice. She crumpled and sank June 13, 1881 after 22 months in the pack.

Part of the crew perished in struggling over the ice to the mouth of the Lena river in Siberia, and more died in trying to find human habitation. One of the survivors was Chief Engineer George W. Melville, who later became an admiral.

Three years after the crumpling casks from the Jeanette were found on the coast of Greenland, giving evidence they had passed across the Arctic ocean.

Amundsen's first drifting exploit was in the Gjoa to make the westward passage of the Arctic above North America. He completed the voyage in 1906. Next, in the Fram, he went to the other end of the earth, discovering the South Pole, December 16, 1911.

The explorer again started for the north in 1922, this time in the Maud, propelled by crude oil and sails. While away he made two attempts to reach the pole by air. In the summer of 1923, a plane, which he had carried with him wrecked its landing gear in trying to rise at Wainwright.

On May 21, 1925, Amundsen and five others hopped off in two planes from the Spitzbergen islands to fly over the pole. The six returned June 18 in one of the planes, the other having been wrecked 150 miles from the pole.

Amundsen, now 53 is preparing to reach the North pole in a dirigible.

BIARRITZ, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Arnaud Massy, who at the age of 48 has just captured the "open" golf championship of France from a field including some of the best players in England, started his golfing career as a southpaw. He switched over to the right when informed that "no left hander had ever won the championship of Great Britain."

Massy was born here in Biarritz and in the summer of 1890 went to work as a caddy on the local golf links where he is now the "pro."

An English banker, for whom young Arnaud carried the clubs, noticed the boy's excellent dispositions for the game and asked him if he would like to take up golf in earnest and learn the game from the best professors in the world. Young Massy left for Scotland within 24 hours.

"Hoot mon," exclaimed Sandy Herd, who was the first player to take an interest in the young Frenchman, as the Scotchman saw him swinging his club from the port side. "No golf player ever won the championship of these isles playing left handed."

Massy immediately began hitting the ball from the right side and made wonderful and rapid improvement. He remained in Scotland six years.

In 1907 he won the World's championship at Hoylake. His nearest competitor was Sandy Herd.

TENNESSEE PUBLIC SCHOOLS TO PROFIT FROM OLD LAND SALES

NASHVILLE, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Tennessee public schools will benefit from the sale of "unclaimed and vacant" lands when a defect is cured in an act passed by the state legislature in 1905 making it mandatory on the state to sell unclaimed lands.

Under the provisions of this law the untitled properties which are considered state possessions are sold for cash and the proceeds revert to the state treasury for the benefit of the schools. If the law failed to designate any certain officer to conduct the sale.

There are many thousands of acres of such lands in the state some tracts wealthy in mineral deposits and some containing valuable stands of timber and others rich agriculturally.

Dawn Is New Study Hour

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Work-Students at the University of California are forsaking the midnight oil for the daylight dawn. The latest time for preparing for lessons here is from 4 a. m. to 7 a. m.

A girl student, discovering the efficiency of studying just before approaching classes rather than at night after returning from social functions, started the new scheme.

BREAKS JAW PLAYING BALL; IS AWARDED COMPENSATION

OAKLAND, CAL., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Semi-professional baseball has become an industrial hazard in California.

While playing ball in an industrial league, E. L. French, a Sacramento salesman, sustained a fractured jaw. The state industrial accident commission refunded him his medical expenses and paid for the time lost from the work.

SAMOAN BABIES ARE THRIVING ON MILK OF YOUNG COCOANUTS

PAGO PAGO, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Young cocoanuts for young Samoans is the advice of the United States government to South Sea mothers unable to secure milk for their babies.

The use of cocoanuts for babies is still an experiment, but so far is considered successful. Each child is given the meat of four very young cocoanuts daily together with all the cocoanut milk he can drink.

Child welfare work in Samoa has been organized so that all villages in American Samoa are visited at least once every two weeks. In each village a committee of women has been appointed. Prizes are taken to the weekly meetings of this committee. When a baby increases in weight the mother is praised publicly; when it loses, the mother is called to account.

THE CHAPMAN CASE

[illegible] the part he played in the big mail holdup in New York city Gerald Chapman, was sentenced to Atlanta prison for a period of 25 years. He made his getaway from that institution on more than one occasion and on the last escape, according to the story, he came into Connecticut and killed a policeman in New Britain while interrupted in a robbery. Upon his recapture he was returned to Atlanta and thereafter Connecticut authorities sought him to prosecute him for the deed committed in this state. He was turned over to Connecticut, found guilty and sentenced to death. Appeal was taken to the state supreme court and no error was found.

Because he had not completed his years as a federal prisoner there was an opportunity for the raising of the point that inasmuch as he had not completed his term at Atlanta he could not be executed in Connecticut. To overcome that technicality a commutation of his sentence was sought from President Coolidge and granted, and now the point is to be raised that he is not obliged to and does not accept the commutation of sentence.

This matter will be thrashed out in the federal courts and it may go to the United States supreme court. It is an effort to save one of the notorious criminals of the country. It is another case of trying to make the law stand in the way of the enforcement of another law, and give Chapman a chance to get back to Atlanta from which he no doubt hopes to make further vacation trips and do what he did in Connecticut when the occasion requires.

No one believes that if Chapman were taken from Atlanta and put outside the walls and told to "beat it" that he would hesitate long. No one can imagine that he could force the federal authorities to give him cell room again once he had been placed beyond the walls, and that is what is being sought at the present time in the desperate effort that is being made to save the life of this criminal. He cares nothing for the law so far as obedience is concerned but he wants every iota of benefit and some cases when it can be applied to his advantage.

CHRISTMAS SEALS

With Thanksgiving gone and Christmas coming we have reached the period when the Christmas seals are to be disposed of. The campaign for the Christmas seals is as well known as the campaign for Red Cross membership, and it is as generally approved.

In the fight against the white plague there is such a general recognition of the need and value of such work that there is a common desire to participate. It is the natural response of humanity for the relief of those in the toils afflicted with the disease, and inasmuch as there always has been full appreciation of benefits derived from such efforts it is to be expected that they will be continued with unfailing generosity.

The proceeds from the Christmas seals are devoted to this most commendable humanitarian work. It is a fight that every community has on its hands and in which everyone should be anxious to give his assistance. It is a matter so much the possession on use of the seals though there is the public duty attached to the latter which should not be forgotten, as it is the investment that is made through their purchase in the financing of the war against the ravages of tuberculosis.

What that disease does is too well known to need any expatiation. What the funds that are raised for the purpose of fighting it are accomplishing is to be noted on all sides in the advancement of the anti-tuberculosis forces here, there and everywhere. It is this statewide, nationwide, and worldwide activity that is breaking down the hold which consumption has so long held, which is extending the information and carrying warnings to those susceptible and those afflicted with point to relief and cure. And in addition there is the protection which is obtained for those who might otherwise become caught in the meshes.

There is none but who has an interest in the further reduction of this disease and through the Christmas seals there is none who cannot afford to help his help, be it large or small.

WHERE CORRECTION IS NEEDED

What is New Jersey going to do as the result of the recent murders and the conviction in the Noel case? The young man has been sentenced to death. He may or may not pay the supreme penalty. He was quickly convicted of a brutal murder, after it was declared by experts that he knew the difference between right and wrong, and yet it was and is known that he had been confined in the insane hospital and escaped. Though it was known that he was at large, and it was the fact that he had threatened violence, he was not brought back to the institution because it was pointed out that the asylum had no authority to bring about his return.

Aside from this particular case, but nevertheless with the lesson clearly in mind, this presents a serious situation. The person whose tendencies are known to be detrimental to others and who has manifested his inclinations ought certainly to be returned to such an institution if there was justification for his being there in the first place. To let the escape be forgotten, or to do nothing about it so long as he remains out of trouble is taking a big chance and subjecting the public to an unwarranted risk.

It cannot be believed that the situation which surrounds the New Jersey institution prevails generally in regard to the return of patients from such a hospital. It is enough to awaken New Jersey to a realization of the handicap which exists in the protection of both the patients and the public, and if it has not been appreciated before there is a glaring reason offered for insisting upon new legislation by the Noel case. Whether he is executed, or whether a commutation of sentence is obtained because of recognized abnormality, the time to take steps for the prevention of similar circumstances in the future is before any more cases of that character occur. Likewise other states which maintain similar conditions may well look to a correction.

GERMANY'S ACTION

What must be viewed with gratification in Europe is the action of the German reichstag in ratifying the security pact and the arbitration treaties initiated at Locarno. This marks further progress in the right direction and a step that should rebound to the benefit of the whole of Europe. It is for the interest of Germany that it should do as it has and by this action it creates greater confidence among the other nations.

Germany was started on the right road when it accepted the Dawes recommendations. It indicated that it had reached a turn in the road and that it was headed in a new direction. This belief is now reinforced by its treatment of the results at Locarno. Whatever the efforts that were made to have the Locarno conference repudiated they failed. It may not mean the end of the opposition to what is known to be the policy of the German government, but it ought to. The government has spoken and it must be regarded as representative of the people. It stands for a peaceful relationship between nations and the getting away from the policies of the past which caused it so much trouble. There is a sincerity about the latest action which is as impressive as the reception given to the Dawes report.

That there should also be a vote to make formal application to enter the league of nations is logical action. It was anticipated and there seems to be no question but what the present attitude of Germany is such as to insure the favorable action which it desires in that respect.

SYSTEMATIC SAVING

When banks report that members of Christmas clubs are in ever increasing numbers turning their club funds into regular savings accounts there is nothing surprising. Isn't that the logical outcome of the Christmas club plan?

The clubs were instituted for the purpose of providing the individual members with a sum of money for use at Christmas time. It was a goal to be reached through systematic saving and the millions that are to be distributed this year show how extensively this advantage has been appreciated. It was a means of showing many persons that they could actually save, that there was wisdom in such action and that they could abandon the idea that it was impossible to put any money aside.

If it was possible for them to save for the Christmas club fund it was, of course, possible for them to save for other purposes. It was an object lesson in everyday thrift. It emphasized the value of such savings and of having something in reach financially with which to meet emergencies. That such a revelation should result in a thorough appreciation of the importance of saving and of establishing regular saving accounts should create no wonderment. It demonstrates the worth of the idea, for if the club plan has gone home to those for whom it was intended it has succeeded. When it accomplished the saving for Christmas buying it might have reached the goal of the originator of the plan, but the next step was inevitable. As night follows day, the application of systematic saving in other directions followed its demonstrated value as a provider of holiday funds. What was worthwhile for the holiday has as great merit for every day.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

Is not faith the real basis of happiness? We fret and worry about things over which we have not the least control. Take, for instance, the gloomy forecasts that are periodically made over some phase of the agricultural situation. It may be corn or wheat, or rye or barley, that is going to be so frightfully subnormal as to produce widespread suffering. If not here in this country, it will surely be among some of the other nations. Now what these calamity howlers need most of all is a good, liberal dose of faith. What do we learn from Genesis the 8th chapter and 22d verse? It is this: "As long as the earth remaineth seedtime and harvest, and heat and cold, and day and night shall not cease." When we join this with man's cooperation with the god of nature, calamity howling becomes a positive sin. When we get into this unfortunate frame of mind, there comes to us from the far depths of the past these words, "O ye of little faith."

At this Thanksgiving season it is well for us to look so far into our past national history as to discover how many times have "seedtimes and harvests, and heat and cold, and night and day" failed us. It may be here and there, at this season or that, there have been crop shortages. Possibly in some place, in some particular year, a certain crop failed. But did that produce even local suffering? Our means of transportation are such that when any section of the country is threatened with a crop failure, other parts come to the rescue. Has there ever been a general crop failure in the United States as a whole? Have any of us ever suffered from the lack of food? Where hunger has killed one man, gluttony has probably killed ten thousand—here in the United States. However different the figures would be in India. Why then should we worry?

We ought, however, to remember that it is man's cooperation with God that gives validity to these words. God gives us a soil that is inherently productive; an atmosphere favorable for supporting man with bodily sustinence; chemical properties that inspire growth, together with moisture, sunshine and heat. Here is a background for material abundance that man cannot produce. It is at this point where man's cooperation is of vital importance. "Seedtime and harvest" fall short of accomplishment without assistance. God does not plow, plant, cultivate nor reap. He does not put corn into our barns, nor potatoes into our cellars. That is something man must do because he can, do. God never "gives the increase unless Paul plants and Apollos waters." A power back of man makes the trees grow upon the hillsides, and puts marble into the ground because man cannot do it, but this Power never builds a Westminster abbey or a Lincoln memorial.

The question is sometimes asked—and as it seems to me with very little reason or scientific insight—isn't God somewhat harsh and cruel in dealing with China, where there is so much suffering periodically from alternate floods and droughts, and both naturally followed by widespread famine? Certainly you will say, here Genesis, 8-22 does not hold good for "seedtime and harvest" have failed again and again. Now my answer is, that China has dealth very harshly with herself, and is paying the penalty of her transgressions. Even if she has done this innocently, it will not save her from the penalty of the laws violated. In the past she has skinned her mountain sides and uplands of trees without replanting, and this has allowed the rains to rush to the ocean without enough moisture left to support vegetation. Hence famines from floods and droughts.

Of course God might have done it all while man sat by with folded hands, doing nothing. But the very fact that he did not shows how imperative it is for man to labor. Work is one of the pathways that leads to man's immortality. It is also the world's economic salvation. When a human being comes to the reasoning age, he discovers that he belongs to two worlds; one is the great objective world outside of himself that furnishes the workshop in which he is to labor, the other is the internal world of his own personality, in which he finds capability to labor. Let him study hand, eye, ear, feet or any other organ and he will see that they are designed for work. When these facts become known he will see that within himself there is ability, outside of himself opportunity, and when the former is applied to the latter the result will be accomplishment. It was therefore the creative purpose of God in making man to complete his "seedtime and harvest."

Our cooperation with God in the advancement of his sovereign will in the world appeals also to man's mental energy. God has written his thoughts everywhere in his created universe, and evidently has wanted man to find them out and give them to the world. But man has been very slow in finding them and converting them into purposes of utility. Doubtless for millions of years electricity has been a force in the natural world, but only within comparatively recent times have we discovered it and made it useful. About two hundred years ago somebody discovered the potency of steam, and upon it constructed the steam engine. Ought we not to be devoutly thankful to God that we are living in this great age of scientific triumphs? But are our thanks commensurate with our blessings?

We have only to compare the first Thanksgiving in the Plymouth colony to the ones we have in these recent years to see what God hath wrought for us as a nation, due in no small part to our cooperating with God in the outworking of his sovereign will. The sufferings of the Pilgrim Fathers during that first year in Plymouth almost beggars description. The severity of the new climate, the lack of proper living conditions, the rake of pestilential diseases, more than decimated their numbers. But their bravery has never been excelled by any colonist before or since. Their unwavering faith in God as their leader in this new enterprise never deserted them, and as far as we can see it was this courage in their divine mission that kept them from utter annihilation. Their harvest that first year was naturally small, and yet they came together in the spirit of thankfulness for what they had received.

How the attitude of that splendid spirit of heroism was received by their Heavenly Father has been beautifully expressed by Leonard Bacon in his great hymn:

"Thou heard'st, well-pleased, the song, the prayer:
Thy blessing came; and still its power
Shall onward through all ages bear
The memory of that sacred hour."

As we look at the greatness and the glory of our beloved country as we observe another thanksgiving season may be not justly feel that in spirit the high principles for which those Pilgrims stood so unflinchingly has been carried out by their successors? They sowed in tears and we reap in joy. May the time never come when the American people shall fail to thank God for the principle of democracy in both religion and politics.

An unsuccessful marriage proposal resembles an expected [illegible] that failed to come off.

NEW ENGLAND, WHAT AILS IT?

An aged owner of a motor livery was driving me about a Massachusetts mill town.

"By and large conditions aren't at all satisfactory in this end of the country," he told me. "While the mills are running, they're not on full time and neither the owner nor hands are making what they should. Take it after the war and everybody in the family was getting $10 a day, mills running nights. No business isn't what it ought to be."

"What did they do with all their money? Silk shirts and automobiles?"

"You're right—most of it squandered."

We drove along and I noticed a fine new hotel—good enough for any city The main street had evidently been almost wholly rebuilt — modern, attractive commercial structures. Banks, too; temple architecture, columns, carvings and all.

On the outskirts of the town acres and acres of new homes, usually two-story, each with its own lawn and garden, front porch, stone steps, five to seven or eight thousand dollars, all bright and new.

Workers Put Up New Homes

"How do all these new homes happen to be here?" I asked, fearing the answer: I thought of some misguided building company sinking a million or [illegible]

"They've been built in the last year or two mostly by mill workers. Great lot of new homes been put up. Seems almost everybody built or improved. You'd hardly know the town."

"Where'd the money come from if business is just lingering along and they spent their war savings on silk shirts and automobiles?"

"Well, now it turns out that they didn't do so much squandering after all, when you come right down to facts," said the owner-driver. "There was a whole lot of talk about wasting their money, but it turns out most everybody was planting it away and saying nothing about it. When things settled down they took that money and built homes. I guess it's about the same story in most of the towns."

"Can't complain about that. Seems to me New England is in a fine, sound condition."

"That may be, but things could be a whole lot better."

In Boston I talked with several men of affairs. Being on a holiday, I very properly asked, "How's business," or words to that general effect.

"Nothing to boast of"—nothing to boast of," was as far as their enthusiasm carried them. "Now take the cotton situation. The mills in the South"—and instead of being told about New England I was instructed in the many advantages southern states possessed for cotton manufacture.

Or, the shoe industry; had its foundation here but with labor conditions and market changes much of it moved west and while there seemed to be signs of improvement, the situation was one that gave little cause for encouragement. And so on, to hopes for the best, fears of the worst, or just resigned and accepted gloom.

All of which did not change my opinion that New England was going ahead soundly, with well rounded development—doing well for itself and its people. I had visited town after town and could not escape seeing the public and private improvements. Everything on the surface pointed to prosperity—the people themselves had the appearance. Out west there would have been talk of a boom.

"I have here before me the monthly review of the Federal Reserve bank of Boston." I suggested solemnly, as I had heard lawyers offer a halter as evidence in a jail case. "Entirely reliable?"

"Federal Reserve review? Oh, yes—indeed. Very reliable?" "Their review of New England conditions in the February number of this year shows an increase in wholesale shoe sales for New England against a decrease in the United States as a whole."

The Fine Shoes are Made Here

"Does it say that? Well, that's probably due to a growing demand for fine shoes, and, you know, practically all the fine shoes are made here. Our shoe makers are the more skilful That probably accounts for it.

An admission that gave me encouragement.

On a train passing through Lynn, I sat next to a man whose home was in Boston, and whose people had lived there for two centuries. Four months in every year he rode through Lynn twice a day on his way to and from his summer place. We passed a manufacturing plant, about a half mile long. I asked him what it was. He looked out and said:—

"I am not quite sure, but I think that it manufactures electrical supplies, electrical machinery, or something like that."

As a matter of fact, he was right. It was the plant of the General Electric company and one of the largest institutions of its kind in the country, with thousands of employes but it had made only a vague impression on this man who had seen it hundreds of times. It did not interest him.

Why Then the Blue Glasses?

Then I happened to flounder on a man who earns a part of his income by selling his knowledge or business affairs. He was from the Middle West by way of Harvard and in his old home he would be a member of the executive, membership, way and means and new building committees of the Booster's club. To him New England is the one place for a home, to bring up a family, for business, to enjoy life—he admits it frankly.

"Why, then," I asked. "Why this apparently universal custom of wearing blue glasses, the constant hints of impending disaster, this unanimous disapproval of anything suggesting better and brighter times?"

"Only a habit," he said. "I mean that. It's a habit custom, a tradition of old best blood to discount the favorable and to exaggerate signs of danger. Added to that is the New England objection to anything that might be considered boasting.

"These people are so cautious that some of you from the interior might well mistake it for craftiness or even cunning. The old-time business man up here usually went it alone, rarely taking into his confidence anyone outside of his own family and if he failed he asked no sympathy from any one and if he succeeded, that was his own affair. If business was going beautifully for him, he was the last man to advertise the fact. He could see no sense in encouraging competition. To tell others how well you were doing was not the New England idea at all.

"I know of a situation at hand right now where men in the large industries in this district, after many months of negotiation, agreed to interchange information about the various operating costs in their business. Of course, that has been done all over the country in many lines and is almost accepted as a standard practice and has the encouragement of state and federal government.

"After all the months of preparation, two of the largest and oldest manufacturers in the industry stood out. Their plants had been business rivals for generations and one of them said that if his entering the association required him to give information or to sit in the same room with his rival, he would rather stay out. And there it stands today.

New England in Good Shape

"The fact is that New England is in very good condition. It is developing steadily, and the people are better off than they ever were and they are more contented. The relations between employer and employe are better. Housing conditions have been vastly improved, and I dont know of any place in the country where a man of moderate means can get more out of life for himself and his family.

"One of the most encouraging facts that I have discovered in my investigations is the very large number of small manufacturing institutions that are popping up. At one time it seemed that the beginner and his little factory had passed; that everything would be concentrated in the hands of a few big institutions. Following the war, foremen, superintendents and nonowning executives started little plants of their own and they are in general doing well on the way to independence. You will find these little plants hidden in corners and drawing help from the neighborhood only if you look for them. In the aggregate they are of the greatest importance to New England's development.

"In my opinion outsiders will find the opportunities in New England better than those in other parts of the country. With all of the advantages that other states may seemingly possess in labor conditions, climate and raw materials, just bear in mind that New England has unsurpassed land and water transportation, the best skilled labor in the country and proximity to markets such as the others never can have. I am putting my stake on New England and so far I have been thoroughly satisfied with the returns. They are looking better to me every day."

And I believe the man is right.

Sunday Morning Talk

JOSHUA TRUSTED GOD

If God should write the history of my life thus far, what would it be like? Is it not being written every day?

Joshua as commander of Israel held no enviable post. It was an unknown land and mighty nation before him to conquire, and an army of untrained soldiers, representing over a million people to govern and to lead to victory. It is comparatively early to follow a great leader, but it is a different matter when that leader fails, to snatch up the fallen standard and lead on alone. As Joshua was named Moses successor, the weight of responsibility would certainly have crushed his brave spirit had not an all powerful but invisible commander stood by his side and spoken to him words of encouragement and promise. Who could fear when the God who created the world and is all wise and all powerful and all loving comes to His servant and speaks thus, "As I was with Moses so I will be with thee. I will not fail thee, nor forsake thee." I will Joshua finds that, after all, he has still a command in chief, and is not left alone. All he has to do is to keep his eyes upon Him, his ears open to every order, and his heart obedient faithful and all will be well.

His way is blocked by an impassable river, there are no boats or bridges and no way to cross. What can he do? He is not left long to doubt. His great commander tells him exactly how he and his army and all his people are to get across, and all Joshua has to do is to obey. Absolute obedience proves God's faithfulness and are long Joshua and his host are safely landed on the other side. Now another difficulty, as Joshua stands looking at the walled city and wondering how God wants him to take it, he is startled to see a splendid looking soldier standing before him with a drawn sword. Perhaps his first intimation is to run but if so he conquers it and boldly advancing challenges the stranger, asking if he be friend or foe. "As prince of the host of the Lord am I now come," replies the stranger, and Joshua, who had thought himself captain, falls humbly upon his face and worships the prince of God, then asks, "What saith my lord unto his servant?" "Put off thy shoe for the place is holy," commands the heavenly visitor. Joshua obeys, and then humbly and reverently he hears how God will have him take the city. Never before was a city taken in such a way. But Joshua follows out the orders given him to the most minute details and a week later the city was in their hands. So if is with every nation that will let the God of Moses and Joshua lead He will lead to victory.

From Small Beginnings

John White Chadwick, a Great Preacher

Along the coast of Massachusetts the fishing towns have produced many stalwart men. There is something about the sea that tends to develop manhood. The loneliness, the wrestling with the elements, the exposure to dangers of storm and darkness and the necessity of finding a way over an unmarked expanse of water, all united to give strength of personality. The commanding power of men of the sea is proverbial. From one of the fishing towns of Massachusetts came John White Chadwick, who made himself through conscientious effort into one of the leading preachers of the Unitarian church.

John White Chadwick was born in old Marblehead, where the sea seems to be forever roaring upon the rocks and threatening disaster. His people, like many others in that section of the country in 1840, were rich in character and manhood but poor in earthly goods.

They could inspire their son with a desire for learning and with the ambition to lead a good life. Much more than that they could not do. They sent him for a time to the little schools and gave him the foundation of an education. Then, as soon as he was strong enough, he was obliged to work, to help support himself and his people. He became a shoemaker, and patiently worked at th elast making shoes, and so by daring to hope for anything better. The one thing that he could do was to save money and to plan for further education. He spent nothing on luxuries and thought strict economy and the addition of what help he could obtain from others, to go to the Harvard Divinity school, and to graduate at the age of 24.

In Brooklyn, to which the young preacher came, John W. Chadwick, as pastor of the Second Unitarian church, where he was pastor for more than 40 years, made a great name for himself as a pulpit orator and a man of convincing thought. His sermons were so appealing that they were published in book form. In addition to his ordinary work he found delight in writing poems and many books on religious subjects. Among all his books, however, one of surpassing interest is the one called "Cap'n Chadwick, Marblehead Skipper and Shoemaker."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

David Warfield, who today enters upon his 66th year, has long held place among the greatest actors of the American stage. When a youngster in San Francisco, Warfield had a passion for the theater. The impulse over-mastered family objections and the adolescent David obtained employment as an usher at nothing per week save the unspeakable joy of seeing all the performances. His first salaried employment was with a repertory company at Napa, Calif. It lasted one week. Nothing discouraged, the ambitious youth journeyed to New York and finally found a small concert hall engagement. Here his talent attracted attention and before very long he was in demand for the so-called reviews. For three years he was a star with the Weber and Fields aggregation. But it was not until the presentation of "The Auctioneer" that he found real fame. Then, in 1904, he reached the golden summit in his great play of "The Music Master."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A Tribute to Mrs. F. A. Byrnes.

Mr. Editor: I cannot refrain from publicly expressing my sorrow at the recent death of Mrs. Frederick A. Byrnes. To those whose physical misfortune has led them to seek rest and recovery at Uncas-On-Thames her ministrations and self-sacrifice have endeared her beyond any words of mine to pen.

No desire for reward or praise prompted her—for she was most retiring. She derived her greatest satisfaction from helping those with whom she came in contact—and many of them have risen to call her blessed.

Stories That Recall Others

The Butcher Was Right, But—

Death to the man who would laugh at this pathetic incident.

The young bride and bridegroom were having their first Thanksgiving guests in their love nest.

"What are these strings in the turkey darling," asked the bridegroom of his bride as he carved the bird.

"Why the butcher said it would be best to baste it."

A Scientific Discovery

The other day a woman heard of a new remedy which she is passing along. She sat behind two women in the car. One had a sister who had suffered from it and another had a neice who had been cured.

"How old is your sister?" asked the aunt of the cured patient. "Nine?" "Then that is all right. She has to be young enough to grow some for this to work. My neice was eight when she was cured. It is easy if you are very, very careful. You must find a door casing, one which has never been painted. Then you must buy a new augur. Buy it, do not use an old one. Stand your sister up against the casing and bore a hole just above her head. Then make a wooden plug to fit that hole. Then cut off some, oh a good bit, of her hair. Drive the peg and the hair into the hole together and cut them off smoothly, even with the surface of the casing. Then the moment she grows above that hole her asthma will stop. For a time we measured my niece daily, and then, as you will, we forgot until one day suddenly she had no asthma. And, sure enough when we stood her up against the casing she was almost an eighth of an inch above the hole!"

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

BEIRUT

"Beirut, Syrian capital to which American destroyers have been ordered to protect American lives and property, is one of the many Mediterranean ports sprung into prominence as a direct result of modern commerce," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society. "The most up-to-date city in the near east, and the chief seaport for Damascus and the Lebanon mountain region. Beirut enjoys a heavy trade in products from the interior and the Levant coast. Over its harbor float the flags of nearly every maritime nation in the world.

"As the Bible does not mention Beirut it seems a mushroom growth in comparison with its neighbors, Baalbek and Damascus," the bulletin continues. "Its modern conveniences, parks, educational institutions, and, outside of the old native town, its wide well-paved thoroughfares, automobiles, street cars and handsome homes strengthen the impression. From the harbor rises the narrow-gauge railway which connects it with Damascus, the metropolis of the near east. It is this railway, and the harbor improvements made by the French, which are largely responsible for Beirut's present prosperity and importance.

"Though Beirut may be passing through only the dawn stage of its development, it is noted among travel connoisseurs as a city of sunsets. It nestles at the base of the Lebanons on a low alluvial plain, and snowy crests of the mountains rob it of the early morning light, but they furnish a crystal screen upon which is projected the rosy glow of one of the world's most colorful sunset spectacles.

"Not the least attractive part of the picture is Beirut's beautiful bow-shaped bay. It bears the name of St. George, and, although the French have done most to improve it commercially, the British have been its best advertisers. Their gold coins, now extinct, show St. George killing a dragon or rather the dragon, and mythology tells us that here is the memorable spot the deed was done. Scenically Beirut's bay has been compared to that of Naples for symmetry of outline and richness of background.

"In the older parts of the city the streets are narrow, winding and full of life. Buildings are kalsomined in various hues, ugly near at hand but soft and harmonious from a distance. The newer sections have wide, tree-lined avenues, bordered with villas and pleasant gardens. Street car lines connect the different sections of the city and climb the hills in the background, to which the wealthier residents retreat from the heat of summer.

"Old grads who like to argue about the beauty of their respective college campuses have not seen that of Beirut's American College, on the point of land west of the city. On the top of a limestone ridge, with the blue waters of the Mediterranean in front and the rosy-peaked Lebanons behind, it would be difficult to find a lovelier setting. In its score of buildings have been educated many of the leaders of the near east.

"Beirut was, before the World war, one of the principal religious crossroads of the world. Here the Mohammedan faithful disembarked on the last lap of their pilgrimage to Mecca, and from here they sailed on the journey home. Today the Moslem traffic is not as heavy as it was, but Palestine tourists and pilgrims generally enter or leave the Holy Land via Beirut so that they may include Damascus, the world's oldest city, and Baalbek, with its Cyclopean ruins, in their tour.

"The Druses, rebellious tribesmen who are creating the present unrest inland, are a people whose religion forbids them to use alcohol, tobacco or profanity, but which binds them to take a life for a life when one of their tribe is killed. Their 'fatherland,' if such nomads have one, is south of Damascus and east of the Sea of Galilee. This region, called Hauran, is a windswept plain 2,000 feet above the sea, red-soiled, black-rocked, fertile but treeless. Into the fissures and chasms of this desolate country they can retreat when hard pressed. As in Morocco geography has played a large part in the isolation and independence of this people."

Joint Installation

Division No. 1, A. O. H.

All members of this Division are requested to be present at the joint installation of the officers to be held in Parish Hall, Taftville, on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 29, at 2:30 P. M.

PER ORDER OF THE PRESIDENT.

WILL HAVE NORWICH NIGHTS OVER RADIO

So pleased were the Storrs authorities with the programme given Wednesday evening by the Norwich musicians for broadcasting from the radio station at Connecticut college that a Norwich night is to be given once a month from the college station. This is to begin in January.

While the concert was being given Wednesday evening, several telephone messages were received at Storrs from this city saying that the concert numbers were coming over in fine shape, although the weather made something of a handicap.

The Norwich musicians who made such a favorable impression were Miss Lenice Taft, soprano, J. Warren Kane, tenor, Prentice W. Chase, baritone and the Roamers orchestra, the members of which are Arthur W. Fitch, drums, Jante Lambert, violin, Ruth Parker, saxophone, Viola Levitsky, piano. The accompanists for the singers were Miss Mildred Case, Joseph B. Downes and Miss Mary Bresnahan.

Among the Norwich Radio club members accompanying the musicians to Storrs were Harold Robbins, president of the club, Charles E. Coleman, Jean Kieffer and Vincent Walsh. Mr. Kieffer took pictures of the musicians while they were broadcasting.

FOREIGN WAR VETERANS CONDUCT WHIST EVENING

There were 20 tables in play Friday night at the whist party held by Richard Hourigan Post, No. 594, Veterans of Foreign Wars, in the V. F. W. rooms on Main street. The prizes were awarded as follows: Ladies'—first, Mrs. C Daniels, second, Annie Genino; consolation Teresa O'Neil. Men—first, J Bowers, second, George Morse, consolation Mr. Prodell.

Following the awarding of the prizes, the remainder of the evening was devoted to dancing. The committee in charge comprised Louis S. Hull, Jr., and Arthur Fitzgerald.

WEDDING.

Bernstein-Ulanoff

The wedding of Miss Nettie Ulanoff, daughter of Mrs. Bessie Ulanoff of 149 Howard street, and Benjamin Bernstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bernstein of Truman street all of New London, took place in Bart hall, New London, Thursday evening. The ceremony was performed by Rabbie Wolf Hoffman, pastor of the Ahavat Chesed synagogue.

The bride was attended by Miss Betty Spechter of New York and best man was Julius Bernstein, brother of the bridegroom. The bride wore white silk and a tulle veil caught up with orange blossoms. She carried a bridal bouquet. Her attendant wore yellow georgette and carried an arm bouquet of pinks.

Following the ceremony there was a reception and dinner for 120 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Bernstein left on a wedding trip to New York, after which they will make their home in Montauk avenue.

New Chrysanthemum

A new pompon chrysanthemum, the "Helen Lane," has just been named by Wallace R. Pierson of Cromwell, where this beautiful bloom was produced. The name was chosen in honor of Miss Helen Lane of Hartford.

"Father John's Medicine Has Made a Decided Difference In Her" Girl of Her"

(From a Mother's Letter)

This little girl is Marguerite Gonyer, youngest daughter of Mrs. A. T. Gonyer, of Orono, Maine. According to her mother, Marguerite "used to be frail and thin but since giving her Father John's Medicine, the improvement in her condition is very gratifying. It has made her an entirely different girl. Her vitality has returned and I am so well satisfied that I urgently recommend Father John's Medicine as a body builder."

The food elements in Father John's Medicine are exactly suited to children or older people who are thin and run-down.

Father John's Medicine has had over 70 years success as a body building tonic as well as for colds and throat troubles. It contains no dangerous drugs—no alcohol.

OBITUARY

Revillo N. Smith

After an illness of four months, Revillo N. Smith, formerly of this city, died November 25th in Dorchester, Mass. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nehemiah Smith and was born in Norwich in July, 1857. For some time Mr. Smith was employed by the Norwich-New York Transportation company. When the office of the company was moved to Boston, Mr. Smith removed to Dorchester. At the time of his death, Mr. Smith was foreign freight agent for the company.

In Greeneville, 43 years ago, he was united in marriage with Miss Carrie Lee. He was a member of St. James Lodge, No. 43, F. and A. M., while a resident of this city and of the Universalist church.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. William Tweed and Miss Gertrude R. Smith, both of Dorchester, one son, Merton L. Smith of Wollaston, and several grandchildren. He also leaves a brother, William A. Smith of Arlington, Mass.

Mrs. Francis Bond

Arline M. Champion Bond, 26, wife of Francis Bond, formerly of Niantic, died at the Springfield hospital, Springfield, Sunday after a brief illness. Besides her husband she is survived by her mother, Mrs. David Champion of South Lyme; three sisters, Mrs. James J. Kennedy of Deep River, Mrs. Edgar Bird of New Haven, and Miss Zella Champion of South Lyme; and three brothers, David H. and Sidney P. Champion of South Lyme, and Clifford C. Champion of Hartford.

Mrs. Bond formerly was a teacher at the Niantic school.

The funeral was held Thursday afternoon at the home of her mother in South Lyme. The Rev. Howard Wells, minister of the Old Lyme Congregational church, conducted the services. The bearers were David F. Champion, Sydney J. Champion, James J. Kennedy, Edgar C. Bird, William J. Gunn and Raymond C. Northrop.

Burial was in the family plot in South Lyme cemetery.

Mrs. David Shereshevsky

The death of Mrs. David Shereshevsky occurred suddenly about 3:30 o'clock Friday afternoon at her home 54 Asylum street, following an acute attack of heart trouble.

Mrs. Shereshevsky, whose maiden name was Rebecca D. Feldman, was born in Russia, Sept. 20, 1868, and came to this country soon after her marriage. She had been a resident of Norwich for the past 34 years and was a charter member of the Hebrew organizations and an active worker in those to which she belonged, including the Hebrew Aid society, B'nai B'rith, I. O. B. A. lodge, and Brothers of Joseph synagogue.

She was of a home-loving disposition, ever ready to lend a helping hand when needed and well known in the Hebrew community for her charitable acts. She leaves many friends who sincerely mourn her loss.

Surviving are her husband, seven children, Mrs. Herman Sears, Mrs. Abraham Levine, the Misses Lena, Augusta, Esther, and Miriam Shereshevsky, and Louis Shereshevsky. She also leaves three grandchildren, Frances and Sara Sears and Sheldon Levine, one sister, Mrs. Jennie Grablefsky of Norwich, and two brothers, Louis and Samuel Feldman of Plainfield, N. J.

Knew Nothing of Boy Rider

John E. Fitzgerald, the local insurance agent, on the running board of whose automobile two-year old Morris St. Lawrence took an unexpected joyride Thursday, from the Falls section, until he was thrown off at the Norwich Town green, knew nothing of the incident until he read of it Friday morning in The Bulletin. Mr. Fitzgerald was on his way to Hartford and was astonished to read of his little passenger when he took up the paper Friday morning. He was mighty thankful also to think that no serious harm had befallen the little fellow from the Falls.

If a man doesn't believe in heaven or the other place he may want the earth.

FINDS ORIGINAL SUBSCRIPTION LIST OF OLD QUINEBAUG BANK, 1833

Among some old banking papers in his possession, Charles R. Butts, president of the Norwich Savings Society, has recently discovered a paper of considerable historic interest and value. This is the original subscription list to the capital stock of the old Quinebaug bank, which was organized in this city in 1833, nearly one hundred years ago, with a capital of half a million dollars.

What makes the list of particular historical value is that it contains the signatures of the subscribers in their own handwriting, giving the names of the best known and leading business men in the community of a century ago. The subscription list and the certificate of the commissioners are on two sides of a sheet of paper, now yellowed with age, that was evidently a page from a book and has been cut out for purposes of preservation.

It is interesting to note that there was an oversubscription for the capital of the new bank that was to be organized then. The shares were $100 apiece, 5,000 being called for, but the total subscription was for 5,084 shares, making it necessary for the commissioner to scale down the list to the required number.

The Quinebaug bank was incorporated in 1832 with a capital of $500,000. The first meeting of the directors was held June 11, 1833. The first president, Charles W. Rockwell, in office three years, was followed successively by Wm. C. Gilman, John A. Rockwell and F. A. Perkins, in short terms: Samuel C. Morgan, 1843-1860; Lucius W. Carroll, to 1862; David Gallup of Plainfield, to 1864.

In June, 1864, this bank, having purchased the title and privileges of a national bank that had been organized the preceding year under the general banking act, dropped the name Quinebaug and was reorganized as the First National Bank of Norwich, which continued until 1913 when it went out of business.

For a long time in its early history, the Quinebaug bank was located in the Quinebaug building on Main street, now the property of and occupied by the store of the Plaut-Cadden Co. Later the bank was in a so-called bank building on Shetucket street.

The Quinebaug bank was organized in part to assist in the building of the Boston, Norwich and New London railroad company, predecessors of the Norwich & Worcester.

Sec. 10. The bank, by their president, whenever and as soon as it shall become organized under their charter, shall subscribe to the capital stock of the Boston, Norwich and New London railroad company, the sum of one hundred thousand dollars, being one thousand shares, to become part and parcel of the stock of said railroad corporation, and if the directors of said railroad shall require the further sum of one hundred thousand dollars, or any part thereof, in such case the president of the bank shall subscribe the further sum of one hundred thousand dollars, or such part thereof as the directors of the said railroad corporation shall require, thereby making in the whole a sum not exceeding two hundred thousand dollars. But said bank shall not be obliged to take or receive, in addition to their capital stock, any other or further subscription from the state of Connecticut, from the school fund of the state, or from the funds of any college, ecclesiastical society, school or other corporation for charitable purposes, within this state. That in consideration of said subscription to said railroad corporation, the capital stock of said bank shall be and remain free from taxation, until the said bank and said railroad corporation shall be enabled to make dividends which, when taken together, shall be equal to six per cent. per annum on their united capital stock; after which the stock of said bank shall be liable to taxation, in the same manner as other bank stock;

Provided, that said bank shall not go into operation until one hundred thousand dollars shall be subscribed to said stock, to the acceptance of the said Boston, Norwich and New London railroad company, and a certificate thereof shall be given by them, in writing, that a sum to that amount has been subscribed, and secured for the benefit of said railroad. Provided also, that said bank shall not go into operation until the sum of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars shall have been expended by said railroad corporation on said railroad, and a certificate thereof, signed by the commissioners on said railroad, shall be lodged with the treasurer of this state.

MISS GOODRICH TEACHING AT Y. M. C. A., MIDDLETOWN

Miss Janet Goodrich of Portland, Conn., has been secured to take charge of the women's and girls' gymnasium classes at the Y. M. C. A. of Middletown, and is giving instructions in light gymnastic group games, folk dancing and other exercises weekly. Miss Goodrich is a graduate of Connecticut College, New London, where she spent four years specializing in physical education under the supervision of Miss Ruth Stanwood of Vassar and The Sargent School of Gymnastics, Boston. She has also had considerable experience in summer camp work, having spent two years at Pine Tree Camp, Pocono Pines, Pa. Miss Goodrich is a good swimmer and will give special attention to teaching the more modern swimming strokes as well as life-saving methods.

Thirteen at Thanksgiving Dinner

A delightful Thanksgiving dinner was served Thursday afternoon at the home of George E. Main and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lockwood of North Stonington. Roast turkey and roast duck with all that goes to make a complete holiday feast, were on the menu.

Those present were Mrs. George P. Main, Otis Main, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Williams and five children, Harry, Marion, Roy, Hulda and Ray Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lockwood and son Richard, George E. Main and Elmer Main.

Marion Williams is staying with Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood over the week end.

Got Big Coon

It is noted at Deep River that Rev. F. J. Kuster and F. Walden captured a 16-pound 'coon recently. Rev. Father Kuster was formerly curate at St. Mary's church, Jewett City.

BOGUE CO. EMPLOYES SHOWN MOVING PICTURES

The employes of the Irving E. Bogue company held their regular monthly meeting Friday evening in the company's show rooms on North Main street. Through the courtesy of the Ford Motor Co., moving pictures were shown by Charles T. Berndt of the New York office, one of which was especially interesting as it showed through animated drawing the principles of the four cycle explosive engine, with especial reference to the carburation. This was a particularly timely topic now that the cold weather is coming on and cars are hard to start.

Following this, Harlow Bogue, manager of the company, gave a talk, illustrated by lantern slides, on a trip that he has just made in company with Harry Walker of the Palace theater to visit the Ford plants at Highland Park and River Rouge, Detroit. Besides talking about the plants, Mr. Bogue described the wonderful scenery along the way, speaking particularly of the battleground of Gettysburg, where Connecticut is the only state to maintain a flag, the other flags all being maintained by the government. This Connecticut flag is kept in commemoration of the 17th regiment of Connecticut volunteers.

After the general discussion among the employes pertaining to improvements of service, refreshments were served.

Loses Four Horses

Christopher Johnson, of Moosup, lost a valuable horse Wednesday morning when it was necessary to kill the animal after two days' sickness. This is the fourth horse Mr. Johnson has lost recently, two having been burned in the fire at Frank Tyler's barn in Moosup.

GOT UNEXPECTED RIDE IN THE PATROL WAGON

Two well known local men got an unexpected ride in the patrol wagon early Friday evening when they were picked up by the police from in front of the garage of the American Steam Laundry on Chestnut street at the request of one of the drivers employed by the laundry. The driver drove his truck to the garage to put it up for the night and when he arrived there he found the doors open which is unusual as the doors are at all times kept locked, each driver being furnished a key.

The driver noticed not only the open door but two strangers standing in the doorway, one partly within the garage. Suspicious that something was wrong, the driver said nothing, drove his machine in and then hurried down to police headquarters where he notified the police of his suspicions.

Two officers were despatched to the garage with the driver and they brought in the two local men in the patrol wagon. They were quickly recognized and explained that they had stopped in front of the garage to wait for a friend who was expected along.

One of the men said he saw the truck drive towards the garage and by way of being obliging swung the door open for the driver. They had been to the theatre and were merely waiting for their friend, who was also at the theatre, to come along and join them. As it was raining they stood partly within the garage door for shelter.

Despite the fact that the men had no intention whatever of breaking the law, that was the least thing in their minds, the police did some quick work as it was but a very few minutes from the time the driver imparted his suspicions at the police desk, before the two "suspects" were in the police station. Had there been anything wrong at the garage the culprits would very quickly have found themselves booked and locked up for the night.

HARVARD TO HAVE JONATHAN TRUMBULL PROFESSORSHIP

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Nov. 27—(A. P.)—Announcement was made at Harvard today of the establishment of a new professorship to be known as the Jonathan Trumbull professorship of American history, and government. The endowment for the new chair has been raised by a group of Connecticut citizens, assisted by the various patriotic societies of the state, as a memorial to the great Connecticut patriot of Revolutionary times.

Jonathan Trumbull was a graduate of Harvard in the class of 1727. As Governor of Connecticut from 1769 throughout the entire period of the Revolution, he never failed to respond when calls were made for men or money. Washington leaned heavily on the Connecticut governor for both assistance and advice. Tradition ascribes to Trumbull the honor of having been the "Brother Jonathan" from whom the United States has derived one of its allegorical names. Two of Jonathan Trumbull's sons were graduated at Harvard in 1756 and 1758 respectively.

The governing boards of Harvard have appointed professor William B. Munro to be the first incumbent of the new chair.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Early in the coming month, W. Tyler Olcott will leave for Camden, N. C.

Thanksgiving Eve, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Y. Messinger had a dinner party of five, at their home on Church street.

LeRoy Spenard, a student at Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, N. Y., is visiting his mother, Mrs. William A. Buckingham, of Hamilton avenue, during the holiday recess.

Mrs. Edward D. Fuller has as her guest for Thanksgiving and over the week end Miss Helen F. King, of New Haven. Mrs. Fuller entertained a few friends for dinner on the holiday.

Mrs. Charles B. Chapman, of Sachem Terrace is to leave during December for a visit with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Chapman, at Plandome, L. I., afterwards going to St. Petersburg, Fla., to pass the winter.

Mrs. Flora A. Fuller, of Little Boar's Head, N. H., and her daughter, Mrs. Halsey, of Boston, motored to Norwich recently and were callers on Mr. and Mrs. Archa W. Colt, of 363 Washington street. Mrs. Fuller is mother of Governor Alvan T. Fuller, of Massachusetts, a cousin of Mr. Colt.

DR. AND MRS. KAUFMAN GIVE DINNER AND WHIST

There were twelve at the Thanksgiving dinner party given by Dr. and Mrs. Charles Kaufman, of Montauk avenue, New London, the table decorations being yellow chrysanthemums. Later there were three tables of auction bridge. Among the guests were Dr. I. E. Hendel, Miss Teresa Hendel, Miss Grace Mae Slosberg, of Norwich, and Dr. Alfred Laygnake.

NEW SPEEDER LAW GETS MANY OPERATORS

Since the new law making speeding a separate offense was adopted, 661 operators have been brought to court in Connecticut in four months as violators of it, according to the records of the state motor vehicle department. Up to July 1 of this year the only statute under which speeders could be prosecuted for that offense was the reckless driving law.

During the same four months, July to October, inclusive, 1,627 operators were hailed into court charged with reckless driving which, added to the 661 held for speeding, would make a total of 2,288, as against 2,063 prosecuted in the corresponding period of last year. The increase may be due in part to the fact that policemen who may have hesitated in the past to hold a man for reckless driving who was, in his opinion guilty of speeding without being necessarily, reckless, have been able since July 1 to arrest violators of the latter class for the specific offense of which they believed them guilty.

The new law provides that "if the rate of speed of any motor vehicle operated on any public highway shall exceed thirty miles per hour for a distance of one-quarter of a mile, or if such rate of speed shall exceed twenty miles per hour for a quarter of a mile through the thickly settled portion of any town, city or borough where the buildings average for such distance not less than 100 feet apart, such speed shall be deemed prima facie evidence" that he is moving "at a rate of speed greater than is reasonable, having regard to the width, traffic and use of the highway, the intersection of streets and weather conditions."

The analysis which the state motor vehicle department makes of all accidents reported to it, in accordance with the law, includes the classification, "Too fast for conditions." Out of 14,559 operators whose accidents last year were attributed to recklessness, 405 were adjudged to have been traveling "too fast for conditions." In the first six months of this year, 220 operators who figured in accidents, were found by the department to have been guilty of the same offense.

HOLDS GOOD MARGIN IN DUWELL PINOCHLE

A. Spaulding was top scorer for the evening Friday and took first in the Duwell's pinochle tournament in which 28 players are participating. His score of 8030 for the evening gave him a lead of a little over 1,000 on G. Lynch who has second place.

The scores on the evening's play were the following:

A. Spaulding 8030, F. Trembley 7870, D. Welton, Sr., 7430, W. Shaw 7380, J. Fowler 7280, C. Busch 7160, T. Jahn 7099, P. Barber 7070, J. Pedace 6940, C. Barber 6900, O. Hoelck 6820, F. In 1924 she and Evelyn began the leadership of their own club, the "Busy Little Maids." In 1924 also they demonstrated at the Mid-Winter Exposition at Hartford, winning the state championship, which gave them a scholarship to the Junior Short Course at Storrs. A demonstration at Portland had given them the county championship and the trip to Hartford."

Entertained At Black Point

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Noyes, of Hartford, entertained Mrs. A. E. Gilmore, her son, Ray, and family, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Chapman and daughter, Alice, of Montville, at the Noyes summer home at Black Point on Thanksgiving day.

Storm Postpones Hike

On account of the storm on Friday the hike which the boys and girls of the Junior week day school of the Central Baptist church were to have taken to Mohegan Park has been postponed, and there will be no hike today (Saturday).

Acceptable Gift to Uncas-on-Thames

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars recently presented Uncas-on-Thames a very acceptable and useful gift in a number of specially prepared bandages.

"Hard work is beneficial," says a prominent physician. Of course it is—providing the other fellow doesn't charge too much for doing it.

COLLEGE GIRLS GLEE CLUB TO BROADCAST PROGRAMME

The Connecticut College Glee club will give a one hour recital on December 3 at the Travelers' broadcasting station, WTIC, Hartford, according to an announcement made Friday at the college at New London.

It is the first appearance of this much discussed Glee club on the radio and arrangements are being made to have "listening in" parties among the Connecticut college alumnae chapters throughout the state.

The club of 30 members is under the direction of Professor Frederick Weld, Miss Marion Cogswell of Derry, New Hampshire, is student leader.

The program will start at 8:30 o'clock, eastern standard time, and includes the following numbers: College Hymn; Murmuring Zephyrs, "In the Boat," "The Snow," whistling solo, Minuet, "Maiden Remember," "When Love Comes to Stay," "On Wings of Music," soprano solo, "Carmena," "Great is Thy Glory, O. God," "Alma Mater."

POLISHERS HAND BEATING TO EAGLES IN PINOCHLE

Friday night at the Eagles Home the pinochle team of the Polishers administered another crushing defeat to the Eagles, this being their fifth consecutive defeat. Although the Eagles played their regular good game they were unable to cope with the consistent and masterly play of the Polishers. This is the first tournament that the champion Eagle's team has ever lost. Kirshner was high man for the evening with a score of 7,790. August Hostedt was high for the Eagles with 7,215. The total for the five nights' play was Polishers 269,940, Eagles, 259,535, giving the Polishers a lead of 10,405.

MIDDLETOWN GIRLS WILL REPRESENT N. E. STATES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Nov. 27.—To Evelyn Camp and Dorothy Baldwin, both of Middletown, goes the honor of being chosen as the only demonstration team to represent the New England states at the National 4-H Club congress at Chicago, which opened today and will continue until Dec. 4. Both will leave for the congress tomorrow morning, where they will demonstrate the subject, "The Perfect Foot and How to Clothe It." In this, they will emphasize the characteristics of the perfect foot and how to clothe it with the right choice of shoes and stockings.

Miss Camp, in addition to being chosen as one of the team going to Chicago, has been further honored in winning the Montgomery-Ward prize trip to Chicago, which is awarded annually by the Montgomery-Ward Co. of Chicago to the most outstanding 4-H Club girl in Connecticut. The cash value of this prize is $125, and will enable Miss Camp to go to the congress with no personal expense.

A. J. Brundage, state club leader, praised Miss Camp here today in speaking of her work as follows: "Evelyn has been a member of the Delta

ARMY AND NAVY ELEVENS CLASH IN ANNUAL SERVICE CLASSIC TODAY

NEW YORK, Nov. [illegible]—(A. P.)—The Army and Navy, unified defenders of American independence, split their ranks at the Polo Grounds tomorrow in search of gridiron conquest.

Behind a background rich in tradition and sentiment, the two service elevens will clash in the 26th annual contest in which the display of military and naval pomp will blend in a colorful spectacle with the actual conflict itself.

Past performances, usually a reliable criterion, play no part in "dopings" this classic. Both service elevens have seen their standards dipped in defeat, the Army by Yale and Columbia while the Navy's craft was jarred from its mooring's by Michigan's Juggernaut.

Seventy thousand spectators, including the entire corps of 1,200 soldiers and a brigade of 2,400 midshipmen will see these two elevens fight it out on the uncharted gridiron of the National contest the service forces will go through the maneuvers which form a vague baseball park, preceding the spectacular feature of the picture.

The "Middie" squad of 45 players arrived in New York, from Annapolis last night after a stopover at Philadelphia to view the Cornell-Pennsylvania game. The cadet squad, 38 strong, came in this morning. Both worked out at different hours at the Polo Grounds this afternoon despite the rain and rival coaches pronounced their men in excellent condition.

The Cadets corps is due to arrive in the vicinity of the Polo Grounds at noon. They will detrain at High Bridge and march to the battlefield where their entrance has been scheduled for 1:10. After their parade and exhibition of mass cheering, they will double time to their seats in the South stand. The Middies are scheduled to enter the field at 1:30, give their parade and cheering and then march to seats in the North stand.

From a football viewpoint there is little to choose between the two teams although the Army eleven has been made a slight favorite. Offensively the Army backfield appears stronger, with Wilson, Harding, Trapnell, Hewitt and Buell accorded a margin over Shapley, Flippen, Hamilton, Banks and Caldwell of the Navy, but the two forward lines measure up about on equal terms. Wilson is the Army star while Shapley is the Naval ace and the activities of these two players will be closely watched.

The probable lineups follow:

ARMY	Position	NAVY
Baxter (C.)	L. E.	Hardwick, L. E.
Sprague, L. T.		Wickhorst, L. T.
Schmidt, L. G.		Lent (C), L. G.
Daly, C.		Osburn, C.
Seeman, R. G.		Edwards, R. G.
Saunders, R. T.		Eddy, R. T.
Bort, R. E.		Bernet, R. E.
Geoghans, Q. B.		Hamilton, Q. B.
Buell, L. H. B.		Flippen, L. H. B.
Trapnell, R. H. B.		Banks, R. H. B.
Wilson, F. B.		Shapley, F. B.

QUAKER CITY GIRLS WIN FIELD HOCKEY TITLE

WELLESLEY, Mass., Nov. 27—(AP)—For the fourth successive year the Philadelphia Women's Field Hockey team won the intercity championship of the United States Field Hockey Association by defeating New York, 12 to 0 in a drizzling rain on a muddy field here today. Anne Townsend, captain and right inside player, of the Philadelphia team, who led the hockey association's all-American team last year, was the outstanding star in her team's victory, scoring nine of the 12 goals. Margaret Wiener, sister of "Sandy" Wiener, Bill Tilden's tennis protege, scored the others.

The New Yorkers were unable to cope with the driving rush of the Philadelphia forwards and the play centered around the New York goal for most of the encounter. The Philadelphia team play was a large factor in the high score, the forwards feeding accurately to Miss Townsend and Miss Wiener for the goal smashes. The two rarely missed a chance to score.

The All-American team was to be announced at a banquet of the teams in Boston tonight and those selected will meet the Irish Women's team in an exhibition game here tomorrow.

SPANISH HEAVY LOOKS FOR BOUT WITH DEMPSEY

BERLIN, Nov. 27—(AP)—Paolino, Spanish heavyweight boxer, here for a bout next Tuesday with the German Pugilist, Breitenstraeter, disclosed plans today for an invasion of the United States which he hopes will lead to a championship match with Jack Dempsey.

Paolino, who holds the heavy weight title of his native country, declared he had received a letter from Tex Rickard, New York promoter, asking for his terms to fight in the United States under a contract which would lead to a bout with Dempsey in the event the Spaniard measured up to champion ship calibre.

The Spaniard, now under the management of Francois Descamps, said he was scheduled to leave Paris for New York on December 20, accompanied by Georges Carpentier, Paul Fritsch and Bert Kolina, French boxers.

Paolino has a record of winning 32 out of 36 matches by knockouts in Europe and is known as the "Pyrenees Tiger."

NUTMEGS TO PLAY RICHMOND TEAM SUNDAY

Sunday afternoon at Sachem field, Hallville, the Nutmegs will clash with the Richmond Radiator Plant football team of this city. The Richmond men are confident of victory but the Nutmegs rule otherwise. The visitors' line-up is undecided but local fans can rest assured that their team will rank with the best.

The Nutmegs will rely on their usual line-up with possibly one or two changes. The following is the probable starting line-up for the Nutmegs: Ends, Carlin and Kelly; tackles, Butts and Palliocha; guards, Brush and Grover; center, Murphy or Sullivan. In the backfield will be seen C. McGrath, Capt. F. McGrath, Williams, Ludlow, MacLaren, Herberts and Conarty.

The kickoff for Sunday's game is set for 2.30 sharp.

KIKI CUYLER ORDERS DOZEN NEW BATS FOR 1926

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 27.—(A. P.)—Hazen S. (Kiki) Cuyler, star outfielder of the Pittsburgh Pirates has written to local club officials from Flint, Mich., where he is employed as an athletic instructor, requesting the purchase of 12 new bats for his use next season. The order was placed immediately.

Cuyler said he has had considerable trouble in getting his bats seasoned. He proposes to place the new clubs away in order to properly age them before the season opens.

FISHER URGED TO REMAIN AT HARVARD AS COACH

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 27—The retention of "Bob" Fisher as head football coach at Harvard is urged in an editorial in the current number of the Harvard Alumni Bulletin, on the ground that the stand of the Crimson eleven in its battles with Yale was "one of the most extraordinary performances ever seen on a football field." The Bulletin said:

"Fisher assumed charge of football this year against his own inclinations and only because he was urged to do so as a matter of duty. He said when he finally consented to take the reins again that he would serve for one season and only in order that the Harvard authorities might have time and opportunity to find another head coach.

"We are not content with that situation and we express the hope that the athletic authorities will try to bring it about that Fisher is continued at the head of Harvard football."

Condemnation of college football as played at present and the suggestion that English rugby be adopted in its place are contained in letters appearing in the Bulletin from the pens of E. C. Woodman, Harvard '88 and Roger M. Derby, Harvard '03, both letter men.

Describing the college game as "stupid, dangerous and brutal," Mr. Woodman said:

"American football has become a business rather than a game. Those participating in it, especially in college, are usually doing so for personal glory and fame, or as a duty to the college, or through unwilling compulsion, not for pleasurable or healthful exercise. The players generally dislike it, consider it drudgery and punishment, and are glad when it is all over."

UNION COLLEGE HAS STIFF BASKETBALL SLATE

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Nov. 27—(AP)—Maine, Vermont, Dartmouth and the Connecticut Aggies are among newcomers on the 1925-1926 varsity basketball schedule of Union college, made public tonight by Harold Alison Bruce, director of athletics.

The schedule is:

H.; 13, Swartmore; 17, Army at West Point; 20, Rochester; 22, C. C. N. Y., at New York; 24, Hamilton; 27, Crescent A. C., March 3, Stevens 6; R. P. I., and 13, Alumni.

OHIO STATE SETS NEW RECORD FOR ATTENDANCE

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 27.—(A. P.)—Despite unfavorable weather conditions prevailing almost the entire season, Ohio State's at home football attendance reached 305,000, a new record for the western conference. The figure last year was 193,000, which established a record at that time.

To Harold "Red" Grange, late of Illinois, goes a share of the credit, however, for 84,295 people packed into Ohio Stadium to see the Illinois and the famous Sorrel Top in State's homecoming game.

Every other game with the exception of that with Wooster, was played in the rain or on a muddy field, but despite these handicaps the games with Iowa and Columbia drew large gates.

VOGEL KNOCKS OUT JOHNSON IN FIFTH

NEW YORK, Nov. 27—(AP)—Making an initial appearance here after having gained a newspaper decision in his home city over Jimmy Goodrich, the new lightweight champion, Gene Johnson of Elizabeth, N. J., tonight was knocked out in the fifth round of a twelve round match by Sammy Vogel of New York.

Vogel outboxed and outpunched Johnson from the start and scored a knockdown in the second round. He shook up the New Jersey boxer repeatedly at close quarters in the final round and finally put Johnson down for the ten-count with a smashing right to the chin.

The weights were: Johnson 134 1-2; Vogel, 133 1-4.

GRANGE'S PROFITS ON FIRST GAME TIED UP

CHICAGO, Nov. 27—(AP)—Harold Grange, professional football player, was named in a suit for garnishment filed today by the Chicago Morris plan bank, which seeks to collect $2,328 alleged to be due from Grange's manager, C. C. Pyle, the action is to prevent Grange from turning over any property or paying any money Pyle without a court order.

Attorneys for the bank said it had obtained a judgment against Pyle in April, 1923, but had been unable to collect the money. The debt is for rent of offices used by a concern, owned by Pyle and J. H. Redhead.

NUTMEGS INDOOR TEAM READY FOR OPENER

The Nutmeg indoor baseball team is fast rounding into shape for the opening of the Norwich Indoor League Monday evening at the armory. The starting lineup for the Nutmegs will be picked from the following: W. Burnes, Kampf, Segal, J. Burnes, Winters, Carlin, E. Brewer, C. Brewer, N. Courbois, Gibbs, Tombari, Healy, Joe Jackson and Don Courbois.

The Nutmegs meet the Tigers in the 6.30 game while the Battery and Fabers All-Stars clash at 9.30 Monday in the first night's play of the indoor League.

MORAN IS NOW EDITOR OF HAVANA PAPER

HAVANA, Nov. 27.—(A. P.)—Frank Moran, of Pittsburgh, former heavyweight boxer, has joined the ranks of journalism. He has become the sporting editor of the Havana Telegram, an afternoon English language newspaper. Moran recently arrived here from France.

RICKARD SAYS HE HAS MADE NO DEFINITE OFFER

NEW YORK, Nov. 27—(AP)—Tex Rickard declared today he has made no definite offer to Paolino, Spanish heavyweight, for a bout with Jack Dempsey or anyone else but explained that he stood ready to give the Spaniard a tryout here to determine his calibre.

A Challenge

The Lorraine would like to play their last game of the season with the Nutmegs of Norwich on the Sachem grounds one week from this coming Sunday. If the manager of the Nutmegs accepts this challenge please write to George Winterbottom, 30 Prospect street, Westerly, R. I.

HOLY CROSS-BOSTON COLLEGE GAME N. E. FEATURE TODAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 27—(A. P.)—The football season comes to its final climax tomorrow throughout the country with the classic battled between the Army and Navy at the Polo Grounds as the chief center of interest.

While the service rivals are having it out in their annual fray with the cadets as favorites to triumph over the midshipmen, a scattered few elevens in other parts of the country will take the gridiron for the last time in a season which will go down as one of the most spectacular on record.

New England has its own classic for the season's farewell gesture with Boston college and Holy Cross, Catholic college rivals, meeting on Braves field, Boston, in a struggle which should witness two closely matched teams in action.

Lehigh plays Carnegie at Pittsburgh in the only other contest of note on the eastern schedule with wearers of the plaid favored to end their campaign victoriously.

Bucknell on the way back from a triumph over Detroit university yesterday, seeks another triumph at the expense of Dayton university in tomorrow's only intersectional contest.

The south's major attraction is the contest between South Carolina and Centre at Columbia, S. C., while the far west will witness two conference elevens, Southern California and Washington State, in action.

These contests will mark the end of the regular college season but interest in the gridiron sport will not pass out altogether so long as Red Grange is blazing a new trail in professional ranks, while other "pro" outfits are planning to prolong the season well into the winter in the Florida resort regions. Post-season conflicts between college rivals on the Pacific coast around New Year's also will help keep the moleskin wearer in the limelight.

Colorado college vs. Colorado Mines at Denver.

JEWETT CITY TEAM WITHOUT HALL TO PLAY GAMES IN

Jewett City has a first class basketball team but the basketball team has no hall to play in. The question is what is Jewett City going to do about it. For the first time in a number of years the chalked court game has been revived in Jewett City, a place that was once known as the home of basketball. Jewett City people are strong for a team and were much pleased at the brilliant work of the five at Taftville on Thanksgiving day.

In this as far as their interest goes just reading the scores and the accounts of the game. Would not the home town folks like to see their boys in action right on some floor in the town? But how can they? The team has no hall to play in. There is one hall owned by the Polish-American Corporation known as Bijou Hall which is just right for basketball. It seems as though there would be enough pride in Jewett City to start something and secure this hall for the team. The people of Jewett City can't expect the boys themselves to finance such a thing because there is very little profit in running basketball. Perhaps the corporation would give the use of the hall to the boys. Anyway the boys should have a place to play and its good advertising for the town.

SLATTERY IS REINSTATED BY N. Y. COMMISSION

NEW YORK, Nov. 27—(AP)—The state athletic commission today reduced the suspension of Jimmy Slattery, lightheavyweight of Buffalo, N. Y., from 60 days to 30 days, making him eligible to resume fighting Dec. 4.

Slattery was banned because of his failure to fulfill a contract to fight at Syracuse. He pleaded illness at the time and the commission told him to take a 60-day vacation to get in to condition.

He reported himself in fine condition today and the board decided he need not be kept in retirement any longer.

The commission approved a title match between Jimmy Goodrich, world's lightweight champion, and Rocky Kansas at the Veldrome A. C., Buffalo, on December 7. Charlie Murray, matchmaker at the club, appeared personally to apply for the approval.

Johnny Keyes, manager, and Marty Silvers, boxer, were suspended upon the request of the Connecticut state athletic commission. Honeyboy Finnegan of Boston suffered similar fate on the request of the Pennsylvania commission. No reasons were given in either case. Izzy Schwartz, Rub Goldstein and Willie Harmon, who have been under suspension, were reinstated.

FRIEDMAN'S SHARE OF PURSE IS ATTACHED

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 27—(AP)—An attachment of $1600 levied against the National Sportsmen's club resulted today in that amount being taken from the purse earned by William "Sailor" Friedman in his fight with Mickey Walker on Wednesday. The amount was held at the sheriff's office pending the outcome of a suit brought against the boxer by Mrs. Sophia Kligman of Philadelphia.

TIGERS CLOSE SEASON WITH LORRAINE SUNDAY

This Sunday at the J. B. Martin gridiron the Greeneville Tigers, Eastern Connecticut champions, will meet the fast Lorraine Cadets in what promises to be the hardest game of the season. The Tigers have had a most successful season and are confident of winding it up with a victory. The team has been weakened considerably by the loss of Gorton who was the mainstay of the team both on the offense and defense. Gorton is suffering from a sprain above the knee and will be unable to play Sunday. Swanton is also nursing an injury but is expected to start. The team as a whole is in the pink of condition will be ready to go at the whistle.

The Tiger management has made arrangements for a record crowd. Competent officials and police protection insure a fast clean well handled game. There is an abundance of parking space all around the field.

The Lorraine team is composed of high-school players and have a clean slate for this season. The Tigers lineup consists of the following men: McGowan center, Mileski, Christies, and Langevin and Maloney guards, Lukoski and Paul MacNamara of the Aggie Freshies tackles, Gray, Nelson and McIntyre, ends. In the backfield Swanton will be shifted to fullback while Higgins and Boyd will hold down the halfback positions. Tennant will yell the numerals. The game starts promptly at 2.30 and a special trolley will be at the grounds after the game.

CHEEK IN DEBATE ON SENTIMENT IN FOOTBALL

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 27—Captain Dolph Cheek of the Harvard football team will decry the college game at Harvard Debating Union Wednesday evening. Nat Howe, for three years a halfback on the Crimson squad, will defend football.

The occasion will be the second meeting of the union this season and the topic of debate will be: Resolved, that this house deprecates the present over-emphasis upon intercollegiate football.

To assist Captain Cheek on the affirmative George Owen, former Harvard backfield star and captain, has been invited by the union. Owen recently precipitated a controversy by a magazine article in which he said the college player did not enjoy football. E. B. Dooley, former Dartmouth quarterback, has been asked to bolster the negative.

KEEFER HAS BROKEN COLLAR BONE AND RIBS

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 27—"Jack" Keefer, of Dayton, Ohio, one of the best backs Brown ever had, and Coach Dolly's first choice for All-Eastern halfbacks, is in a hospital here with possible fractures of the right collar bone and several ribs. An X-ray was taken today to determine the extent of his injuries. Keefer was hurt in the first quarter of the Brown-Colgate game here yesterday during a mad 15-yard rush, the beginning of the 40-yard march which netted Brown her second touchdown of the game. It was Keefer's last game for Brown, as he graduates in 1926.

Marullo Gets Decision

DETROIT, Nov. 27—(A. P.)—Tony Marullo, New Orleans middleweight, got the judges' decision over Bob Sage of Detroit in 10 rounds here tonight.

Stribling Knocks Out Britton

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Georgia now has a total of 150 golf clubs.

The first notable chess congress in America was held in New York city in 1857.

The American Bowling Congress held its first annual tournament in Chicago in 1901.

Next year, for the first time in four years, Dartmouth's wonder football team will journey to Ithaca for the game with Cornell.

Fidel La Barba, the premier flyweight, is to take on Senico Moldes, the little Filipino for a ten-round bout in Los Angeles on December 2.

Minneapolis is planning to entertain the annual tournament of the International Bowling association, which is to be held in that city during ten days of February.

Steve Donoghue, the premier English jockey, is to become an actor in the films. He has signed a contract to appear in a series of pictures of racing life an romance.

The first field trials ever held in America for Americans and Canadian-bred cocked spaniels are to be held near Poughkeepsie, N. Y., December 6, under the auspices of the Hunter Cocker Spaniel Club of America.

Youth was served at the annual Thanksgiving day walk in New York from city hall to Coney Island when 21-year-old Arthur Gluck led 117 starters, but age made a gallant stand, Alonzo Chamberlain, 79, was a contestant.

The supremacy of the Finns in long distance running, upheld in recent cross-country races, will be tested again in a ten-mile championship event Sunday at Pelham Bay rink, New York Willie Plant will defend his seven-mile walk title at the same meet.

Alf Goullet, who is ready to seek his ninth Madison Square Garden six-day bike title next week, won his first race in the metropolis in 1913 as the partner of Joe Fogle. Grenda and Magin were the only riders who paired with the veteran star in more than one race.

Bullet Joe Simpson scored the lone goal that gave the New York Hockey team its initial victory in an exhibition game against the world's champion Victoria Cougahs at Windsor, Ont. The Gotham sextet formerly represented Hamilton in league play.

Christmas fund boxing promoters in New York have not yet given up hope of getting a welterweight title fight between Mickey Walker and Tommy Milligan as a main attraction. They are also talking bow of a heavyweight fight between Eddie Huffman of California and Young Stribling of Georgia.

In his career of almost twenty years of golfing competitions, Jim Barnes has won more than thirty important tournaments. Among the events he has won, some of them several times over, are the British open championship, United States open, Southern open, Western open, Professional Golfers' championship, Pacific Northwest championship, New York State open California open, Connecticut open, Pennsylvania open, Missouri open, and the North and South championship.

Jacob Schafer, Jr., who is to defend his title of world's professional billiard champion in a match with Edouard Horemans beginning in Chicago November 30, took part in his first championship tournament in New York in 1913, and at that time failed to make a very favorable impression. He was conceded to be a promising player, who had a bright future ahead of him if he applied himself seriously to balkline practice, but, at that time, he appeared indifferent, and there was none who saw him at work on the tables who would have ventured the prediction that two years later young Jake would win the world's 18.2 balkline title.

In holding Yale to a tieless score when the Bules were a 4 to 1 favorite to win, Harvard completely upset the sporting dope, but it was not the first time that the Crimson had accomplished this trick. Back in 1914 the Elis had enjoyed their best gridiron season in several years. They had shown as much class against Princeton, a common foe, as had Harvard. It was the natural conclusion that Yale would battle Harvard took and nail, with a slightly better than an even chance of victory. But Harvard walked all over the sons of old Eli, trampled them under foot, and won to the tune of 36 to 0—the worst beating a Yale team ever suffered at the hands of their greatest rivals.

DEMPSEY-WILLS BOUT WILL NOT BE HELD AT MICHIGAN CITY IN 1926

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 27—(AP)—Jack Dempsey, world's champion heavyweight boxer will not fight Harry Wills, negro challenger, in their proposed 1926 bout at Michigan city, Indiana, informants at the Dempsey camp made it known here today. The reason, unverified here, is due to a reported breach between Promoter Floyd Fitzsimmons and his South Bend, Ind., colleagues engaged in staging the affair.

That Chicago would eventually be chosen for the bout is the opinion here, in the event that city provides for bouts, under a recently enacted state law.

Dempsey, confined himself to the statement that he was bound by agreement to fight under the banner of Promoter Floyd Fitzsimmons, and that he intended to fight for Fitzsimmons wherever the latter chose to stage the battle, except in the state of New York.

The champion reiterated previous statements that he would positively not fight in any territory controlled by the New York boxing comision, a result of his disagreement with that body last summer on the subject on its authority over him.

Articles for the bout were signed in Indiana recently.

HELD NORWICH MARRIAGE LICENSE FOR 7 YEARS

Accompanied by a woman and four children, a New London resident of foreign birth walked into the office of City Clerk Julian D. Moran at the New London city hall, early this week, and, presenting a marriage license issued in the city of Norwich in 1918, inquired if the paper were any good.

"It's good in Norwich," replied Mr. Moran, "and if you wish to use it you will have to go to Norwich to get married."

"Doesn't that paper mean that I'm married?" asked the man in stumbling English.

"Why, of course not," said Mr. Moran, "that merely gives you the right to get married."

"Then," asked the perplexed Pole this woman whom I have been living with since 1918 isn't my wife?"

"No."

"And these four children aren't my children?"

"As to that I can't say," said the clerk, "but if that paper is all you've got and you considered that made you man and wife, you surely aren't married."

"What do I have to do to make this woman my wife and these children ours?" he inquired.

"Either," said Mr. Moran, "take that license and go to Norwich and get married, or get another license here now, and go right out to a minister, priest or justice of the peace, and get married."

"Gimme the license, now," almost shouted the man and hastened with the woman and the children to a justice of the peace who married them.

CHARGED WITH MURDER OF NEGRO CONVICTS

ALBEMARLE, N. C., Nov. 27—N. C. Cranford, superintendent of the Stanley County convict camp, was named in three indictments today, two of them charging murder of negro convicts and the other assault with a deadly weapon on a third negro. He was released under bond.

The grand jury's action followed two days of investigation of charges of cruel treatment of convicts brought by representatives of the state department of public welfare on the basis of inquiries ordered several months ago by Mrs. Kate Burr Johnson, commissioner of welfare.

FINDS ROCKEFELLER A SPLENDID ROTARIAN

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 27—(A. P.)—John D. Rockefeller is a good Rotarian according to George W. Crowley, of the Bronx Rotary club.

Recently, said Mr. Crowley in an address to the local club, he was making a plea for the institution of Mercy, which is situated across the way from the Rockefeller estate. He sat down and wrote Mr. Rockefeller:

"Dear John: There are 150 little orphans in the institute opposite your estate who very much need some fruits and vegetables. George."

Shortly after the note had been despatched Mr. Rockefeller sent over several wagon loads of the required articles.

THANKSGIVING BASKETS FOR EX-SERVICE MEN

A committee from the American Legion Auxiliary made a Thanksgiving day visit at the Norwich state hospital and at Uncas-on-Thames for the purpose of carrying holiday cheer to the ex-service men at the two institutions. Forty-three baskets containing fruit, candy and cigarettes were taken to the state hospital and nine baskets with fruit and candy to Uncas-on-Thames. The baskets were packed at the Mohican Co. store by Samuel Wilson and made a most inviting appearance.

NEW ENGLAND FORESTRY CONGRESS AT SPRINGFIELD

Connecticut is to have a large part in the second New England Forestry conference at Springfield, on Dec. 10-12th. Col. H. S. Graves and Prof. H. H. Chapman, of the Yale Forestry school, Mr. A. F. Hawes, state forester, and Mr. P. L. Buttrick, secretary of the State Forestry association, are the committee from this state.

Coming on the heels of the New England conference at Worcester, this congress will again show New England acting as a unit and intelligently planning for its future.

This region whose forests were once a great source of wealth, is now largely dependent for lumber on the far west, paying an enormous transportation tax to the transcontinental railways. Meanwhile, she has millions of idle acres which, if used for growing lumber, would supply all her needs and be a great source of wealth.

Col. W. B. Greeley, head of the United States service and George D. Pratt, president of the American Forestry association, will be the chief speakers. Mrs. J. B. Gerard of New Haven, of the Connecticut Women's clubs, has the honor of being the only woman to participate. She will speak on Women's Part in Forest Conservation. Other Connecticut speakers are A. F. Hawes, state forester, who will talk on the Forest Fire Menace Prof. H. H. Chapman, of Yale, who will talk on the Forest Taxation. Mr W. O. Filley, who will discuss Forest Investigations. Senator F. C. Walcott, President of the Connecticut Game commission, will bring to the conference the latest information of the Relation of Forestry to Fish and Game and P. L. Buttrick of the Connecticut Forestry association, who will discuss Town Forests.

WRIGHTS HAVE WITHDRAWN THEIR DIVORCE SUIT

BARABOO, Wis., Nov. 27—(A. P.)—A divorce action started by Frank Lloyd Wright, internationally known architect and a counter suit filed by his wife Maude Miriam Noel Wright sculptress, both charging desertion were withdrawn in circuit court here late today.

County Judge J. H. Hill, acted on the part of both parties in withdrawing the suits. No reason was given.

Judge Hill said he was not of counsel for either party but had been asked to appear only for the purpose of withdrawing the suits. He declined to discuss the possibility of Mrs. Wright starting a new suit for separate maintenance, as stated in press reports today.

WOULD KEEP FEES ON HIGH LEVEL IN DIVORCE CASES

HARTFORD, Nov. 27—(A. P.)—A suggestion for lawyers to maintain their fees on a high level in divorce cases to keep down the divorce rate is contained in a decision of Judge Thomas J. Molloy, of the common pleas court in passing upon the fee asked by Sidney E. Clarke in a divorce case.

"In these days of heading rushing of the divorce tribunal," said the judge, "counsel should not value their services too lightly, as has undoubtedly been done by some attorneys."

HICKEY'S CAR REPORTED STOLEN IN HARTFORD

The Norwich police were notified Friday evening of the theft of a Buick automobile in Hartford with the registration 40,906. According to the state automobile register the car belongs to Edward T. Hickey of 90 Broad street, Hartford.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

A half century ago this week the Blackstone Hose company held their annual masquerade and dance at Breed hall. The attendance numbered between four and five hundred Thanksgiving day, which occurred that week, was a quiet one in this city. There was no public observance, only the usual church services being held in the evening the customary burning took place, on the hills about Norwich.

Interesting extracts from the files of The Bulletin of November, 1875 are as follows:

Monday, Nov. 22, 1875—Mr. Gardner the costumer engaged for the masquerade of the Blackstone Hose company, is expected to arrive today. The boys expect a large company tomorrow night.

Mr. West, manager of the horse railroad, announces that after Thanksgiving the tickets issued by the company will not be received. The road is being put in good condition and its ceiling stock will be fitted to prevent any interruption of travel next winter as heretofore.

The choral union are endeavoring to secure the services of Prof. Whitney, of Boston, as musical director for the winter. A meeting to consider the matter will be held this evening. Members are requested to bring four part books.

Tuesday, Nov. 23, 1875—At a meeting of the Norwich Rifle club last evening it was voted to have a match shoot on Thanksgiving day morning at 10 o'clock for two valuable prizes. The shooting will be at 200 and 500 yards and will be open to members only.

The Tuesday evening union meetings, judging from the attendance and the special interest manifested in them, have proved themselves well conceived and timely in their establishment. This evening the gathering is at Park church and if any progress has been made in the past week it will doubtless manifest itself at this meeting.

The masquerade of the Blackstone Hose company takes place tonight. Mr. Gardner the costumer arrived yesterday and will be in attendance. The concert will be given by Miller's band and will be from 8 to 9 o'clock, and some fine music is expected. The tickets are only fifty cents.

An alarm of fire was raised last evening by the appearance of a bright light at the north. Several of the fire companies turned out but finding the fire was out of the city limits, came back after a short run. The light was in the direction and neighborhood of Baltic as seen from the city, though at Bean Hill it appeared to be on Plain Hill. It was reported last night that it was merely a brush fire.

Wednesday, Nov. 24, 1875—The fire noticed in the city Monday night was caused by the burning of the barn of Seymour Moses, on Plain Hill. It was entirely consumed and with it, four cows, a yoke of oxen, one horse and about 30 tons of hay.

Seth Main of Preston, was appointed to collect back taxes said to be due from James A. Cook. He levied on some land owned by Cook in that town, and advertised it for sale by auction but on the day of the sale Cook met him with a revolver and swore if he went on to the property he would shoot him. Main sent for two double barreled guns to aid him in enforcing the law, but before they arrived Cook retired and the sale was made without further opposition.

Considering the weather there was a large attendance at the masquerade at the Blackstone Hose company last evening, between four and five hundred persons being present, about a hundred of whom were masked. Some exceptionally good music was given by Miller's band. A cornet solo by Mr. George was especially noticeable. There were 18 numbers on the card and dancing was continued until early this morning.

Thursday, Nov. 25, 1875—Two new omnibusses have already arrived for the horse railroad, two new cars are expected today or tomorrow and three new sleighs built expressly for Manager West will be here a day or two later. Mr. West is putting the road in first class condition generally. An extension is now being built on the barn in Greeneville.

Thanksgiving day will be a very quiet day in the city. Aside from the religious services there will be no public observance of it. In private the upright citizen will eat his "turkey, make merry and be as thankful probably as is convenient.

John Murray had a good audience in Breed hall last evening. He was fairly well supported and gave the character of Rip Van Winkle with an effect which showed his claim to the reputation he has gained.

Street Commissioner Cole proposes to have the obnoxious crosswalk from the Hook and Ladder house to the Broadway church pounded down in time.

Friday, Nov. 26, 1875—Thanksgiving day passed very quietly in the city yesterday. The weather was simply perfect and the most tempered citizen could not fail to feel the influence of the bright sky and bracing air which added so greatly to the enjoyment of the holiday. The streets were filled with an orderly well dressed crowd, and in the evening the hills were alight with the blazing of bonfires of barrels. The church services were well attended.

The ball of the Silber Gard last night at Steiner's hall, was as usual a decided success. We must say that our German friends know how to get up a ball, and everyone who ever attended one of their dances is sure to go again. It proved an extremely pleasant gathering.

One day last week one of the farmers in this neighborhood selected 17 of his best turkeys and shut them up in a barn, to be killed. The next day he went for them but found someone had stolen them all.

The volunteer inspectors of the coffer dam were paid off yesterday morning and several of our esteemed fellow citizens were smoking fragrant five cent cigars in the afternoon.

Saturday, Nov. 27, 1875—A sneak thief entered the home of Asa Nash on East Main street, Thanksgiving Eve, and stole two valuable overcoats from the hall rack, one belonging to Mr. Nash and the other to a gentleman who was passing the day with him.

Forty years ago Thursday, Nov. 25 ground was broken at Greeneville for the Norwich and Worcester railroad. Gov. Edwards, of New Haven, was present and delivered the address, and John Breed wheeled away the first shovelful of earth due up.

Julia Harris, three years old, while running by the side of a horse car at Bean Hill, slipped and fell under the wheels which passed over her breaking one of her legs. This should be a warning to children at the upper end of the route who are in the habit of playing about the cars while they are in motion.

coming so far down the Laughing Brook," said Mrs. Paddy. "Here we will have to build a dreadfully long dam, and that means a lot of work this summer. I don't see why you couldn't have chosen a place nearer home where a shorter dam could have been built. Here we are down in an alder swamp and there isn't a poplar tree in sight. It seems to me like a queer place to build a dam."

"That is because you haven't looked the ground over," replied Paddy. "A dam any higher up the Laughing Brook wouldn't make a big enough pond for the water to get near enough to those trees for us to work there in safety, or be able to get our logs to our food pile."

"But if we build a dam here we will have a great big pond, three times as big as the pond we now have," declared Mrs. Paddy.

"True enough. True enough," replied Paddy. But that doesn't matter in the least. It must be a big pond or we won't get the trees, and these trees mean food all winter. Now, my dear, over there toward the edge of this alder swamp where the ground begins to rise is a great old log. It will be just the thing to anchor one end of the dam against. It couldn't be better placed. And way over on the other side is another old log almost as big. Against this we'll anchor the other end of the dam. Now, if you will follow me, I'll show you how Old Mother Nature has placed things just as if she had known that some day we would want to build a dam here. See this tree? We'll build from that old log to this tree and anchor the dam against this. Then we will carry it on to that tree over there, and from that to that big rock, and from that to a tree a little farther on, and so at last to the other big log, which will be the other end. With those trees and that rock to build against we can make the strongest kind of a dam, even if it is a long one. In all my experience, my dear, I never have seen a better place for a long dam than we have here, and a long dam this one must be. A dam, as you know, is only as good as its strength. The bigger the pond behind it the stronger the dam must be. Now, tell me, have you ever seen a better place for building a dam?"

"Because you haven't looked the ground over," replied Paddy

Mrs. Paddy sighed. She couldn't help it. Just thinking of the work to be done before that dam could be finished made her sigh. "I suppose you are right, my dear," said she. "You usually are right. But how nice it would be if we didn't have to build a dam at all. It does seem as if just cutting the trees for winter food was enough work for any honest Beavers."

Paddy grinned. "I am afraid these children of ours would be spoiled if we had things as easy as you seem to want them," said he. "They never have helped build a dam, and it is high time they should begin. It will do them good. It will do them no end of good. Some day they will be starting out in the Great World for themselves, and it would be sad indeed to think of a Beaver who didn't know how to build a dam. When we really get to work on this it will be fun. You'll forget it is work. There is no fun like honest work that one enjoys doing. Now I think we'll go back home and talk it all over."

So Paddy and his family returned to their home in the pond Paddy had made long ago, and there they talked it all over. At last, even the young Beavers agreed that there was nothing to do but build that new dam if they would live in comfort and safety the next winter. Having made up their minds to this they were eager to begin work.

Paddy Explains His Reasons.

Who for his acts can give no reason
Is guilty of a form of treason.
—Paddy the Beaver.

He is guilty of treason to his own common sense. That is what Paddy means. So, when Mrs. Paddy and the two young Beavers wanted to know why he had chosen the place he had for a new dam, Paddy explained.

LEFFINGWELL
Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock a Thanksgiving pageant was given at the church by the young people, directed by Mrs. N. E. Whiting. There was singing by all, "O Worship the King," and "The God of Harvest Praise." Psalm 103, was read by Rev. William B. Oakley, after which he offered prayer. A mixed quartet chanted "More Work to Do." The young people's choir sang, "What Shall the Harvest Be." Miss Effie Murphy recited "The Landing of the Pilgrims." For the Thanksgiving pageant the cast was: Governor Bradford, Russell Murray; Myles Standish, Michael Hracyk; Oceana Hopkins, Merton Clifford; Love Brewster, Saul Caroline; Wrestling Brewster, Raymond Murray; Peregrime White, Herbert Spicer; Samoset, Gilbert Caroline; Massasoit, Edmund Murphy; Priscilla Mullins, Mildred Leffingwell; Mary Chilton, Helen Clifford; Thankful, Helen Spicer; Desire Minitum, Margaret Bedat; Betty Alden, Jenny Catini; Rose Standish, Beulah Mowrey; Samoset's daughter, Louise Bedat.

The pastor, Rev. Mr. Oakley spoke briefly after which the collection was taken. There was singing, "Let Us Scatter Seeds of Kindness," by the young people's choir. The Sunday school superintendent, A. H. Beebe spoke, after which the minister offered prayer.

J. C. Leffingwell entertained a family party of fifteen, Thanksgiving day.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Beebe, Miss Carolyn L. Beebe, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Durr and daughter, Natalie, were Thanksgiving day guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Willard, of Groton.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Ross entertained Thursday Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Elliott and daughters, Ruth, Justine, Gertrude and Carolyn, of Taunton, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. LeGrande Chappell and daughter, Barbara, of Thames View, and Edward Griffith, of East Great Plain.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Bedat were Mrs. Justine Bedat and Miss Patricia Sullivan, of Maple St., Norwich.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Rogers and John Rogers were Thanksgiving day guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mason Coggeshall, of Trading Cove.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward MacGonegal, of Yantic, were guests Thursday, of Mr. and Mrs. R. Trafford Mowrey.

Mrs. Joseph A. Elliott and four daughters, of Taunton, Mass., are spending the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. John L. Ross.

Miss Zelda Mowrey was the guest this week of her sister, Mrs. Charles Patridge, of Poquetanuck.

Mrs. Roy L. Beard spent Friday with her mother, Mrs. John O. Johnson, of Baltic.

Guests over Thanksgiving of Mr. and Mrs. William Murray were Mrs. Paquette, of Lowell, Mass., and Mr. Chetut, of Hartford.

West of his house on Salem turnpike, John L. Ross has purchased a tract of land from N. E. Whiting. At an early date Mr. Ross is to erect a house on this land.

POETRY

The Four Winds

Wind of the North,
Wind of the Norland snows,
Wind of the winnowed skies, and sharp clear stars,
Blow cold and keen across the naked hills,
And crisp the lowland pools with crystal films,
And blur the casement squares with glittering ice,
But go not near my love.

Wind of the West,
Wind of the few far clouds,
Wind of the golden and crimson sunset lands,
Blow fresh and pure across the peaks and plains,
And broaden the blue spaces of the heavens,
And sway the grasses and the mountain pines,
But let my dear one rest.

Wind of the East,
Wind of the sunrise seas,
Wind of the clinging mists and gray harsh rains,
Blow moist and chill across the wastes of brine,
And shut the sun out, and the moon and stars,
And lash the boughs against the dripping eaves,
Yet keep thou from my love.

But thou, sweet wind!
Wind of the fragrant South,
Wind from the bowers of jasmine and of rose,
Over magnolia blooms and lilied lakes
And flowering forests—come with dewy wings,
And stir the petals at her feet, and kiss
The low mound where she lies.

—Charles Henry Luders.

The Spirit of the Fall

Come, on thy swaying feet,
Wild Spirit of the Fall!
With wind-blown skirts, loose hair of russet brown,
Crowned with bright berries of the bittersweet.

Trip a light measure with the hurrying leaf,
Straining thy few late roses to thy breast,
With laughter over-gay, sweet eyes drooped down,
That none may guess thy grief.
Dare not to pause for rest
Lest the slow tears should gather to their fall.

But when the cold moon rises o'er the hill,
The last numb crickets cease, and all is still,
Face down thou lest on the frosty ground
Strewed with thy fortune's wreck, alas thine all—
. . . . . .
There, on a winter dawn, thy course is found,
Lone Spirit of the Fall.
—Dansker Dandridge.

WESTERLY

SCH. GYPSY GROUNDS ON BEACH OFF GREEN HILL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 27—Coast guardsmen from three stations along the shore between Point Judith and Watch Hill were called out Friday morning in answer to distress signals from the 106-foot Gypsy launch, which later dragged her anchors in the teeth of a southeaster and grounded on the beach at a point about one mile east of Green Hill.

The craft, bound from Boston to Savannah, Ga., with a crew of seven men, arrived off Gren Hill about 5 o'clock this morning, and the crew of the Green Hill station immediately put out when distress signals were flown.

They stood by in an effort to keep the launch from the beach, but their efforts proved to no avail, and she grounded at about 10 o'clock. The members of the crew were immediately taken off the vessel. The picket boat from Watch Hill and the big power boat of the Point Judith station answered the call for help, but were unable to float the schooner. She was in ballast, and is owned by the Cape Ann Steamship company of Boston. Capt. Frank Dooley of Boston was in charge. It is said the vessel was under a six months' contract to southern interests, to carry lumber.

Belief was expressed this afternoon by Capt. Hooper of the Green Hill station that coast guardsmen will be able to float the Gypsy upon the abatement of the high seas which are now tending to wash the craft further up on the beach.

CAFONE THREATENING CASE CONTINUED TO DEC. 4

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, Nov. 27.—A special session of the Third District court was held Friday afternoon at 5.30 o'clock with Acting Judge M. Walter Flynn on the bench, when on the complaint of Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown James Patrick Cafone, 17, was arraigned, charged with sending a threatening letter on Nov. 16, to Otto Seidner, with intent to extort money. He pleaded not guilty and the case was continued to the next regular session of the third district court on Friday, Dec. 4, at 9 a. m. Bonds of $2,000 were required and his father, Peterangelo Cafone and Dominic Perri of 80 Oak street became surety. Cafone was arrested on Thursday and following his arraignment he stated that he had high ambitions but they were all shot now. The letter referred to demanded $2,000 which was to have been left in the children's sandlot on the High street playgrounds. If the demand was not complied with the threat was made that Mr. Seidner's life would be taken.

MYSTIC

All business was suspended for Thanksgiving day. The mills and business places closed. Talking Across Ocean

Success of experiments in trans-oceanic radiotelephony has led to the prediction by engineers that commercial trans-Atlantic radiophone conversation will be a regular part of the telephone system before many years pass, says Scientific American. It will then be possible to lift the receiver of the ordinary house telephone in any section of the United States and ask central for a number in London, just like a long-distance call is made. It is understood that the experiments have utilized an entirely new principle of wireless and it is being guarded with secrecy. A special form of carrier wave is radiated from the big station a Rocky Point, L. I., which serves the same purpose as a telephone wire, along which the voice can be sent in both directions. The voice currents are superimposed on the carrier wave. The words are picked up at Chertsey, England, and are then passed through transformers and forwarded to London by underground wires.

The first dental college for women in the Philippines was opened this year in Manila, in connection with the Centro Escolar de Senoritas, with a woman dentist as dean.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

MOOSEHEART LEGION

Senor Regent Mrs. Harry Hunter opened the regular meeting of the Women of Mooseheart legion, Norwich chapter, No. 124, Tuesday evening at Moose home, with a good attendance.

The chapter voted to send $5 towards the Christmas tree for the children at Mooseheart. Also, $5 towards the tuberculosis sanitorium holiday fund.

Election of officers was held and the following elected: Senior regent, Mrs. Theresa Watters; junior regent, Mrs Ethel Hoelck; chaplain, Mrs. Irene Burns; recorder, Margaret Sadusky, reelected; treasurer, Mrs. Nora Willett.

The officers are to be installed at the next regular meeting, with a banquet following the meeting.

A. O. H. AUXILIARY

Division No. 18, Ladies Auxiliary, A. O. H., held a very successful whist Tuesday evening at Buckingham Memorial. The prizes were awarded as follows: Ladies, first, Mrs. L. Bruette; second, Mrs. F. G. Murray. Men, first, P. McGill, second, Peter Fournier. The consolations went to Mrs. James Fox and S. Milles. Mrs. T. Brennan was awarded the door prize.

Mrs. David Dunn was chairman of the committee and was assisted by Mrs. James Fox, Mrs. Lucius Bissonette, Mrs. William Sharkey, Miss Mary Carroll and Miss Nellie Gleason.

Another successful whist and pinochle was held by Division No. 54, Ladies' auxiliary, last Monday evening in their hall. Twenty tables of whist and eight of pinochle were in play. Whist prizes were awarded as follows: First, lady's, Mrs. Joseph Fitzgerald; second, Mrs. Patrick O'Neil, consolation, Miss Jennie Moore; First gentleman's, Mr. Birch, second, T. Wisniskie; consolation, J. McGuire. In pinochle first lady's, Mrs. George Nadoiny; second, Mrs. Henry Harris; consolation, Mrs. James Casey; gentleman's, first, J. Wheaton; second, Jas. Shelly;, consolation, James O'Neil. The door prize went to Mrs. Alvin Barrows. Refreshments were served by the committee in charge, Mrs. Edward Edwards, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Harold Wyckham, Mrs. George Bellows, Mrs. Charles Woodmansee, Mrs. Thomas Connelly, Mrs. Margaret Coughlin, Mrs. Mary McCarthy and Miss Margaret Caples. The scorers were the Misses Nellie McCarthy, Anna Fitzmaurice, Edith McGrevy and Mrs. Alvin Barrows. Miss Catherine Sullivan had charge of the pinochle. The joint installation for all New London county divisions is to be held in Taftville on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 29, with such prominent speakers as state officers. All members are to leave on the 2:15 car for Taftville frim Franklin square and all members are welcome to attend.

ST. JEAN BAPTISTE

Lafayette council, No. 207, conducted a largely attended whist evening Thursday at the Buckingham Memorial, having twenty-three tables playing. Miss Mabel Gladue was chairman of the committee in charge and the following were the prize awards: ladies' —first, Miss Annie Simino; second, Mrs. Lawrence Collins; consolation, Miss Amelia Russell; gentlemen—first, Ambrose Gregory; second, Mr. Taylor; consolation, James Keely. A door prize of $2.50, which was contributed by the president of the council, Joseph E. Rochette, was awarded to D. J. Dufresne. Dancing followed the whist.

B'NAI B'RITH

A social evening which recognized the Thanksgiving season was held at Odd Fellows' hall Thursday by Rose of New England lodge and the Auxiliary of the B'nai B'rith, with a good attendance. Governor Trumbull's Thanksgiving proclamation was read by Max Hanover and the welcoming address in opening the meeting was given by Mrs. Alex M. Pasnik, president of the auxiliary.

Musical numbers during the evening included violin solos by George Guile, solos by Jacob D. Davis, for whom Mrs. A. H. Manes was accompanist and solos by Ruth Goodwin from the Palace theater, and a solo by Alex Pasnik, interesting remarks were made by Abner Schwartz.

Refreshments were served and the latter part of the evening was occupied with dancing for which the orthophonic victrola furnished the music.

A number of out of town members were present, including Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Symon of New Britain. Dr. and Mrs. Austin of Brooklyn, N. Y.

MOOSUP

An entertainment and whist given in St. Josephs hall, November 23, under the auspices of the Children of Mary, attracted an attendance of about 400. An interesting program was given, including a violin quartette by Irene Bellavance, Alphegina Lacaille, Dolores Lamoureux and Aurise Gauthier, accompanied at the piano by Claire Lawless; a recitation, "La petite France" by ten pupils of room No. 1; violin solo, Irene Bellavance; song by pupils of room No. 1; jokes and songs by Albert Deforge accompanied at the piano by Eugene Leblanc, and a violin quartette.

Whist was won by Mrs. Bernard Caron.

CENTRAL VILLAGE

The body of Raymond McLeod, 51, was brought from Portland, Me., to Groton Saturday, for burial in the family lot in Groton cemetery. Mr. McLeon had been ill for some time and had been at his home but five days before his death, having been in a New York hospital. He was the son of the late Rev. and Mrs. Andrew McLeod, formerly residents of Central Village. He leaves besides his wife, two brothers, Dr. Edward McLeod of New York city and Dr. Robert McLeod of Larchmont, N. Y.

BERLIN HAS EFFECTIVE TRAFFIC REGULATION

Berlin was late in establishing traffic regulations, but now has done so thoroughly. Not only must all pedestrians wishing to cross streets wait until the traffic policeman signals, but if at a certain busy crossing they fail to walk the white line they are called back by the police and if recalcitrant are fined. The first case of this kind has come before the courts, and the victim, after losing, has appealed. In order to keep pedestrians from running wildly through the busy center of Potsdamerplatz, where five streets converge, the authorities have removed the pavement and planted grass.

An educational tour of France, under the auspices of the French government, was made last summer by 130 boys and 20 teachers from the New York city schools. The party was in charge of the director of foreign languages of the New York schools.

WATCHING MOTHER NATURE LAY FOREST CARPETS

Everyone who has tramped the woods can vouch for nature's ability as a maker of carpets that excel in depth and resilience the finest Wilton. Just how slowly or rapidly the leaf litter of the forest floor accumulates, the lake states forest experiment station is observing in Minnesota forests of jack pine, Norway pine, and aspen.

During the next few years the annual accumulation of leaf litter will be measured and analyzed by these forest service experts of the United States department of agriculture on a half dozen tracts. On intensive plots some 1,200 feet square in each tract, covered with tightly-fastened burlap chemically treated against attacks of rodents and dampness, nature will be required to lay brand new carpets for the foresters' inspection.

Trees of various axes will contribute to the experiment going on beneath them, from open-growing jack pine of 30 summers to densely crowded Norway pine 300 or more years old. Next spring, and again just before snow flies next fall the "carpets" will be "taken up" to be weighed and chemically analyzed. Meanwhile blocks of soil from the different locations, cut 12 inches square with layers of leaf litter untouched, are being painstakingly inventorled and analyzed, for comparison later with the records of leaf fall.

Paper Money Annoyance

We wish the government would either reconsider its decision to print no more than $10,000 bills or else retire those that are already in circulation, as we do hate to carry so much dirty money around all the time, says the Ohio State Journal, on which the Newark, Ohio Advocate remarks: "And the iceman almost never has the change for it. And only the other day our street car conductor accused us of trying to snatch a free ride when we handed him one."

Red Funds Embezzled.

Low salaries paid to persons in government employ in Soviet Russia and the high cost of living have produced the inevitable result. Embezzlements are reported every day. Some are for large amounts but most of them of sums sufficient to pay for the necessities of life.

and Dayville is noted. Supplies for these communities are being obtained from Danielson, where there is some reserve over and above local requirements.

Five foxes were started, but none taken in the big hunt held on Thanksgiving day, and starting in the town of Brooklyn.

When he stopped a few minutes in Hartford to get a lunch, someone stole a small closed car belonging to Harold Baldwin. With the car went Mr. Baldwin's overcoat and a brief case.

Sections of the trolley line between here and Elmville will be taken out within a few days when the new state highway is fully opened for travel. The rails now temporarily cross over the surface of the new road at several points. No detour is now necessary for motorists in getting from Danielson to Elmville.

A further surplus of water was accumulated in the rainfall of Friday, yet full ponds are far from realization at various bodies of water within a few miles of Danielson.

Joseph Carlin, a gunner at Fort Wright, and Miss Catherine M. Carlin of Central Village were holiday guests of Miss Mary Shinners.

The Gilbert district school, destroyed by fire in Brooklyn Thanksgiving eve, was broken into late in the summer and practically all of the new school supplies for the term opening last September were stolen.

Large supplies of cord wood are being cut in various localities within a few smiles of Danielson, so there will be that kind of fuel available here all winter, in case the coal strike continues to drag on.

DEATH OF N. A. JORDAN COMPLICATES FRAUD CASE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Nov. 27.—Something of a situation has unexpectedly developed through the death of N. A. Jordan of Elmville, who was the intended victim of two men who, a number of weeks ago, came to him representing themselves as federal income tax appointees. On a second visit the men were arrested by state officers and are now under bail awaiting trial. One of them obtained a check from Mr. Jordan, given for alleged overdue taxes. The case is scheduled to come up in the federal court at New Haven within a few days. Now that Mr. Jordan is dead the difficulties of prosecuting the men will be increased, for he could have given testimony that would be highly important in the presentation of the case.

CHINESE SEND DEAD HOME FOR BURIAL; THEN REACH HEAVEN

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 27 —(AP)— Because they believe that no Chinese will enter heaven unless he is finally buried in China, natives of that country in the west ship the bodies of their countrymen homeward through this port.

Bodies of scores of Chinese have been exhumed in several California cities and sent to San Francisco to await enough to make a ship load. The bodies are cared for here by an official funeral director for the family tongs affected.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets the substitute for calomel.

Dr Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY
Freaks of Fidd's Furnace

'Twas but last fall that Hiram Fidd
When out and bought a furnace
He told his wife: "This winter, now,
The cold will not concern us."

He smiled a gleeful smile and then Went on, "The man who sold it
Assured me that no residence
Could be too big to hold it.

"Because, when once 'twas firmly set,
Or, may, when 'twas seated,
The territory all around
Would be completely heated."

But, listen how the furnace had
The fiendishness of Nero
It simply dropped its head and quit
When things got down to zero.

At 7 in the morning, when
The Fidds were all arising
The cold air from the furnace poured
In manner frigidizing.

At 8 o'clock old Fidd went down
And made the clinkers scamper,
He shoveled on a lot of coal
And opened up the damper.

At 9 o'clock a feeble blaze
Did in the embers smoulder.
At 10 o'clock, if anything,
The house was somewhat colder.

11 brought a shrinking whiff
Of heat that was right pleasing,
But soon was still disconsolate,
And everything was freezing.

At 1 P. M. old Fidd went down
To cuss at it and scold it.
At 2 and 3 and 4 o'clock
And 5 o'clock he coaled it

At 6 the family sat down
To eat a chilly dinner.
At 7 Fidd was saying things
That would disgrace a sinner.

At 8 he thought of how he bought
The furnace with much haggling'
At 9 his daughter went to bed
To slumber in her raglan.

At 10 there came a blast of heat
From radiators pouring,
11 saw it hotter yet,
And shrivaling the flooring.

11:30 found the warmth
With vigor unabated.
The Fidd threw open windows then
And things were ventilated.

By midnight there were smoke and flames
From out the cellar swelling,
And 1 a. m. their little home
Was but a ruined dwelling.

But Fidd was glad. He smiled the hest
Rewarded all his labors.
He got a good insurance sum
And warmed up all his neighbors.

Time

The clock strikes and another hour begins.
Time's army marches by in single file,
Seemingly heedless of our virtues, sins,
The frown of man or woman's lovely smile.
And none so wise, so rich, or so distraught,
As to his brief hour to lengthen or cut short.

'Tis ten o'clock, in sixty minutes more
Eleven will ring upon the morning air,
As calm and certain as the hour before,
Unchanged by laughter or unmoved by care;
Not one in all that endless line of hours
Will pause or hurry for some whim of ours.

Sunrise and sunset, generals of the day
Man cannot bribe or threaten or control;
Storm, nor disaster, nor despair, can stay
Or change one second of the mighty whole.
Time will press on though nations rise or fall,
The passing hour is master of us all.

Thoughtland

Wandering back in Thoughtland,
It seems but yesterday
We trod the flowery paths of youth,
Passing the time away,
Without a thought of the time to be
We glided out to sea,
Drifting along on the flowing tide
To the harbor of Liberty.

Wandering back to Thoughtland,
Through the mists of years,
Life was one long golden dream,
Free from cares and fears.
When hearts were young and tender,
Laughter was our share;
Around us buds and flowers,
Growing everywhere.

Wandering back to Thoughtland,
The sky was ever blue,
Every cloud was silver-lined,
Every heart throb true.
Building castles in the air
Every live-long day,
Life was just a fairy dream
We thought it was for aye.

Wandering again in Thoughtland,
All things tinged with gray,
We tread the daily paths of life
Secure, since it's the way
Love gladdens every step we take
Helps us fear each load,
Trusting the way we're traveling
Will some day lead to God.

The Old Kitchen Floor

Far back in my musings my thoughts have been cast
To the home where the hours of my childhood were passed.
I love all its rooms, the pantry, and hall,
But that blessed old kitchen was dearer than all.
The chairs and its tables none brighter can be,
And all its surroundings are sacred to me
To the nail in the ceiling, the latch on the door
And I love every crack in that old kitchen floor

Somewhere the fireplace with mouth high and wide
And the old fashioned oven that stood by its side,
Out of which Thanksgiving came puddings and pies
That fairly bewildered and dazzled my eyes
And then too old Santa Claus slyly and still Came down every Christmas my stockings to fill
But the dearest memory I've laid up in ours
Is the grandma that trod on the old kitchen floor.

Day in and day out and from morning till night
Her footsteps were busy, her heart always light;
For it seemed to me then that she knew not a care
The smile was so gentle her face used to wear
I remember with pleasure what joy filled my eyes
When she told me the stories that children so prize
They were new every night though I heard them before
From her lips at the wheel on the old kitchen floor.

Tonight these old visions come back at their will
But the wheel and its music forever are still
The hand is moth eaten, the wheel laid away
And the fingers that turned it are moldering to clay.
The hearthside so sacred is just as 'twas then
And voices of children ring out there again
The sun through the window looks in as of yore,
But it sees stranger feet on the old kitchen floor.

I ask not for honor, but this I would crave
That when the lips speaking are closed in the grave
My children will gather their own by their side
And tell of their grandma who long ago died,
'Twould be more enduring far dearer to me
Than inscription on granite or marble could be
To have them tell often as I did of yore
Of the grandma who trod on the old kitchen floor.

The Way to Find Out Pride

Pride, ugly pride, sometimes is seen
By haughty looks, and lofty mien;
But oftener it is found that pride
Loves deep within the heart to hide;
And, while the looks are mild and fair,
It sits and does its mischief there.
Now, if you really wish to find
If pride is lurking in your mind
Inquire if you can bear a slight,
Or patiently give up your right.
Can you submissively consent
To take reproof and punishment
And feel no angry ferment start
In any corner of your heart?
Can you with frankness own a crime,
And promise for another time?
Or say you've been in a mistake,
Nor try some new excuse to make,
And freely own that it was wrong
To argue for your side so long?
Flat contradiction can you bear, when you are right,
And know you are; nor flatly contradict again.
But wait, or modestly explain,
And tell your reasons one by one.
Nor think of triumphs when you're done?
Can you in business or in play, give up your wishes,
Or your way? Or do a thing against your will,
For somebody that's younger still?
And never try to overbear, or say a word that is not fair?
Does laughing at you, in a joke, no anger or reverence provoke?
But can you laugh yourself, and be as merry as the company?
Or when you find that you could do to them as they have done to you,
Can you keep down the wicked thought
And do exactly as you ought?
Put all these questions to your heart
And make it act an honest part.
And, when they've each been fairly tried,
I think you'll own that you have pride;
Some one will own that you have
pride;
Some one will call you, as you go,
And force your heart to tell you so;
But if they all should be denied,
Then you're too proud to own your pride!

PRETTY SLIPPERS

Dear Social Corner Friends: As it is so near the Christmas season, will send directions for making some pretty slippers.

Cut the tops from discarded silk hosiery. Into strips, one inch wide cutting round and round.

Sew the strips together until a pound ball is formed, then knit or crochet them into tops for bedroom slippers and sew them onto the usual commercial sole.

Another way to make a pretty slipper is as follows:

Cut into strips some bright colored silk scraps and take them together as one would carpet rags when making a rug. Use a coarse crochet hook and crochet in the same way that slippers are crocheted when using yarn. Sew them to the soles and finish them with a rosette or silk ornament on the toe.

Such slippers may be made also of fancy colored twine, the common kind that merchants use, and are attractive in appearance, durable and warm. Knit or crocheted in any pretty design and tied with matching ribbons. It is hard to tell them from those made with any hard-twist thread.

Nema: Many thanks for kind wishes expressed on card received.

Hoping that it is not too late I will ask the editor for a Social Corner pin, thanking him in advance.

Best wishes to all.

OUTDISTANCED WIVES AND MOTHERS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Many a hard working country woman who helped her husband up the ladder of financial success, been a good mother to his children and withal a careful and competent housekeeper arrives at that breathing spell which comes about the 40th year and begins with absolute dismay to realise that her husband and children have left her so far behind in looks in worldly wisdom in social affairs and in clothes that she might almost belong to an entirely different race of beings. She has so effaced herself that they have regarded her as a convenience and a commonplace necessity rather than the queen of the home and the mistress of the house. Her clothes, her mind and everything about her belongs to a period of about 20 years back and nobody seems to care that it is so, except a scared timid old fashioned woman who has just made the most important discovery of her life. Now if she is a weak woman she slumps into self-pity and hopelessness but if she has will power and courage she begins to remedy matters at once. If in addition to these necessary virtues she adds diplomacy she will conduct her campaign without announcing her plans. She will begin at once to let new of some of the house hold duties and spend long hours making the most of her possessions, the charms with which nature endowed her in youth and she will discover that the dentist and the dressmaker can work wonders in a short time if she will lend them her aid. Less devotion to housekeeping means freedom to read and study and enjoy social pleasures and it also means that somebody will have to lend a hand with the work or no with simpler fare. It will not hurt daughter or even husband and son to lend a hand with the necessary tasks. One woman seeing no other way out of the difficulty, enlisted the aid of the family. The husband was warned to be more careful of his wife's health; she must go out doors more. An unwilling daughter wrestled with pots and pans while her mother rode with her stock-buying husband enjoying the freshness and beauty of the season as she had not done since her lover had courted her years before. She interested herself in his business, read much, took care of her health and such beauty as maternity and over-devotion to housework had left and by autumn she was a new woman in feeling and looks and what is more her children thought more of her than they did in the days when she was merely a drudge. Faithfully studied the papers will give the run of current events, a few trips into the social world will bring back long forgotten knowledge of social custom onto which may be grated the new ideas by taking her place in church service, social and, club circles, family life and the neighborhood doings. A bright intelligent woman can soon lift her self out of the rut into which the years of neglect had dropped her. Why, for the sake of her husband and her children she should make the effort. Without reproaching herself or anyone else for the wasted years she can crowd into what is left of life so much enjoyment and real living that the mistakes of youth will not count and her husband will be her lover until the very end of life.

HAPPINESS AND CONTENTMENT

Dear Editors and Corner Sisters: I am glad to learn through our Corner that some of you who have been ill are better and some of those who have been in the hospital have returned home. I am glad that you can spend your Thanksgiving day with your families. I know how pleased you are to be able to do so and thankful when we count up our blessings and we have to be thankful for they seem to multiply and we can keep on enumerating them. Let us not at this time miss a loved one from their midst, a link in the family chain has been broken there is a vacant place and a sad feeling of loneliness in our heart, but let us remember it is their gain and they are happy having gained eternal happiness and we must strive to grasp earthy happiness. And if we do when life is spent we shall then enter into eternal bliss or happiness with them.

What is happiness? It seems to be something fleeting that we grasp for it remains a short time, then eludes us and is gone and we continue to aspire to be happy but circumstances and conditions surround us for the time pushes happiness in the background and we are despondent, sorrowful and anxious. So we question at times what is real happiness. It seems to me that it must come from within and something more than just joyous hilarity because for the present things have gone to our liking and we are glad and joyous over it then after disappointment comes we are miserable which proves real true happiness is more than that fleeting joyousness that comes and goes. Happiness and contentment are twin sisters willing to acquiesce and submit to what is with a willingness that feels that all is well and we are filled with a peaceful and quiet satisfaction which is akin to happiness. And when this feeling remains with us we have acquired earthly happiness which will enable us to rise above the ills of like and when we answer to the heavenly summons we have truly gained eternal happiness that never eludes but remains through all eternity.

I hope you all had a pleasant and a happy Thanksgiving. Best wishes.

DIANA.

CHILDREN AND CHRISTMAS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: I have had so many helpful suggestions from the Social Corner page that I feel I want to give my method of getting full measure of the Christmas spirit into the whole family. I believe it never is too early to begin training children in doing for others, and until they know the joy of giving they will never have the spirit of Christmas. Very little money is necessary to train children to give freely, for it is themselves they must give; and money means too little to a child for it to mean giving himself.

The smaller children can string popcorn, paint nuts silver or gold and tie with a tiny ribbon for hanging on the tree; older ones can help mother make animal cookies and cover with the red icing and sprinkle with artificial snow. A box filled with a string of popcorn, a few nuts (painted) and a half dozen of the cookies makes a welcome and inexpensive gift to any one who has a Christmas tree.

Dressing dolls for girls whom Santa seems to neglect is one of the chief delights at our house near Christmas time. I watch for sales and always have dolls on hand. Sometimes I make a full wardrobe. Last year my older boy was taking manual training and made a cradle to fit one doll. His younger brother varnished it, and the girls made pillow, pad, sheets, blanket and spread. We all dress the dolls and daddy inquires about the progress enough to show his interest and several times has discovered the very children needing the gifts we have made.

I would like a Corner pin if one is left. Thank you.

SOME GOOD RECIPES

Dear Cornerites: Here is the recipe for those who have asked me for the cake which has had good praise. Mohawk River gives good report and praise for it.

Yum Yum Cake (Light part): 1-2 cup granulated sugar, 1-2 cup butter, or substitute, 1 whole egg, 1 white, 1-2 cup sweet milk, pinch salt, 1 large cup pastry flour (can use either), small teaspoon soda, flavor with vanilla. Mix in order given. (Dark Part) 1-2 cup granulated sugar, 1 1-2 tablespoons cocoa, 1-3 cup milk, put on stove and boil until it is dissolved. Remove from stove, add the yolk of egg, left from the white used in light part of cake. While hot turn in to white part of batter and mix well. If this batter is thin it's all right. Beat well and bake in moderate hot oven about 20 minutes in layer or shallow cake pan.

Jelly Plum Pudding (needs no cooking) 1 package lemon jello, dissolve in pint boiling water, while hot add 3-4 cup grape fruit, now 3-4 cup seeded raisins, 3-4 cup stoned prunes, 1-4 cup citron, cut all but grape nut in food chopper, then add 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-4 teaspoon clove, salt to taste. Mix all well and let it harden.

Serve with whipped cream. This is a nice holiday pudding with little trouble to prepare and has been used with good result for quick get-together with only grape fruit and raisins. If you try these please report and I may have lots more to give you.

Now that cranberries are in market and a few quinces left over try this and you will be glad:

Two quarts cranberries, 1-2 peck quinces, put through food chopper skins and all. Cut open cranberries put all together and boil after covering with water. Don't burn. When well cooked, strain through jelly cloth over night. Don't squeeze or jelly will be cloudy. To each bowl of juice add 1 bowl of sugar granulated. Boil juice good and hard 10 minutes before adding the sugar then boil to jell.

Now in closing will remind you that Club No. 2 meets Dec. 2nd in Odd Fellows hall. To those who forgot their dishes plate, cup and silver please remember to bring them this time. Also everybody might try packing them the night before and have them ready as its hurry up with the phone to answer, the work to leave house in order and leave something prepared for lunch for those we leave at home. So get your Social Corner dishes ready the night before so as not to forget them.

SUGGESTIONS FOR CHRISTMAS

Dear Social Corner: Have been much interested in the Christmas suggestions that have been given and thought perhaps some of mine might help someone else.

I am painting medium-sized glass mixing bowls (the ten-cent store variety) with enamels and decorating them with bright colored designs. In these I plant bulbs and some green vine such as "Wandering Jew" and by Christmas time these bowls are lovely for gifts for the invalid, or the homelover.

Another little gift that carries the holiday spirit is a jar of orange marmalade in a decorated jar, the marmalade recipe which I have is very good and quite simple. It consists of—one lemon, four oranges, four pounds sugar, 11 cups water.

Slice the lemon and oranges very thin, add the water and let this stand over night. Next day boil the mixture gently for an hour and a half. Let it stand over night again and next day bring to a boil, add the sugar and boil one and half hours, or until of the consistency of marmalade. While cool pour in jars and seal with paraffin. This makes about 11 glasses of marmalade and is very good.

Of course the monogramed guest towel is always very acceptable and may be in sets of two or three, or a half dozen, all similar, with an equal number of bath towels, either crocheted or embroidered and these are welcomed by any homemaker, and are not too expensive, especially if the guest towels are bought pre-hemmed and hemstitched by hand. These can be bought in natural linen with colored borders.

A very useful gift for a man is the collar bag. This is made of a piece of cardboard cut in the circle about seven or seven and a half inches in diameter and one side covered with the material from which the bag will be made—then a piece of cardboard about 4 inches wide and long enough to go around the covered circle is cut and whipped on the edge of the circle, the two ends of the strip being securely caught together. A piece of material about nine or ten inches wide and as long as the cardboard strip is cut and a hem turned and stitched, on one edge, leaving a narrow heading. Next a seam is made and the raw edge is turned in and the strip is whipped on the circle. The material should fit the foundation very snugly. These are lovely made of tan material, the heading faced with red and a monogram embroidered in red.

Another gift which will be appreciated by the man who writes a great many letters or a man who travels about is a stationery folder. An old cardboard story book cover is excellent for this or two pieces of cardboard may be cut the same size and hinged with adhesive tape or linen glued with black or deep purple moire silk and a pocket made of another piece of cardboard covered with the same material. Two narrow strips may be fastened on the inside of the folder for the pen or pencil. Completed with stationery this makes a very acceptable gift.

And don't overlook the silk dressing-gown for husband or father, or brothers. These can be made so much cheaper than bought if the giver is handy with the needle and sewing machine.

There is always the linen handkerchief with colored border. These may be monogrammed in color to match the border—and most men appreciate such a gift.

I hope some of these suggestions may help others solve their gift problems.

WHEN ENTERTAINING.

Dear Editor of the Social Corner: I am one of the many who enjoy the Corner. If we could only put into practice all the ideas we find there, how perfect our homes and lives would be.

Home isn't home unless we can share it with our friends. How to be a gracious, animated hostess after a day spent in cooking, cleaning and caring for children is largely a matter of judgment and management.

Guests cannot be happy or comfortable when their hostess spends so much time preparing the dinner and serving it that she has almost no time to be with them. A tired and wornout hostess is not a good "sauce" to the appetite."

True hospitality must also mean simplicity. We would find ourselves entertaining far more frequently and live in anticipation rather than dread of the occasion, if we would make up our minds to invite our friends to partake of a very simple meal without attempting to live up to the conventional guest dinner.

Choose foods that are easy to prepare and easy to serve, so that when the guests arrive you will feel bright and animated and able to enjoy your own dinner party. A simple meal will be delicious if perfectly cooked and your guests will not care if the dinner were only half as good because you have been so full of life and so enjoyable.

SIMPLICITY.

PLANNING CHRISTMAS PARTY OF CLUB NO. 1

Dear Social Corner Friends: Wonder who'd say "Why here is Biddy." Well, here I am; and my folks come to the chamber of commerce room, Willimantic, Dec. 9, Aunty No. 1 and I are to to head the procession to a big time on that day; Aunty No. 1 is my sister you all know and at our last meeting Practical Polly asked me to be hostess at our next meeting. I said no! She then turned to Aunty No. 1 who sat at my left, and asked her if she would take charge of the next meeting. You know Aunty No. 1 has always been and always will be a member of Club No. 1 for it was at her house that we formed the first Social Corner Club No. 1. Aunty No. 1 said in reply to Practical Polly, Oh, no. I can't take charge living so far away." Biddy spoke up, "come on, lets you and I be hostess, we'll work together." And say, she couldn't refuse, so we picked out our helpers, splendid ones, too, got into a corner and planned for Dec. 9. The main thing is food, so be sure and bring something good to eat. A soup plate, a knife, fork, spoon and cup. Be sure and bring a s-o-u-p plate. Then friends, we are to have a Christmas box; not a tree but a box this time, and instead of brinking a present for ourselves, let's get a ten cent present, put it in the box for some poor child. Miss Anderson of the Childs Welfare bureau will then take the box and at Christmas time she can distribute them to the poor and needy. And just think folks, how many poor little hearts will be gladdened by this gift from our Social Corner Club No. 1!

We expect to have some good music at that meeting, both vocal and instrumental. Music takes as we all know, it being Christmas time we hope the sisters will help out in short pieces to read or recite.

Lonesome Pine: What success have you had? I only hope it is yes.

Bachelor Maid: Hope you can come to our next meeting.

Don't forget a ten cent present suitable for a child to be dropped into the Christmas box. Do it up nicely in paper and tie it up good and also bring a s-o-u-p plate.

Cut-cut-cut-ca-da-cut.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS

Dear Corner Members: A number have wished to make Christmas presents. Every woman or girl who takes time to think of her personal appearance and how to keep herself looking fresh, sweet and attractive, must follow the Christmas example when December makes its bow, and see if she can't use some of her beauty knowledge she has been acquiring for the pleasure and benefit of friends and relatives.

Perhaps you may not see quite how this can be done, but there is where I prove myself a most convenient personage. For I have a full fledged plan to submit to you. The toilet table of the well groomed woman, the attractive woman, must perforce be furnished with a number of simple aids to the toilet, lotions that will remove stains from her fingers, cold cream to protect her skin from chapping, sweet smelling astringents to keep the unruly pores in order.

But when all is said and done potatoes which have to be peeled, and typewriter ribbons which stain the fingers and blustering winds which embrace her when duty or pleasure calls her abroad, will still have her problems to consider.

So let us put a super value upon those little bottles and jars. Let us get to work to prepare these, all we need is a porcelain kettle, scales, a wooden spoon, a grater, a bowl, a sharp knife and a pestle or potato masher. With these before us we are ready to begin.

I propose first we make 1-2 dozen beauty bars, each for Polly, Meg and Rue. Here is where our cheese cloth comes in. Cut some strips 4x5 inches, double each to make a piece 4x2 1-2 inches and baste 2 sides. Fill through the open sides with prepared oats and then button hole all four sides with pink or blue embroidery cotton. Simple isn't it? One half a dozen in a box will make Meg happy, as she will use one in place of a wash cloth and soap, dipping it in the water, hastily, withdrawing it and washing her face. A milky substance will ooze forth—and her skin will be soft and smooth, as a result. One bar can be used three times if dried immediately. Now let us supplement our beauty Egyptian bath bags. These are a real luxury and should go to the girl friend who is particular dainty in person. For a dozen bags 4x6 inches in size the amount called for in the following formula will be just right.

Egyptian Bath Bags: Pulverize orris root, 1-2 pound, castile soap, 4 ounces. Here is where your grater becomes a necessity for the soap must be carefully grated. Almond meal 1-4 pound, refined bran, 1 1-2 pounds. Mix thoroughly and divide in 12 equal portions filling each bag loosely. This is used instead of a sponge and imparts a delicious fragrance as well as milky softness to the skin.

For the charming hostess who has entertained you so often and delightfully fill one of your pretty boxes with some perfumed pastilles. Before getting these ingredients price them, so you will know their cost. Prices vary in different parts of the country.

Parisian Pastilles: Powdered charcoal, 2 1-2 ounces, powdered benzoin, 1 ounce, powdered santalwood, 1 ounce, powdered cascarilla, 1-2 ounce, powdered cinnamon, 1-2 ounce, powdered cloves, 1-2 ounce, powdered nitre 1-2 ounce, powdered olibanum 1 1-2 ounce. (Do not get sandalwood in place of santalwood.)

Mix the powders and beat into them a small amount of gum tragacanth which has been dissolved in a little water. They need to be very thick indeed, this will bind the ingredients in a paste and you can mold into sticks about 2 inches long, one of these sticks in a tiny vase and burned perfumes a room delightfully.

Grandmothers Smelling Salts: Get from your druggist 4 ounces of carbonate of ammonia, cut in squares, put a few squares in the bottom of the bottle and pour over them the following aromatic liquid: Oil of Bergamont 1-6 ounces, oil of lavender 1-4 ounce, oil of cassia 1-4 fluid ounce, oil of cloves, 1-2 fluid ounce.

Of course the ever useful cold cream could not be forgotten. Anyone would receive a jar with delight. This formula is a good one: Orange flower cream, spermaceti 1-2 ounce, white wax 1-2 oz., sweet almond oil 2 ounce, lanoline 1 ounce, cocoanut oil 1 ounce, tincture of benzoin 2 drops, orange water 1 ounce.

Melt the first five ingredients in a porcelain kettle. Take from the fire, add first the benzoin then the orange flower water, fluffing with an egg beater until cold. Fill into ointment jars, tie with ray ribbon.

Violet Sachet: Powdered orris root 1-2 pound, musk, 10 grains, powdered Bergamont beel, 1-2 ounce, powdered acacia 1-2 ounce. The above will make a wonderful corsage sachet.

CHRISTMAS SUGGESTIONS

Dear Corner Members: It is time to think about Christmas and I have some suggestions to offer:

I will start with a tie rack. Take one embroidery hoop. These can be purchased in the 10c stores and need not be perfect since they are used singly. Wrap nearly with one-inch ribbon, fastening the ends underneath with needle and thread. Take another ribbon of the same width (same color or contrasting), and make a handle by attaching to sides of hoop with a small tailored sort of bow. These can be made more elaborate by finishing with small ribbon flowers or waxed flowers. Either round or oval hoops may be used, and the ribbon can be obtained to match with the room in which it will be used or the favorite color of the recipient.

I think a gift appreciated by any man is a hand-made handkerchief, quite similar to those for ladies. They can be made from white, tan, cocoa or gray, and even brown or blue crepe de chine, or natural color pongee as well as linen. Take a square of the material that measures 17 inches. Three inches in from each side pull a thread, then on the next thread in, pull out far enough to fasten onto the thread a single strand of silk floss (6 strand pure silk) and pull through along where the other thread came out. Then put the hem in by hand. Initials worked in embroidery make the handkerchief more individual. A very pretty finish is to draw several threads through using the various shades as three or four shades of blue or brown along with possibly a golden yellow. Shades of rose and red can also be used, if cared for. However, brown, blue, purple and green are more masculine.

An inexpensive gift can be made from a cigar can procured from a nearby store for the mere asking. Cover the can with a pretty pattern of cretonne or wall paper, also the lid, being careful to put the covering up far enough to entirely cover the can when the lid is on, and still far enough down so that the lid will fit on as it would otherwise. These could be covered in plain colors and the initials of the man painted on, or if the maker is still handier with a brush, a silhouette would be very pretty worked in paints.

An inexpensive tin or brass ash tray could be enameled or waxed all over in a plain color, decorated with painted or wax flowers. An ash tray that is unusual is made with a plain glass sauce dish. Paste various kinds of cigar bands all over the under side of the glass, and cover the outside with a piece of dark green felt or velvet. The edge can be very neatly finished or bound with a small piece of gilt passepartout braid.

An ordinary cigar box lined with silk or silver paper and neatly covered by pasting brocaded or dark figured ribbon, silk or velvet, makes a box that can be used either for a cigar box or for numerous other things.

A pretty collar box can be made from ribbon. Cover a 5 or 6 inch square of heavy cardboard with ribbon, padding with a little cotton the side which will be used for the inside of the bag. Around the four sides of this gather in by hand a piece of the same ribbon, and make the top of the bag or box by gathering this same band of ribbon into four other pieces of cardboard, three of these to be one half the size of the bottom piece and the other the same size with a point extending out to make it appear like a flap. When the bag is finished the top folds over just like the top of any pasteboard box. This is not only very pretty as a gift, but very convenient as well.

For the man who writes to any extent a writing case made over a cardboard frame and covered with dark silk, velvet, sateen or even oil cloth would be useful. The case should be about 12x8 inches and should have pockets for paper, envelopes, a loop for the pencil or pen. There might also be included a small calendar, book for stamps which could be made out of the same material as case, if desired. A memo book would also be a welcome addition.

Another acceptable gift for the man who enjoys writing or possesses a writing desk would be a desk set, which would be made on a large piece of rather flexible cardboard. The corners might be covered with wall paper, velvet, brocade, imitation leather or a heavy paper decorated with hand painting or waxing and attached to the blotter cardboard with adhesive tape. The back of the whole pad should be covered with a piece of plain paper or dark plain cloth. The desk accessories are also easily made and would include a covered box made just the size of an ink well or bottle of ink preferably, a small cardboard tray for pen and pencil, a fancy pad of blotters, and a calender pad. Other such things as a stamp box, tray for pins and clips and scratch pad would also be useful.

Hope these will afford helpful suggestions for some of the Corner readers, and as this is now so lengthy, I will not go into detail about many of pretty things for women and young girls that I am storing up for the Christmas season. Most sincerely.

SUMMERLIKE IN MAINE

Dear Social Corner Friends: I begin to feel I was a slacker as the page was not full of late. It is raining and warm which means of course no snow this time. Sunday was lovely, 60 degrees above all day and just like summer.

Well our new road surely takes the cake and is well patronized.

Kochie: Your letter was fine, Do write again soon. Pleased to get my letter, also square. You sure are some hand at embroidering. Trust the sick ones are better. Everybody looking for a deer but with no snow they are hard to get.

I will be glad when the first of December comes for then the law is on again.

Trust everybody will enjoy Thanksgiving even though it is late.

Fan Tan: Do I owe you a letter? I have forgotten.

Rosy Posy: B. tells me you are at work yet. Shall expect to hear from you when you get time.

Diana: I will write you a letter some time.

Cretia: I do not forget you, and will write you some time. I am busy making quilts and aprons for sale.

Best regards to all. Best wishes to everybody from

ANTICIPATING DEC 2.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Club No. 5 meets December 2 at the Buckingham Memorial as usual. Hope to see you all. We surely have wonderfully good time.

Wurdy Belle: Thanks for kind words.

I also thank all who have been so kind to me. Hope the sisters had a very happy Thanksgiving. We have a little taste of winter for a change and in some ways it seems good for the rainy time we have been having is rather disagreeable and the change is better. We have a lovely day for Thanksgiving and all those who have planned to go to different places surely enjoyed so beautiful a day.

Best wishes for all and thanks to the editor for my pin.

CLUB 5 MEETS DEC. 2

Dear Social Corner Editor and Cornerites: I want you to remember that Club No. 5 meets in Buckingham Memorial Wednesday, December 2. Come one and all and if you have any funny poetry, pieces or jokes bring them along. It is a time for any Cornerite and bring music and voice. Also all who can skip the light fantastic. We aim to have a good time. Also something to eat. We want a jolly good time and a jolly good crowd.

Yours for the good times of the Corner.

HOW TO MAKE OVER DRESS SKIRT

Dear Cornerites: Some one inquired for a way to make over a dress skirt of black silk. A stunning way would be to use white fur quite narrow and black chiffon sleeve or use cerise velvet and make flat roses with leaves on front of skirt and on one shoulder. Sleeves can be attached or not.

If your silk skirt is long enough you can cut full length plain back, a long plain waist with round neck and a full ruffle shirred about three times on cord. Put strings of taffeta from side seams to tie in back. Trim around neck and edge of ruffle with baby ribbon velvet three rows lower white, middle red and top silver, or use narrow satin ribbon and pull up with string in the ribbon and for loops of of roses. Lap over edges slightly. You can cut kimona sleeve and edge the sleeves with ribbon. If you prefer long sleeves use red or black georgette bound into a tight band in the front with silver bows.

CHRISTIANETTES

Dear Social Corner Sisters and Editor: In one of my excursions into the highways and byways of life; I became interested in the modern eighty-ten Christianette.

I think my friends of the Corner may be interested in hearing how my attention was brought to this matter.

Having been somewhat under the weather for some weeks and being wakeful, and like our friend Mr. Edison, who I understand finds four hours sleep sufficient, rather too active to remain prone on the bed, I was engaged in preparing something for the consolation of the inner woman. As it happened to be something I particularly liked and which I had not had the opportunity to enjoy for a long time, I was revelling in the pleasant fragrance arising from the calicoes.

I dignify the room where I indulge such little snacks as are indulged in by one who adds to the food supplied in the ordinary way by a little cooking on the side, by calling it a "kitchenette." So feeling truly thankful for my privilege, I exclaimed or meant to exclaim to the listening silence, "Thank the Lord for a Kitchenette."

Some tongue twisting spirit must have had possession of me, for the words I heard were, "Thank the Lord for a Christianette."

So far as I know this is a new word, and it seems to me very expressive.

Too many of us who think we are, and really want to be all-round Christians are really, compared to such a one only as a kitchenette is to a large and sunny and fully equipped kitchen which turns out life sustaining food in wholesome and heartsome quantity sufficient for any good sized family.

Is I not true that the principal trouble with the world today is in that most of the Christians are, perhaps without being aware of the fact, mere Christianettes? This word would by no means apply to those who hide wickedness under the cloak of religion; but only to those who, professing Christianity do not turn out in sufficient quantity good deeds and kind and loving thoughts and words, and reflect, but, dimly the wholesome sunlight which should shine brightly in the faces of those who bask in the glorious sunshine of God's love.

Let us, one and all, look within and see if we are Christians in deed and truth, and not merely Christianettes, thinking and occasionally doing good little deeds, looking forward to a distant future when we may widen and deepen our lives and become real Christians.

But then, we can thank God for the Christianettes too, for surely a small thing, with possibilities of growth, which is intrinsically good, what there is of it, is better than a poor or bad thing whose growth will be in the nature of deterioration into something worse.

It is a long time since I wrote to the Corner. I hope before long to write again. I have messages for several of the sisters, which I shall include in that letter. I must tell you that the dear friend, in whose home I used to see weekly the Corner page, has moved from my neighborhood and therefore, since last spring, I have seen the letters only occasionally. So if any sister has included in her letter a word for me, she will understand how it is that it has not reached me.

Hepatica: I must put in a word to you to say that I hope you are well and that I mean when I can to write you a letter. It may be sometime, however, before I can do this.

True to my name, I have been busy all the months since my last letter (unto a few weeks ago when illness had me shelved) in going on hikes here and there in woodland places, combining work with pleasure in a manner most agreeable to one, fond of the green growing things of field and wood, smooth meadow and rocky, wind-swept hill tops.

As I write, the house mothers all over the land are planning their Thanksgiving feasts. Others are considering how they shall spend our national holiday.

When this epistle is printed in the issue of November 28th (if it gets into the editor's hands in time,) the day with its pleasures will be among our memories.

May the thankfulness which the day is designed to emphasize live on in our hearts though the meeting of friends and the feast itself are but memories.

FINE TIME AT CLUB NO. 2'S MEETING.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: As I have sent in only one letter thought I would write and tell you what a fine time I had at the last meeting of Club No. 2. We did have a jolly time and a fine dinner.

I wish to thank Catnip, True Blue and Joan for my birthday cards.

I do not want to take up the space of the nice letter writers, but I would like one of the Corner pins if the editor has a spare one.

Will see you all at our next meeting December 2.

PLEASED WITH RECIPES

Dear Corner Members: Don't you all agree with Twice Twenty that more members should write?

I want to thank those who so kindly sent in the green tomato mincemeat recipes for me. I used two and had fine luck. Though which two I can't remember for the life of me, not having mind enough to set down the members name with recipes when I copied them into my book.

Aunt Sarah: From Day to Day for One That Died is a whole lot of truth as well as poetry and I wonder much if we think of those things enough.

Jennie: Your window treatment on the curtain line is very good. N never heard of it before.

Just Pete: Alwilda gave me the dearest little plant today. I wish you could see it for I know you'd like it. Tommy comes in nearly every morning for something to eat and his eyes are healing up nicely.

Alwilda: Thank you many times for the nice letter. I got it this morning.

Esmeralda: Wake up my dear, maybe more than I would like to see one of your letters, too.

Club No. 2 Meets Dec. 2.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: I hope you have all had a pleasant Thanksgiving, and that you are well. Haven't we had some nice weather! Hope we may have a nice day Dec. 2nd when Club No. 2 meets in Odd Fellows' hall. I hope all will remember to bring their dishes as there are not any there to supply them. Also bring something for the dinner.

Silver Locks: I was glad to see a letter from you in Corner page. Have wondered where you were. Hope are you better? Will see you Dec. 2nd. Crimson Rambler: I would like to see your braided rugs. Hope to sometime. With best wishes for all Cornerites.

MY SURPRISE

Dear Social Corner Sisters: It has been sometime since I have written, so I don't wonder the sisters are knocking. Say, Kochie, who ever heard of you? No, I am not husking corn. Burnside has better things to offer, and very little time for fireside stories.

Aries: I wonder if you could tell me how to get to Squaw rock. Thought I would like to look it up some time. I lived near Mdnsup for ten years but never heard of the place.

Cretia: One visit to Newgate prison was enough for me too.

Lottie K: How are you? The apples were very nice.

Foxglove: You are not the only one painting. Talk about a mess. I have been painting my house on the outside. But it looks so nice we forget the hard work.

Marian: Have been very busy. Glad you had a chance to go. I wanted to go but had to work.

Crimson Rambler: How are you? Elly Jay: Some ride you had in the subway.

I will tell the sisters of a little surprise I had. The other day I went down cellar and my nose told me something was wrong and my eyes soon told me what it was. To make

FOUR MEN OF RUMRUNNER HELD IN $1,000 BAIL EACH, AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 27—The motor boat Helen was sunk off Cape May, early yesterday morning while being conveyed by the British [illegible] Ocean Maid. It was laden with a quarter of a million dollars' worth of liquor. Following the capture of both craft, after a chase in the 12-mile limit, of Block Island, several days ago, to Norfolk, Va., by the destroyer Mojave, the crew was brought into port this morning by the destroyer. This afternoon they were presented before United States Commissioner Frannil H. Corcoran, charged with violation of the prohibition law. Bail was fixed at $1,000, for each of the crew of four. They were held for hearing Dec. 2. The master of the Helen was not among the prisoners, as he escaped, following the boats being taken into Providence after their capture.

The fire department was called out at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon for a blaze that threatened to occasion serious damage at the cleaning and dyeing establishment of A. E. Morse, Williams street. A gas stove that was defective caused a good-sized flame and fearing that the fixtures and material awaiting cleaning would ignite, an alarm was rung in from Box 16, corner of Williams and Main streets. By the time the department arrived the danger had been eliminated by shutting off the flow of gas. No damage was occasioned.

Andrew McGrath, son of Mrs. Mary McGrath, 278 Crystal avenue and Miss Elizabeth McCarthy, 47 Franklin street, were married yesterday morning at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, the nuptial mass being celebrated by Rev. Raymond O'Callahan. James Sisco was best man and Miss Elizabeth McDonald attended the bride. Mr. McGrath is a marine engineer and is employed by the McDonald Towing company, New York.

Roman Potski sold a lot of land in Eastern avenue to Victor Goske, some time ago. Since then the parties have been in dispute as to where the boundary lines are. Thursday, arguments got to the point of a breach of peace and today both men were in the police court, Goske claims that Potski is a trespasser on a portion of the land he thought Potski sold, crossing a strip fifteen inches wide to get to a garage Potski maintains on the rear of the lot. Goske built a fence along what he declares is his line separating his property from that of Potski, but the latter drove an automobile against it and carried it away. Each consulted counsel and obtained conflicting opinions. Thursday Potski called the police to his assistance in obtaining his rights and when officers Graham and Labous got to Eastern avenue the disputants accused each other, with the result that both were taken into custody for a disturbance of the peace of the community in the region where they reside. They accused each other of calling the vilest of names, thus collecting a curious throng who awaited to see what the result was to be. The court decided that the parties manifestly committed a breach of the public peace and fined both. They appealed and will go to the court of common pleas with their troubles. The superior court will be called on to settle the matter of boundaries of the land. The contending parties are thus contracting bills that will amount to hundreds of dollars.

State Treasurer Ernest E. Rogers entertained fourteen relatives at his home at a Thanksgiving day feast.

John W. Stevens, engineer at the Crocker house, will not be apt to wield a knife again when he gets into an argument, for when he slashed Andrew Patterson at the Brown barber shop on Atlantic street, he was contracting a cut that will make him grunt to pay. Stevens said something about the shooting affray that had taken place at Floyd Mitchell's place next door to the Brown barber shop and Patterson inferred from what was said that he was being accused of playing crooked to the case. Stevens notified Patterson last there would be no "pity party" staged at the Mitchell place hereafter. Patterson assumed that he was being insulted. He asked Stevens about his words an argument followed and Stevens drew a knife which he slashed through the overcoat of Patterson, ripping a hole that went from shoulder to the elbow and which opened up a cut in Patterson's arm that necessitated the taking of three stitches. The arrest came and the sequel was told in the police court this morning. Patterson had made advances to settle with Stevens but the latter would pay the cost of the overcoat and settle with the doctor who sewed up the wound. It all followed to the prosecutor that Patterson was more concerned about compensation from Stevens than he was to have a man who feloniously assaulted him punished for his offense. When the matter was explained to the court Stevens was fined $100. That he believed was an easy way out of serious trouble for him and he paid up.

Leroy Morgan was taken into custody some days ago when he was the companion of a certain local woman, near the railway station and are said not to have gone there to listen to what the wild waves were saying. At the police station, after a conference with the desk sergeant, Morgan was cleared and was then advised to dissolve his companionship with care. Past experience settled Morgan so that when he came from the Canton restaurant last night and beheld Policeman John Clifford who had taken him into custody on the previous occasion he sought to berate Clifford. The patrolman isn't given to disputation so he would not listen to Mr. Morgan and walked away. Morgan pursued and insisted that there was no justification for his apprehension while he was in the company of the girl. One statement brought on another with the result that Morgan was arrested again and was charged with a breach of the peace. Today in the police court he was fined $10, but the collection of the fine was not insisted upon. Morgan volunteered the information that his father was a deacon in a church, but he added, "That can be taken for what it is worth." He was told by the court that when he is taken into custody he must abide by the decision of the authorities.

Ignacio Catalucci declared in the police court today that because he is crooked legged he is taken for an intoxicated man at times. Last night was one of those times, for he was on railroad property at the station and insisted upon walking along the tracks and Sergeant McGrath of the company's police force directed Ignacio to go by way of the street and when he would not accept the advice he was arrested. Ignacio said he was without means, that he was going to Fort Neck to obtain employment and that he had no intention of trespassing so judgment was suspended and he was permitted to seek employment today.

An automobile which was parked on property of Abraham Katz, Harrion street late last night and which remained there throughout today, has been identified as being owned by Mrs. Mabel Lanphere of Mystic. Deputy Sheriff James Brown of that place was requested to notify Mrs. Lanphere to cause the car to be removed from the Katz property, but the officer was not successful in locating the owner, so the car was transferred to a garage.

Thomas Farace of Gallows Lane, Waterford, where he resided many years, died Wednesday night at the residence of his brother, Frank Farace of Buffalo, N. Y. Besides his brother, Mrs. Farace is survived by a son, Manuel Farace of Waterford, and a step-daughter, Mrs. Peter Trafaconda, of this city, and by three grandsons, residing in Waterford. Mr. Farace went to Buffalo two weeks ago to visit his brother and about a week ago he contracted a severe cold which developed pneumonia.

Victor H. Crandall, 46, formerly of Groton, died Wednesday night at the residence of his sister, Mrs. James H. Bliven, 16 Lincoln avenue. Mr. Crandall was a cabinet maker.

Ambrose Cassera today sold a building lot on Avery court to Sadie W. Machol, stenographer of the superior court for New London county.

Frank W. Decker, 253 Huntington avenue, is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial associated hospital, having suffered a fractured leg Wednesday afternoon at Ocean Beach. The patient will be under treatment at the institution about three months.

Decker was engaged with other workmen on the construction of a cellar, when he lost his balance and fell into the excavation. He landed in such a manner as to cause the fracture at a point between the ankle and the knee.

Albert J. Carman, seaman, first class, attached to the United States Coast Guard, this port, is a deserter, having deserted the 20th inst. The military authorities are seeking Carman and the local police have been requested to aid in the task of apprehending the deserter. Carman's home is at 1068 South Somerville street, Memphis, Tenn.

Mrs. William Manice, of Williams street, who underwent a serious operation several days ago at Lawrence hospital was stated at the institution this afternoon to be more comfortable than at any time since the operation. It is now believed that Mrs. Manice's recovery will be rapid.

Patrolman Edward Daniels was compelled to leave his patrol this evening and go to his home on Howard street, because of illness. Patrolman Daniels has been under the care of a physician several days and when attacked by a dizzy spell tonight he was granted permission to go to his home.

Traffic Officer William Corcoran was taken ill at his post, corner of Sinond Bank streets, this afternoon, and went to his home, Jefferson avenue.

Councillor Edward L. Streeter has returned to his home, Squire street, after having spent several days in Philadelphia, on business.

Ernest Paradise (Tannertown); Mrs. Arthur Hopkins, and infant daughter, Niantic; Frank Worsten, Lyme; Mrs. George Emerson and infant son, East Lyme; Harold Wallin, United States Coast guard, Station 4, State pier; Roland Murphy, 30 Starr street; Miss Marian Silva, 139 Green street, and Mrs. Julia Perkins, Ocean avenue, patients at Lawrence hospital, were dismissed Thanksgiving day and today.

It was revealed today at Lawrence hospital that Miss Anna Reisch, Chappell street, one of the party of young people injured Thanksgiving eve., when the automobile in which she and seven companions were riding, overturned on the slippery highway near Flat Rock, Hartford turnpike, is seriously injured. She has suffered a fractured pelvic bone and will be under treatment at the institution indefinitely. The injured, other than Miss Marian Silva, 139 Green street, and Roland Murphy, 30 Starr street, who were dismissed this afternoon will be able to return to their respective homes within a few days.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN SUFFERS FRACTURED SKULL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 27—An unidentified man, about 45, apparently a laborer, is a patient in Lawrence hospital tonight, probably fatally injured, as the result of a fractured skull sustained early this evening when he was struck by an automobile owned and operated by Irving M. Snitkin, 14 Cutler street. The man has remained in an unconscious condition ever since he was admitted and so extensive is the fracture that it is not believed that he will survive the night. Every effort has been made to establish his identity, but there was nothing among the effects found in his clothing that would tend to reveal his name or address and witnesses of the accident did not know the man.

The accident occurred when Snitkin was driving his machine in a southerly direction. Approaching Tilley street, the man, who had been walking in the same direction, stepped from the curb directly in front of the automobile. Snitkin applied his brakes, but he was unable to materially reduce the speed of the auto before the man was struck and dragged a considerable distance. Pedestrians and autoists went to the assistance of the injured man, who was unconscious on the pavement and already bleeding from hemmorhages from the ears and nostrils. One of the first to reach him was John LaBlanc, chief master of arms at the Submarine Base, who placed the injured man in the service men's car and rushed him to the hospital. Late reports from the hospital were that the condition of the man was extremely critical and that he had been placed on the danger list.

Snitkin was held at the police station until after Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman interrogated him, after which he was allowed to go to his home.

Information that may lead to the identity of the man was offered tonight by Eugene Courtney, Bank street horseshoer. He informed the police that the man entered his place this afternoon and requested permission to leave some purchases, stating that he belonged in New Haven, and that he was employed at the golf grounds at Fishers Island. He was allowed permission to leave the parcels and later returned and carried them away. That was the last seen of him until he was picked up, after being hit by the Snitkin car.

POLICE FEARED ATTEMPT TO FORCE HANKIN FROM CITY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 27—Benjamin Hankin, who complained against Floyd Mitchell, colored, proprietor of an Atlantic street gambling resort, charging Mitchell with having fired two shots at him following an altercation in the Atlantic street place, and which resulted in Mitchell being apprehended charged with assault with intent to kill and murder, was taken into custody late this afternoon by Sergeant Nelson Smith as a material witness and was held for hearing in bail of $500. Louis Elfenbein qualified as surety on Hankin's bond and the latter will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning, when his case will be continued until next Tuesday, when Mitchell will be tried of the charge lodged against him.

The arrest of Hankin, it is understood, was brought about by an attempt on the part of Mitchell, or his associates, to cause Hankin to either change his story of the alleged assault, or to absent himself from the city until after the trial of Mitchell is concluded and thereby not be a witness against the accused. When this information reached the police Sergeant Smith sought and obtained a warrant for the arrest of Hankin.

Mitchell, it is understood, will claim that the shots fired after Hankin had left the building were more for the purpose of intimidating Hankin than to injure him. The police, on the other hand, aver that Hankin was trying to leave by the front entrance when the shots were fired and that it was Mitchell's poor aim alone that saved Hankin from receiving one, if not both bullets in the body.

BRUTALLY BEATEN BY SEVERAL SAILORS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 27—Edward Shea, a local young man, was brutally beaten this evening while dining in the Winthrop hotel restaurant and as a result of the fight, Thomas J. Harte, sailor attached to the U. S. S. 12, and Orlando Levy and Emil Witt, sailors stationed at the submarine base, were taken into custody by Patrolman Edward Riordan upon complaint of Shea. They will be prosecuted in the police court tomorrow morning.

Shea was sitting at the lunch counter when the sailors and several of their companions entered. From some unknown cause a row started in which Shea alleges, Harte attacked him. At the same instant Levy and Witt took a hand in the battle. The trio of sailors beat Shea until they were pulled off by other patrons of the place. Levy and Witt were arrested then, but Harte escaped, only to be located and taken into custody a half hour later.

BODY OF DAVID McGRATH ARRIVES FROM CHICAGO

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 27—The body of David McGrath, 34, son of Mary and the late Cornelius McGrath, 278 Crystal avenue, who was drowned off Chicago the 5th inst., and whose body was recovered earlier in the week, was brought to New London this morning and placed in the receiving vault in St. Mary's cemetery for burial later. Mr. McGrath had been employed for some time on steamers plying the Great Lakes and three weeks ago he was drowned.

Although a search for the body was made it was not recovered until Tuesday. Mr. McGrath is survived by several brothers and sisters, as well as by his mother.

Total operating revenues for October this year were $11,874,249, an increase of $506,086 over the same month last year. Operating expenses for October, this year, were $8,607,126, an increase of $328,860 over the same month last year, or less than half of the increase in operating revenues.

Operating revenues for the first ten months of this year were $109,764,188, an increase of $3,866,338 over the same month last year. Operating expenses for the first ten months of this year were $81,299,035, a decrease of $316,602, from the figures of the same period last year.

Freight revenue for October was $6,211,587 and for the first ten months of the year $56,356,944, both increases of $365,926 and $531,205, respectively, over last year's figures. Passenger revenue for October was $4,159,122 and for the first ten months of the year, $41,285,925. Passenger revenue for the month is an increase of $190,271 and for the first ten months' period, a decrease of $280,536, compared with last year's figures.

HANDY-TAIT WEDDING IN TERRA BELLA, CAL.

PACKERVILLE, Nov. 27.—Word was received here today from Terra Bella, California, of the marriage of William E. Handy, a successful fruit farmer of that place, to Mrs. Tait, widow of Rev. Samuel Tait of Springfield, Mass.

Mr. Handy spent his boyhood in this village, has two sisters residing near here, Mrs. Charles Hill of Plainfield, and Mrs. C. B. Montgomery of Oneco, also three brothers, Richard A. of Webster, Linneaus H. of Springfield and Elmer A. of Taftville.

Mrs. Handy is well known in Central New England, where she has devoted her entire life to Christian work. Mr. and Mrs. Handy will for the present reside at Terra Bella, California, but have interests in another section of the state as well.

A teachers' mutual assistance association is maintained in Cleveland, Ohio, and during the year ending June, 1925, 139 teachers of the city availed themselves of its benefits.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

It is interesting to watch the career of a man with the courage, ingenuity and foresight of Douglas Fairbanks. One wonders what prescience guides him, what for progress it has been ever since that memorable day when he forsook the glitter of Broadway to follow the advice of one Horace Greeley.

Douglas Fairbanks is in the business of making successful photoplays. We are told, and we can readily believe it, that he has never made an unsuccessful picture.

Since failure is so completely outside his ken, it might be well to speculate as to the reason why. One observer whom I know (a person who has been intimately associated with Douglas Fairbanks over a considerable period of time) says the reason Doug does not fail is because he realizes more that any one else that what the public wants is variety.

People get tired, he believes, of seeing the same thing over and over. They want change: variety is the spice of life. And they want to laugh. It is an right to make them cry. They like that, but don't forget that they also want to laugh. And the American public would rather laugh than cry, in which respect the American viewpoint differs greatly from the European outlook.

It might be a lesson to film producers to glance backward for a moment at the pictures Douglas Fairbanks has turned out in the last few years. At least this retrospection will be interesting and diverting.

Starting with "The Mark of Zorro," which is generally recognized as the turning point in Fairbanks' career, his appreciation of the value of variety is decidedly apparent in the productions that followed.

"The Nut," which followed, was a light, frothy, nonsensical bit, serving as an excellent foil for the slashing predecessor.

Next came "The Three Musketeers" one of the first and most successful of the American costume plays. Besides the lightning-like action of this film, there was a fine depth and subtlety to it. It was as different from "The Nut" as black is different from pink.

Following "Musketeers" came "Robin Hood," big and thunderous, with a volume of drama and a magnificence of investiture that has never been excelled.

Then came "The Thief of Bagdad" and whimsical phantasy almost as this and flimsy as a dream. It was pure fairy tale. Could anything have been more different?

Now we have Douglas Fairbanks in his latest feature for United Artists Corporation release coming to the Palace theatre next Sunday in "Don Q, Son of Zorro." This, it seems completes the Fairbanks cycle. It will be interesting to see what he does next.

Perhaps it will be something as light and flippant as "The Nut." One thing is certain, it will contain laughter just as all the others have. Even when drama is at its weightiest, you always know that in one of the Fairbanks' films, laughter is waiting just around the corner.

Broadway Theatre.

A theme of unusual interest is interwoven in the Tiffany production, "Borrowed Finery," which will be seen for the first time here Sunday at the Broadway theatre. Through her urge for a pretty dress to wear at a party many complications ensue that are of great import to the whimsome little heroine, as portrayed by Louise Lorraine.

There are many gorgeous scenes embodied throughout the production, with evidently no expense spared by the producers to give a lavish setting to the picture. There are many tense situations that keep one's interest relieved by delicious bits of humor. The direction of Oscar Apfel is all that can be desired in rounding out the drama.

The story tells of a cute little model employed in a wholesale dress house, who borrows an evening dress to attend a party. During the evening the dress is ruined, which leaves the girl in a rather uncomfortable predicament. How she evades the penalty of her rashness and the complications that follow give the picture its great entertainment value.

In the cast of players, in addition to Louise Lorraine, are Ward Crane, Lou Tellegen, Taylor Holmes, Hedda Hopper, Barbara Tennant, Gertrude Astor, Trixie Friganza, Otto Lederer, W. H. Strauss and Pat Henderkraal.

A new fast moving drama of the open spaces will come to the Broadway theatre Sunday, as the second feature, when Wally Wales (The Cowboy Prince) is shown in his latest feature, "The Hurricane Horseman."

The title implies a picture of fast riding and to the very last bit that is what it is.

An augmented orchestra will furnish the music and other subjects will be a comedy and new Kinograms. All seats one price, twenty-five cents.

Breed Theater

Colleen Moore was never more delightful than she is revealed in her latest First National attraction, The Desert Flower, coming to the Breed Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

The picture, an adaptation of the stage offering of the same name, recently presented in New York by Al Woods, teems with the action and color of Western life. It presents Miss Moore in the pathetically poignant guise of little Mazzie Fortune, stepdaughter of a brute of a step-father, section boss of a railroad construction camp on the desert, and whose inherent instincts for the better things of life seek to find expression through a baby sister, whom she sends away to enjoy the refinements of a real home and education, while she herself goes into a mining camp dance hall to provide the wherewithal of it all.

How in this rough environment she yet wins and retains the respect of all, and through her budding love for the errant scion of a fine eastern family redeems the recalcitrant rolling stone and extracts her own reward from a world that yields happiness all too reluctantly, is compellingly set forth by the gifted little star.

Lloyd Hughes and a cast apparently chosen with special care for their peculiar qualifications for the roles entrusted to them gives Miss Moore excellent support.

Big Feature Moving Picture at Y. M. C. A. Sunday.

When the public has the opportunity of seeing a moving picture production by D. W. Griffith they grasp the opportunity, for they well know the reputation of this popular producer. On the coming Sunday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock at the big gymnasium of the Norwich Y. M. C. A. the seven reel feature, "Isn't Life Wonderful," will be shown on the screen, and the large Powers machine will be used. This marvelous picture has been shown in many of the largest cities in America and has never failed to make a deep impression. Admission will be free to the public on this occasion, with the understanding, however, that boys and girls under fourteen must be accompanied by their parents or guardians. Hugh Kinder will furnish music for the picture. The doors will be open promptly at three o'clock, and the showing will begin at 3.30

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Highway to Life.

Many have wondered why so many inventions, labor-saving devices and other conveniences have been thrust upon us so rapidly during the past few decades. The penalty against the race was "Dying thou shalt die;" for mankind has been eking out an existence amidst laborious toil and hardships while man is a dying creature.

Man's hope of life lies in the resurrection of the dead. It is has been necessary to earn one's bread through efforts causing "sweet of face," may we not conclude that labor-saving machinery is the forerunner of a time when man will not be a dying creature? And, as a new government under Christ is promised, may not the casting up of roadways to facilitate the traveling of automobiles suggest the laying of the foundation of a better government in which will be cast up the highway to life upon which humanity shall be invited to walk?

The past six thousand years have been years of death and its concomitants. But the Bible speaks over and over again of a "way to life," a "highway of life," and of a "new and living way." This implies the reversal of the present order. If it were established beyond cavil by indisputable Bible evidence that the millions who have gone down into the graves during all the past of man's history were coming back to life during the thousand-year reign of Christ—some to heavenly glory but the masses of mankind to the promised paradisaic conditions when humanity will have the privilege of being restored to health and happiness and life—what a thrill should stir the hearts of the present generation!

Mr. L. B. Burtch of New York city, representing the International Bible Students Association, will lecture on The Highway to Life, Sunday, Nov. 29, at 3 p. m. in G. A. R. hall and will take up the subject of redemption as it relates to humanity getting life in its fulness, without sickness and the fear of death.

The meeting is free and no collection will be taken. All are invited.

Next Week at United Congregational Church.

The cabinet of the Woman's Guild will meet in Miss Fullen's study at 3 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon.

Mid-week worship, Thursday evening, at 7:45. Mr. Abbott will speak on the fourth phrase of The Lord's Prayer: "Thy Kingdom Come."

The monthly meeting of the Missions Department of the Guild will be held at the Community house, at 3 o'clock on Friday afternoon. There will be an hours' programme, full of live interest, followed by a social hour at which tea will be served.

The camp-fire meets at the Community house on Friday evening for a first aid programme, under the leadership of Miss Durr.

Perhaps some people ask you foolish questions because they think that they are the only kind you can answer.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Grotto Bringing Great Indoor Circus

The greatest indoor circus and freak city is soon to make its first appearance in Norwich and it is hoped that no man, woman or child will miss this great opportunity of seeing this big show. It is new and novel in every respect, educational and highly entertaining. To miss seeing it, will cause many weeks of regret.

Nemrod Grotto never does things by halves and we are sure if you visit the armory on December 8-9 or 10 you will surely feel that you are getting your money's worth. Never before have there been so many oddities and freaks of nature with one circus, not even Ringland Bros. circus, can boast of so many freaks as this Grotto circus has and with this circus is a man who eats fire, a sword swallower and it is a woman who does this act, a snake charmer, a man with one leg but has two feet, also Martha, the armless wonder, who sews and writes with her educated feet, in fact accomplishes things with her feet equal of many with two hands. Besides all these freaks, there are some vaudeville acts that are the best that can be had, and last but not least, see the fat girl do the Charleston. There will be booths around the hall where you will find a plenty of good things to eat such as ice cream, popcorn, pea-

Nemrod Grotto's committees and Nemrod Grotto's committees are working hard to make this affair a success and the way the tickets are selling it looks as if it would more than come up to their expectation.

Let us say right here that this freak city and circus is not an amateur affair, it is absolutely no fake. Fred H. Graves of Stone Company Inc., of Boston is manager of this Freak city and each vaudeville act has been on Keith's circuit and is a top notcher. Each freak is the work of nature. The vaudeville acts, and band concerts are included in the price of admission which is only a dime. There will be a similar charge to each of the various freaks and a small charge for dancing which will be indulged in from 8 to 11.

Like all circuses there will be a street parade on the opening night and some of the freaks will be in line. The clown band and Nemrod Grotto's drum corps will also be in line, the line of march will be published later.

Don't forget this Freak City will be at the Armory on McKinley Ave., December 8-9-10.

TODAY'S EVENTS

RECOVERY IN MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 27—(By the A. P.)—Constructive forces were again at work in today's stock market, which made further recovery from recent weakness on a substantially reduced volume of trading. Unlike some of the rallies which preceded today, today's advance did not bring out any appreciable amount of fresh liquidation. Closing quotations generally ruling around the day's highest and showing a long list of net gains ranging from one to seven points.

Uncertainty over the New York federal reserve rediscount rates continues, but it apparently has lost its dominating influence as a market factor. Tightening of the call money rate from 4 3-4 to 5 per cent., also passed unnoticed, most of the day's hicks being recorded after the rate had been raised.

"Replenishment orders for all classes of commodities and liberal purchases for early spring delivery continue to characterize trade reports from all sections of the country," says Dunn's Review.

"While wholesale fall trade, especially in dry goods and allied lines apparently reached its crest early this month, and November jobbing trade was not quite as large as in October at the country's largest distributive centers," says Bradstreet's. "Distribution at retail has held up relatively better and now feels the impetu of early holiday buying."

Motor shares continued to make impressive recovery from Tuesday's low levels. Chrysler closed six points higher at 189 7-8, as against Tuesday's minimum of 167 1-2, and General Motors showed a net gain of 7 1-8 at 178 1-4 after having sold down to 168 earlier in the week. Hudson showed a net gain of 5 3-8 at 101.

Steels responded to reports of expanding mill operations and forward orders. Sloss-Sheffield was the spectacular feature of that group, soaring 16 points to a record high at 140 and then easing to 136 1-2. United States Steel common, selling ex-dividend, made a net gain of 1 3-8 at 130 3-8 and Ludlum closed 3 1-2 points higher at 52 on the announcement that September net earnings were five hundred per cent. Above those of the same month last year. Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Republic and Gulf States closed nearly 3 points higher.

Tobaccos were strong in expectation of record breaking holiday business, new peak prices for the year being attained by Consolidated Cigar, Liggett and Myers, and the "B" stock and Tobacco Products A. Mercantile issues also reflected heavy holiday trade. Hartman Corporation advanced a point to within a fraction of the year's high on reports of an early reorganization of the $4 annual dividend, and Weber and Heilbroner touched a new top at 95 1-4.

The oils gave a good demonstration of growth strength on reports of further improvement in the trade situation. Other outstanding industrial strong spots were American Can, American Water Works, Case Threshing Machine, International Combustion Engineering, Postum Cereals, United States Cast Iron Pipe, Universal Pipe preferred, United States Realty, Ward Baking A, and Westinghouse Airbrake, the net gains running from 1 1-3 to 7 points.

Rails continued to receive strong buying support with speculative interest centered in the southern carriers. Atlantic Coastline jumped eight points to a new peak at 230 and Kansas City Southern touched a new top at 46 1-2.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Speculative interest in the foreign exchanges was divided between a sharp rally in French francs, and the establishment of a new 1925 high record by Japanese yen at 43 1-4 cents. Buying of French francs, which advanced 23 points to 3.89 cents, presumably was inspired by reports that Aristide Briand had again undertaken the formation of a French ministry. Demand sterling ruled slightly firmer at $4.84 1-4. Other European rates showed only nominal changes.

TAFTVILLE

Friday's storm drove a skunk out of the closed gutter on North Third avenue, and it was killed by a crowd of boys who took it to the store of George W. Weller and asked him to exhibit it in the window, where foxes and raccoons have been placed on display by successful village hunters. Mr. Weller objected to this plan and the youngsters left the store leaving the aroma of the skunk to linger for several hours in the building.

Miss Hortense Carew of North B street attended the Brown-Colgate football game at Providence Thursday.

Elson H. Hartford, who has been second hand in the No. 2 spinning and spooling department of the Dorrance company, has resigned his position with that firm and has left town for his home in Dover, N. H.

William Hassler, second hand in the carding department of the Totokett Manufacturing company's plant at Occum met with a painful accident Friday, when his index finger on his right hand was caught in the gears of a drawing frame and badly lacerated. Dr. George Thompson attended him.

Mr and Mrs. James Harroun of Willimantic were holiday guests of the Beardow family of Providence street.

Emil Sweet and Miss Addie Sweet, and the Misses Louise and Mary Stubbs of Norwich avenue returned early in the week from a visit in New Bedford.

The weekly conclave of Castle Perilous, K. O. H. A. was held Wednesday evening in the vestry of the Taftville Congregational church. Herbert Avery presided. It was voted to omit the conclave next week because of the annual church fair, but the week following there will be a ceremonial.

Members of the Dramatic club and the minstrel troupe who are to furnish the entertainment at the Taftville Congregational church annual fair, held a rehearsal Friday evening at Ponemah hall. Work on putting up the booths has already begun. These will be decorated and in charge of committees representing the various parish societies.

NORWICH GRANGE ELECTS OFFICERS FOR YEAR

Norwich grange, No 172, Patrons of Husbandry, elected its officers for the coming year at its regular meeting in Breiner hall on Wednesday evening and voted a $5 contribution to the annual Red Cross roll call, besides obligating two candidates in the first and second degrees.

The following were the officers elected: Worthy master, Mrs. Ida Richardson; overseer, Ralph Marsh; lecturer, Mrs. R. J. P. Brown; steward, Donald Peckham; chaplain, Charles E. Ellis, treasurer, Edward Cook; secretary, Mrs Gus Spencer; assistant steward, Lewis Aldrich; gate keeper, Mrs. Adelle Spalding; Ceres, Mrs Donald Peckham; Pomona, Miss Helen B. Moore; Flora, Miss Belle Rathbone; lady assistant steward, Miss Florence Brown. The retiring worthy master, Arthur W Avery, was made a member of the executive committee.

The installation of the officers will take place at a later meeting.

BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE HEAR INDIA MISSION FIELD WORKER

The Baptist Young Peoples union of the Central Baptist church held a delightful Thanksgiving banquet Friday evening in Buahnell chapel. The speaker of the evening was Paul Braisted of Red Bank, N. J., who is preparing to take up mission work in India. The young people gathered around the tables at 6:30 o'clock when the following delicious menu was served:

Grape Fruit
Chicken a La Newburg
Mashed Potatoes
Cranberry Sauce Pickles
Rolls Coffee
French Vanilla Ice Cream

Ledlie Pitt was the toastmaster for the banquet, and a concert programme was furnished by an orchestra comprising Joseph Adams, piano; Edward Smith, saxophone; George Guile, violin; Reginald Lauben, violin; Ralph Marsh, violin; Douglass Hunt, clarinet; James Bradlaw, clarinet.

The after dinner programme opened with a solo, I Love a Little Cottage, by Miss Amie March. Then followed a selection by the orchestra and a violin solo by George Guile. Miss March again entertained with a solo, Love Came Calling, and there was a piano solo by Miss Viola Hill followed by a selection by the orchestra and the singing of the N. F. A. Alma Mater.

Miss Ellis, the pastor's assistant, briefly addressed the gathering of young people following which the message of the evening was delivered by Paul Braisted of Red Bank, N. J. Mr. Braisted, who expects to leave next year to take up mission work in India, and who has been addressing young people's gatherings throughout the country, was introduced by Toastmaster Pitt. He spoke in an interesting way of Christianity, Christian experience and evangelism.

To evangelize, he said, means to permeate with the spirit and life of Christ. I wish you would keep before you tonight a vision of Jesus Christ. Let us think of the cross as a gateway through which we can enter a new and abundant life. In view of the fact that this is Thanksgiving week, Mr. Braisted said we do well to ask ourselves what is a worthy gift to express our thanks to God who has done so much for us.

If we are disciples of His we should give Him our lives that He may use us to make the world His kind of world. I wonder if those people who care little for the religion of Jesus Christ really know Him.

In India today, said Mr. Braisted, there is a greater challenge than ever for young people to consecrate their lives to Christ. There are great areas in India where the people still call themselves Hindus but are following Christ. There are four calls in the lives of Christian young people. First, there is the call for a new consciousness of the reality of our faith. Then we need a new faith in the promises of God. Third, we need a new appropriation of the spirit of God and in the fourth place we need an enthusiastic mission. We should enthusiastically go out to bring the world to Him.

Following Mr. Braisted's talk the tables were cleared away and the remainder of the evening devoted to a programme of games. Miss Amie March, chairman of the social committee, was in charge of the banquet arrangements and was ably assisted by the members of Group Three. Those who acted as waitresses were Misses Helen Hastings, Susie Hargreaves, Anita Averill, Frances Bushnell, Marion Denison, Unabelle Harbeck, Mildred Cass, May Gray, Mary Peckham and Catherine Adams.

SAVED FROM DRIFTING ON WATCH HILL ROCKS

With their craft, the Netop, helpless, drifting in towards the rocks at Watch Hill Point, Dr. J. R. Taylor and Frank Sylvia, both of Fairhaven, Mass., were rescued early Wednesday night by the Coast Guard patrol boat 124, which is attached to the state pier station at New London. The motor of the Netop, a 30-foot cabin cruiser, had gone dead, and in the attempt to start it the gasoline supply was exhausted. The sea anchor was dropped, and Dr. Taylor and Sylvia hoisted distress signals. Then the anchor cable broke and the cruiser began to drift rapidly shorewards.

Just when it seemed the craft was doomed, the patrol boate appeared. Alarmed lest the patrol boat should not sight the distress signals, Dr. Taylor repeatedly fired a .45 calibre revolver and the flashes attracted the attention of the skipper of the Coast Guard craft. The patrol boat hastened to the aid of the Netop and after considerable maneuvering, for terrific seas were running, succeeded in getting a line aboard the Netop and towed her to the state pier at New London.

Dr. Taylor was high in his praise of the service rendered by the skipper and crew of the 124 and said he would bring their work to the attention of the authorities at Washington.

Dr. Taylor, who is vice commodore of the Shelter Harbor Yacht club, and Mr. Sylvia have spent the last three weeks in getting to New London from New Bedford. Storms have either kept the staunch little cruiser in port, or lashed her at sea, driving her miles off her course. The Netop was storm bound for several days at Padanaram; succeeded in making Seaconnet, only to be held up there by storms for several days; then succeeded in getting as far as Point Judith before again being storm bound, and the vessel was on the fourth lap of the trip when it broke down off Watch Hill.

Dr. Taylor left New Bedford determined to make Miami, Fla., and is determined to finish his trip. Mr. Sylvia will leave the Netop at New York. The craft is weather bound at New London, and Dr. Taylor was unable to say when he would clear. The trip to Miami, he expects, will take about two months.

THANKSGIVING EVE GATHERING WITH FOUR GENERATIONS

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Friese of 19 Ward street, entertained a family gathering Thanksgiving eve, which included their daughter, Barbara and son Everett and wife of Yantic, their son-in-law and daughter, Augusta and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Baer and son, John, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Heinrich and family, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sennreiter and daughter, Dorothy, Mr. and Mrs. John Dearing, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Baer and children, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Friese and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor and four sons, Herman Mitterer, Lola Ladd, Allyn Church and Lionel Blanchett. Dancing, games and games were enjoyed by all. A buffet luncheon was served by the hostess, Mrs. Fred Friese, assisted by her sister, Mrs. George Taylor. An exhibition Charleston was given by Miss Henrietta Friese and Henry M. Baer. The four generations present were Mrs. Henry M. Baer, Mrs. Fred Friese, Mrs. Herbert H. Adams and infant daughter, Dolores Caroline. The representative of the first generation is 61 years and the fourth is four weeks.

BRINGS FORECLOSURE SUIT ON LAUREL HILL HOUSE

A foreclosure suit on a mortgage for $2,000, dated May 29, 1924, on the property 248 Laurel Hill avenue has been brought by James L. Case against Evangeline C. and George L. Fuller, all of this city. The sum of $75 has been paid on the demand note but the balance is unpaid. Party defendants named in the suit are the following: N. Eugene Smith, $300 mortgage; Albert C. Freeman, $200 attachment lien; Jacob Slosberg, $50 attachment lien; City of Norwich, $200 attachment lien; Cincinnati Art Publishing Co., $100 attachment lien; Charles F. Wever, Lakewood, N. J., $150 attachment lien; Coons & Co., Philadelphia, $150 attachment lien.

The suit is returnable in December.

SUIT ON TWO NOTES AGAINST LISBON MAN

Suit against James Graham of Lisbon has been brought in the superior court on two counts by the Bankers Trust Co., to collect on two notes. The first is a note given by the defendant for $3,500, dated May 8, 1923, on demand, on which it is claimed there is now due the sum of $3,300. The second count is on a note of $900 executed June 6, 1925 by Robert Graham by James Graham, attorney and endorsed by this defendant. The suit is returnable in December.

FATHER MOONEY'S PARISH HOLDS SUCCESSFUL BAZAAR

St. Andrew's church, Colchester held its annual two nights' bazaar Wednesday and Thursday evenings, in Grange hall. A record-breaking crowd filled the hall each evening. Wednesday evenings a very fine one act play was presented by the "Rainbow Kimona society," Mary Rutka, Sadie McDonald, Anna Rutka, Lee Tarnoski, Elsie Zenowitz, Bertha Enafore, Rose Pachinski, Minnie Laranoff, Marion Kendzior. The Mohican orchestra furnished an excellent program both nights.

The lunch room provided a menu that kept the chairman, Mrs. M. J. Driscoll and his assistants busy. Her aides were Mrs. J. F. Wrinn, Miss Nellie Rudden, Miss Jane Cronin and Miss Minnie O'Connell.

Miss Mary Odermann gave vocal solos both nights and had to respond to several encores.

The various tables were in charge of Charles Brown, Mrs. John Condron, Miss Catherine O'Connell, Miss Nellie Shea, Miss Mary Connor.

Tickets were sold by M. J. Driscoll Julius Fedus and Francis Shea. The program Thursday was given by the young people under the instruction of Miss Agnes Connor. In the flag drill, the leaders were Harriet Howland, Louis Hantman, Mary O'Connor and Edward O'Connor.

This was followed by a playlet The Quack Doctor: Doctor, John Zenowitz; Mrs. Dobbs, Gertrude Seger; Mrs. Quack, Mary O'Connor; Miss Farry, Dora Dinnerstein; Mr. Heavy, Louis Hantman; Mrs. Swindle, David Wallack; Dick Bunker, Martin Invitzsky. The program ended with "Fudge and a Burglar," by Mary O'Connor, Harriet Howland, Doris Riley, Mary Green and Dorothy Gersten. Those taking part both nights were heartily applauded, all parts were well rendered. The decorations were in the season's colors. The committee was Clare Brown and Catherine O'Connell. Many attended coming from Bridgeport, New Haven, Norwich, New Britain, Meriden, Hartford, Willimantic, New London, Fitchville and East Hampton.

Rev. Philip J. Mooney, the pastor formerly of St Patrick's parish, Norwich and his faithful committee who worked hard made a big success of the bazaar, which will net a substantial sum for St. Andrew's treasury. In addition, the two evenings proved very successful socially.

CLUB MET WITH ONECO STREET MEMBER

Because of the holiday, the Thursday Afternoon Pinochle club, was entertained Friday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Albert W. Johnson, 84 Oneco street. First prize was taken by Mrs. Charles Wright, who had a score of 7,795. Mrs. James Kirker held the next highest score, 7,270, which took second prize and the consolation award went to Mrs. Milo R. Waters who scored 5,255. Mrs. Johnson served delicious refreshments at the close of the play. The club will meet next week, with Mrs. Charles Wright of Bentley avenue, Laurel Hill.

FINED IN CITY COURT FOR ATTACK AT DANCE

Mrs. Barbara Smith, 22, colored, was fined $10 and costs, total $27.98, on a breach of the peace charge, when her case came up in the city court Friday morning. She was arrested Thursday night on a charge of striking Mrs. Florence Scott of No. 73 High street. Both attended a Thanksgiving night dance at Pulaski hall and the alleged assault took place outside the hall after both had left the dance.

A local operator paid $3 for not having his driver's license with him when apprehended by an officer.

COAST GUARD TROPHY TO DESTROYER BEALE

The United States coast guard engineering efficiency trophy, annually presented to the destroyer attaining the highest engineering rating, has been presented to the destroyer Beale, attached to the destroyer station at New London. A mark of 100 is considered the highest that can be attained, and the Beale, with a mark of 141, has established, during the past year, a record for efficiency that has rarely been equalled by a vessel of the destroyer type in the United States or any other service.

QUIETLY OBSERVED THEIR 40TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Rev. and Mrs. Charles H. Ricketts of No. 114 Prospect street, quietly observed the 40th anniversary of their marriage this week. They were the recipients of many congratulations and gifts. They were married in Rockville, Conn., Nov. 24, 1885. Rev. and Mrs. Ricketts had Mrs. A. L. Hurd and daughter of Somers as guests at Thanksgiving.

AREN'T FOLKS FUNNY?

Mrs. Brown thinks Mrs. Jones is "old fashioned." She's right—for Mrs. Jones insists on baking her own bread. "She could get good bread at the bakery and save all that time and work," says Mrs. Brown.

And then Mrs. Brown turns right around and does her own washing and ironing—and she could get "good washing" from the TROY LAUNDRY and "save all that time and work."—AREN'T FOLKS FUNNY?

BACKUS HOSPITAL AUXILIARY

It is deeply gratifying to the various departments of the Women's auxiliary of the Backus hospital to thank the people of Norwich for their genuine interest and co-operation. Many gifts and evidences of good-will have been shown by friends who have remembered the hospital and the Nurses' home during the past few weeks.

The food donation committee, of which Mrs. H. H. Allyn is chairman, has had a busy time gathering in the 1,300 jars of fruit that have been given. Besides this, she reports a crate of oranges, a crate of grape-fruit, a crate of selected apples, one 5-lb. box of crackers, and three bushels of apples Bozrahville leads all the outlying districts in their gifts; for Mrs. Gilman, the chairman of that district, has brought together 50 or more large jars of fruit. The names of the many givers will be published at a later date.

Old linen, too, has been sent in good abundance, and the hospital authorities are grateful, as this need is never over, and old sheets and other linen are in constant demand and use. Besides this, there is a call for cold cream jars and for four-ounce bottles, and Mrs. J. E. Driscoll will gladly collect them, if she is notified; or, like all other gifts, they can be taken directly to the hospital.

The appeal for books and magazines brought splendid response. The magazine committee was able to fill the bookcase in the graduate nurses' reception room of the new home, and sented. The decorations were in the season's colors. The committee was Clare Brown and Catherine O'Connell. Many attended coming from Bridgeport, New Haven, Norwich, New Britain, Meriden, Hartford, Willimantic, New London, Fitchville and East Hampton.

The nurses' residence was open to the public on Nov. 4th, and hundreds of people availed themselves of the opportunity to look over the fine building. The home was brightened by gifts of many flowers collected by the flower committee. Many other gifts have been made to the home, by different friends, which add much to the beauty and utility of the place. Among them are a Brunswick Victrola and records, two brass candlesticks and a brass tray to match, which beautify the entrance hall, two large ferns and a palm, a sewing machine, books and magazines are permanent assets; and thermos bottles and clothes brushes have been kindly provided for each nurse's room.

On Hallowe'en the nurses had an informal party with many guests. Refreshments were served, the mothers and friends of the nurses giving cake and sandwiches; the hospital providing coffee, while the nurses reception committee of the auxiliary furnished appropriate napkins and favors. Through the committee have come also 26 tickets for the recent D. A. R. program at Slater hall and four tickets for the concert under the Rotary auspices For the pleasure of the nurses and their friends two dances are planned for the near future.

The nurses' residence is becoming a centre of interest, and on Nov. 21, the Connecticut State League of Nursing education held its meeting there. Many superintendents of training schools from all over the state, as well as instructors and floor supervisors were in attendance. After the meeting they inspected the residence and the hospital.

The hospital patients have been happily remembered also during holidays. Hallowe'en brought ice cream from the Sacred Heart church, of Taftville, and ladies of Christ Episcopal church provided cake. The trays were brightened with favors and napkins given by the Women's auxiliary. Mrs. Camp, chairman of the holiday committee, reports that a check for $30 has been given by the auxiliary to help toward buying the turkeys for Thanksgiving day, and that special napkins and favors will be used on the patients' trays. Ice cream has been generously given by Park church, while the United church provided cakes. Cranberry sauce came from the donation committee and a crate of oranges has been sent in for the patients.

During the past month the Connecticut Council of Catholic women made their visitation, bringing ice cream to ward patients and the children. From the Women's auxiliary has come a fine new electric sewing machine which was greatly needed in the hospital.

The Production committee, Mrs. Frederick Sayles acting chairman, in the absence of Miss Hannah Crowell, reports 518 surgical dressings made during the month. The workers have been members of the committee, Miss Jane Bill, Mrs. Harrison Gray, Mrs. W. S. Allis, Miss M. Palmer, while Miss Ella Norton, Miss A. Trumbull, and Miss M., and Miss Alice Sayles have acted as substitutes.

The Needlework guild has made a splendid present of linen and gifts for the children's ward. Other gifts to the hospital have been picture books and games for the children, fruit and jelly linen, flowers and four-ounce bottles

This is Thanksgiving season, and thanks are due to those who kept the interest of the Backus hospital in mind. Besides those friends listed below, the hospital and the Women' auxiliary desire to thank the Norwich Bulletin and the Norwich Record for their generosity, affording unlimited space to present the work.

Those contributing linen the past month are: Mrs. Roy Judd, Mrs. J. H. Tubbs, Mrs. A. P. JURY DISAGREED IN SUIT OVER FURNACE

The jury in the case of Sharaf's Furniture Co. of New London against Harriet Scheele, owner of the Rotisserie Inn, Waterford, on the New Haven turnpike, in which the plaintiff sued for damages of $500, in the court of common pleas, disagreed late Wednesday afternoon, making it necessary for the case to be retried before another jury should the plaintiff still seek pay for the pipeless furnace, which he alleges has not been settled for, according to verbal agreement. Before the jury came to a deadlock, it brought in a verdict for the plaintiff, but not for the full amount of $379.75, with interest. Judge Charles B. Waller informed the jury that it did not find according to evidence and that a direct verdict for either the plaintiff for the full amount or one for the defendant must be rendered. The jury again went out and late in the afternoon disagreed.

About one year ago the same case was tried and the same result followed.

LENNEN ESTATE PAYS VERDICT TO WILCOX

Satisfaction of judgment was recorded Friday in the suit of Lucius H. Wilcox, of this city, against the estate of the late Capt. James Lennen, the retired sea captain and fisherman, who left a fortune of approximately $600,000.

Wilcox sued the estate for $25,000 of a claim for services rendered to Capt. Lennen in the last five years of his life. He was given a verdict for $6,000 on Wednesday afternoon by the jury in the superior court here. The satisfaction of judgment indicates that the $6,000 has been paid to Wilcox by the executors of the Lennen estate.

MINERS ACCEPT PROPOSAL MADE BY GOV. PINCHOT

They Have Agreed to Meet the Operators' Representatives in Joint Conference at Any Time and Consider the Governor's Plan "As a Basis For Settlement of the Controversy That Has Caused the Suspension of Anthracite Mining" —No Word Has Been Received From the Operators' Committee.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 29.—(A. P.)—Representatives of the United Mine Workers today accepted "as a basis of settlement" the plan submitted to them yesterday by Governor Pinchot for ending the present suspension of hard coal mining.

They agreed to meet the operators representatives in joint conference at any time to negotiate an agreement covering the proposals submitted by Mr. Pinchot and announced that promptly after such an agreement on the part of the operators they will arrange to resume mining at the earliest possible date.

The action of the miners was taken at a meeting here this afternoon of union officials and members of the tri-district scale committee which gathered here yesterday to receive the governor's proposition. The session today consumed barely two hours and at the close of the meeting, which was held closed doors, announcement was made that the action of the workers representatives was unanimous.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, who with other union officials, attended the meeting, immediately afterward sent a letter to Governor Pinchot announcing the action taken the letter said:

"Hon. Governor Pinchot, Governor of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pa.: Conscious of the imperative need which prompted your proposals to the anthracite operators and miners for an adjustment of the present controversy, the mine workers' representatives have given to the subject the most profound consideration.

"It is obvious that the interests of peace in the anthracite industry require consideration by both sides in a spirit of compromise and mutual concession. The mine workers regard your proposals for a settlement as being representative of the public viewpoint and having every sincere desire now, as before, to terminate a distressing situation which menaces public health and well being.

"I am therefore, authorized by the tri-district scale committee of Districts 1, 7 and 9 United Mine Workers of America, to advise you that on behalf of our membership we accept the proposals made by you as a basis of settlement. We stand ready at any time to meet in joint conference with the representatives of the anthracite operators to negotiate an agreement which shall encompass the points set forth by you.

"We further advise that promptly following such agreement upon the part of the anthracite operators, we will arrange for resumption of mining at the anthracite collieries at the earliest possible date. Respectfully yours,

"JOHN L. LEWIS, President."

Governor Pinchot was not present when the action was announced at his office, where the meeting was held. He left Harrisburg at noon for Pittsburgh preparatory to setting out early tomorrow on a week's inspection trip in northwestern Pennsylvania. Before his departure, however, he announced his willingness to return if further conferences should be desired, and he was notified by telephone tonight of the miners' decision.

Awaiting developments the union officials and members of the tri-district committe decided to remain in Harrisburg for at least 24 hours, and a meeting was called for 4 p. m. tomorrow at the capitol. No word had been received from any of the operators previous to today's meeting, but the miners' representatives were influenced in part in their decision to stay here longer by the possibility of action by them.

Although the operators' negotiating committe had been invited to attend the conference yesterday at which the governor presented his plan, only the miners were present. Major W. W. Inglis, chairman of the operators committee, advised Mr Pinchot that it was impossible to get his committee together in time. He suggested a later meeting and proposed that the plan be held confidential until both sides have opportunity to consider it. The governor, however held that the suggestions must be made public and went ahead. His proposals contained eleven points, covering the main issues which caused a deadlock in the negotiations last August. The principal features of his plan are:

Creation of a "board of investigation and award" to be chosen by the operators and miners with authority to determine whether costs justify increased wages and to make an award within six months if an increase is warranted; a five-year agreement with an increase in coal prices beyond those scheduled for 1925; a modified form of "check-off" under which operators would honor voluntary assignments of wages for union dues up to $14, without full recognition of the union; equalization of wages by the existing anthracite conciliation board, and termination of the present suspension and immediate resumption of mining.

Other points mainly covered details, one providing that the original records of both miners and operators should be open to the proposed board of investigation and award to aid it in reaching its decision on wages. These records, however, are not to be made public in such a manner as to enable the facts concerning any individual concern or local union to be separately show.

Another point proposed that the adjustment of working conditions and other matters not specifically mentioned be referred back to the representatives of the miners and operators for settlement. The governor, in addressing outlining his plan, told [illegible] that the [illegible] and that there is no reason why the situation should be allowed to continue. Neither side, he told them "ought to expect" to see a settlement on its own terms.

Besides the thirty-odd members of the scale committee present at the meeting today, were President Lewis, Philip Murray, vice president of the United Mine Workers; Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer, and the district presidents, Rinaldo Cappellini, Andrew Mattey and C. J. Golden. The miners took up the Pinchot suggestion in detail, but it was said later that there was no strong opposition to accepting any of them as a basis for resumption of negotiations, and none on the question of accepting the plan.

Present at the submission of the plan yesterday was a "mediation committee" of the Scranton Chamber of Commerce together with representatives of commercial and civic organizations from other cities in the hard coal region.

They brought word of their endorsement of the plan and a promise of support for it. None of them was present when the miners' decision was reached.

Today marks the beginning of the fourteenth week of the shut-down which became effective on September 1 when the contract negotiated here in 1923 expired. That contract was the result of intervention by Governor Pinchot who called the opposing groups together at his office here and submitted a plan which provided, among other things for a ten per cent. wage increase. His suggestions were embodied in the contract finally negotiated.

During the suspension this year the governor, up to Friday night, when he called yesterday's meeting had confined his activities to a series of three separate conferences with Major Inglis and President Lewis. At these meetings he said yesterday, some of the features of his present plan were discussed. It was his intention, however, thus instead of acting in the role of go-between in carrying on the negotiations, as he did through much of the sessions in 1923, he would hand his plan in both operators and miners and let them accept it or reject it, although he indicated a willingness to take any part in any conferences that might be desired by the two factions.

ANTHRACITE OPERATORS TO HOLD CONFERENCE TODAY

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29—The anthracite operators will hold a conference here tomorrow to discuss Governor Pinchot's plan for the settlement of the hard coal strike. The meeting will be held at the office of Samuel D. Warriner, president of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company and a veteran operator, and will be attended by Mr. Warriner, Major W. W. Inglis chairman of the anthracite operators negotiating committee, and others.

TO PROPOSE PERMANENT INT'L COURT OF JUSTICE

WASHINGTON Nov 29 Establishment of a permanent international court of justice through the agency of a third Hague conference to be called by President Coolidge, was suggested today by Representative Tinkham republican Massachusetts who announced that he would embody the proposal in a resolution to be introduced in the house.

A proposal for American adherence to the world court will be considered next month by the senate and a resolution favoring such action was adopted by the house at its last session.

Mr. Tinkham, who visited Europe last summer, declared that his study of the league of nations and the permanent court of international justice had convinced him that American adherence to the latter, as proposed by President Coolidge, would mean "the surrender not only of our national traditions but of our priceless inheritance of freedom and independence."

"The clear and patriotic course of the United States to follow in accord with her traditions of the administration of international justice and the avoidance of foreign political entanglements," he said, "is to adhere only to a court of international justice which represents the sovereign nations directly and not to a court which represents a political and military intermediary—the league of nations."

His resolution, he added, will propose a court of 16 members including 12 judges and four deputy judges, to be elected for life by an electoral commission representing the signatory powers.

$125,000 FIRE LOSS ON TOBACCO FARM IN SOUTH WINDSOR

SOUTH WINDSOR, Nov. 29—Fire tonight destroyed five buildings on what is known as the Hayden farm and owned by the American Sumatra company here tonight. The contents of the buildings consisting of tobacco, hay and a large quantity of farming machinery and tools were burned, the loss being estimated at $125,000. Several fires have occurred recently within a radius of a mile and a half of the fire tonight, with a total loss of more than $500,000 and an investigation is being made.

The buildings burned tonight were part of what might be called as a "hobby farm", no expense being spared by the builder in erecting the structures which were mostly of brick and frame design. A stone and cement silo was in a group as well as a water tower containing 10,000 gallons. This was used to advantage in saving the house which was located nearby.

GREAT PRODUCTION OF BITUMINOUS COAL

WASHINGTON, Nov 29 (AP)—Bituminous coal production during the week ending November 21 was greater than for any similar period since 1920, while an even greater output was indicated for the succeeding week.

The figures, made public today by the bureau of mines, placed production during the November 21 week at 12,624,000 tons.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Blow to German Reactionaries.

BERLIN, Nov. 29.—(A. P.)—By affixing his executive signaure to the Locarno bill before the German delegation proceeded to London, President Von Hindenburg dealt a staggering blow to the German reactionaries who after their defeat in the reichstag banked on the president as the best barrier to formal ratification of the treaties.

ONE-SIDED PACT FOR MATRIMONIAL ALLIANCE

BERLIN, Nov. 29.—(AP)—A marriage pact, described by the Berliner Zeitung as ideal, is published by that paper. A curious feature, however, is that it contains only clauses to which the wife-to-be is to agree.

By one of the clauses the wife promises "not to keep lap dogs, nro to compel my husband to read my essays, nor to belong to more than three women's clubs."

If children should come from the matrimonial alliance, the wife promises "not to insist upon father getting up at night to heat the baby's milk," also "not to insist that all bad qualities of the children come from the husband and his forbears."

In order to avoid quarrels over economic questions, the contract stipulates that the wife "must not insist upon an automobile nor attempt to imitate every actress in dress or style of hairdressing."

The dutiful wife must also refrain from doing anything that may rasp the nerves of friend husband. She must therefore agree "not to disturb him as he reads his morning paper at breakfast," nor to "prevail upon him to go out of an evening when he is tired."

To complete this matrimonial happiness, she should also agree "not to ask her husband for suggestions about the menu, nor to offer to buy his clothes."

STUDENTS CONTINUE THEIR DEMONSTRATIONS IN PEKING

PEKING, Nov. 29—In spite of the announced intention of the military authorities to preserve roder and the stationing of detachments of troops at strategic positions, there was another student demonstration this afternoon similar to those of yesterday. The rioters attacked and set fire to the plant of the newspaper Chen Pao, as they regarded it as anti-communist. One man was arrested and he confessed he was the leader of the incendiaries.

In the course of the demonstration speakers urged the formation of a revolutionary army to overthrow the present government. They denounced the executive for various alleged offenses including the calling of the tariff conference and resolutions were passed demanding that the conference be stopped and calling for the resignation of the executive. A "dare to die" guard was formed, and it was this guard that attacked the newspaper office.

General Feng Yu-Hsiang, the "Christian General," who is at his headquarters at Kalgan, has refused to hear the entreaties of Marshal Tuan Chi-Jui, the chief executive, to intervene and help solve the crisis in Peking.

A manifesto has been issued by General Kuo Sung-Lien, who has seceded from the cause of Marsha Chang Tso-Lin, the Manchurian war lord, in which he says he is determined to bring about a new form of government in Manchuria. General Kuo declares it is impossible longer to see his brothers working, suffering and fighting for naught but the glory of a few persons and their selfish gains.

So in accordance with the people's will, he announces that he is directing a military movement toward Mukden. He considers it only proper that he should overthrow the ruling caste in Mukden, "where the minds of those brutal militarists such as Chang Tso Lin especially, have been poisoned by the cruel doctrine of militarism."

General Kuo avers that he must strive to achieve permanent peace, not only in Manchuria, but in all China.

General Li Ching-Ling, civil governor of Chihli, recently reported as preparing to declare himself independent of the Mukden leaders, is said to have fled fro Tientsin.

THREE MEN FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER IN BOSTON

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 29—(A. P.) Three men, all under 30 years of age, tonight are facing the probable penalty of death in the electric chair, as the result of the verdict returned by a jury early this morning declaring them guilty of first degree murder of James H. Fernean, 68, a watchman at the Waltham Farms of the [illegible] and Boston [illegible], who was shot and clubbed to death during a robbery there on October 4.

The convicted men are John J. Devereaux, who had confessed to the actual slaying in the final hours of the trial, Edward J. Heinlein and John J. McLaughlin. The usual penalty for such a crime is death by electrocution in this state but sentence will not be pronounced until after the 20 days in which their attorneys may file exceptions.

The verdict against Devereaux was pronounced first. When Heinlein heard his pronouncement, a woman screamed. McLaughlin tottered when he rose to hear the verdict. Several of his women relatives screamed and sobbed and the court room was in confusion.

While they were being led and carried out, Judge Fowler went to the jury box and said "It is a very sad thing that the persons who set out to do these crimes do not think of their beloved ones when they do it or before they do it, [illegible] he fewer crimes. Do not feel any reproaches for what you have done."

In the confusion the ordered verdict of not guilty against Peter V. King, who had turned state's evidence, was scarcely audible. He is held however, as accessory in connection with the murder.

PREDICTS BOOTLEGGERS WILL BECOME ARISTOCRATS

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 29.—(A. P.)—The criminal is "making a monkey out of the policemen" declared Lincoln C. Andrews, assistant secretary of the treasury, in an address before a law enforcement rally here today which he appealed to the citizens of the United States to work for the restoration of respect for federal law. A renewed respect for law, he said, will result in law observance.

He declared that to the normal evils of after war conditions were added those resulting from the prohibition laws, the most dangerous of which is the outlaw bootleg industry.

Chiefs of police of large cities, Mr. Andrews continued, had made the statement that the bootleggers were becoming an alarming menace to the social order, and bid fair to become the money aristocracy of the next generation.

Chapman's Fight For Life is to Begin Today

Writ of Habeas Corpus Will Be Presented Before Judge Thomas in U. S. District Court, Hartford.

HARTFORD, Nov. 29—Gerald Chapman will step upon the stage set for him in the board of pardons room at the state prison in Wethersfield at ten o'clock tomorrow morning to press his petition for a writ of habeas corpus before Judge Edwin S. Thomas of the United States district court.

Chapman will raise the argument that he is a federal prisoner, beyond the control of the state court to execute him for the murder of Patrolman James Skelly of New Britain, and when the state answers that the president has commuted his 25-year sentence for the million dollar mail robbery, Chapman will reply that his refusal to accept the commutation makes it invalid.

Frederick J. Groehl, of New York, senior counsel for Chapman, will be on hand to conduct the fight for his client to save the bandit from the gallows. He will have in association with him Joseph M. Freedman of Hartford, and Ray M. Wiley of Springfield, Mass. The state will be represented by State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn and the government by Assistant U. S. District Attorney George H. Cohen.

Technically, Mr. Alcorn represents Warden H. K. W. Scott, who has been commanded by Judge Thomas to show cause why the habeas corpus sought by Chapman should not issue. His answer will be filed tomorrow at the state prison when the court convenes.

Arrangements have been made by Warden Scott for the accommodation of accredited newspapermen, lawyers and officers of the court desiring to attend. A full federal court, with clerk, marshal and bailiffs will be in session when Judge Thomas, who has the power to convene federal court anywhere, takes the bench.

The hearing which is the beginning of a fight in the United States courts to save Chapman's life, will last about three hours.

NINE STREET HOLD-UPS IN BOSTON IN ONE DAY

BOSTON, Nov 29—(AP)—A holdup and assault in Back Bay at 4 o'clock this morning brought the total of the street robberies for the night to nine. Shots were fired in two cases, clubs and fists were freely used and holy two victims escaped loss of valuables.

Walter A. Blinn, engineer at a Cambridge hospital, reported to the police that three men drew up to the curb in a Back Bay street. One covered him with a gun while the other struck him over the head and stole $31.

Israel Balis, a coal dealer, was the only man seriously injured by the thugs. He was taken to the city hospital with a fractured jaw. His assailants escaped with $63. Managers of two chain stores were victimized.

Last night was the fourth within three weeks when the whole metropolitan area has been thrown into a turmoil by bandits who sped from one holdup to another. Last night was the first time violence has been general.

CLDEST WEATHER OF THE WINTER AT SARANAC LAKE

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Nov. 29—The coldest weather of the winter has prevailed in the northern Adirondacks for 24 hours, the temperature dropping to four degrees below zero today in spite of lack of wind an extreme cold day was followed by declining temperature tonight with indications of another unusually cold November night.

BURGLARS BROKE INTO CIGAR STORE IN NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 29—Burglars some time last night or this morning broke into the cigar store owned by Samuel Thalheimer, at 25-27 Prince street, and made their escape with $15 worth of cigars. Entrance was gained by first breaking a padlock and then opening another door by means of a skeleton key.

OBITUARY

William Alberto Plummer

LACONIA, N. H., Nov. 29.—(AP)—William Alberto Plummer, associate justice of the New Hampshire supreme court, died this morning at his home here after a brief illness. He was appointed to the superior court in 1907 and in 1913 was elevated to the supreme bench. He had served as state representative in 1903 and 1907, and for 19 years was a member of the Laconia school board, which he served as chairman for 16 years.

Recommendations by The Aircraft Board

Will Include a Proposal to Have the War, Navy and Commerce Dept's. Supervise Commercial Aviation.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—Appointment of assistant secretaries of the war, navy and commerce departments to supervise military and commercial aviation is among the recommendations arrived at by President Coolidge's aircraft board, which recently investigated the aviation situation.

The board, which was created shortly after Colonel William Mitchell of the army air service made the charges against the government air service administrations that caused him to be brought before a general court martial, is opposed to his proposal for a separate, unified military air service.

The report of the board has been completed and will be considered tomorrow by the whole board. Some members today confidently predicted unanimous approval of the report by the board, which is headed by Dwight W. Morrow of New York. The report will be turned over to President Coolidge without delay and is expected to form the basis for his recommendations to congress on aviation legislation.

Another report covering much the same ground, will be drafted this week by the house aircraft committee, which was named at the last session to investigate the aviation controversy was first brought to the front pages of the nation's newspapers. This committee conducted its investigation last spring, and its report is to be presented to the house next week.

DO CHRISTMAS SHOPPING AND MAILING EARLY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The annual Christmas appeal to "mail early" was issued today by Postmaster General New, along with the announcement of plans to expedite the service.

The people of the United States, he said, have it within their power to adjust the enormous holiday burden on clerks and carriers so that these, too, may enjoy the season.

"A merry Christmas is in store for each one of us if we will only stop to consider for a few moments how the facilities of the post office will be taxed from now until after the holiday season," he asserted, "the American public will do well to remember that many a hard worked letter carrier or postal clerk may be deprived of enjoying the Christmas day at his own fireside if the Christmas shopping and mailing is postponed until the last moment. Do not wait until tomorrow; start today!"

TWO OF CREW KILLED IN RUNAWAY FREIGHT TRAIN

ALTOONA, Pa., Nov. 29.—(A. P.)—Traveling at a terrific speed a runaway freight train was wrecked, two of its crew killed and one severely injured today on the Middle Division of the Pennsylvania railroad. The accident occurred within two hundred yards of the Pennsylvania passenger station here after the train had made a dash down grade from Kittanning Point, seven miles away.

The dead:

F. C. Scheline, 48, Sharpsburg Pa., engineer.

B. H. Tauber, 27, of Aspinwall, fireman.

Seriously injured:

G. M. Puncupsy, Pittsburgh, brakeman.

Gathering speed on the down grade and with the engineer whistling for [illegible] brakes, the oncoming freight train sideswiped another freight under the Seventeenth street bridge making kindling wood of the box cars. The wreckage was piled thirty feet high.

ENGLISH WOMEN ARE GOING WITHOUT BREAKFAST

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—No more British breakfasts for English women. No eggs and bacon and porridge and marmalade for the woman who is weighing herself more carefully than a caviar dealer balances his precious wares.

One woman who has dieted herself to a point that she has one of the most fashionable figures in the British capital recently disclosed her secret. She takes no breakfast whatever, but sucks a lump of ice slowly instead. Not a bite passes her lips until she has a very light luncheon at two o'clock. She eats nothing at tea time, but has a few sips of weak tea without cream or sugar. For dinner she takes a few bites of roast beef or roast mutton and nibbles a bit of oven toast or ship's biscuit.

FORMER GERMAN GUNNER ENLISTS IN THE U. S. ARMY

NEW YORK, Nov. 29—A gunner in the German fleet during the historic battle of Jutland, Wilhelm Giesecke has enlisted for service in the ranks of his one-time enemy—the United States army. It was announced today that he had been accepted as a private in the sixteenth infantry, quartered on Governors Island.

For bravery in action during this service with the fleet and a member of a German submarine crew, Giesecke was decorated personally by the kaiser.

Having become an American, Private Giesecke said that he would settle down permanently in his adopted country after serving his enlistment with the army.

CIGAR STORE ROBBERS WERE VERY COURTEOUS

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Courtesy day, recently observed by taxicab drivers and then imitated by the city's peddlers, was celebrated today by cigar store robbers.

"Good morning," remarked one of two hold-up men this morning as they entered a cigar store adjacent to the Calvary Baptist church as the congregation was streaming by outside. "It's a nice day for a robbery."

It was. They got $600 from the safe after forcing the clerk, the only person in the store, to open it for them.

"Good morning" one of them said as they left. "It certainly has been a pleasant visit—and profitable."

They had disappeared by the time the police arrived.

All men are born ignorant and lots of them never succeed in outgrowing it.

LOCARNO SECURITY PACT MAY LEAD TO DISARMAMENT

Signing of the Treaty in London Tomorrow Will Mark the Beginning of Europe's Peace—Other Pacts Are to Follow—Great Britain is Considering a New Disarmament Conference to Bring Out Disrament Plans of Its Own.

LONDON, Nov. 29—What is to come after Locarno? This is the question the British press and public are asking, Ramsay MacDonald, former premier Lloyd George, Viscount Cecil and Austen Chamberlain, the foreign secretary, have repeatedly stated that Locarno pact, which will be signed Tuesday next, merely marks the beginning of Europe's peace. It settles the differences between France and Germany, but the other European states and Great Britain now need guarantees against war.

Disarmament is conceded to be the only solution. But how this can be effected with safety and justice to all is a burning question. Viscount Cecil indicated recently in the house of lords that Great Britain was seriously considering a new disarmament conference and will shortly bring out disarmament plans of its own, but the difficulty of doing this is pointed out in the press—because of England's insular position and the resultant danger in which she stands from enemy air and submarine forces. Though Germany and France are at peace, their air and underseed forces still menace the British Isles.

In the opinion of the British newspapers, which insist that the public has suffered so greatly from air raids and food blockades that it is naturally nervous, Great Britain should cease looking at Europe's problems for a time and study its own dangers from a possible enemy. The opinion seems widespread that the submarine cannot be abandoned entirely, because it is a necessary support for battleships.

The abolition of sea blockade [illegible] the freeing of sea commerce from military and naval interference are suggested as concessions the great naval powers may ultimately be forced to make in order to persuade the lesser naval powers that the submarine must not be used as a blockade weapon. Abandonment of aerial craft as a means of harassing civilian populations and confinement of their activity to actual military operations with the armies is suggested as a possible compromise of the taboted air problems disarmament negotiations must face.

Although the Locarno pact merely settles the Rhineland difficulties, the "Locarno spirit" is mentioned widely as something precious which must not be sacrificed, and may ultimately bring guarantees of peace to all Europe if the nations which are staggering under ruinous burdens of taxation for military and naval purposes will give the disarmament problems serious and thoughtful consideration.

HURRICANE AND TIDAL WAVE HEAVY DAMAGE IN ITALY

ROME, Nov. 29—A violent storm accompanied by hurricane winds and a tidal wave, which swept Sicily, Calabria and Naples yesterday, caused tremendous property damage throughout the territory affected, but so far as semi-official reports indicate, there has sent several aids to the storm-swept region to aid in alleviating the sufferings.

The violent weather changed for the better today.

The cable ship Citta Milano was sent out to repair the submarine cable which had broken between Messina and Reggio de Calabria.

The storm gave a wild ride to the passengers aboard the steamship President Garfield, which arrived from New York yesterday afternoon and was unable to enter Naples harbor. The Garfield was forced to turn back to sea and ride out the storm for seven hours.

The steamer was oblized to carry out anchor, the cable of which almost immediately broke. Then four ocean tugs rushed to the liner's assistance and after several hours' desperate work succeeded in docking the vessel.

The storm devastated the entire countryside of Catanzaro, Calabria, destroying the crops of olives and oranges. In this section many persons were injured. Monte Leone was equally affected, the tempest here taking the form of hail and snow. Trees that had stood for centuries were uprooted or split and carried away like kindling.

Messina, Sicily, was without light or electrical power throughout the storm. The injured were rushed through the dark streets to hospitals, but there was only one probable fatality, a soldier, who was hit by a live wire.

At Trapani a motor boat which went out to the rescue of a schooner also got into difficulties. Both craft were saved by a destroyer. It is reported from Naples that the steamer Santa Rosina, 370 tons, was sunk, but all the members of the crew were saved.

There is no possibility of ascertaining the extent of the property damage at the present time, as some of the devastated regions are cut off from communication with other parts of Italy.

PROHIBITIONISTS FLAY THE MODERATION LEAGUE, INC.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—The report of the Moderation League, Inc., on its survey of conditions in several hundred cities, was attacked today from two prohibition sectors in the capital.

Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the anti-saloon league, issued a statement reiterating his charge, made last Sunday night, when the Moderation League announced its conclusion that "the Volstead act has failed utterly to accomplish temperance and sobriety." That the organization was "born and reared in Canada where it was trained as a decoy by the liquor element."

The board of temperance, prohibition, and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church also issued a statement, saying the report merely showed that "the propaganda against the law, the sneers heard from the stage, read in the comic strips, obtruded on the public from the nooks and corners of fiction, have had their effect—the good of prohibition in curbing drunkenness being nearly overcome."

The Methodist agency asserted further that the "misleading character of the league's report is indicated clearly by the fact that increase in population has not been taken into consideration." The increase shown in arrests for drunkenness in the 250 cities covered in the survey, it contended, was not in proportion to the population growth.

"But for prohibition," the board argued, "this country would be today in a miserable financial and industrial position if the European countries which still believe that the Moderation League is right in its contention that the makers of beer and wine should have a monopoly of the trade in intoxicating liquors."

SANITARIUM EMPLOYE WAS KILLED BY TRAIN

STAMFORD, Nov. 29—(A. P.)—Michael Sierlec, employed at a sanitarium here died in the Stamford hospital tonight from injuries received at the west-bound station of the New Haven railroad late today. He was found in an unconscious condition at the station, suffering from injuries about the head. It is believed that he was struck by a train but no witnesses to the accident could be found.

ACTION CONTEMPLATED BY NEW FRENCH CABINET

PARIS, Nov. 29—(A. P.)—Immediate ratification of the Locarno pact, reform of the electoral law, one year military service and a plan for the restoration of French finances, of which prompt settlement of the American debt is one of the most important features, are the four main points in the ministerial declaration of the new Briand cabinet discussed at the first council of ministers held under the presidency of M. Doumergue this evening.

M. Loucheur, the finance minister, will require about ten days to prepare his financial restoration plan, but the undersecretary of finance, Paul Morel, is already at work studying what proposition can be made to the United States for a settlement. M. Loucheur is said to have realized right along, owing to his intimate knowledge of American financial men gain through his association with such men as the late Henry P. Davison, Dwight W. Morrow, Bernard Baruch and Thomas Lamont during and after the peace conference, that if the French finance is to improve in international exchange the first requisite is an agreement on debts.

The question of sending Senator Berenger to Washington to resume the debt negotiations is understood to have been raised again, and M. Berenger had a long conference today with Premier Briand and M. Locheur.

The French press is unanimously enthusiastic concerning M. Briand personally, but his selection of the members of his cabinet is received with mingled expression of approval and criticism. M. Briand will have no difficulty in putting the Locarno accords through parliament and is also certain to obtain a good majority on his ministerial declaration, political experts of all shades agree. A canvass of the chamber shows that the premier probably will receive between 300 and 320 votes against 100 to 120, with about 80 abstentions.

As a prelude to the policy of economy, Leon Perrier, minister of the colonies has caused M. Doumergue to sign a decree postponing the colonial Exposition, which is to have been held in Paris in 1927, until 1928.

CREATION OF TOWN SURPLUS IS DECLARED ILLEGAL

FAIRFIELD, Nov. 29—(A. P.)—State Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett, has advised Town Treasurer Lutz B. Switzer, it was learned today, that under the la[illegible] of Connecticut the creation by any town of a surplus in its treasury, is illegal.

This statement of the commissioner's was made in a letter to Switzer in which Blodgett says:

"It is my theory that the laying of a tax in excess of that required to raise money to cover the budget, is unlawful."

Town Treasurer Switzer has [illegible] the board of finance that such an illegal surplus is being created now. This is his latest move in his sharp onslaught on the town government which has been at its height during the past week. In his attacks, he has charged members of the town government with countenancing illegal actions and will deliberately setting up a government of their own invention.

"If the town desires [illegible] plus of this kind," he said today, "we should go to the legislature and have an act passed giving it permission to create a surplus."

Commissioner Blodgett explained in his letter answering Switzer's query that any deficit at the end of the fiscal year resulting from a lack of surplus may be added under the law to the budget of the next year.

ARMY DEATH RATES ESTABLISH LOW RECORDS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—New low records in army death rates, both from general causes and from disease, were established during 1924.

The annual report of Major General M. W. Ireland, surgeon general, made public tonight fixes the general death rate for 1924 at 3.63 per thousand, as compared with 3.81 the preceding year, when the rate for the first time in army history, fell below four per thousand.

The death rate [illegible] in 1924 was 1.91 [illegible] the first time [illegible] in the army.

Suicide held its place as the chief cause of death in the army with tuberculosis second, deaths from automobile accidents advanced from seventh to third place, and balloon and airplane accidents were fourth in the list of causes.

Special attention has been called to the fact that scores of small individual gifts were received from the children of all grades in the schools of the town. The children took a great deal of interest in this unselfish work and the happiness and the good things, spiritually, which they derived from making these donations are beyond writing. The staff of St. Joseph's hospital has extended sincere thanks to these children and to all others who provided toward a well-stocked larder. The donations include every conceivable item in the lines of groceries, fruits, confectioneries, pastries, articles of clothing, towels, blankets and medicine and $56.75 in cash.

W. T. Knight of Killingly, a representative of the International Bible Students' association delivered a lecture on "The Highway of Life," before a large audience at the G. A. R. hall, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. He based his subject on redemption, as it relates to humanity getting life in its fullness, without sickness and the fear of death.

In one of his paragraphs Mr. Knight said, "The past six thousand years have been years of death and its concomitants. But the Bible speaks over and over of a way of Life, and a highway of life" and of a new and living way. This implies the reversal of the present order. If it were established beyond cavil by indisputable Bible evidence, that the millions who have gone down into the grave during all the past of man's history, were coming back to life during the thousand-year reign of Christ, some to heavenly glory but the masses of mankind to the promised paradisaic conditions when humanity will have the privilege of being restored to health and hapiness and life, what a thrill should stir the hearts of the present generation."

Funeral services for Evelyn May Clark were held Saturday afternoon at two o'clock at the late home in Scotland. Rev. Paul B. Sanger officiated. Burial was in Scotland cemetery. Arrangements were in charge of Avery and Van Zandt.

Miss Doris Kimball of Springfield, Mass., has been secured to act as organist at the Congregational church. Robert Merriam of Manchester will be soloist for the coming year.

Textbooks are supplied free to pupils of the public schools of New Brunswick up to and including Grade 8 in the graded schools and standard 8 in the ungraded schools. The books are given to the children outright, not merely loaned, as in the United States.

JEWETT CITY

ESCAPE UNHURT IN FALL OVER TADPOLE BRIDGE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Nov. 29—Roman Potkol, with his wife and four small children, of New London, had a miraculous escape from death or terrible injuries, Saturday morning, when the automobile in which they were riding, left the Tadpole bridge. The car was a new Star sedan, and the man had never driven over the local road. They were on their way to Webster, and at the bridge met another machine. Mr. Potkol's car went through the guard rail, and landed upside down against one of the abutments, which was all that saved them from crashing to the railroad tracks below. A passing bus brought the party to the office of Dr. J. H. McLaughlin, but no one was hurt, scratches and bruises not being serious. The car was towed to a local garage, the top being a wreck. It was understood that Mr. Potkol had owned the machine only a few weeks, and had no insurance.

The funeral of Edward Burns was held Saturday morning from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Burns, on Mechanic street. Requiem mass was solemnized by Rev. J. J. McCabe at St. Mary's church. The burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, Father McCabe reading at the committal service. The bearers were Willi m Burns John and William Driscoll, George Gill Edward Walsh, and John Smith. There were many beautiful flowers among them and exquisite piece from the young man's shopmates in Aspinook Bleachery. Relatives were present from Norwich, Plainfield, Westerly and Jewett City. Hourigan Bros. were in charge of the arrangements.

Seventeen young people of the Methodist church, motored to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gardiner in Voluntown Saturday evening, to visit Miss Gardiner who was home on the holiday, from East Greenwich academy. Part of the evening's entertainment was the telling of ghost stories and the sudden appearance of a ghost. Popcorn, cake and apples were served. Among those present were Mrs. Bryon Young, of Sterling, Conn., and Miss Christine Burdick of Boston university.

Miss Dorothy Paul is receiving money for the sanatorium holiday fund, as she has done for several years. It is a most worthy cause, for anything which brings good cheer to sick people away from home at the holiday season, should appeal to every heart.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Carpenter are in Chatham, N. J., for several days.

Mrs. A. E. Prior, who has been threatened with pneumonia, is better, although confined to her bed.

Names to be added to the Red Cross Roll Call are George Tormey, Margaret Walsh, Joseph Masiunka, all of Lisbon; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tanner, Margaret Tanner, George W. Cole and Herbert O. Phillips, of Voluntown.

The funeral of Mrs. James LaPointe was held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock from her home, with a large attendance of relatives and friends. Requiem high mass was celebrated at 10 o'clock at St. Mary's church, Rev. James Tyler, officiating. At the offertory, Mrs. Noel Garand sang Pie Jesu. As a waiting hymn Treffli Morin of Mystic, a nephew of the deceased sang Beautiful Isle of Somewhere and Face to Face. As a recessional he rendered Abide With Me. The bearers were Thomas Rioux, Judson La Fountain, H. X. Casavant, Urbain Fontaine, Noi Dugas and Felix Guillet. Burial took place in St. Mary's cemetery where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Father Tyler. In the large attendance were relatives and friends from out of town. There was a profusion of beautiful floral tributes. Hourigan Bros., had charge of the arrangements.

Coal Second French Industry

Coal is next after textile manufacturing in France as an industry of major importance. There are five distinct and separate districts in France where coal is mined on a large scale. The number of men employed dropped from over 200,000 in 1912 to 50,000 in 1918, due to the war. France however, consumes more coal than it mines by 10,000,000 to 20,000,0000 tons.

Physique of school children in relation to their educational achievement was made the subject of a recent study in Manchester, England. Out of 55 children of good scholarship, only 2 were below the average in physique, but out of 171 poor students, 68 or nearly 40 per cent. were below the average bodily measurements.

DANIELSON

REQUIEM OF TROLLEYS BEING SUNG IN DANIELSON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Nov. 29—The requiem of trolley service might be sung here tonight, were there a custom of saluting the passing of material things into the realm of things that were. Possibly, nothing like that will be done. The average person of this day is too practical to concern himself with such sentiment, lest, by chance, be is personally handicapped or inconvenienced by a new economic regulation. Then he will "holler" like a bull—if bulls "holler," and the dictionary doesn't admit any such contingency. It seems that they make a noise—when they make any at all—that is otherwise described.

However, one may stand about tonight and watch the last passing of the trolleys through Danielson. This may be regarded as prophecy, but it is not intended as such. One can conceive of a trolley car coming through here ten years hence—after the supply of gasoline is exhausted, but it is not probable if one be interested in seeing trolleys running in Danielson, he will do well to take his last look at the beloved tonight. Tomorrow the wake will be on—and after that the funeral. All know what happens to the dead. They are soon forgotten, and, experience of life has taught, that is best.

There are nearly 10,000 people in Killingly. Maybe as many as 200 of them have made a regular practice of riding on the trolley cars every week, if not every day. Will about the 9,800 who did not ride? "Their's not to wonder why," etc., their's but to sigh and enjoy—their motor cars and those of others and let the trolley company sigh for its dividends where it might find them. In the situation, their's would be but crocodile tears. One may well respect the regrets of those who have used the cars regularly and will feel that they have a friend and tried and friend in their passing.

But—"the king is dead, long live the king." This is an age of progress. The trolleys, dependable and worthy, have outlived their usefulness in this territory. A brigade of loyal friends will stand at attention and salute the last cars as they run through Danielson tonight—likely for the last time.

As to service, there need be little worry about the demise of the trolley runs. The new bus schedule of the Connecticut company likely will measure up to every requirement of regular service. The busses will run on approximately trolley schedules and the rates of fare will be the same, as to zones. In a week it is likely the busses will be proclaim d a great innovation. In any event, there is a possibility that they can be operated at a profit in this territory, and that's something even the greatest optimist ever could not say for the trolley line.

POLICE TAKING ACTION AGAINST USE OF "B-B GUNS"

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Nov. 29—Now here comes Chief John McFarland, head of the Danielson police department, with a perfectly good admonition. He's telling 100 Danielson boys, the number more or less, that they are altogether too reckless with their "B. B." guns, as they are familiarly known.

Activities with these air rifles, as many persons know them, have overstepped the danger line, in numbers of instances.

"He called me names," said a 14-year old boy in trying to excuse himself to Chief McFarland for shooting a little chap of about five years just under the eye. That's some excuse, the average man will yield. Now just imagine that. A great hulking youth with an air rifle shooting deliberately at little more than an infant to avenge himself for a fancied wrong. Of course, the defense was pure tommy-rot. Such an embryo man as that 14-year old boy should be called names by a real he-man, take a shot at him—and hit him—and then take the fine chastisement that such an incident deserves. Then, maybe, he would have a different viewpoint of life. There are 14-year old boys that can be taught things, even if information has to be beaten into them.

Boys with the "B. B." rifles have been shooting—and breaking—electric street light bulbs, breaking such lights and doing other fool things with their guns here for the past few weeks. They have become a nuisance, attracting attention of the borough and railroad police. A lot of good innocent fun can be had with a "B. B." rifle. There need be no menace to life or damage to property connected with it.

Evidently the boys hereabouts need a lesson. If they get it in the courts, they will be entitled to little sympathy. Possibly they will be awakened the fond dream that they can do anything they elect to do in this lawless age—and get away with it.

Parents who have children that are possessors of "B. B." guns will do well to have a little conference with them. The police have little or no sympathy left for the youngsters who think they, evidently, they are members of a wild, wild west and entitled to shoot hoodlums at anybody or anything.

A placid season that has been described as "a beautiful autumn," turned savage Saturday night and snapped its wrath out of the north, sending a near-zero temperature to Danielson Sunday morning. There were thermometer readings as low as 6 above zero here early Sunday. That's Old Winter in action. He hasn't dumped a cargo of snow over the landscape hereabouts as yet, but he seemed Sunday morning to be in a mood to do it. Well, the football season is over, all bets paid—or are they?—so why not have some winter. It might serve to refresh one after being subjected to the hot air waves emitting north from Florida—yes, it's hot air waves, not hot weather.

Another refuge of [illegible] motor cars has been closed in Danielson. "No Parking" signs were erected Saturday morning on that area of waste land fronting the graded school on School street. It is understood that the signs were put up after the no parking matter had been put before the town school committee and a vote taken to enforce the arrangement. The area in question has been used, free, as a parking area for some time past. Section of the signs started a lot of talk, pro and con. Another motive to bother people who come to Danielson in their cars to trade" was a very general comment. But all were not "free". There are arguments in favor of the no parking arrangement. Anyway, the signs are up. It will be seen to that they are obeyed.

In the meantime, only about a week intervenes before Center street becomes a one-way street. All the regulations and restrictions on motor car operation and parking are irksome to people who own cars. But things are not so bad. Possibly in another two years one will be required to have a nurse-maid with a car, and pay her good, too. Machines cannot be forever neglected, one knows, left without oil, gas or attention or anything else in the way of service. This is an age of progress. Look at Red Grange. He was playing for glory two weeks ago and now he is getting $10,000 a game, manager's commiss [illegible] taken out.

This appears to be an age when scolding pays no dividends. It matters little who does the scolding. It seems that there is a host of people around that there is a host of people around this area who will be generous and liberal and good-natured if you approach them on any legitimate errand in a proper mood, but it's bad practice to kick them in the shins two-fifths of a second before you ask them for $6.

At his home in Elmville Sunday afternoon at one o'clock funeral services were conducted by Rev. Chester J. Armstrong of the Danielson Baptist church for Nelson A. Jordan, who was engaged in business in Danielson for 24 years, retiring in September of last year. During the service George Gunther sang Face to Face, and Lead Kindly Light. The bearers were Arnold Battey, George Clisby, Walter A. Bruce and Everett T. Tillinghast. Burial was in Grove street cemetery at Putnam. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

It seems that the fox hunters who went out en masse Thanksgiving day and got no foxes are getting crushed a bit. But by no one more than the foxes. Here's a radiogram: "Coming back to Bradford ledges next week. Spending time since Thanksgiving eve on boardwalk, Atlantic City. No fox hunters, but plenty of foxes around flappers' necks. Hoping you are the same—or will be, as we expect to be eventually, and thanking you for the tip about the big fox hunt in The Bulletin, which we regularly have read to us. Fox League of Brooklyn, Inc., Ltd." Mostly limited.

For generations there has been a wheeze about the joy of school children who have experienced having the school they attend burn down. The inference is that there will be no school for them for a long time. No such luck for the children of the Gilbert district school of Brooklyn. Their schoolhouse burned down Thanksgiving eve, on the edge of a holiday season. This morning they will be absorbed in the grades of the Brooklyn Center school. Not a minute's extra vacation for them, for they would have had the Thanksgiving holiday, anyway.

Today is the feast of St. Andrew, which will be duly observed at St. James' church.

Arthur S. Bascombes of Fall River was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Sunday.

PUTNAM

MRS. MARY HOLT BURIED IN BROOKLYN SATURDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Nov. 29—The body of Mrs. Mary C. Holt, wife of Judge George C. Holt, who died Thursday afternoon was taken to New York city where private funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at St. George's chapel. Burial was in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn.

Judge Holt and all of the five children were with Mrs. Holt when the end came. The latter are, Dr. Hamilton Holt, president of Rollins college, Winter Park, Florida, Henry Holt, New York, Mrs. Ralph Reade of Manchester, N. H., and Miss Constance Holt and Miss Sylvia Holt, who live at home. For several years the family has resided in Woodstock but they had moved to Pomfret for the winter, occupying the summer home of L. L. Lorillard. Mrs. Holt had been an invalid for a long time but for the past month her condition had been critical.

She was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., July 26, 1848, the daughter of Henry C. and Lucy Tappan Bowen. After going through the Brooklyn schools she was graduated from Miss Porter's school at Farmington, Conn. She was married in 1871.

There are four brothers who survive, Edward A. Bowen, Clarence W. Bowen, Herbert W. Bowen and Frank Bowen, all of Woodstock; and two sisters, Mrs. R. B. Richardson and Mrs. Arthur S. Hardy. The latter, who is now in California for the winter, is the wife of the novelist and poet.

Waldo E. Chase, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Chase of Putnam and Miss Helen M. Hagerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emerson L. Hagerman of Toronto, Canada, were married recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Chase of Providence. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Earl E. Story of the Washington Park M. E. church. The bride was attended by Miss Mayme Winberg as maid of honor and Donald M. Riggs of Brown University was best man. The wedding was a very select one, only the family and immediate friends being present.

Mr. and Mrs. Chase will be at home after December 1, at 161 Church street in Putnam.

Frank H. Cordier of Putnam writes from Miami, Florida, that he is circulation manager of a new weekly newspaper at North Miami. Maj. A. D. McIntyre also from Putnam is advertising manager. Mr. Cordier says that he is delighted with the climate and is enjoying the summer sunshine in a new bungalow. He also speaks of frequently seeing Dr. Ernest Chapdelaine, who is the son of Mayor and Mrs. Chapdelaine of this city.

The Thanksgiving festivities at the Pomfret school brought a number of parents and friends of the boys, and the inn has been overflowing with holiday guests.

Lawrence Perkins of Pomfret and John J. Whitehead, Jr., of Putnam and New York sailed from Boston on the President Wilson for a three months trip abroad.

Frank Ethier, a teamster, was taken to the Day Kimball hospital on Thanksgiving day in an unconscious condition, following an accident. Ethier was driving a tin cart from Lavery street out to Buck street when the pin that holds the cart from tipping broke, throwing Ethier out of the cart onto the ground. An X-ray was taken to determine the extent of his injuries. He regained consciousness after several hours.

News of the death of James E. Bailey of New Bedford, formerly of Putnam, has been received by friends here. Mr. Bailey was 74 years of age and left Putnam some years ago. He was engaged in the dry goods business here under the firm name of J. E. Bailey & Company. The body will be brought to Putnam and burial will take place in Grove street cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sheppard of Oak Hill are entertaining Mrs. Sheppard's brother, William Rennert of South Bend, Ind. This is the first time in 20 years that Mr. Rennert has been in the east.

Miss Susan Grimes of Pomfret is spending the winter with her sister, Mrs. Henry Dubuc at Danielson.

Following the union service at the Congregational church at Webster Frank E. Shipnes of East Killingly was married to Miss Rose A. Chase of Webster by the Rev. Herbert E. Lombard. The couple left immediately after the ceremony for a wedding trip and on their return will live at Killingly.

Miss Helen Kimball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwell Kimball of North Grosvenordale, who is a student at Columbia university, New York city spent the week end with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Beauregard and Miss Antoinette Girard of Putnam have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Desaulniers at North Grosvenordale.

Miss Eleanor Murphy and Miss Isabel Courney of Bristol spent the week end with Miss Murphy's parents, Dr. and Mrs. B. F. Murphy, at their home on Sunnyside Heights.

Mrs. Agnes Wood of Pleasant street is the guest of her cousin, Miss Nellie Chandler at Woodstock.

The regular monthly Well Child conference will be held Tuesday afternoon in the High school auditorium, from 2 to 4 o'clock. This conference is free to mothers of children under six years. Doctors and nurses are in attendance.

Dr. Harry A. Houghton, who has been on a hunting and fishing expedition during the month of November has returned home.

Misses Bertha and Edith Child and Miss Pauline Libby, all students at Simmons college, in Boston, spent the mother of the Misses Child, Mrs. Annie C. Child of South Main street.

Miss Ruth Perry of Bridgewater, Mass., and Franklin Perry, a student at Amherst college, are spent the week end with their parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. F. Perry of Grove street.

Miss Celeste Reaves of Bay Path School at Springfield, spent the holiday and week end with her parents Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Saunders of School street.

Misses Lillian and Marion Warren of Grand View, have been the guests of friends in Providence for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Case and four sons of Worcester and Miss Lula Bennett of New Bedford, spent Thanksgiving with Mrs. Case's father, L. E. Smith, on Church street.

Miss Mae Pilling of Union street spent her holiday with friends at Hartford.

Mr. and Mrs. Newton A. Ballard of South Main street were in Reading, Mass., [illegible] the week end and were guests at a dinner given in honor of the first wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Stanton Ballard, by Mrs. Ballard's parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Porter.

Miss Elizabeth Russell of Worcester spent the week end with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Russell of Main street.

Miss Sarah Barber of Connecticut college, New London and Perry Barber of Worcester Tech, spent Thanksgiving with their mother, Mrs. W. R. Barber of School street.

Mrs. Carrie B. Gascoigne, of South Main street, entertained a family party at her home on Thanksgiving. Among those from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thorburn and children of East Providence, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carle and children of Boston, Mr. and Mrs Leland Bradley and Ransom Gascoigne of Southbridge, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Child of School street entertained relatives from Woodstock and Thompson on Thanksgiving.

Lieut. Jennie Padgington of the Salvation Army, was the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Padgington at Hyde Park, Mass., for Thanksgiving and the week end.

A family Thanksgiving party was held by Mr. and Mrs. Peter Belair, at their home on Providence street. Those present were Mrs. William Gagnon, Mr. and Mrs. James Leland of Worcester, Mrs. Charles Belair, Miss Rose Belair and Antonio Belair of Mechanicsville, and Mrs. Leonard Belair, of this city. Mrs. Gagnon and Mrs. Leland and children remained over the week end.

Charles Tourtelotte of Providence, formerly of this city, spent the holiday with his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Tourtelotte of Oak Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. George Newell of Washington, R. I., and Miss Barbara Newell of Wheaton college, Norton, Mass., spent Thanksgiving and the week end with Mrs. Newell's mother, Mrs. H. L. Burt of Grove street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dean and two daughters visited in New York city over the holiday and week end.

Chandler Morse, a student at Amherst college, was at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Morese, of Seward street, over the week end.

Fred Platt spent Thanksgiving day with relatives at Willimantic.

Miss Rhoda Gilpatric of Mt. Holyoke college, has been spending a few days with her mother, on Church St.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Miles and two children of Park street have been the guests of relatives at Newton, Mass.

Dr. and Mrs. F. A. Morrell of South Main street spent the holiday and week end with their son, Fred Morrell and family of New York city.

Old Apple Waste Recalled

Thirty years ago in a small Middle West town large and fine tomatoes retailed at 15 cents a peck. Now they sell at 12 cents a pound, says the Chicago Journal of Commerce. Dropped apples in the orchards were fed to the hogs or rotted on the ground. Now they are packed in baskets, shipped by express or carted to town to bring more than the finest peaches yielded in 1890. Fat hens that sold for 25 cents now bring $1.50. Farmers who got 50 cents a bushel for peachblow potatoes did well. Now it costs them 30 cents a bushel to raise them.

All the common domestic fruits—cherries, plums, pears, grapes, currants and such vegetables as cabbage, cucumbers, peas, onions and beets are sold high. Cherries and tomatoes particularly the home basis for food acids during the Winter, formerly "put up" for the mere cost of canning, are now obtained only at stiff prices, while eggs at 10 cents a dozen and extra good butter at 15 cents a pound during the Midsummer have passed away, never to return.

The second meeting of the season of the Westerly Women's Community club, Mrs. Grace P. Willard, president, will be held Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the Pawcatuck Seventh-day Baptist church on Main street. The speaker of the evening will be Mrs. Daniel Brummit, formerly of Virginia, and wife of the editor of "Epworth League" of Boston. The meeting, an open one, is what is known as the "Inspirational Meeting" of the year. Announcement will be made of a progressive movement for better citizenship with Mrs. Samuel H. Davis in charge of the educational work, which the society plans to undertake.

The second game in the series of bridge whist matches, by the members of the Westerly Masonic club, was won by the team captained by Caleb Mudge, when the bridge players under Capt. George E. Broughton were defeated by a total of 2630 points. The games are scheduled for Thursday nights, but due to Thanksgiving day the match was played on Friday evening with seven tables in play. A week ago Capt. Mudge's team won by 231 points so that their total lead is now 2861 points.

Work on the Westerly's United Theatre has progressed to such a point that practically the entire auditorium has been plastered and is almost dry and nearly ready to turn over to the lessors who are to proceed with the work of interior decoration. Some plastering work yet remains to be completed in the foyer entrance. The woodwork of the balcony floorinx and rails rapidly nears completion. The inclined

SEASON'S REVIEW OF EASTERN FOOTBALL SHOWS FORWARD PASS A BIG FACTOR

NEW YORK, Nov. 29—Dartmouth's great eleven, form reversals, capacity throngs, muddy fields and forward passes featured the east's greatest football season in history which closed Saturday. Only one championship failed of decision, that is the newly formed New England conference, wherein New Hampshire State and University of Maine finished deadlocked.

Dartmouth swept the east, downing Norwich, Hobart, Vermont, Maine, Harvard, Brown and Cornell before invading the west to conquer Chicago. The "big green" eleven, with Swede Oberlander and Myles Lane in the backfield, gathered 240 points in eight games and was scored upon only by Harvard, Cornell and Chicago.

Princeton, an uncertain quantity after playing a 10-10 tie with a supposedly mediocre Navy and then bowing to the prowess of little Eddie Tryon, Colgate captain, 9 to 0, arose to great heights in the "big three" engagements and overwhelmed its ancient foes, Harvard and Yale. Jack Slagle, halfback, was the principal factor in the surprising Tiger thrusts.

Amherst proved best among the "little three", defeating Williams and Wesleyan. Mohardt, brother of Johnny of Notre Dame, proved an exceptional backfield artist.

The Army gained the service championship by turning back the Navy on Saturday at the Polo grounds, 10 to 2, and Georgetown may well claim the Catholic college title through its conquest of Fordham which had beaten Holy Cross. Maine captured the crown in the Pine Tree State's four-cornered battle.

Dartmouth was the only undefeated and untied eleven in the east Colgate was unbeaten but tied by both Lafayette and Brown. Syracuse and Fordham remained in the title class until almost the end, falling before Colgate and Georgetown respectively. West Virginia and Pittsburgh each had only one defeat to mar otherwise formidable records.

Outstanding facts in the eastern season follow:

The highest score for a game was made by Cornell, 80 points against Susquehanna.

Several elevens scored less than 30 points through the season, including Bates 27, Clarkson Tech 27, Trinity 23, Tufts 24, Vermont 27, Drexel 22 and New York Aggies 22.

Georgetown permitted only 19 points in ten games. St. Mary's being the only team to cross the Washington team's goal line. Opponents scored 18 points against West Virginia in nine games, Pittsburgh registering 15 and thereby dealing out the only defeat for the mountaineers.

Tufts barely escaped the "always-defeated" class with a 7 to 6 victory over Maine in the first contest of the season.

Two of the leading undefeated elevens of 1924 Yale and Pennsylvania, were late season failures. Pennsylvania conquered Yale, 16 to 13, in the first great upset of the year only to fall before Illinois and Pittsburgh.

Yale was swamped by Princeton and played to a scoreless deadlock with a Harvard team that had been beaten by Holy Cross and Dartmouth and had defeated a Brown team, wrecked by injury, by a lone field goal.

Tiny forward pass, against which much was said a year ago, was used more than ever. Dartmouth, with all its great power, could do comparatively little with a sturdy Cornell line, so turned to the air and won, 62 to 13. Army beat Navy with a forward pass and Princeton kept Harvard and Yale on the run through overhead tactics.

Attendance disposed of all previous records, with new plants operating at Pittsburgh, Brown and Holy Cross and the great baseball parks of New York and Boston being used for college contests more than ever.

Storms interfered with many of the contests and in one week, that of the world's series, three games in the northeast were either cancelled or postponed because of snow.

WASHINGTON WINS FOOTBALL TITLE ON PACIFIC COAST

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29—(By The Associated Press)—Football on the western gridirons in 1925 left a wake of startling upsets climaxed by the crowning of a new Pacific Coast conference champion for the first time in six years.

The seasonal clashes saw the university of California hurled from the throne. To the university of Washington went the honor of terminating the reign of the golden bear.

By a coincident, Washington was the last team to defeat California before it started on its long rule of coast football. In 1919 the huskies won 7 to 6. And in November 14 1925, the northerners repeated with a seven to nothing score.

In winning ten of its eleven games this season, Washington rolled up 454 points to a total of 39 for its opponents. One game ended in a six to six tie. It was the contest with the University of Nebraska.

Washington came through the coast conference race with five victories.

Stanford ended the season with four conference wins and one defeat and placed next to Washington. The climax was reached when they overwhelmed California in the "big game" it was the first time in 20 years that Stanford had defeated their traditional rivals.

Oregon this year finished last with five defeats.

Oregon Agricultural College with three victories and one loss, can get into a tie with Stanford for second place by trouncing Southern California next Saturday.

TRYON, HIGH SCORER IN EASTERN FOOTBALL

NEW YORK, Nov. 29—(A. P.)—J. Edward Tryon, Colgate football captain is the leading scorer on the eastern intercollegiate gridiron with 111 points in eight games. Tryon crossed the enemy goal line 15 times for touchdowns and kicked 21 points after touchdown. The Colgate team played nine games but Tryon did not appear in the game against Providence.

Myles Lane of Dartmouth is second with 102 points while Harlan Carr of Syracuse is third with 100 points. Borelli of Muhlenberg and Graham of Fordham are tied for fourth place honors with 78.

Nationally, "Peggy" Flournoy of Tulane leads with 192 points, Benny Friedman of Michigan leads the western conference with 52 points while former honors go to Kaer of Southern California with 90 points.

The season leaders follow

Player College	T	FG	TP	TI

Game Postponed

The game scheduled to be played at Sachem Field Falls Sunday afternoon between the Richmond and Natmegs eleven was called off at the eleventh hour because of unforeseen circumstances. Next Sunday the Nutmegs will probably close their 1925 season with some fast team at Sachem field.

Sir Galahad is Sold.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—(A. P.)—Sir Galahad, one of the most celebrated horses bred in France, winner of the Lincolnshire in 1924 and victor in a match race with Epinard, has been sold to Arthur Hancock, of Paris, Kentucky, by the owner, Captain Jefferson Davis Cohn.

Sir Galahad is by Tetty out of Plucky Liege and is esentially a sprinter. He will introduce a great strain of blood in the Blue Grass country.

INDOOR BASEBALL LEAGUE OPENS TONIGHT AT ARMORY

This Monday evening at the Armory the Norwich Indoor League will get underway when the Greeneville Tigers and Nutmegs clash at 6:30 and Battery B and Faber's All Stars meet at 9:30.

Included in the rosters of the four clubs are the names of many well-known athletes who need no introduction to Norwich fans. All players are requested to be on hand at least fifteen minutes before playing time so that all contests can begin at the appointed hours.

In tonight's opener at 6:30 the Tigers and Nutmegs, bitter rivals in all branches of sports, will clash. For the Tigers the following is the probable starting lineup: Catchers, Goldblatt o B. Labenski; pitchers, McGowan or B Labenski; 1b, Cimikoski (Capt.); 2b, Brigham; 3b, Nevins (Mgr.) or Lee Carrol; rss, Yerrington; lss, Swanton or Nevins; outfielders, L. Hamil, E. Hamil, Marks, Connell and Jarvis.

For the Nutmegs, Ellis Sezal or Jab Burnes (Capt.) will toss them over with P. Tombari or Burnes on the receiving end; Gil Kampf will perform at first and Pheno Tombari will hold down second while Ed Healy will play third. At the two short stops will be seen Gibbs, W. Burnes, Kelly or Carlin. In the outfield some of the fastest men in these parts will perform, namely, Joe Jackson, Armstrong, Courbois, Brown, Falcone, Fitzgerald and Brewer.

In the alter game, at 9:30, two other bitter rivals will meet when Faber's All Stars and Battery B come together. The Battery has an exceptionally fast team this season, having cleaned up all rivals to date, winning by large scores in the majority of their games. However, the Stars have strengthened for the league and are out to get the Battery's scal. Two good games should be in order this evening and a goodly crowd of local fans should be on hand to send the league off to a good start. Competent officials will handle all games to the satisfaction of all concerned.

RED GRANGE FEATURES IN CHICAGO TEAM'S VICTORY

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—(A. P.)—Harold "Red" Grange, making his second appearance as a professional football player today, did his stuff" on a snow covered gridiron, helping the Chicago Bears defeat the Columbus Tigers 14 to 13 while 25,000 fans shouted their approval.

Aside from experiencing his first professional football victory, Grange was also able to win almost twice as much yardage as he did in the 14 game on Thanksgiving day with the Chicago Cardinals.

Last week he made a total of 109 yards, and today he carried the ball 36 times for a gain of 238 yards and from scrimmage advanced the ball 75 yards.

His scrimmage gains varied from 1 to 12 yards and once he was thrown for a one-yard loss. He shot four forward passes, two being completed and paving the way for his team's two touchdowns. One of them, Grange to Walquist, was good for 28 yards and his team's first touchdown, although he made no score himself.

He was on the receiving end of two forward passes and on one of them raced forty yards, went down with a thump and dropped 20 yards before being downed.

After the game it was announced that Earl Britton, fullback and Grange's former teammate on the University of Illinois eleven, had signed a contract to play professional football with the Chicago Bears. He is expected to appear in the Bears' lineup at St. Louis next Wednesday.

FIVE RECORDS BROKEN IN CULVER CITY RACE

CULVER CITY, Calif., Nov. 29—(A P.)—Five world's speed records were broken here today during the running of the Culver City 250 Mile classic. The event was won by Frank Elliott, who established a new record for 250 miles with an average of 127.87 miles an hour.

Harry Harts finished second, three-fourths of a lap behind Elliott. Fred Comer was third. Bob McDonough fourth and Earl Cooper fifth.

Four of the five records were broken by Cooper, who was leading the field until he ran out of gasoline on the 155th lap.

One accident marred the race. Red Cairns suffered a basal skull fracture and possible internal injuries and Jerry Wonderlich less serious injuries when their cars collided on the twenty-fourth lap.

Cooper's new records are: 132.6 miles an hour for 75 miles against 123.6 made by Leon Duray at Salem, N. H., October 31, 1925; 131.8 miles an hour for 100 miles as against Duray's record of 128.55 made at Salem the same date; 130.7 miles per hour for 150 miles as compared to Bennett Hill's mark of 127.3 made at Culver City, December 14, 1924; 129.5 miles per hour for 200 miles against 126.3 miles for that distance established by Hill at Culver City, December 14, 1924.

ALABAMA AND TULANE LEADERS IN SOUTH

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 29.—(A. P.)—Football in the south in 1925 was featured by the number of excellent teams developed in the southern conference. Both Alabama and Tulane went through the season without a defeat and neither suffered a tie in the conference. Tulane failed to win only one game in its ten game schedule, getting a six to six tie with Missouri, champions of the Missouri Valley conference. Alabama and Tulane did not meet.

MANY UPSETS IN MOST SPECTACULAR SEASON OF FOOTBALL IN HISTORY

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The 1925 football season, chiefly notable for the unprecedented number and character of its upsets in the ranks of major colleges throughout the country, has come to a spectacular close.

The Army's triumph over the Navy in their "air controversy" at the Polo Grounds yesterday not only supplied a brilliant closing spectacle but furnished a fittingly sensational climax to a gridiron campaign, which, besides witnessing the downfall of champions and contenders alike in a startling parade of form reversals, also saw the establishment of new attendance records, viewed the revolutionary development of the forward pass by such great elevens as Dartmouth, Princeton, and Michigan, and glimpsed Red Grange, of Illinois, as he passed from the intercollegiate picture.

Grange himself was a victim of the general "overthrowing" tendency for the famous redhead was stopped abruptly on several notable occasions, although he left convincing proof of his ability on the fields against Iowa, Pennsylvania and Ohio State before turning professional to capitalize the gridiron's best advertised career.

Fully 12,000,000 spectators, reliable estimates indicate, watched the ebb and flow of college gridiron fortunes during the two months' season. To take care of this astonishing attendance which represents an increase of 2,000,000 over the figures of 1924, new and gigantic stadia have sprung up in all parts of the country with Pittsburgh and Brown dedicating two of the most imposing additions to the game's great monuments.

Grange was the leading "gate" attraction of the fall and Red's drawing power were responsible for the season's high single game attendance of 84,295 in Ohio State's stadium at Columbus. All told it was figured that Grange played before an aggregate throng of 271,000 during his final season and approximately three-quarters of a million during his three-year course.

Grange's exploits were the most keenly watched of any throughout the season but the big majority of critics agree that the Illinois star did not measure up to the brilliant individual consistency of Andy (Swede) Oberlander, blond Dartmouth halfback whose work was chiefly responsible for lifting the big Green eleven to a premier position in the east and general recognition as the country's outstanding team.

Dartmouth, with Oberlander's passing a leading factor in every victory, not only established eastern supremacy by conquering Harvard, Cornell and Brown by decisive margins but wound up a sensational season by swamping Chicago in one of the season's outstanding intersectional frays.

Michigan in the middlewest, Alabama in the south and the University of Washington in the far west shared recognition with Dartmouth as the foremost combinations developed during the fall but the big Green outfit generally is selected as the successor to Notre Dame in possessing claims for national honors.

Michigan, with a team described by Head Coach Yost as the greatest he has ever coached, might have disputed Dartmouth's high ranking claims but for a stunning setback at the hands of Northwestern. This defeat for the Wolverines by a 3-2 score, one of the season's greatest upsets, came about on a muddy and almost unplayable field but nevertheless served to blot what otherwise was one of the finest records of any eleven in the country.

Michigan and Alabama shared distinction as the best defensive outfits among the major teams, Northwestern's field goal representing the only score against the Wolverines, while Alabama had only one touchdown tallied against it in sweeping toward the southern conference championship for the second straight year.

Washington takes conspicuous rank for its achievement in ending the five-year reign of California's Golden Bears in the Pacific coast conference. After trimming Stanford, Washington handed the Bears their first defeat in college competition since 1919 but the new coast champions had a close call in their final game when they managed to win by only a single point from Oregon.

Dartmouth and Alabama were alone among these major teams in being neither beaten nor tied, However, Washington, although supreme in its own territory, was tied by Nebraska, Tulane's powerful machine was Alabama's strongest southern rival but sustained a tie against Missouri, holder of the Missouri Valley title for the second straight year. In the east, Colgate was unbeaten but ties with Boston and Lafayette kept the team featuring Eddie Tryon from threatening Dartmouth's position.

Northwestern's victory over Michigan stood out as the most startling upset of all but it was scarcely less sensational than the way Princeton overthrew Harvard and Yale to dislodge the Ells from the "Big Three" title or such reversals as Columbia's victory over the Army team which had trounced Notre Dame, Illinois' smashing triumph over Pennsylvania with Grange leading the charge or Washington State's defeat of Southern California, the country's highest scoring machine. Such scores as that of 54-0 Michigan rolled up against the Navy, Minnesota's 33-0 decision over Iowa, and Dartmouth's 62-13 verdict over Cornell proved even greater surprises than the results.

ALL RECORDS BROKEN THIS SEASON IN WESTERN CONFERENCE FOOTBALL

CHICAGO, Nov. 29—(By the Associated Press)—The 1925 gridiron championship of the western conference, now a matter of scrambled history, produced the greatest carnival of upsets since the advent of the forward pass in 1906, a season that never has been equalled so far as results or wretched weather conditions were concerned.

The campaign was a record breaker in attendance and marked the passing of the star Harold "Red" Grange of Illinois. The Michigan and Chicago games with Illinois at Urbana drew 60,000 and 70,000, respectively while the Ohio-Illinois contest at Columbus, with which Grange faded over the intercollegiate horizon, was witnessed by 85,000. With one exception, the greatest throng that ever saw a football game in America.

Another outstanding development came in the Michigan-Illinois game in which a record for continuous play of modern football teams was believed to have been set. Neither team made a substitution. The original lineups starting and finishing the game. Coach Yost of the Wolverines said this never has been equalled.

Michigan without a doubt had the greatest team in the conference if not one of the greatest in the country, and takes first place in the final ranking, although having lost to Northwestern in the famous battle of the mud.

Michigan's achievement in rolling up 227 points against 3 by its opponents is the best the Wolverines have done since 1917, when they scored 304 points against 43 for their opponents. Coach Yost finishing his 25th year as mentor of the Wolverines, considers the showing of his warriors the most remarkable offensive record ever made in football.

In their last three games they allowed only four first downs to be made against them, a record that Yost considers out-standing, in six games with firm footing they made 222 points for an average of 37 points a game and in each of these games—with the Michigan Aggies, Indiana, Wisconsin, Navy, Ohio and Minnesota—the Wolverines' opponents did not register a score.

Northwestern was the only team that came against Michigan, registering a field goal that gave the purple eleven a 3 to 2 victory in a game played in ankle-deep mud.

Northwestern lost its only conference game to Chicago. After Michigan and Northwestern, Wisconsin stands out as the next strongest team in the Big Ten.

"Red" Grange passed over the intercollegiate football horizon leading his "fighting Illini" to a victory over Ohio State in a manner befitting one of the great stars of the game.

In the conference ranking, Illinois finished in the same position as Iowa losing two and winning two games, while Chicago was next in the list with two victories, two defeats and a tie with Ohio State. The Buckeyes scored only one win in the conference, losing three and registering a tie, while neither Purdue nor Indiana broke into the winning column, although playing each other to a score-less tie.

The supposedly strong Minnesota eleven, with its mysterious shift, had a chance to wreck the championship aspirations of Michigan, but received a sound wallopping.

The performance of the Gophers in winning one game, losing another and tying, leaves them in fourth place.

Benny Friedman, Michigan sophomore quarter, was the leading point winner of the conference. He rolled up four touchdowns, two field goals and 28 points after touchdowns for a total of 52. "Cowboy" Nick Kutsch, star of the Iowa team, who piled up a margin early in the season, was second with 49 points made by six touchdowns, three field goals and four points after touchdowns.

Chicago will be hardest hit of all teams in the conference in figuring out possibilities for next year. There were 15 seniors on the Maroon squad and their loss means that Coach Stagg must develop an entirely new team for the 1926 campaign. Northwestern gets off lighter than any team in the Big Ten. The only seniors are Tim Lowry, captain and center, Siedly and Matthews, Ende, and Chrisman, quarterback, Harry Hall, quarterback, and Brown, tackle, have played the last games of their college careers.

Outside the conference, Coach Rockne of Notre Dame seems to have known what he was talking about when at the start of the season, he predicted that Notre Dame would lose only to Army and Nebraska. In the Missouri Valley conference, Missouri snared championship honors, with Drake second and and the Kansas Aggies third.

MAINE AND NEW HAMPSHIRE TIED FOR N. E. HONORS

STORRS, Nov. 29.—(A. P.)—The defeat administered to Massachusetts Aggies by Springfield on Thanksgiving day broke the triple tie existing at top place in the New England conference, and now New Hampshire and Maine have a clear claim to first honors.

Maine, which at the start of the season, was not considered a strong contender for conference honors, finished its schedule by playing New Hampshire to a scoreless tie. This puts the Pine Tree team on an equal footing with the Granite Staters, and the splendid record made after getting away to a poor start adequately backs up the claim of the Maine eleven. Dartmouth and Tufts were the only teams to take the measure of the Maine eleven this year which in addition to conference honors, also won the championship of the Maine State series.

New Hampshire suffered only one defeat, losing to Brown. Victories were gained over Norwich, Rhode Island, Tufts and Connecticut Aggies. Tie contests were played with Springfield and Maine.

Massachusetts Aggies won all their games except the two dropped to Amherst and Springfield. Teams defeated include Bates, Norwich, Connecticut Aggies, Worcester Tech, Tufts and Lowell Textile.

Connecticut Aggies and Rhode Island, the remaining members of the conference, both had unsuccessful seasons.

MILLER'S PLAYS FEATURE BLUES' VICTORY SUNDAY

HARTFORD, Nov. 29 (AP)—Led in their attack by Harry Sturhldreher and "Don" Miller, half of the famous 1924 "Four Horsemen" backfield combination, from Notre Dame, and Mac Kert, the powerful plunging back of Maryland's great team of a few years back, George Mulligan's Hartford Blues, handed the All-New Britain professional football team a stinging 28 to 7 defeat and retained the 1925 gridiron title of the Nutmeg state in a former game, New Britain had won by a six to nothing margin.

The wonderful, broken field running of Miller, was the feature of the game while MacKert's masterly line plunging and Sturhldreher's uncanny forward passing were the telling strokes in the great victory. Twice Miller skirted the end for a touchdown and the third time ran for seventy yards through the broken field only to have the ball brought back for holding. MacKert plunged through the New Britain line twice for scores. The only New Britain score came on the fourth play of the game when a MacKert fumble was scooped up by Perry Bean, former Yale end, who ran seventy-two yards for a touchdown.

We are told that wealth does not bring happiness, and we know that poverty doesn't.

THIEF AT NEW LONDON FITTED STOLEN CAR WITH SET OF PLATES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 29.—A Columbia touring car, that had been parked on the wrong side of Golden street, near Union street a day and a night, was taken to a garage last night by the police. This afternoon Harry Reagan, fireman first class, assigned to the U. S. S. Bushnell, appeared at the police station, stated that the car was his property and that it was taken from the submarine base Friday by some one unknown to the owner. Reagan declared that there were no registration plates on the car, but when the police took charge of the machine a complete set of plates were on it. Reagan declares that he has never had the machine registered in the car was found a "liberty" card bearing the name, "J. H. Carruthers, mess attendant, first class, U. S. S. Bushnell."

Eno Montali, 230 Shaw street; Charles Leverone, 33 Mill street; Miss Mary O'Neill, 25 Ashcraft road and Miss Mary Curtin, 235 Connecticut avenue, young people attending Bulkeley High school-Williams Memorial Institute dance at Bulkeley auditorium, Thanksgiving eve, who were injured when the automobile driven by Montali overturned at Flat Rock, Waterford, were able to leave Lawrence hospital yesterday afternoon and return to their homes. Miss Anna Reisch, of Chappell street, also in the accident, who is the most seriously injured of all, having a fractured pelvic bone, will be under treatment at the institution indefinitely.

Henry S. Wade, 82 Willetts avenue, was ordered to appear in the police court Monday morning and answer to a charge of violation of the city's parking laws, Saturday afternoon, when Traffic Officer John Courtney detected Wade parking his car on Bank street for a period longer than is allowed.

The police dragnet scooped in four victims of liquor late Saturday afternoon and Saturday evening. All of the offenders will be in the police court Monday morning. Joseph Saunders, 5 Jay street was taken into custody by Patrolmen Augustus Ray, Frank Philopena and Augustus Ray when he was found insensible in the rear of the Woolworth building, State street. This morning he was released upon furnishing a surety on his bond of $25 in Patrick Hawkins, for his court appearance. Thomas Connelly, 82 Golden street, and George Siline, a stranger, were found boisterously drunk on North Bank street and were arrested by Sergeant Nelson Smith and Patrolmen David Nagle and Clyde Murphy. The men arrested furnished a cash bond for their court appearance. Thomas Reagan, of Mago Point, Waterford, was picked up on Bank street by Sergeant Samuel Hick and being unable to furnish a surety on his bond, was held a prisoner pending the convening of the police court.

Arthur J. Page, 301 Broad street, is scheduled to be presented in the police court Monday morning on a charge of violation of the automobile laws, on two counts. Page was complained against by Patrolman Clarence Martin, who alleged that Page operated his machine in a reckless manner on Bank street, near Shaw street this afternoon and failed to heed a signal given him by the officer. Sergeant Nelson Smith later located Page and ordered him into court.

The funeral of Thomas Farace, formerly of Gallows Lane, Waterford, who died of pneumonia a week ago, while visiting his brother, Frank Farace, in Buffalo, N. Y., was held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners. A mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Raymond O'Callahan. Friends acted as bearers. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Albert D. Andrus, 34, of 37 Franklin street, died Friday night at Home Memorial hospital, where he had been under treatment but short time. Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Mr. Andrus' home. Rev. Philip M. Kerridge, record of St. James Episcopal church, read the service. The body was forwarded to Mr. Andrus' former home, Windsor, Conn., where burial took place today. Mr. Andrus was employed as bookkeeper by the American Railway Express company in this city.

Mrs. Clarence Johnson, of Stony Hill; Mrs. Kate C. Crocker, Hotel Mohican; Mrs. H. Burnham Lamb and infant son, Poquonoc Bridge, and Mrs. Lester Chappell, Minor avenue, Waterford, patients at Lawrence Memorial hospital, were discharged Saturday.

James Elwood, 16 Walker street, injured in an automobile accident at Quaker Hill last Sunday afternoon when a machine owned and driven by Arthur Dunnmire, 311 Williams street, overturned, resulting in the almost instantaneous death of Raymond Johnson of Uncasville, was able to return to his home Saturday. Dunmire, who suffered a fractured pelvic bone, is improving slowly, but it will be made weeks before he is able to leave the hospital.

Wrich E. Riese and Miss Elsie S. Stahr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Stahr, 32 Cutler street, were married Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ.

The police department received information Friday night that led to the belief that Ben Hankin, at whom Floyd Mitchell is alleged to have shot, as Hankin escaped from Mitchell's place after a night spent at playing poker, intended to leave these parts without leaving his address, so the police sought and took Hankin into custody. He was in the police court Saturday and was held as a material witness, in a bond of $500 Louis Eleten became surety on the bond. Hankin will appear in court Tuesday, when Mitchell is to appear for trial for felonious assault, and then will have to tell the truth as to what occurred. Half a dozen others also were in the Mitchell place when the shooting occurred have already made statements under oath and these statements have been written out in detail so that the evidence against Mitchell is as complete as it is possible to get it. The statements are all of the same tenor and agree. It is understood, as to every detail. Mitchell may have a defense that will extricate him from the trouble he appears to be in, but what it is no one will venture to say. It is claimed by friends of Mitchell that Hankin had left the room when the shots were fired and so he could not have been in security. It is represented that Mitchell regarded Hankin as an interloper and that Hankin had been ordered to leave the place. He did not go, so Mitchell went to a closet, secured the gun and then shot into the air, having no intention to shoot the uninvited guest. But against this statement the declaration is made by one witness, it is said, that Mitchell stood at the door of the closet and leaded the pistol in the sight of others in the room. So it is apparent that no unsubstantiated statements made will be accepted by the court. Several witnesses who were held in jail for appearance have been released, among them the dealer at the poker game. Others are held there so that they will be certain to appear. It is understood that Mitchell has not much of money in his business, but the claim of his friends is that he has spent it among his friends and now has little means.

THIS SAILOR GOT GAY ONCE TOO OFTEN WITH SHEA

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 29—Three rowdy sailors from the submarine base, patrons of the restaurant at the corner of State street and Railroad avenue, were in the police court Saturday for an attack upon John Shea, a railroad employe. They escaped paying the penalty for their offense because they told practically the same story and stuck to what they said was the truth. Shea had only his unsupported testimony to rely upon, so the testimony of the accused outweighed that of Shea and the sailors secured a suspended judgment. Shea claimed that he went into the restaurant at the conclusion of his day's work and while he was at the counter eating, the sailors tried to start an argument with him. He paid little or no attention to them, when one of the sailors, John J. Harte, pulled him from a stool and struck him. Orlando Levy and Emil Witte, other sailors, then pitched upon Shea and as a result his face was bruised and lacerated. Persons familiar with the situation declare that the sailors are inclined to provoke rows in the same restaurant and that they stick together when they become involved in fights.

As might be expected, Shea was sorer over the result of the persecution of the sailors than he was over the bruised face, so he made it that there was some satisfaction due him. He proceeded to get it last evening. He sought out Sailor Harte at the restaurant and taking him to the rear of the building he administered a thrashing to him that Harte will be apt to remember. He took all the fight out of Harte and did the job with the skill of a veteran hand. Harte finally said he was satisfied and concluded that one beating deserved another. Whether Levy and Witte seek the same sort of treatment for Levy and Witte cannot be predicted.

The New London community chest committee in Ludwig Mann, Mrs. Arther B. Calkins, Walter S. Garde, president of the chest; William L. Apley, secretary of the chest; Percy Coe Eccleston, budget committee chairman; Harvey Leebron, executive director of the chest; Mrs. Rosemary G. Anderson, Wilter Lewis, and William T. May.

The community chest budget committee made public Saturday the individual expenditures approved for the 19 recipient agencies and the minimum appropriations included for them in the 1926 community chest campaign goal as follows:

Budgets for 1926	Total Approved Expenditures	Net Community Chest Appropriation
Child Welfare Work
Day Nursery	$ 4,277	$ 1,919

Alfred Feuernier, Waterford; Mrs. Isadore Diamond and infant son, 1 Grand street; Mrs. David Astor and infant son, 23 Howard street, and Mrs. Louis Koslin, 85 Wall street, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were dismissed Saturday.

Funeral services for Victor H. Crandall, formerly of Groton, whose death occurred at the residence of his sister, Mrs. James H. Bliven, 18 Lincoln avenue, several days ago, were held Saturday afternoon in the chapel of Woonsocket, R. I., where interment took place.

Henry G. Fuller, a former resident of New London, died recently in Chicago in which city Mr Fuller had resided a number of years. Besides his wife, Mrs. Fuller is survived by three daughters, the Misses Dorothy C. Lucilla M., and Catherine M. Fuller and by two sons, Henry F. Jr., and Nathan B. Fuller.

Edward Cantevall, Uncasville, was taken into custody early this evening by State Police Officers Caron and Kulowski, Groton barracks, charged with intoxication and breach of the peace. He is locked up at the police station and will be arraigned before Justice of the Peace Oscar Church, Montville, Monday. Cantenell had been drinking the greater part of the afternoon and while at a residence in Uncasville he became so abusive as to cause a fight and his arrest followed.

Announcement is made of the engagement of George A. Williams Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Williams, 394 Bank street, and Miss Anna DeDecl, Hawthorne, N. J.

A number of New Londoners motored to Hartford this afternoon where they witnessed a football game between professional teams.

The man injured in the automobile accident on Bank street, Friday night when struck by the machine owned and operated by Irving M. Snitkin, 14 Cutler street, receiving among other injuries, an extensive fracture of the skull, was identified Saturday by Harold Oberemat, Fishers Island, as Archie Doorman, of Centerville, Conn., an employe at the golf grounds, Fishers Island, where construction work is in progress. Oberemat came to New London after the foreman of the construction work had been informed by the police, that one of his employes was critically injured. Going to the Lawrence hospital Oberemat positively identified Doorman. At the hospital this evening it was stated that Doorman's condition still remained critical and although there was a very slight improvement, he was on the danger list. Relatives in Centerville have been notified of the condition of their relative.

A wooden fence on Federal street is in danger of collapsing and possibly inflicting personal injury to pedestrians. The danger spot was reported to the police this afterno

USING GOVERNMENT BUILDINGS

In connection with the application of economy in the conduct of the federal government there have been several instances of late to show what can and what should be done.

It was only a few weeks ago that the rent of a building which the government has been hiring in Washington for one of the department bureaus was substantially advanced. An increase will be paid but the outcome of such a situation means greater encouragement for the construction of government owned buildings, a program for which will probably be presented to the coming session of congress.

But while there is talk and arguments for the building of more buildings to house the government's bureaus and departments, the chance of some of them getting along with less room is also being considered. It is to be noted, for instance that there is pending the transfer of the activities and personnel of the department of labor from quarters which are at present hired to the building of the interior department. This will mean the saving of $100,000 a year.

This change was made possible because of consolidation of bureaus and the better occupancy of the pension office building, but it is indicative of what economies can be effected through a proper use of government property.

A proper use of government property.

That the government should have its various activities housed under its own roofs is a desirable objective. If the annual rents could be devoted to such an end appreciable aid would be obtained, but while the idea is being urged and the day is undoubtedly coming when it will be carried out it is well that such serious efforts as that in the transfer of the labor department to the interior building should be made. There is no more reason for the toleration of waste in making bad use of floor space than in paying exorbitant rents without making an effort to get away from it. Because such things have been done for a long time is perhaps one of the best reasons for stopping them.

BRIAND IN COMMAND

France appears to have for the present overcome its political crisis and for the eighth time Aristide Briand becomes premier of that country with a cabinet and policies that will command the support of the deputies.

The makeup in the chamber of deputies has been such that it was possible for the combination of minority parties to command the situation. All went well until Herriot was called upon to act as premier for the second time. Then he encountered this combination and was unable to make any headway against it. The result that he was obliged to abandon his effort in disgust and that disgust resulted in the breaking away from the combination by the radical socialist group of which he is the head and creating a situation which made the Briand government possible. It was not the intention of the socialistic combination to create such an outcome. But they overplayed their game. They hung to their demands when they had become unreasonable. They lost the confidence of one of those small groups upon whom they depended, with the result that it turned the scales. It is interesting to note in this respect that it was the unyielding position of the socialistic group which caused the radical socialists to kick over the traces.

Briand faces no easy task but he is the man of the hour for the premiership. He can be relied upon to play a strong hand. He has influence and he has surrounded himself with well known and influential men and it is to be hoped for the good of France that he can command the confidence of the deputies long enough for the adjustment of the financial problems of that country. Could they have been tackled under the Painleve regime without the intrusion of unwarranted politics the present situation could have been avoided. An important move in that direction was accomplished when the socialistic combination was broken. For the good of France it will be well if it remains broken.

MODERN ROADS

Road building is constantly undergoing changes. Since the days when good roads were first called for there has been much progress. There was much to be said then for good gravel roads, and there are good ones to be had to day. But it was not long before the Telford roads, the macadam roads, the tar-bound macadam, the asphalt, the cement and the reinforced cement made their appearance. Each step was taken in search of something better, something more permanent.

Through experience with good roads it became evident that though the so-called permanent roadbeds cost more money such an expenditure meant a saving in the end for the cost of maintenance and the cost of renewal were much less than in the case of the other types of roads.

But even in the construction of permanent roads today the use of them has become so great that what were considered adequate roads when they were built are inadequate today. Traffic demands are not only for permanency but for greater width. Roads that were built 18 feet wide will accommodate a great many vehicles but they will not take care of the amounts of traffic in many localities. There are even many of the improved roads which are not of the permanent type that are being broadened even as they are being straightened. This is for the purpose of better accommodating the 17,000,000 cars and trucks that are in operation in this country today and increasing at a substantial rate every year.

Under such conditions there is nothing unusual about the demands for wider roads, whether they happen to be old ones or new ones, though the wisdom of building them wider when first constructed, as a matter of economy, is perfectly apparent. How much recognition is given to this is indicated by the fact that one county in Michigan has adopted a minimum of 44 feet for its entire system of highways and one highway in that state will soon be completed at a width of 88 feet for 16 miles. These instances simply go to show what thought is being given to the present and future demand.

THE MITCHELL CASE

Much has been heard of the Mitchell case. The court martial of Colonel Mitchell is now underway for the manner in which he made an attack upon the army and navy officials, shouted and wrote about the incompetency in the handling of airplanes and dirigibles and belittling in general the whole plan of air service in this country.

It was of course a play to the galleries, an endeavor to have his own ideas brought out at the expense of the government, and as the evidence has tended to indicate the fact that certain recommendations of his were not adopted immediately caused him to carry the matter to the country over the heads of his superiors.

Those who live in glass houses should not throw stones. Colonel Mitchell, who was General Mitchell at one time, was across during the war. In the early days of the Morrow commission of inquiry Major General Harbord, in questioning Major General Hines, said: "General Drum described to us this morning a case where 150 airplanes went up in the air to go over to the German side, and while they were gone the Germans planes came over and bombed our troops. Do you know who is responsible for that?"

Major General Hines: I have heard.

Major General Harbord: Do you mind telling?

Major General Hines: I have heard it was General Mitchell.

That was an instance of the efficiency of the air service general on the field of battle who rushes into public criticism of his superiors in times of peace.

In the court martial last week Colonel Mitchell was asked if he has not made a statement to the effect that disgruntled persons in the army should not be allowed to interfere with its organization.

He admitted it but said that that was when he was on the general staff and he is now convinced that he never made a worse statement.

In other words, everything is all right when he does it but it becomes all wrong when he undergoes a change of mind, and that while he believed others should not do what he did, it was all right just as soon as he did it.

WHOLESALE PARDONING

The governor of Texas is determined to keep in the limelight, and apparently intends to lose no opportunity of building up her political strength regardless of where it comes from.

As a Thanksgiving offering she handed out pardons to 105 convicts and thus made an appeal to the criminal class of that state and those who are interested therein one way or another. It was an indulgence in that practice which Cole Blease brought strongly to public attention when he was governor of South Carolina.

Texas isn't the only state where the governor has the pardoning power but there are not any where it is exercised on such a reckless and wholesale scale and certainly it cannot make the public feel very happy to realize that despite its laws and the efforts to penalize murderers, forgers and those who have committed manslaughter and other crimes they are completely knocked in the head by one sitting in the governor's chair. Such pardoning cannot serve to modify the opposition which is rising against the Ferguson regime.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

For baking bread and pastry have an oven that will in five minutes turn a piece of white paper a dark brown.

When boiling an old fowl or tough meat add a pinch of soda to the water. Simmer gently and the meat will be perfectly tender.

Linseed oil well rubbed into oilcloth will make it last twice as long. Wipe it off well and let it dry thoroughly before using.

If you want a jelly to set quickly the best plan is to dissolve the gelatin in a small quantity of hot water and then add cold water to make up the amount.

First rub grease over the new tinware and keep it in a warm place for a few days. Then the utensil is less likely to rust.

Throw salt on the juice that oozes into the oven from the fruit pie. It will prevent smoke and smell.

To appear to their best advantage pictures should be hung so that the center of the picture will be on the level with the eye of a person standing.

When water refuses to flow freely from your sink attach a small piece of rubber hose to the cold water faucet, put the other end of the hose down the sink spout, turn the water on full force, flush the pipes.

Sprinkle the top of a starchy dessert such as cornstarch mould or tapioca pudding lightly with granulated sugar. This will prevent a scum forming while the dessert is cooling.

Peas are excellent boiled with lettuce as the slightly bitter taste of the lettuce seems to bring out the full sweetness of the peas.

When putting out a candle hold the light above you and then blow. If you do this the wick will not smoulder, and therefore the candle will be easily lighted again. The contrary will be the case if you blow downward.

Fish which contain few bones may be converted into filets by dividing the flesh from the backbone in long, wide strips and then removing any smaller bones. Soles supply the best filets.

KEEPING DINNER WARM

When it is necessary to keep a dinner warm for a belated member of a family, do not set the plate containing the food in the oven. Place it on top of a pan of boiling water. It will keep hot and moist and the plate will not be cracked or discolored.

TO CLEAN WHITE RAINCOAT

To clean a white raincoat cut up two ounces of good yellow soap and boil it in a little water till dissolved then let it cool a little and stir in half an ounce of powdered magnesia. Wash the raincoat with this, using a nail brush for the soiled parts; rinse off the dirty soap and dry with a clean cloth.

TEA AND COFFEE POTS

Tea and coffee pots that have been laid aside for some time often have a disagreeable, musty smell. To prevent this, before putting the pot away wash it thoroughly in hot water to which a lump of soda has been added. Then rinse it with cold water and leave to dry.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

A teaspoonful of honey in a cup of hot milk is one of the best drinks for small children.

When a baby becomes fussy and fretful, throwing playthings on the floor and crying for no apparent cause, don't call him naughty and stand him in the corner. He needs a rest, whether he thinks so or not.

When one is ill, the skin requires even more care than when one is well. That is why we bathe patients in bed daily, and rub and massage them to keep the circulation normal.

Thinning hair around the temples receding from the forehead, fading away into a minority on the crown. How can you stop it? The thing to do is, the moment it begins, massage the scalp, feed the hair. Then, if you don't notice a decided improvement in two weeks' time—hair no longer falling, little new soft hair coming in—go to the finest hair specialist you can find and get diagnosed.

PUTTING AWAY PORCH FURNITURE

This is the time when porch furniture is being stored away for the winter months and particular care should be given to it so that it will look well when again put into use. Any painting or repairing should be done at this time and each piece should be well covered to protect from dust and dirt. Canvas makes a good dust and waterproof cover.

GLOVE FINGERS

An excellent way to prevent gloves wearing at the finger-tips is to push small balls of cotton-wool right up into the ends of the fingers. This should be done when the gloves are new. It will prevent the fingernails rubbing against the leather or fabric.

TO CLEAN CORSETS

Spread the corsets out on a table and rub well with breadcrumbs. Then scatter over them some fuller's earth, roll up and leave until next day. Brush them thoroughly and put in the sun to air. This will be found specially good for elastic corsets, as these lose their elasticity when washed.

VELOUR HATS

When your winter velour hat becomes rather shabby-looking, remember that a good way of cleaning it is to hold it over the steam of a boiling kettle or pot of water, rubbing it all the time with a soft piece of rag. If any stains or grease marks remain after this treatment they can be removed by rubbing with benzine. As this is highly inflammable, the hat should be taken away from the stove before applying it.

SAFETY FIRST

No matter how clean your hands look wash before starting to sew on a delicate article. The sewing is inclined to make the hands perspire and the slightest grime will quickly show on the material.

BASTE THEM TOGETHER

Don't forget to sew the buttonholes together before washing the sweater; otherwise they will stretch and become unsightly.

DICTATES OF FASHION

The jewelled chiffon frock is a general favorite wherever the younger set gathers to dine and dance.

Long gloves follow in the path of elaborateness by employing embroidered tops.

The sleeveless jumper is an important feature of the styles that are sponsored for the south.

Very new is the wearing of a flower in the fur cuff of one's coat.

Hand painted crepe de chine handkerchiefs in the new manner are still the leading novelties for the holiday trade.

New versions of the popular link bracelet have large links of silver held together with square disks of jade or turquoise.

A charming new fashion note is revealed in the number of capes or coats of vivid red velvet worn over white evening dresses.

A plaid wool scarf for the younger school girl is matched by the hat, which has a felt brim and a sectional top made of the material.

Practical little jackets of leather are shown in soft, lovely shades of blue, red, green and violet, with collar, cuffs and hip-band knitted of wool in Fair isle designs.

The costume consisting of a jumper of metallic brocade and a skirt of velvet is not reserved for occasions of ceremony, but is worn for daytime affairs of most informal character.

New materials shown in advance indicate that the next spring and summer will be marked by a vogue of pastel colors inspired by the delicate tones of Watteau and Fragonarde paintings.

Knitted suits of the finest angora wool come in new shaded effects that are extremely pretty. Two or three shades of rose, blue or beige, are combined in a striped effect not unlike the stripes on a Roman scarf.

Glazed chintz in the new designs, which in reality are copies of the very old patterns, suggest any number of possibilities to the woman contemplating doing over her living room or bedroom.

Velveteen is extremely popular this season and is frequently seen in combination with crepe de chine or fine wool. A skirt of velveteen and blouse of crepe de chine makes a most practical day frock.

BLACK HOSE AGAIN

Ankles may be thick, and frequently are, but stockings continue to be thin. So sheer are the hose now being exhibited in the smart shops that it is difficult to determine their exact shade when they are on. The gun metal shade looks like very sheer black chiffon. Real black is beginning again to make an occasional appearance after long retirement.

COAT FROCKS

To prevent the present-day frocks from coming up in front and dropping at the back, sew a piece of tape at each corner of the neck in front, and leave the ends long enough to tie, bringing them under the arms and tying at the back. The frock will then always keep in its proper position.

LAUNDRY HINTS

When pressing a black ribbon put it in cold water, straighten it and press immediately with a hot iron.

If you use the old-fashioned sadirons you will find it easier to have two or three holders ready so you can change from one to the other when one becomes unbearably hot.

Add a little starch when doing up cretonnes. It will take away that flimsy look and keep the cretonnes clean longer.

Wind elastic bands around the ends of your clothes hangers and you will not be annoyed any further with dresses slipping from them.

Hang colored clothes on the line wrong-side out and in a good current of air so they will dry rapidly. Keep an eye on them so they can be brought in out of the sun as soon as they are dry.

WHEN MAILING A DISTANCE

When sending a package to a far point, it is well to wrap it in several papers, with the addressee's name and address written plainly on each paper. Then should an accident befall your parcel and the outer covering be destroyed the underneath paper will get your package to its destination safely.

CASES TO FIT SPACES

When making lingerie cases for your own bureaus have them fit the space without crowding. Allow sufficient room between them so that contents of any one can be arranged without disturbing another. Make each case ample so that it will completely envelope articles inside. Bureaus with drawers so fitted with cases are trim and attractive.

OILCLOTH FOR COVERS

Black oilcloth, blanket-stitched in a bright color, makes a most attractive card table cover. The oilcloth provides a much better playing surface for any game than the covers made of materials liable to wrinkle.

A DAY AHEAD

When planning to use nuts in cake or candy shell them a day ahead of time. The air will take away that dry taste of the nut and bring out the oil and moistness which makes it so delicious.

PATCHING CURTAINS

Celluloid curtains can be patched by using a strip of motion picture film. Use warm water to remove the image or coating and apply amyl acetate on the entire surface of the patch. Apply quickly and press the parts together firmly until set.

FROM WHITE TO TAN

If the white silk stockings have yellowed during the summer, tint them with a tan bleach and wear them this fall with your patent leather slippers.

CONCERNING WOMEN

The oldest transatlantic passenger on record is a woman of 105 years, who recently sailed from New York on her way to her home in Beirut.

Descendants ranging from sons and daughters, and numbering 191 in all, have been left by an Illinois women who recently died at the age of 90.

After 52 years of continued service without leave of absence or failure to report for duty, Miss Mary Keelan has just retired as a teacher in the public schools of Dedham, Mass.

The first English woman of title to become a professional stenographer is Lady Constance Howard, sister of the Countess of Carlisle. She is employed by a prominent London firm and is said to be an expert in her line of work.

Queenie Slaughter, a 15-year-old girl guide of Portsmouth, England recently made her third rescue from drowning when she jumped into the harbor, fully dressed, and saved a child who had been carried out by the tide while paddling.

SHELLACKED SHADES

Parchment shades that have been shellacked and varnished may be washed with a white soap and water. Brighten with a little furniture polish.

A SHOCK ABSORBER

A heavy Turkish towel placed in the botton of the dishpan before washing the valuable china and cut glass will protect the things from getting chipped or broken.

RECIPES

Dried Peach Pie: Mix one cup of cooked, dried and drained peaches; one-fourth cup of raisins, one-half teaspoon each of cinnamon and nutmeg, one-eighth teaspoon of cloves, one-half teaspoon of orange extract and sugar to sweeten to taste, one-fourth cup of blanched and chopped almonds and a few grains of salt. Line an individual pie plate with plain pastry, put in filling, cover with narrow strips of pastry laid criss-cross, and bake like apple pie. This amount of filling will make two small pies.

Raised Loaf Cake: Cream one cup of shortening (butter, margarine, or rendered chicken fat, may be used; if the latter is used; reduce the quantity to three-fourths cup.) Add gradually, two cups of soft brown sugar, beating constantly; then add two eggs, beaten until thick and lemon-tinted. Beat in two cups of bread sponge; when thoroughly blended add one cup of flour, sifted, with two teaspoons of cinnamon, one teaspoon of cloves, two teaspoons of soda and one teaspoon of salt; add two cups of seeded raisins, stir until well mixed, then add to the first mixture. Beat thoroughly with the hand and turn into two well-greased pans, cover and let rise three hours and bake one hour in a moderate (375 dexrees, Farhenheit) oven. Remove from pans, and when cool spread with caramel or cream and butter frosting.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Prof. Kuno Francke, who has been elected as the first honorary member of the newly organized Deutsche Akademie, a society formed at Munich university for research in the history of German civilization, is a professor emeritus of Harvard University and honorary curator of the Germanic Museum at the institution. He was born in Kiel, Germany in 1855 and received his education at the University of Munich. He came to the United States soon after his graduation, being made instructor at Harvard in 1884, and assistant professor of German, in 1887 and of German literature in 1892. Prof. Francke has been a popular professor, a prolific author of books interpreting German culture, and a steadfast idealist, in the older German sense of that word, dwelling on the German people's love for the national art, literature, and humanistic agencies.

Stories That Recall Others

Doctors Scarce

A doctor was in a country community on one of those occasional drives to vary the monotony of business. He could be told because of the green cross on the automobile. A small boy was offering eggs for sale and the doctor inquired the price and the little boy said they were ten cents apiece.

"Eggs must be scarce around here," said the bishop.

"No, eggs aren't, but doctors are," the youngster replied.

What She Liked

She is only three but she is nevertheless a live wire. A young man had driven up in front of her house in an attractive car to persuade her aunt to go out riding. Spotted by the little miss, she inquired, "Did you come to take me to ride?"

"Why, yes," he said hesitatingly, as she at once clambered into the car and snuggled up in the corner, "Do you like to ride?"

"Yes" she vouchsafed, "and I like ice cream, too."

Sabbatical leave, beginning in September, was granted 175 instructors of New York city, the first group to be rewarded in this way for their service in the public schools of the city.

The New Dam Is Started

A builder sees his labor done
Before the work is e'en begun.
—Paddy the Beaver.

He ran along beside this, lipperty-lipperty-lip!

Do you understand just what Paddy means by that little saying? He means that one who is planning to make anything, no matter what, must in his mind see it all completed; see it just as it will look in every little detail. And he must do this before he even begins work on it. In his mind he must have a pattern and see it clearly or his work will fail.

It was so in the matter of the new dam which he and his family were to build down the Laughing Brook so as to make a new pond that they might be sure of food enough for the next winter. It was not necessary for Mrs Paddy or for the young Beavers to see in their minds just how that dam would look when finished, because all they would have to do would be to work with Paddy and do as he did or told them to do. But it was necessary for Paddy to have in his mind a picture of that dam, and he did. He probably didn't know that he did, but he did just the same. If he hadn't have had he wouldn't have been so particular as to just where that dam should be placed.

Peter Rabbit had kept his eyes open for signs of a new dam or a new canal ever since he had led Paddy the Beaver to a certain little grove of poplar trees and had been thanked by Paddy. Every evening when he ran over to the Green Forest he went straight to that place and looked around for some signs that Paddy was at work there. Finding none, he would run down to the Laughing Brook to see if Paddy and the others of his family were at work there. But he didn't see so much as a sign that they had even thought of building a dam or digging a canal.

"Humph!" exclaimed Peter one night after useless search. "I guess that Paddy has more sense than I thought he had and will wait until some time near winter before he begins work. The idea of working in the summer for anything so far away as winter!"

Then for a while Peter forgot Paddy. You see, there were so many other things of interest that Peter felt he couldn't waste time on any one thing. He actually forgot to be curious about those poplar trees. Then, as early one morning just at break of day he happened to cut through an alder swamp on his way home, he came to something that caused him to stop short and fairly squeal in surprise. He had come to a great mossy log, the trunk of a great tree which had fallen many years before. He ran along beside this, lipperty-lipperty-lip, until at the farther end he made a discovery that made him wonder if his eyes were all right or were playing tricks on him. It was a line of poles and brush and little trees with bushy tops tangled together, but in a row from the end of that old log toward the Laughing Brook. There wasn't much of a pile, but it was clear to Peter at the very first glance that those sticks had been placed there by some one. Otherwise they never would have been in a row like that. One look was enough to show him that many of those sticks and bushs were green, and this meant, of course, that they had been cut and brought there. The big ends showed that that cutting had been done by great, sharp teeth.

"It is the work of Paddy the Beaver," muttered Peter. "It is the work of Paddy the Beaver and his family. But what does it mean. That is what I want to know. This is the beginning of a dam if I know anything about it, but what under the sun are they building a dam way down here in this swamp for?" Peter sat up and looked about. He couldn't see a single poplar tree. There were a few birch trees, but mostly alders. Then he looked back at the beginning of that dam. "They were at work here last night," said he. "Some of that brush was cut not more than an hour ago, and by the looks of things the whole family must have been at work."

A feeling of disappointment swept over Peter. "Paddy doesn't want those poplar trees I found for him after all," thought Peter. "I guess I didn't help as much as I thought I did But what a queer place to be building a dam! It is too much for me. Yes sir, it is too much for me."

From Small Beginnings

John W. Wheeler, a Sewing Machine King

Does it pay to be honest? The story of John W. Wheeler, the maker of the New Home sewing machine, shows that honesty brings its friends, and something that is far better, a reputation for honesty in all things. Some time later, when he saw an opportunity to buy a store for himself, he was able to borrow the money and set up in business. With this start, he went much further than the grocery business, and became one of the great manufacturers of the United States. If he had not been a trustworthy clerk he could never have become the man that the country now honors.

When John W. Wheeler, as a small boy, watched his father plane boards, he had but one ambition in life, and that was to become a carpenter. He fulfilled that ambition and worked for nine years sawing, planing and nailing. Then larger ambitions came into view and he left the carpenter's shop and became a grocer's clerk. He saved his money, learned the business and embarked for himself with the help of friends whom he had made. He had been a successful carpenter; now he became a successful grocer. Then, as is perfectly normal, he set his thoughts on something still higher.

In those days sewing machines were just coming into wide popularity. A company had been organized to make a new type of sewing machine. John W. Wheeler was acquainted with some of the men who were influential in the new company and they asked him to join them in the venture. He had faith in the machine, gave up his prosperous grocery business, and embarked eagerly in the business of manufacturing and selling. It was not at all easy to establish the new company in its work, and he needed all his previous years of experience in business, and all the help that his many friends could give him in order to bring about success. Success came at last, the machine became the New Home sewing machine, and Mr. Wheeler became the president of the company. Then, looking still higher, he interested himself in many organizations for public benefit, and won great respect. The story of his life is the story of many ambitions realized through honesty and effort.

ARRESTED TWO FIGHTERS IN THAMES ST. RESTAURANT

Called to the restaurant of Daniel (Big Dan) Zudzic at 9 1-2 Thames street by the report of a fight there about 10 o'clock Sunday night, Officer Joe Gendron rushed in and found Big Dan raining blows on the head of Steve Rafel, whose head was covered with blood while chairs and tables in the restaurant were overturned. Big Dan had Rafel's head between his knees and was pounding away with all his might at the helpless man.

The officer dragged Big Dan off and flung him to the floor and then had to use his club on Rafel who rushed at him. Both men were subdued and were taken to police headquarters when Officer Patrick Murphy responded with the patrol wagon. Big Dan was locked up on the charge of breach of the peace and Rafel also went into a cell on the charge of intoxication and breach of the peace, after he had had the wounds in his head sewed up by Dr. Louis T. Cassidy. There were three separate cuts that required stitches.

Thanksgiving Party.

Mrs. Frank Lathrop of 350 Maple street entertained a Thanksgiving party which included her son's family, Mr. and Mrs. William Lathrop and their son and daughter of West Main street; her daughter, Miss Marion Lathrop, Mr. and Mrs. Adams of East Great Plain, parents of Mrs. William Lathrop; also Mrs. Charles P. Geer of Norwich Town. An excellent turkey dinner was served by the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams are parents of Rev. Arthur C. Adams, who was lately ordained to the ministry and is on his way to Africa as a missionary. Those present were pleasantly entertained, one of the interests of the day concerning Rev. Mr. Adams from whom a number of post cards have been received by his relatives, since his arrival in England, while en route to his destination.

Guests from Philadelphia

Mrs. George C. Conrad of Palmer street, entertained guests from Philadelphia, Westerly and Norwich over Thanksgiving.

Covers were laid for nine at dinner, the guests including Mrs. Albert Nelson and son, Albert, of Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. William Knowles, Master Herbert Knowles, Mrs. Raymond Fallon and Sidney Gardner, of Westerly; also Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gardner and son, Conrad of Norwich.

POLICE GET BURGLAR AND GOODS STOLEN FROM EATON-CHASE CO.

Working on a slim clew at the start, the Norwich police placed Wilfred Porter, 21, of North Thames street, under arrest Saturday night about 11.30 and before they had finished with the case had fastened on him the burglary at the Eaton-Chase Co. store on the night of Thursday, Nov. 19, when six revolvers, a knife and about $20 in money were stolen.

Porter showed them where he had hidden two of the revolvers behind a wall near the old car barn in Thamesville, one of them being loaded. These were secured and are in the hands of the police, together with the knife, which have been identified by a member of the Eaton-Chase Co. It is stated also that all the other revolvers have been accounted for, one of them having been sold to a Norwich man, whose name the police have promised not to reveal as he acted in good faith in making the purchase and was of assistance in ferreting out the alleged burglar.

Sunday afternoon there was another arrest in connection with the case when Frank McCloskey, 18, was arrested on a farm in Oakdale on the charge of receiving stolen goods. Officers Charles Smith and William Sharvan made the trip to Oakdale and brought the man to police headquarters, where he was locked up. Both Porter and McCloskey remained locked up over Sunday night and it was intimated that there might be another arrest in the case. How McCloskey is implicated was not disclosed by the police.

Porter was found on Thames street by Sergeant Matthew Delaney and Officer Patrick Murphy put him through a rigid examination. The suspected man at first denied all connection with the burglary at the hardware store. He stood a long grilling but he wilted at length when the police showed him they had possession of one of the revolvers stolen from the store.

He claimed that he had been alone in entering the store and that he had been in there about 9 o'clock, although this conflicts with a previous statement of H. B. Cary, one of the hardware firm, who said he was in the store about 10 o'clock on the night of the burglary, removing at that time $46 and some checks from the cash registers, but leaving about $10 in each of the two registers for change for the early morning business.

Capt. Murphy, who headed the investigation after the first measre clew had been obtained, stayed on the job to follow it up until about 8 o'clock Sunday morning, although his regular time for reporting off Saturday was at midnight because he was due for day duty at headquarters on Sunday. Sergeant Delaney and Officer Murphy put in a busy night trailing down the various developments, and the force was feeling much satisfaction Sunday night that they had solved the burglary mystery in ten days and removed the menace of further robberies.

A. O. H. JOINT INSTALLATION HELD AT TAFTVILLE

A joint installation for the officers of the A. O. H. division and the Ladies' Auxiliaries in the county was held Sunday afternoon in Parish hall, Taftville, when the Ladies Auxiliary of Taftville entertained the gathering, which had an attendance of about 75.

Divisions No. 1, and No. 2, of this city and the Jewett City division had their officers installed by County President Kennedy of New London. The Ladies' Auxiliary of Taftville and Auxiliaries No. 18 and 54 of this city and had their officers installed by the county president, Mrs. Susie Malone of Taftville. Rev. U. O. Bellerose offered prayer at the opening of the meeting and with Rev. John Malley had a seat on the platform with the county officers.

The officers of the New London division were present but were not installed as they are to be installed at a special meeting next Thursday.

In the entertainment part of the afternoon there were songs by Mrs. Joseph Waldron, Mrs. Sullivan and Mrs. John Niles, a recitation, Irish Blood, by Miss Grace Phelan, song by Peter Sullivan and by Father Bellerose, the Irish breakdown by Mrs. John McHale. Miss Nora Murphy was the accompanist.

Remarks that were listened to with great interest were made by Mrs. Julia Brock, state treasurer of the auxiliaries, Past County President Hourigan of Jewett City, Patrick Barry of this city, Frank T. May of New London and others. Refreshments were served by the Taftville auxiliary.

VOLUNTOWN CASE TRIED IN COMMON PLEAS COURT

The suit of Walter C. Tanner of Voluntown against Albert R. Dawley, executor of the estate of the late William H. Dawley of Voluntown, in which the plaintiff seeks damages of $200 for alleged care and services to the deceased man, was begun Saturday noon in the court of common pleas in this city before Judge Charles B. Waller. It was concluded about 4:15 when Judge Waller took the papers after hearing the evidence and the arguments.

The suit arises over certain services which the plaintiff claims to have rendered the late William H. Dawley from Dec. 11, 1923, to Jan. 5, 1924, which he sets down as amounting to $166.85, $6.35 of which he alleges to have expended for telephone calls and telegrams at the request of the deceased.

The defendant enters a counter claim in which he sets forth that the plaintiff on Jan. 27 took from the premises five tons of hay and a ladder, both amounting to $105. He also alleges that on Jan. 3, 1924, the defendant paid $7 for medical services to the plaintiff's wife and that the plaintiff promised to pay this amount back and has never done so.

When court came in for the case in the morning considerable time was taken up in conferences between the attorneys in an attempt to reach a settlement but without result, so that the trial was begun about noon with Thomas M. Shields appearing for the plaintiff and J. J. Desmond for the defendant.

STOLE STERNLIEB CAR FROM GARAGE AT HOME

Thieves early Saturday night broke into the garage of Max Sternlieb at the rear of his home, No. 323 West Main street, and stole his Cadillac sedan, which later was found abandoned at Trading Cove by state police officers, who set out on a search for the car after the Groton barracks had been notified of the theft by Captain Thomas Murphy from the Norwich police headquarters.

The theft of the machine was discovered when it was found that the door of the garage was open and the car was gone. A hasp and staple by which the door was fastened with a padlock had been cut with pliers or a saw, enabling the thieves to open the doors and run the car out. The padlock was found Sunday morning in the grass where it had been thrown by the thieves.

When the car was found by the state police it was taken to the Groton barracks and on Sunday it was returned to the owner. Wires at the rear of the car had been cut, a $35 robe and a spare tire had been stolen by the thieves, the dash lights and the tire pump were broken.

Court Holds Fur Coat

The continued case against Gladys Lorraine of Providence accused of the theft of a coat recently from the Caron Specialty store comes up in the city court this (Monday) morning.

The owner of the coat, Miss Dora Couture of Pawtucket was here Saturday desiring to get the coat to take back to Pawtucket, but was unable to do so, as the court authorities are holding the coat for evidence when the case is presented.

JUNIORS TO COMPETE IN EGG LAYING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Nov. 29—The second Connecticut 4-H club egg laying contest, which is open to young folks in the state who are not over twenty years of age, is scheduled to get under way December 1, and will continue for one year.

As outlined here today by A. J. Brundage, state club leader, the purpose of this contest is to encourage more economic production of eggs through the keeping of egg records and practice of improved methods of care, feeding and management. Further, to locate high producing stock of quality for breeding purposes through the comparison of records.

Flocks will be classified according to the number of birds they contain, as follows: Class A, less than 25 birds; Class B, 25 birds to 74 birds; Class C, 75 birds and over. Contestants are expected to keep egg records on all birds kept for one year, and submit monthly reports on forms which the college provides. Advice will be given by experts from the college extension service on the best methods of management to follow. Monthly reports on the progress of the contest will be sent to all those competing, as well as monthly letters of instruction. Opportunity is also given to contestants to compete at such county, state, and interstate poultry club shows as are arranged.

Ribbon prizes for first, second, and third places in egg production will be awarded monthly for each of the three classes. At the close of the contest ribbons will be awarded five individuals in each class for the highest average egg production per bird. A sweepstake ribbon will be awarded five individuals in this highest average egg production per bird for the year, irrespective of class.

Farm bureau workers throughout the state who will be in charge of the egg laying contest in their respective counties are as follows: James H. Case, Danbury; R. T. James, Hartford; H. C. Norcross, Torrington; Sidney A. Edwards, Middletown; Paul P. Ives, New Haven; W. T. Clark, Norwich; E. E. Tucker, Rockville; and F. L. Davis, Putnam.

OBITUARY

Frank Parker Church

Frank Parker Church, 69, died about 8 o'clock Saturday morning at his home, No. 43 Pearl street. Mr. Church had been ill with pneumonia for over two months. He was a native of Montville and was born July 11, 1856, the son of the late Perez and Jane Parker Church. He passed his early life in Montville and in 1881 he was united in marriage with Annie A. Pettigrew at Chelsea, Mass.

For some years Mr. Church engaged in the cigar manufacturing business in this city but for the last two years he had been employed by the A. C. Swan company. Fraternally he was a member of Somerset Lodge, No. 34, F. and A. M. Mr. Church is survived by his wife, one son, Frederick Church of Lynn, Mass., a daughter, Miss Althea Church of this city, one brother, Lewis R. Church and a sister, Mrs. Louise Wilcox of this city. Mr. Church was well known by many Norwich people who mourn his death. He was a devoted husband and father, a kindly neighbor and a true friend of all who knew him.

John Mahoney

The death of John Mahoney, formerly of Versailles, occurred Saturday at Assonet, Mass., where he had lived with his daughter, Mrs. Conrad Shefer, for the last two years.

Mr. Mahoney was born in Ireland about 70 years ago and came to Versailles when a boy, living there until two years ago when he retired from his occupation as a farmer and went to live with his daughter. He had been in failing health for several months past.

In Baltic 40 years ago he married Mary Foley of Baltic, her death occurring about three years ago. Mrs. Mahoney is survived by his daughter, Mrs. Assonet, a nephew, J. J. Maloney of Norwich, and a niece, Mrs. Paul Brennan of Baltic. He was a member of St. Joseph's church, Occum.

Mrs. Emery H. Davis

Following a lingering illness Muriel Hunt, wife of Emery H. Davis, boys' secretary at the Norwich Y. M. C. A., died Sunday morning at 1.40 o'clock at her home, No. 47 Otis street. She had been in poor health for the past two years. Mrs. Davis was born in Rochester, New Hampshire, June 3, 1892, and was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Hunt. She was united in marriage with Emery H. Davis at Rochester, New Hampshire. Mr. and Mrs. Davis had resided in Norwich for the past four years. Mrs. Davis was a member of the Central Baptist church.

Surviving her are her husband, three brothers, Harold Hunt of Norwich, Vt., Reginald Hunt of Rumford, N. J., and Douglas Hunt of this city. She also leaves an aunt, Mrs. Charles Bruce of Everett, Mass.

Thanksgiving Day Guests

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Bell of South Windham had as Thanksgiving day guests Dr. and Mrs. W. Tyler Browne of Norwich and Rev. and Mrs. Joseph Cobb and daughter of South Windham.

A man can sometimes learn a great deal by studying the disposition of women—but the tuition usually comes high.

$300,000 PLEDGED FOR SPECIAL SESSION OF TEX. LEGISLATURE

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 30.—(A. P.)—A fund of $300,000 has been pledged by Texas to defray the cost of a special session of the legislature to investigate official acts of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson's administration with a view toward possible impeachment proceedings, it was reported here today.

Speaker Le Satterwhite, leader of the movement to convene the special session, has declared that the expenses would be cared for.

Obtaining pledges for underwriting the expenses is said to be in charge of Will C. Hogg, of Houston, son of the late James Stephen Hogg, a governor of Texas.

If the legislature is convened on the call of th espeaker without action by the governor, the body, it is said, will be without power to appropriate expense money. This is because the statutes make investigations the sole business of sessions called by others than the governor.

LAY WESTERLY EXTORTION THREAT TO MAFIA

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 29.—(A. P.)—The federal government here today entered the investigation of the Westerly, R. I., extortion and death threat letters, now alleged to be the work of an organization of the Italian Mafia society.

James Cofoni, confessed author of a threatening note to Otto Seidner, Westerly manufacturer, was released in $2,000 bail for trial Friday, furnished by the young man's father.

Details of the Mafia methods and their activities in Westerly were today furnished the federal authorities by a prominent business man of the town who had himself been invited to join the band and upon his refusal had been made to pay $5,000. This man declares that Mafia activities in the east are centered in the Westerly branch, the fears death if his name is disclosed.

Peter Heroco, Westerly hotel owner, today came forward with the report of three letters he received from the society, threatening him with instant death and the destruction of his hotel if he failed to comply with the demands.

BUS BROKE AXLE AND HIT EMBANKMENT

One of the Norwich-Colchester busses, bound for this city Sunday evening about 8:30 broke an axle and ran up against a bank, shattering the glass in the side of the car. It was reported here that two women passengers in the bus were cut by the broken glass, but the bus headquarters in New London stated that they knew of no injuries to any of the passengers but understood one woman fainted.

The accident happened near the J. J. Sullivan place about three lies below Colchester towards this city. There were five passengers on the trip at the time of the accident.

A Warning to those who COUGH

PERTUSSIN — the harmless and efficient cough remedy—has been so uniformly successful in the treatment of bronchial affections and coughs, even the most obstinate whooping cough, that—if your cough resists PERTUSSIN, it is an indication that you should consult your physician. For safety's sake you should find out if some deep rooted disorder is causing your cough.

PERTUSSIN is entirely free from injurious drugs and is sold by all druggists in large and small bottles.

PERTUSSIN Safe for Every Cough

Costs Only 3 Cents to Remove Your Wrinkles

Better than massage for removing wrinkles and age lines, far less expensive and bothersome, is a simple tar-root mixture which any woman can prepare and apply in a jiffy. Almost immediately after spreading this over the face there is a pleasant, soothing sensation and the mirror shows the horrid age lines and "sags" disappearing like magic. In less than fifteen minutes the face is as smooth and firm as a schoolgirl's. Seems almost too good to be true, but the actual experience quickly removes all doubt.

All one need do is to procure an original package of tarkroot from the druggist, mix a spoonful with a spoonful of lemon juice and apply with the fingers. This, of course, is perfectly harmless. It is easily washed off, leaving the face wonderfully refreshed and rejuvenated, with a healthy glow. And the cost of such treatment is 3 cents!

MOTHER!

Child's Harmless Laxative is "California Fig Syrup"

Hurry Mother! A teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" now will thoroughly clean the little bowels and in a few hours you have a well, playful child again. Even if cross, feverish, bilious, constipated or full of cold, children love its pleasant taste.

Tell your druggist you want only the genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on the bottle. Mother, you must say "California." Refuse any imitation.

Quickly Limpers Up Creaky Knee Joints

Just rub on the great application called Joint-Ease if you want to know what real joint comfort is.

It's for stiff, inflamed, swollen or pain-tortured joints, whether caused by rheumatism or not.

A few seconds' rubbing and it soaks right in through skin and flesh right down to the ligaments and tendons of the joints.

It oils up and limbers up the joints, subdues the inflammation and reduces the swelling. Joint-Ease is the one great remedy for all joint troubles and Lee & Osgood and other live druggists are dispensing it daily—a tube for 60 cents.

Always remember, when Joint-Ease gets in joint agony gets out—quick.

LEGAL NOTICE

BERTHA B. GREENHALGH VS. EDMUND GREENHALGH, Supplemental Order of Notice.

State of Connecticut, County of New London, ss. November 21, 1925.

Upon the complaint of the said Bertha B. Greenhalgh claiming for the reasons therein set forth a divorce, now pending before this Court, having been returned thereto on the first Tuesday of December, 1925.

It appearing to and being found by this Court that Edmund Greenhalgh, the said defendant is absent from this State and cone to parts unknown and that notice of the pendency of the complaint was given as required by order of notice heretofore issued and now the plaintiff asks for a further order of notice in the premises.

Therefore ordered, that notice of the pendency of said complaint be given by publishing this order in the Norwich Bulletin, a newspaper printed in Norwich, Connecticut, once a week for two weeks successively, commencing on or before the 5th day of December, 1925.

By order of Court,
JOHN H. WALKER,
Ass't Clerk of the Superior Court for New London County.

LEGAL NOTICE

Special Town Meeting of the Town of Colchester

The legal voters in Town Meeting of the Town of Colchester are hereby warned to meet at Grange Hall in the Village of Colchester, on Saturday, December 5th, 1925, at two (2) o'clock in the afternoon, to consider and act upon the following Town business matters:

To act on the proposal of Joseph Pieters of Colchester to release the town of Colchester from all liability whatsoever pertaining to the roadway that crosses Pine Brook from his farm to the main road from North West Chester to West Chester Center and he to provide and maintain, at his own expense, in place of said roadway, a roadway from his farm to the said main road from North West Chester to West Chester Center, on the payment to him of $600.00 by the town of Colchester.

To hear and act upon the report of the auditors who have examined the financial accounts of the town treasurer and the town tax collector.

To consider and vote on the late annual town reports of town officers and that were made to the late annual town meeting.

To consider and act upon all the unpaid and outstanding bills and claims now existing or made against the town of Colchester.

And to consider and act upon all other town affairs that may properly be brought before the said special town meeting.

Dated at Colchester, Conn., this 28th day of November, A. D. 1925.

SAMUEL McDONALD,
EDWARD H. NORTON,
WILLIAM K. RAYMOND,

Connecticut College Concert

The next of the incomparable musical treats offered in this part of the state by Connecticut College will be that of December 7th when two master pianists, Harold Bauer and Ossip Gabrilowitsch come to the New London state armory to give a recital for two pianos. Always on the alert to secure the best artists possible, it is because of prompt acceptance of their offer by telegram, that the college is able to present these two master pianists in one of only ten such appearances in the entire country. The contract was made last spring, and now those in charge of such matters in much larger communities are imploring the artists to come to them, but the ten dates offered have been taken. Sale of tickets for this concert will open Tuesday morning at Starr Brothers.

Breed Theater

A moving, multi-colored drama of Western life is The Desert Flower, which opened yesterday at the Breed theater, bringing back to us, like a breath of springtime the eternally beguiling Colleen Moore.

It is, however, a more mature, serious-minded Colleen that we see in this latest First National offering. She has emerged, like a butterfly from its chrysalis, into emotional drama, giving us the highlights and shadows of the existence of a little waif in a desert camp of a railroad construction gang, who escapes from the persecutions of a brutish step-father to make her own way in the world and provide for her baby sister.

Finding the only avenue open to her the rough environment of a mining camp dance hall, she yet remains unfarnished and in the end wins the love of a prodigal whom she had inspired to try again and to conquer.

Next to Miss Moore's touching characterization of the little creature of drab exterior but golden heart is that of the wayward youth by Lloyd Hughes. Excellent support is rendered these by a cast among the most prominent of which are Frank Brownlee, Kate Price, William Norton Bailey, Monte Collins and Gene Corrado.

It's a poor kind of repentance that doesn't insure against a repetition of the offense.

TODAY'S EVENTS

Festival of St. Andrew the Apostle, patron saint of Scotland.

The great strike in the anthracite coal field ends its third month today.

Gen. Plutarco E. Calles today completes his 4 years as president of Mexico.

Spokane is to be the meeting place today of the 31st annual convention of the Northwest Mining association.

France today will pay tribute to the memory of Marshal Saxe, one of the greatest of French soldiers, on the 175th anniversary of his death.

The Rt. Rev. George Allen Beecher, Protestant Episcopal missionary bishop of Western Nebraska, today observes his 15th anniversary in the episcopate.

Many speakers of note are to be heard at the second International Labor Work conference, which is to open in Chicago today for a session of three days.

What Is Going On Tonight

Uncas lodge, No 11, I. O. O. F., meets in Odd Fellows hall.

Thames union, No. 137, U. B. of C. and J. of A., meets in Carpenters hall.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Blind Entertainers Here

John and Mary McCay, blind musical artists and entertainers, are in the city preparing for the concert they are to give, Mr. McCay and his sister who were here five years ago for a similar entertainment. Include in their programme baritone and soprano solos, duets, piano selections and impersonations, which make up a most entertaining evening.

Palace Theatre

The glory that was Spain's now belongs to Douglas Fairbanks who has captured it and put it into his new photoplay, "Don Q, Son of Zorro," which is the featured attraction now at the Palace Theatre.

Castles in Spain are things to look at not to dream of in this appealing picture. The background of beautiful settings is gorgeous beyond compare. The story is the graceful though swift unfolding of the adventures of a young Spaniard who is sent to his motherland from California, there to finish his education.

The climax of "Don Q, Son of Zorro," Fairbanks' latest United Artists Corporation feature, is one of the most thrilling, unique and at the same time humorous, that has ever been presented. As a matter of fact, were it not for the comedy relief furnished in the star's laughable pranks, the tension of the picture would be too great a tax on any audience.

A splendid program of added attractions makes this one of the best entertainments in town—in fact, one of the best that has come to town in many moons.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, Nov. 28—(By the A. P.)—A sudden upturn of stock prices, after three consecutive weeks of reaction, the collapse of French francs to a new low level for the year, followed by a partial recovery, and a sharp advance in wheat futures were the outstanding characteristics of this week's financial and commodity markets.

The rally in stock prices, which came after many popular industrial issues had been carried down 10 to 35 points below the years highs established a few weeks ago, apparently was predicted on the belief that the weakened technical position of the market resulting from recent speculative excesses in the motors and other volatile industrials, had been sufficiently corrected for the time being. Trading turned dull on the recovery, and the long succession of two million share days came to an end. Profit-taking by traders who had bought stocks "for a turn" brought about a moderate reaction towards the close of today's market.

The weakness of French francs reflected the French political and financial crisis, and uneasiness over recurring reports of a dictatorship. Sterling rallied above the "gold point." Large shipments of gold were sent from New York to Montreal where the American dollar is at a discount. Japanese yen crossed 45 cents to a new high level for the year in appearent expectation of an early return to the gold standard.

Wheat advanced 3 to 4 cents a bushel on reports of heavy damage to the Argentine crop and relatively small stocks in Liverpool. Cotton futures showed little change on the week. Sugar futures were firm and coffee futures irregular.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

Willie Winkle

Wee Willie Winkle runs through the town;
Upstairs and downstairs in his night-gown,
Tapping at the winndow, crying at the lock,
"Are the weans in their bed, for it's now ten o'clock."

"Hey! Willie Winkle, are you coming then?
The cat's singing purrie to the sleeping hen;
The dog is lying on the floor, and does not even peep;
But here's a wakeful laddie that will not fall asleep."

Anything but sleep, you rogue! glowering like the moon;
Rattling in an iron jug with an iron spoon;
Rumbling, tumbling all about, crowing like a cock,
Screaming like I don't know what, waking sleeping folk.

"Hey, Willie Winkle, can't you keep them still?
Wriggling off a body's knee like a very eel;
Pulling at the cat's ear, as she drowsey hums; Heigh! Willie Winkle! See! there he comes!"

—William Miller.

Boy

I guess Boy-Blues is th' ailment
What all of us kids has got,
Nights now make Ma fetch th' covers.
Days wait till noon to git hot.

Kicked out is our old pal, Summer.
Things ain't like they wus no more;
Stuff's off with us guys up-river.
Ain't nothin' left there but snore.

They've hung th' big chill on swimmin',
Ain't none o' th' Gang goes in;
W'en one of us yells: "I dare ye"!
Some gravedigger starts to grin.

Course we could swim if we'd want to,
But that's only wastin' breath:
Ain't no mother wants her children
Brung home all shriveled to death.

It's just that time o' the season
When things is half-way between:
You've kind o' got tired o' apples—
Persimmons is still too green.

At noon guys want to go barefoot,
By dark you're huntin' fer shoes;
There's no sidestepnin' th' fact, folks,
We've got th' Little Boy-Blues.

Gee Whiz! W'at use in th' river?
Most times it's wonderful! Great!
But now it's too cold for swimmin'.
Yet not cold enough to skate!

—William Herschell.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

Few of us ever give soil any serious thought but when we do begin to think about it we come to a sudden realization that it is all important in the existence of plant life, humans and animals. Without soil our plants, trees and crops could not grow and without our plant life neither human beings or animals could live on the earth.

There was a time, back through the ages when our earth was first formed when there was no soil on the earth. At one time the surface of the earth was a coat of solid rock. Just how did the soil come to be? The study of the formation of soil form solid rock material is a very interesting one. The sun's heat and the chilly nights and a marked effect on the solid rock surface of the earth. It broke the hard solid surface of the earth in fragments. Rain and wind and ice slowly but surely wore these fragments and the rock material became finer and finer finally being reduced to the soil we now have everywhere.

Ice is a very powerful agent in soil formation. In fact ice is largely responsible for the formation of the greater portion of the soils we have in New England. Once upon a time this part

TAFTVILLE

Santa Claus passed through the town Saturday on his annual journey from the Arctic circle to a Norwich store, and as usual he was greeted by a great crowd of children all along the route. Many had letters to give to him, and all were shouting what they wanted for Christmas.

The members of the Dramatic club who are taking part in the comedy to be presented next week are Oscar E. Mathewson, Miss Flossie M. Meyer, Miss Elsie Heap, Harold E. Linderson, Miss Bertha Monty, Miss Gertrude M. Young, Robert Cooper and Fred Knowles.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther David Packer and children, Dorothy and Nelson of North A street have taken up their residence in Norwich.

Miss Dorothy Wood has returned to Coventry after passing several days at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wood and family of South Second avenue.

WILL USE TEN PONTOONS TO RAISE SUNKEN SUB

Ten pontoons each having a lifting capacity of 30 tons will be attached to the sunken submarine S-51 on the ocean floor off Block Island within the next five days, it was reported Saturday from the salvage workers' station at Newport, R. I. The salvagers are of the opinion that preparations for lowering the pontoons will be completed in one more good diving day. The S-51, attached to the Submarine Base at Groton, was rammed by the S. S. City of Rome on the night of Sept. 25, with a loss of 33 lives.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped when Other Medicines Failed

Walpole, N. H. — "I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and find it has improved my health wonderfully. For months and months I was not regular and had terrible pains. They used to affect my side so I could not work. I read of others being helped by the Vegetable Compound, so I thought it might help me. I am very much better now, strong enough to do my own housework, and have two dear babies to care for besides. I tried other medicines before taking the Vegetable Compound, but I was never treated for my troubles. I speak highly of the Vegetable Compound to my friends and recommend it to any woman for rundown and nervous condition." — Mrs. T. H. FULLER, Walpole, New Hampshire.

Over 200,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?" 98 out of every 100 of the replies say "Yes," and because the Vegetable Compound has been helping other women it should help you

MOOSE HAVE CLASS OF 20 FOR INITIATION, WITH ENTERTAINMENT

A class of 20 candidates was initiated Saturday evening at the Moose Home by Norwich Lodge, No. 950, L. O. O. M. The initiation work was done by the lodge degree team and following the work a buffet lunch was enjoyed by the large number present. Another initiation is being planned for the near future. Rudolph Krohn, dictator of the lodge, presided at the meeting.

Following the initiatory work there was a splendid programme provided by entertainers from Boston. The committee in charge of the arrangements for the evening comprised Benjamin Wunderlich, chairman, Carl Pearson, John Mehrhols, William Mehrhols, Alex Kaminsky, George Seidel, Philip Baumgartner, Charles Korn, George Heibel, Jr., and Frank Hunter.

Hi-D. Davis Legion Meeting

The Hi-D. Davis Legion, No. 8, of New Haven, of which a large number of local Moose are members, held a meeting Sunday afternoon in Pulaski hall, this city, a class of 21 candidates being initiated. The meeting was called to order at 3:30 o'clock, by North Moose Benjamin East of Danbury and the candidates were put through the Hi-D. Davis degree by the local degree team. Following the degree work there was a supper served by the Women of Mooseheart Legion, Norwich Chapter. There was an after dinner programme by a troupe of New York entertainers and Hooker and his partner of Norwich Lodge appeared in a song and dance number that made a hit with the large assemblage of Moose. Another feature of the programme was a song sketch by Benny Hendricks of the New Haven lodge. Following the close of the programme a social evening was enjoyed by the members of the Legion.

COMMANDMENTS LIKE TRAFFIC LAWS, SAYS PRIEST

Yesterday was the first Sunday in Advent, the month of preparation for the advent, or coming, of Christ at Christmas. It was also the first Sunday of the ecclesiastical year. It began well in St. Patrick's parish, as evidenced by the large number of men, women and older children who want to the altar for Holy Communion at the three masses, following confession Saturday afternoon and evening. The altar hangings and vestments were in violet, the color of penitence, while the epistle, Romans 13.11-14 beginning, "Brethren, knowing that it is now time for us to arise from sleep," and the gospel, Luke 21. 25-33, "There shall be signs in the sun, and in the moon, and in the stars, and upon the earth distress of nations," impressed the vital necessity of improving the time for repentance.

Preaching to the customary large congregation at the 9 o'clock Mass, Rev. Myles P. Galvin, the senior curate briefly reviewed the instruction on the Ten Commandments which he has been giving, referring to them as resembling traffic laws—direction along a one-way route to eternity. Our first parents knew by intuition what was or was not God's will for them; but that this will might be made more explicit for man's guidance, the Ten Commandments were given to Moses on Mount Sinai. Father Galvin summed up these under laws in the reply of the Saviour to His questioners, "Love of God and love of neighbor for God's sake." He grouped the commandments according to their direct application to man's relation toward loving God and his obligation to love his neighbor in the world-brotherhood of which Christ is the Head. The specific Commandments which, deal with faith in, veneration for and worship of God and honesty toward men were touched upon. Stress was laid upon the necessity of having the Sixth Commandment, in this age of immorality, immodest literature, even among young Catholic men and women who know so well the sin and the danger of violating this particular prohibition of God.

As a matter of course, the lesson of the brief sermon was the wisdom as well as the logic of obeying the Commandments, of putting them into practice in one's daily life. To violate them is a parallel to the result when scenes to the driver who does not heed traffic regulations, going off into highways and by-ways certain to lead him into trouble or disaster. Incidentally, Father Galvin's attentive listeners were urged to make of the period of Advent an opportunity for coming closer to our Lord's desires and will for them, as regards their efforts to work out their salvation, through a more strict observance of the Commandments day after day.

Later, Father Galvin assisted Rev. John J. Reilly, who read the Mass, in giving Communion.

The Junior Choir, which sings at this —the parish children's Mass—is doing excellent work: the young singers were accompanied for their hymns by the new organist, Henry J. LaFontaine.

The generous offering at the three masses of the day was for the Catholic University of America, at Washington

STOECKEL SAYS STATE CAN ASSIGN BUS ROUTES

The right of a state to require interstate motor busses and freight carriers to follow certain routes in less congested traffic while in the state was upheld by Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Stoeckel in a recent address before a meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers at Philadelphia. The exercise of the state's police power in this respect, he pointed out, is apparently not in conflict with the recent federal court decision prohibiting state interference with this form of interstate commerce.

"The police power over the bus, both intrastate and interstate, is positive and complete," said the commissioner, "but the effect of police regulation is lost because the penalties are inadequate. All that is generally permitted is regulation by prosecution of an operator.

"The interstate bus cannot be required, under the Federal decisions, to have the question of public convenience and necessity passed upon and if passed upon favorably to be excluded from a state," it was pointed out, "because the theory and practice of interstate commerce is to allow freedom for the citizens of one state to pass through another; so that the limit as to what may or may not be done in the restriction and management of an interstate bus engaged in carrying passengers in the state appears to be closely determined.

"An interstate bus may unquestionably take up a passenger from inside a state and carry him to any point outside or inside, or may carry a passenger through a state, but it is not interstate commerce for one of those interstate vehicles to pick up a passenger within a state and deliver him to another point within the same state. Police regulation will act on this latter case.

"It also seems entirely feasible and right and in line with decisions that while a state may not determine what vehicles may or may not come into the state, yet it is within the police power of a state to make reasonable regulations as to where such state busses will be routed. Such steps would have been taken earlier as a solution in certain of the states if the situation had been foreseen early enough to secure the positive power under statutory law to do these acts as a part of the exercise of the state's police power.

"It has been thought necessary by some writers and lecturers on this subject for a state to go to Congress to receive an enabling act for the management of interstate vehicles. It seems entirely clear to the writer that there is no need for any United States legislation except it should prove necessary in the future to limit the numbers and character of the vehicles themselves. So far as the operation of the vehicles within a state is concerned, provided there is no unusual discriminatory regulation and the regulation itself is in the exercise of police power and treats all the vehicles of similar classes alike, it would seem possible to accomplish everything needed through state laws."

Road construction is seriously affected by interstate as well as intrastate freight carriers, the commissioner said. He brought out that about nine tenths of the total traffic on the highways is under 10,000 pounds, and that it is to accommodate the other one-tenth, including heavy trucks not equipped with pneumatic tires, that the highways must be built much more substantially and expensively. From these facts, he drew the conclusion that it in the future a road policy should be adopted which will provide a road strong enough to carry anything, without limit, the large and heavy motor vehicles which demand such a road ought to pay for it.

It has been suggested by Highway Commissioner MacDonald of Connecticut as a possibility that all the highways in the different states be graded: Terminal highways to carry heavy transportation. Class A highways to carry vehicles up to but not exceeding a loaded unit of 26,000 lbs. Class B highways to carry vehicles up to but not exceeding a loaded unit of 21,000 lbs. Class C highways to carry up to but not exceeding a loaded unit of 16,000 lbs. Then to segregate vehicles so far as possible, by issuance of permits and by routing of heavy vehicles. Whether or not this can be done remains to be seen.

MASONIC FUNERAL FOR P. G. ARNOLD AT HADDAM

Early Holiday Buying

Saturday evening, with temperature of only 24 degrees, the streets were filled with crowds who had all the appearance of holiday shoppers. Local stores stocked with toys reported a surprising amount of early buying.

HIGHWAY OF LIFE WAS LECTURE TOPIC

Under the auspices of the International Bible Students association, L. R. Burtch of New York city, one of the lecturers of the association, spoke Sunday afternoon at the Buckingham Memorial upon The Highway of Life, presenting the evidence that he drew from the Bible to show that the way to everlasting life on earth is now being made ready.

He said in part: Our text is found in Isaiah 62:10. It reads: "Go through, go through the gates; prepare ye the way of the people; cast up, cast up the highway; gather out the stones; life up a standard for the people."

The highway mentioned in our text is the highway of life, the way over which myriads of the human family, after being awakened from the sleep of death, may come back into full harmony with God, and obtain the reward of that harmony in the blessing of everlasting life here on earth.

The gates through which God's people at the present time must go before they can begin the work of preparing the way of the people are primarily, the gates of consecration and anointing of the holy spirit represented by the gate through the court and the door to the tabernacle in the wilderness, and by the gates of the temple which Ezekiel saw in his vision.

It has been the popular, but erroneous thought, that the way of the people was prepared long ago. But a little reflection will show that until the present time there has been no way by which the human family could come back to holiness and everlasting life on earth, nor any way at all which has been so plain that "the wayfaring men, though fools, shall not err therein."

One after another the great granite blocks of truth are being lifted from the places where they have lain neglected for centuries. One by one those imperishable and unchangeable gifts from God to man are finding their proper place, and thus slowly the roadway over which humanity may march back into harmony with God is being prepared. This roadway is to endure throughout eternity. Appropriately, it is called the way of holiness.

Before a modern concrete highway can be used, every stone or other obstruction that could interfere with traffic is first removed. The expression in our text "gather out the stones" takes advantage of this familiar figure to call attention to a great fact; namely, that before the world of mankind can come back into harmony with God the stumbling stones of unconditional immortality, purgatory, eternal torture, and the trinity with all their related errors of apostolic succession, and the recognition of the infernal parts of Satan's empire as part of Christ's kingdom, must all be removed.

Nothing could be plainer than that the use of this highway is in the future. Some have thought that it is in the present, because of the statement that "the redeemed shall walk there" but these should have noted that the promised way is to be obtain that a fool could not fail to [illegible] on it. But we now have upwards 160 sects traveling 160 different ways and certainly 159 of them are wrong.

Moreover, the prophet points out that on this way which is to be opened up shortly, "the ransomed of the Lord shall return." We have seen all but a few in their graves are to return. We have only to couple with this the statement, "He gave himself a ransom for all" (1 Timothy 2:6) to realize that this means that all mankind will return from their graves "and come to Zion (come back into harmony with God's arrangement) with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads: they shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing will flee away."

GOLDEN RULE SUNDAY OBSERVANCE IN NORWICH

"Eat a simple meal next Sunday, similar to those served to orphans in the Near East, and then give of your means so far as you are able to help these boys and girls, without parents and without country, to live and learn until they become self-supporting." was the request made of Norwich congregations Sunday by local ministers interested in the observance of Golden Rule Sunday on December 5th.

This day, nationally and internationally appointed for the aid of Near East orphans, will be observed in Norwich according to plans made by the local Near East committee of which Miss Elizabeth Huntington for several years has been chairman. Rev. Alexander H. Abbott is honorary chairman and Guy C. Dolbeare is the new treasurer of the committee. The observance of Golden Rule Sunday will be part of Norwich's annual effort to give to the orphans of the Near East in proportion to the amount given by other towns in Connecticut.

Families, having eaten a simple menu, are asked to count over their resources on Golden Rule Sunday and give not merely the difference in the cost of their meal and the ordinary Sunday dinner, but as much as they can spare for the orphan children under America's care, figured on the basis of what they would wish others to do for their children if they were similarly left alone in the world.

There are now more than 35,000 boys and girls, the majority under twelve years of age, and thousands still live, six and seven, for whom America is caring in the Near East. These children, orphaned by war, deportations and massacres, are scattered for the most part in thirty-nine orphanage centers in Armenia, Syria and Palestine and Greece. Not one of the children has a known living relative, to aid. They are kept only until they have learned a trade and become self-supporting. Without this aid from America, Near East observers say, most of the children would quickly succumb to disease and starvation. As it is, they are being trained to citizenship in the lands where they are growing up and many will ultimately become, it is said, leaders of the Near East.

Last year the effort which began in Norwich on Golden Rule Sunday resulted in about $3,000 in money and clothing contributed throughout the year, the local committee of women which for several years has carried on the annual effort for funds, is to be enlarged this year and it is hoped that more may be realized. Several gifts of $100 in addition to smaller contributions have already been received here. The sum of $100 feeds, shelters and clothes a child for a year and gives it medical care and vocational training. A person making a gift of this kind is called a sponsor and receives a child's picture, its story and semi-annual reports of progress.

FAMOUS BOSTON PASTOR IS TO PREACH HERE

The preacher for next Sunday morning at the Church of the Good Shepherd, Universalist, will be the Rev. Dr. Thomas Van Ness of Boston.

Dr. Van Ness has long been a leading citizen of Boston, a distinguished preacher of the Unitarian denomination and for 20 years the minister of the historic Second Church in Boston (Unitarian)—the church of Cotton Mather and Ralph Waldo Emerson.

He has traveled extensively in Russia, China and Japan and is a recognized authority on questions of art and of travel.

Indian Mission Reels

It was announced Sunday that Mrs. Roderick F. Sullivan, president of the local branch, Connecticut Council of Catholic Women, had secured the promise from Rev. John S. Woods, missionary among the Indians in the United States, including Alaska, to bring reels of the Indian schools to Norwich, to be shown.

Chilly weather made the comfortable reading room at Otis Library an inviting place, during Sunday afternoon. There were 204 visitors. Miss Lillian M. Cross was in charge.

NORWICH TOWN

The first activities of the Norwich Rural association for the fall and winter season were evidenced Saturday afternoon, when more than a score of men and boys, the former representing members of the association, laid the board walks for winter use in a number of sections about town. Everyone who was called upon to assist responded and the work was practically completed before night-fall. During the week, in Dawson and all the boards so as to have them in readiness when removed from their summer quarters on Town street. Since so many property owners have had cement walks laid during the past few years, the board walks are assigned to locations considered most necessary, including Harland road, a section of Washington street, both sides of East Town street where required, thence through West Town street as far as Meehan's corner, and a portion of New London turnpike. Now that the boards have all been distributed, Mr. Dawson this week will see that they are fitted and nailed, to make them secure. A much appreciated favor was that of Julian L. Williams, who rendered assistance by loaning the use of one of his big motor-trucks to help distribute the boards also contributed the services of one of his employes, Edgar Archambeault, to drive. Mr. Williams assisted the association in the same manner last year.

As in former years, John Mullen with his horse and lumber wagon did a portion of this division of the work. Bartholomew Sullivan, chairman of the sidewalks committee, was ably assisted by Walter T. Camp, the association's president; Leonard Hough, secretary and treasurer; and Francis Gilman, G. Houghton Gilman, Grosvenor Ely, Philip A. Johnson, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, John P. Huntington, Edward Ross, Frederick Camp, Don Brigham, Arthur Block, John Dodge, Francis Mullen, and these boys—Joseph Sullivan, Harold Smith, Dunstan Perkins, Norman Johnstone, William Brosofske and John Sullivan.

A most welcome feature of the afternoon, was the lunch of delicious coffee and doughnuts, served by Mrs. Walter T. Camp, Mrs. Grosvenor Ely and Mrs. Osias Dodge. This took place at the Town street entrance to Lowthorpe meadows, as in other years.

At the home of the president, Walter T. Camp, 420 Washington street, Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, the chairmen of the several committees of the Rural association are to meet in conference, concerning the association's interests.

GREAT ENGLISH BEAUTY SECRET "HOWARD'S BUTTERMILK CREAM"

BIG DEMAND, SAYS LEE & OSGOOD CO.

Buttermilk Cream creates beauty almost like magic. The most wonderful thing about it is the fact that while it turns the dullest, most lifeless complexion to radiant beauty and makes red or rough hands or arms snowy white, yet there is not the slightest sign of its use after application. It actually vanishes from sight and the most heated atmosphere will not produce the least shininess or greasiness of the skin.

No matter whether you are troubled with a poor complexion, wrinkles, puffiness around the eyes, freckles, crows' feet or lines around the mouth, ugly finger nails, or just a simple roughness of the face, hands or arms caused by wind or sun, you will find that any or all of these troubles will quickly disappear with the use of Howard's Buttermilk Cream

To prove this to your complete satisfaction, get a small quantity today at your favorite toilet goods counter with the understanding that they will freely return the purchase money should you be dissatisfied.

Beautiful actresses say, "A short massage with Howard's Buttermilk Cream at night before retiring is all that is necessary."

POETRY

Day Dawn

Watchman, what of the night?
What tokens dost thou see
Of Love's unfolding light,
When hearts from fear are free?
"Day cometh," answer'd he,

"I have beheld the stars
Still shining overhead,
Telling, through hateful wars,
God's pity is not dead.

His shadow walks with me
Through darkness till the morn;
And wheresoe-er I be,
When day from dark is born.

Therefore, I know no fear;
Though ne'er a foot draw nigh,
God keeps mine honor clear,
And so all terrors fly."

Watchman, what of the night?
"The clouds are drifting past,
The morning star is bright,
His kingdom cometh fast,
Day dawneth wide and vast."
—Lauchlan M. Watt in British Weekly.

Sea Irony

One day I saw a ship upon the sands
Careened upon beam ends, her tilted deck
Swept clear of rubbish of her long-past wreck;
Her colors struck, but not by human hands!
Her masts the driftwood of what distant strands!
Her frowning ports where at the Admiral's beck
Grim-visaged cannon held the foe in check.
Gaped for the frolic of the minnow bands.
The seaweed banners her foe's le waved,
A turtle basked upon her capstan head;
Her cabin's pomp the shrewish sculpin braved.
And on her prow, where the lost figurehead
Once scorned the brine, a name forgot was graved.
It was "The Irresistible" I read!

COAL OPERATORS FIND THE PINCHOT PLAN UNTENABLE

Answer That They Fail to Find in Pinchot's Proposals the Basis of a Sound and Lasting Settlement—Asserts That the Check-Off Suggested is the Same That Was Refused in 1903 and Again in 1920—Letter to Gov. Pinchot Revealed That the Miners Two Weeks Ago Rejected a Proposal For an Immediate Settlement Made by the Operators—The I. C. C. Has Ordered Lower Rates on Bituminous Coal on Shipments From the Virginias.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30—The anthracite operators today rejected Governor Pinchot's proposals for ending the hard coal strike.

In refusing his plan, already accepted as the basis of settlement by the United Mine Workers, the mine owners offered no counter proposition, but drew the governor's attention to a proposal made to President John L. Lewis of the miners union, two weeks ago and rejected by him.

The action of the operators leaves the situation practically unchanged and the strike enters its fourth month tomorrow with the anthracite supply daily growing shorter.

"It is impossible for us to find in your proposals," said the letter from the operators to the governor, "the basis of a sound and lasting settlement and for the same reason they cannot be considered as a basis for conference and negotiation."

The communication to the governor states that he is making the operators "do repeat the Jacksonville mistake of endeavoring to maintain high wages to pay high wages through the simple formula of writing these terms into a contract."

"An arrangement involving agreement on prices is clearly illegal," the operators said, and added that "prices are controlled by the law of supply and demand and cannot be maintained at artificial levels by arbitrary agreement."

The operators, referred to the limited check-off suggested by the governor, characterized this system of deducting union dues from the wages of the men as "repugnant to reason and justice and a barrier rather than an aid to sound industrial relations." In practice, they stated, the system would result in coercion and intimidation and would not eliminate strikes.

Referring to Mr. Pinchot's part in bringing an end to the strike of 1902, the operators stated they were proceeding with caution because of the public interest in the controversy and because of the unwarranted increase imposed on the industry through your intervention two years ago."

The operators then outlined their proposal made to Mr. Lewis two weeks ago, according to the letter, and rejected by him. It provided for immediate resumption of work and negotiations, a five year contract and arbitration of any matters in dispute and not disposed of within thirty days after the resumption of negotiations. The letters were to have been two operators, two mine workers and three persons appointed by the chief justice of the United States supreme court, chief justice of the Pennsylvania supreme court and the presiding judge of the United States circuit court of appeals at Philadelphia. Under this plan, either side would have had the right to reconsider terms of the contract not oftener than once every year.

The letter of the operators was signed by William W. Inglis, as chairman of the anthracite operators' negotiating committee.

A special messenger was dispatched with the letter to Harrisburg. Governor Pinchot is touring the northwest counties of the state inspecting state institutions and announced when he left on Sunday that he would return to Harrisburg at once in the event he were needed.

While the operators were busy considering and drafting their response to the governor's proposals, the full scale committee of the United Mine Workers on the anthracite fields waited on President Lewis at the state capitol for developments. They had announced they were ready to resume negotiations on the basis of the governor's plan and return to work when an agreement was reached.

Negotiations between the operators and miners began on July 9 at Atlantic City and were broken off August 4. The miners asked for a ten per cent increase in wages for contract men, a day additional for men paid by the day, the complete check off and continuation of the day rates. The operators stated they could not consider any demands that involved an increase in the cost of mining. Their refusal to recede from this position brought an end to the negotiations. In the meantime 150,000 men and boys are idle. The loss in wages since Sept. 1 has been estimated at $1,150,000 a week and the daily loss in coal production at 256,000 tons. The strike is the third longest in the hard coal fields since the United Mine Workers became active in these regions 25 years ago.

LOWER RATES ORDERED ON BITUMINOUS COAL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Several moves were made here today looking to a measure of relief in the anthracite situation.

The interstate commerce commission extended new low rates to the Atlantic seaboard on coal mined in southern territory which is considered suitable for household fuel and indicated the emergency of their order by providing for termination of the rates next April.

Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, put the finishing touches on a revised bill which would give the president broad powers to seize and operate anthracite mines in the event of a national emergency.

Representative Berger, socialist, Wisconsin, told President Coolidge that unless the present situation is settled immediately, he will introduce a bill on the first day of the congressional session authorizing the government to seize and operate the coal mines.

The action of the interstate commerce commission was taken over the protest of Pennsylvania state authorities, eastern trunk line railroads and Central Pennsylvania coal mine operators. The order, effective December 11, extends a policy adopted in October and is applicable to West Virginia and southern Pennsylvania bituminous fields.

The rates are intended to make possible the moving at a reasonable charge of household fuel from Virginia and West Virginia districts affected to the consuming area most seriously threatened with shortage due to the anthracite shutdown. This area embraces practically all of the north Atlantic states.

SUFFERING BECAUSE OF THE COAL SHORTAGE

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—(A. P.)—E. W. Goss, representing the New England Governors' Fuel commission before Interstate Commerce Commissioner Campbell here Nov. 12, painted a graphic picture of conditions in New England where he said women and children were freezing to death because of the coal shortage.

The hearing was to determine what measures should be taken by the Interstate commerce commission to provide lower railroad rates on bituminous coal which were sought for the New England and middle Atlantic states because of their limited supply of soft coal.

Major General Charles W. Berry, chairman of the New York state coal commission, testified before Commissioner Campbell that an emergency existed in New York state despite steps taken for the use of substitutes.

In New England, according to Mr. Goss, the situation was one of "continual and unending trial and tribulations to the consumer." He urged the commission to fix a new scale of rates which, through opening up the New England section for shipments from the soft coal region, would relieve the situation there.

West Virginia coal operators also urged that the commission lower through rates from their mines. At the same time, the central Pennsylvania operators opposed efforts of the West Virginia operators because of the alleged "invasion" of the former's market. The Pennsylvania railroad was aligned with the Pennsylvania operators in opposing the lower rate from West Virginia, which would place the Norfolk and Western, Chesapeake and Ohio and Virginia roadroads on a competitive basis with it in the New England market.

10 PER CENT. CAPITAL LEVY NEW PROGRAM IN FRANCE

PARIS, Nov. 30—(A. P.)—A ten per cent. levy on capital payable in thirty annuities is the measure M. Loucheur, the finance minister, relies on to finance a sinking fund and to extinguish the short term debts. The minister declares that he favors refunding certain internal loans in order to arrange maturities more convenient for the treasury, but rejects all idea of a moratorium or forced conversion of the bonds maturing December 15.

Financial experts aver that M. Loucheur's policy of no inflation or consolidation will compel him to ask parliament for authority to issue an additional five billion francs in bank-notes to meet the treasury bonds due December 15.

The capital levy is a concession to the socialists and radicals. The rejection of a forced conversion of bonds is calculated to please the opposition. Thus the government hopes to ride through between the opposing forces of the chamber to an early solution of the pressing financial problems, the cabinet, however, it is thought will have a hard road to travel.

M. Briand had scarcely left for his mission in London, completing the peace of Europe, with a Godspeed from Herr Von Hoesch, the German ambassador, when the members of the left met in the chamber and started a movement to rewield the radical-socialist alliance. This move bodes no good for the Briand cabinet, in the opinion of parliamentary observers.

The radicals accepted M. Briand's combination, they say only as a necessary evil, but they are far from reconciled to a cabinet presided over by anyone but a member of their own group.

The Briand cabinet, nevertheless is considered sure of a big vote of confidence at the outset, with a sufficient lease of life to get its financial measures before the chamber. Those measures, it is believed, are likely to pass if they constitute a reasonable compromise between the opposing viewpoints.

CHARGES DRY LAW VIOLATION NEAR BOSTON NAVY YARD

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—(A. P.)—A charge that serious violations of the federal prohibition laws are taking place daily in the "immediate vicinity" of the Boston navy yard, was made in a statement issued tonight by Mrs. Jeanette M. Mann, national organizer and lecturer of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. Conditions existing there have been brought to the attention of officials at the navy yard, Mrs. Mann said, but complaints have been met only with "an attitude of indifference" on their part.

As the result of a personal investigation at Charlestown, Mrs. Mann declared that she found much evidence of extensive sale of liquor, some of it of such a poor quality that the sailors had come to term it "block and fall—"because if one took a drink he could not go a block before he would fall."

At the Army and Navy Y. M. C. A. near the navy yard, Mrs. Mann stated that she saw "a 19 year old youth from one of the battle cruisers who was in a pitiful state of intoxication and another sailor who had been very near death that day from the effect of poison liquor," whose life had been saved "only through prompt and earnest effort on the part of the Y. M. C. A. workers."

Trouble Over Mosul Frontier

LONDON, Nov. 30—(A. P.)—The Westminster Gazette says an exceedingly grave situation has arisen, regarding the dispute between Great Britain and Turkey over the Mosul frontier and that there is serious danger of war.

Pope May Leave Vatican

ROME, Nov. 30—(A. P.)—[illegible] untary imprisonment of the Pope in the Vatican, begun in 1870 after the overthrow of the temporal power by the establishment of United Italy, may be ended next year with a personal visit by Pius XI to Assasi to preside at the inauguration of the new Franciscan monastery on the seventh centenary of the death of St. Francis of Assisi.

BUSINESS ACTIVITY IN NEW ENGLAND RATES HIGH

BOSTON, Nov. 30.—The rate of business activity now prevailing in New England is not only high, but it compares favorably with the average reported for the entire country. The New England Business Activity Index compiled by the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston was slightly lower in October than in September, but remains higher than in any month since the early part of this year. The amount of business transactions settled through check payments is exceptionally large, which tends to confirm the rate of activity shown by the index. New England textile industries report a far better condition, when a comparison is made with activity a year ago, than do the same industries in other sections of the country. This district consumed a considerably larger volume of cotton in October than a year ago, but mills in the cotton-growing states consumed less. New England woolen mills did not use as much wool as in October, 1924, but the loss was not as great as that suffered by mills in the middle Atlantic states. The New England shoe industry, on the other hand, did not do as well in October as in either of the two previous months. The mills there are not only active, but are expanding their output. Contracts awarded for new building construction during October and November have been much in excess of those awarded a year ago, but they have not maintained their favorable position, as compared with last summer, if allowance is made for the usual changes in the volume of contracts awarded from month to month.

CHAPMAN HEARING ADJOURNED TO WEDNESDAY

HARTFORD, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Gerald Chapman, neatly dressed in prison blue which emphasized the whiteness of his lean face, today took an active part in his fight in the federal courts to escape the gallows on March 3, 1926.

Unobtrusively the twice reprieved murderer entered the board of pardons room at the state prison at the hearing on his writ of habeas corpus to sit in court for the first time since April 4, when he was sentenced to be hanged for the murder of James Skelly, a New Britain police officer. As he and his counsel studied the documents which the state of Connecticut and the United States government filed with Judge Edwin S. Thomas in the United States district court, Chapman's face lit up and he apparently concentrated on what he was reading.

Chapman's appearance in the court room was of short duration because his counsel, "unprepared for the voluminous document," the state's answer to Chapman's plaint that he still is a federal prisoner by virtue of his refusal to accept the commutation of his 35-year sentence to life in the federal penitentiary by President Coolidge, asked for and obtained an adjournment until Wednesday.

WOMAN BOMBER MADE ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE

CHICAGO, Nov. 30—(A. P.)—Mrs. Lena Rice, mother of several children and wife of a farmer living near Columbus, Ohio, held as one of a gang of bombers, attempted to commit suicide today almost at the instant that a special grand jury investigating more than 20 bombings here was reported to have voted a true bill against her.

The special grand jury, impaneled today at the request of Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney who charged the "bomb trust" has been responsible for 89 bombings and window smashings, was also reported to have named six others in true bills. Five of those reported named are in custody.

Mrs. Rice, arrested last week when she with two men walked into a police trap and bombed a hardware store, tried to stab herself with a table knife. Other women bombers and guards at the Cook county jail took the knife away from her.

Fred Wanquist and Joseph Avanzini arrested with Mrs. Rice, Jack Davis, alleged to have made the bombs they used, and Joseph Sangerman head of a barber supply manufacturing concern and elected director of the bombers were among those against whom true bills were reported voted.

TWO SENATORS FAVOR LIMITATIAN OF DEBATE

CHICAGO, Nov. 30—(A. P.)—Vice President Charles G. Dawes publicly placed two senators on record today with regard to his proposals for limitation of senate debate by majority cloture. Senators Charles S. Deneen and William B. McKinley, all eyes upon them, got to their feet when the vice president called for a rising vote of those who favored the Dawes campaign against filibusters.

The senators sat on the speakers' platform at the meeting, which was conducted by the Women' Roosevelt Republican club in connection with the convention of Women's Republican clubs of Illinois.

NINE PERSONS WERE KILLED AT GRADE CROSSING

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 30—(A. P.)—Nine persons were killed and one injured, probably fatally, when St. Louis and San Francisco passenger train number 801, bound from St. Louis to Memphis, struck an automobile in which the ten persons were riding at a crossing near here late today.

All the dead and the injured, a child, were members of the families of Clem Oxford and his brother, James Oxford, farmers.

DISTRESS SIGNAL PICKED UP FROM A SHIP AT SEA

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—(A. P.)—Radio broadcasting was halted early tonight when a distress signal was picked up from a ship at sea. Officials of the Independent Wireless corporation said they believed the call came from a ship off the Florida coast.

Democratic Leaders Fear Lack of Agreement

Spellacy Gives Out Statement For the Conciliation Sub-Committee.

HARTFORD, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Thomas J. Spellacy gave out the following prepared statement following a meeting in his office today, of the so-called conciliation sub-committee of the democratic central committee which ended in a deadlock:

"At a meeting of the democratic state central committee held at New Haven, November 12th, 1925, a sub-committee consisting of Mrs. Fannie Dixon Welch, William E. Thoms, Peter FitzHenry, John McDonough, David E. Fitzgerald, James J. Walsh, Alexander S. Lynch, and myself, were unanimously appointed to suggest to the state central committee, names of democrats to fill the vacant place on the democratic national committee from Connecticut and a future vacancy of chairman of the democratic state central committee. The latter place is not yet vacant as Mr. Edward M. Yeomans has not resigned.

"This sub-committee met in the office of Mayor FitzGerald on Monday, November 23rd, 1925 and adjourned to meet in the office of Thomas J. Spellacy, on November 30, 1925.

"At the first meeting, I stated to the committee that I came with an open mind, without any prejudices and with the desire to act solely for the best interest of the democratic party. Mayor FitzGerald, of New Haven, states that his name had been mentioned as a candidate for state chairman; that many of his friends urged him to be a candidate but that he would not be actuated by any motive except for the best interests of the party. He further stated that if that interest could best be served by the selection of a chairman whose name had not been mentioned, he would be very glad to vote both on the sub-committee and as a member of the state committee for any person so selected. He further stated he had not authorized anyone to say he was a candidate and as a matter of fact he was not a candidate for the position. Both Mr. Walsh and Mr. Lynch joined in the view that the purpose of the appointment of the sub-committee, was if possible, to agree on a chairman and national committeeman and that they would be very pleased to agree upon the best selection that could be made.

"Several names were proposed for state chairman at both meetings by Messrs. FitzGerald, Walsh, Lynch and myself, including among others, Francis P. Guilfoile of Waterbury, Charles G. Morris, the last democratic candidate for governor, Nicholas Mosely, an instructor at Yale and secretary of the advisory committee of the democratic state committee, James J. Walsh, of Meriden, former collector of internal revenue by appointment of President Wilson, John A. Walsh, of Stamford, former judge of probate, Thomas Reeves, of Farmington, former member of the legislature, John F. McDonough, of Naugatuck, former leader in the state senate, Senator Joseph Lawlor, of Waterbury, Thomas Cullinan, of Bridgeport, last democratic nominee for mayor of that city, William R. Palmer, of Oxford, former U. S. marshal and Rollo U. Tyler, of Haddam, former democratic nominee for governor.

"The order in which these names were proposed had no significance. The other members of the committee were invited to make suggestions. Both Mr. Thoms and Mr. McDonough stated they would have to vote for Mr. FitzHenry so long as he remained a candidate. Mrs. Welch said that she had promised to vote for Mr. FitzHenry. His refusal to withdraw deadlocked the committee and adjournment was had without any business being transacted.

"After the above names had been submitted, Mr. FitzHenry proposed that Mrs. Welch, Mr. McDonough, Mr. Thoms and himself retire for a conference. They conferred in private but did not report to the remainder of the committee what, if anything, occurred at this conference, except that their situation remained as it was and unchanged.

"Personally, I believe that Mr. FitzGerald who, in my opinion, has a majority of the votes on the state central committee (if he were a candidate) should himself as most magnanimous in eliminating himself from any contest. I feel that he placed the interest of the democratic party above any personal interest. Unfortunately on the sub-committee, there were those who continued to say that they represented Mr. FitzHenry and would not agree to any names suggested, neither would they themselves suggest any name except that of Mr. FitzHenry. The other members of the committee felt that they represented the party and not an individual.

"It is only fair to the gentlemen whose names were mentioned that such mentioning was without any knowledge upon their part. Certainly none of them were candidates for the position."

JESSE POMEROY HAS BEEN IN PRISON 50 YEARS

BOSTON, Nov. 30—(AP)—Jesse Pomeroy, who has completed 50 years of a life sentence for murder, in the Charlestown State prison, is 66 years old. His 56th birthday passed almost unnoticed yesterday and today he entered his 67th year. There was nothing unusual in his routine to mark the day. After attending church services he enjoyed a few minutes of outdoor recreation and then went back to his cell.

His health is about the same as it has been many years. He has steadfastly declined to allow surgeons to operate on a cataract on one of his eyes or for a case of rupture.

Pomeroy was sentenced to life imprisonment Sept. 7, 1876, when he was 16 years old.

The crime of which Pomeroy was found guilty was the murder of four year old Horace Mellen, whose mutilated body was found on the clam flats in East Boston. Pomeroy was sentenced to death but the penalty was commuted to life imprisonment. In February, 1924, his petition to the governor and council for a pardon was refused.

STATE POLICEMAN TO BECOME AUTO SALESMAN

HARTFORD, Nov. 30—(A. P.)—Frederick J. Hansen, a member of the state police for the past five years, resigned today to enter the automobile sales business. He has been registration inspector and examiner of operators at the capitol for the past two years and has become well known to automobile owners of the state by reason of this work.

Bandits Got $60,000 In Cash and Checks

Six Robbers Held Up Two Employes of a Department Store in Newark.

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 30—(A. P.)—Six robbers held up two employes of the Hahne and Company Department store this afternoon and escaped with $60,000 in cash and checks. The workers were carrying the cash and checks to a bank, and had just left the department store when their delivery wagon was forced to the curb by the robbers, who were in an automobile.

CHINA DIVIDED INTO SCORE OF PARTIES AND CLIQUES

LONDON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—China's troubles continue to be a mystery which is only complicated by the dispatches reaching London from various sources in China, and it is difficult to understand what is the exact situation in Peking.

Marshal Tuan Chi-Jui, the chief executive of the provisional government, is reported to be in his palace with troops of the "Christian General," Feng Yu-Hsiang, guarding him, but there are many rumors that the chief executive is really a prisoner and that the fall of his government may be expected shortly.

If the government falls the international tariff conference now in session in Peking would be in a helpless situation. The communistic demonstrations in Peking are reported to have driven most of the members of the cabinet into hiding, and apparently there are few responsible officials left with whom foreigners can deal.

China is divided into a score of parties and cliques, most of them assailing the political and economic activities of foreigners and demanding the abrogation of the special privileges enjoyed by foreigners.

In a way it is the Boxer movement of 1900 over again, although the present anti-foreign movement has many leaders who were educated abroad and it therefore is much less violent than the Boxer rebellion.

FAVOR UNITED STATES ENTRY IN WORLD COURT

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—(A. P.)—Five hundred ministers of all denominations and many laymen, meeting today in the Marble Collegiate church in Fifth avenue, unanimously adopted a resolution advocating the immediate entry of the United States into the world court.

This action by the body followed stirring addresses by the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, president of the Federated Council of Churches of North America, and Frederic R. Coudert, international lawyer, in which the opponents of the United States' entry were denounced as "fullfillarians."

The resolution asked the executive committee of the Federated churches to make plans for Dr. Cadman and Mr. Coudert to represent the federation before the foreign relations committee of the senate when hearings on the world court are held at the coming session.

"OLD IRONSIDES" IS TO APPEAR IN FILM PICTURES

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—(A. P.)—The famous Constitution, mother ship of the American navy and subject of Oliver Wendell Holmes' famous poem "Old Ironsides," is to appear in the movies. Announcement was made today by the Famous Players-Lasky corporation that the famous frigate's history would be shown on the screen.

James Cruze has sailed abroad to select locations for filming the ship, while the work of reconditioning her after years of disuse will start soon.

Once more, on the silver screen, she will overhaul the pirates of Tripoli and end for a second time their ravages of shipping. Modern sailors will struggle with her cross jack yards, and "roll an' go" will be the order of the day.

The navy department is cooperating according to the announcement.

OPENING OF FIFTH WEEK OF MACRI MURDER TRIAL

LITCHFIELD, Nov. 30.—(AP)—The second trial of Olympia Macri, charged with murder for the killing of John Bagnano in the lobby of the Palace theatre at New Haven, on February 26, 1925, moved rapidly before Judge George E. Hinman in superior court here today. The state rested at 11, barely an hour after court convened on the opening day of the fifth week of the trial this morning. Before Judge Hinman declared a recess until 9:30 tomorrow morning at about 5:20 this afternoon, fourteen defense witnesses had taken the stand and the testimony of a fifteenth who could not be located at this time had been read from the record of the first trial at New Haven last May.

BRITISH EVACUATION OF COLOGNE NOW UNDER WAY

Movement Was Started on the Eve of the Signing of the Locarno Pacts—As the Troops Leave They Will Take With Them 800 German Girls Whom They Have Made Their Wives—Cologne Shopkeepers Are the Chief Mourners.

COLOGNE, Nov. 30—(A. P.)—As a sister arbitration pacts have already been laid on the tables in the reception hall of his majesty's foreign office for the ceremony tomorrow. The signing and sealing by the plenipotentiaries of the nations concerned. All the delegates had arrived in London tonight in readiness for the work which will put into operation these documents pledging Germany and her neighbors to respect the frontiers established by the treaty of Versailles and accept arbitration in their disputes.

The signatory nations are represented by Austen Chamberlain for Great Britain; M. Briand for France; Herr Stresemann and Chancellor Luther for the German republic; Emile Vandervelde, Belgium; Count Skrzinski, Poland and Eduard Benes, Czechoslovakia.

The day's ceremonies will start at 10 o'clock in the morning. When the delegates will meet in the foreign office to verify the documents conferring plenipotentiary powers on them. The signatories will assemble in the reception room where the formal signature will begin shortly after eleven o'clock.

The troops themselves are doing their share of putting the Locarno spirit into practice, for they are taking with them 800 German girls whom they have made their wives, and this in spite of the fact that fraternizing between the British Tommies and German civilians was officially discouraged.

The Cologne shopkeepers are the chief mourners, as their harvest has been £10,000 weekly from the troops.

LOCARNO TREATIES TO BE SIGNED TODAY

LONDON, Nov. 30—The Locarno treaty of mutual guarantee and its

TROUBLE IN MILITARY COURT OF MITCHELL CASE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—(A. P.)—A veritable bombshell, with delayed fuse attached, tonight lay concealed beneath the surface of army court martial trying Colonel William Mitchell.

Its explosion may, unless the fuse is snipped off at the war department or the white house, blow one member of the court, Brigadier General Edward L. King, from his seat on the tribunal.

Presumably, Major General Robert L. Howze, the president, was the only member of the court aware of the situation. He created it by reporting to the war department that General King had used the expression "damn rot" in court while a witness was being examined by the defense, and that the remark had been overheard and reported at the time by Representative Frank R. Reid, chief defense counsel.

In taking the action he did, General Howze merely complied with the regulations laid down in the courts' martial manual.

The manual says that "improper words used by a member should be taken down in writing and any disorderly conduct reported to the appointing authority." Whether Secretary Davis will see fit to give the Howze report to President Coolidge has not been disclosed, but it is regarded as likely that he will inform Mr Coolidge of the incident before a decision finally is made.

HEARING ON TROLLEY WAGE DISPUTE DEFERRED

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 30—(A. P.)—The hearing on the wage dispute between the Connecticut company and the conductors and motormen before a board of arbitration, was completed today. Judge James Vahey, of Boston, who represents the union employes, moved for a recess, which was granted by Chairman Charles Kleiner and concurred in by Attorney Joseph E. Berry, of Hartford, the company's representative. The hearing was adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The union trolleymen have advanced the theory that they have been underpaid for the past twelve and one-half years. In support of their contention that a fifteen per cent. or better increase in salary would not be asking too much, several of the trolleymen took the witness stand today. David Skelly, of Waterbury, Robert E. Wall, of Bridgeport, Frank O'Meara, of Hartford and John H. Loring and S. Simon, of New Haven testified.

The company answered the claim of the men by submitting statistical reports of the first fifty men on the list in order of seniority as to the number of days they voluntarily took off during the past year. It was further claimed by the company that Independent motor bus companies in some sections paid chauffeurs less money than the Connecticut company paid its conductors and motormen.

RAINFALL OF 14.1 INCHES IN MIAMI RAISED HAVOC

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 30—(A. P.)—Miami, drenched and dripping, resumed her interrupted labors late today after the most devastating rainfall in her history.

The downpour established a new record for a single day's rainfall here, with a precipitation of 14.1 inches, according to Richard W. Gray, the United States weather observer here. This new mark bettered the former record set October 24, 1924, when 9.76 inches of rain fell.

City utilities in general were severely crippled by the torrential downpour, and lack of power in the city lighting system threw a pall of darkness over the city in the early morning, which crippled ordinary activities.

The "closed" sign was posted on every hand. The crippling of lighting facilities seriously handicapped local newspapers. An augmented electric company force succeeded in drying out generator coils to inaugurate service in a limited area by 1:30 p. m.

STAFFORD SPRINGS MAN GETS $1,000 OF $100,000 ESTATE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 30—(A. P.)—William R. TESTIMONY FINISHED IN THE RHINELANDER CASE

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 30—(A. P.)—The final testimony taken the last sensational or erotic love missive read into the record, the suit of Leonard Kipp Rhinelander for annulment of his marriage to Alice Beatrice Jones, daughter of a mulatto taxicab driver, today entered its closing phase with the beginning of summations by counsel. Sensational since its beginning more than three weeks ago, the suit of the young member of one of New York's oldest families, lived up to its reputation for surprise to the closing moments, when Lee Parsons Davis, counsel for Mrs. Rhinelander, unexpectedly announced his resting of the case.

His announcement, made shortly after court convened this morning, took the plaintiff attorneys entirely by surprise, as it had been expected that a number of additional witnesses, including Alice herself, would be called by the defense. It also had been rumored that Isaac N. Mills, counsel for Rhinelander had two "surprise" witnesses to call. Instead, after Davis had rested his case, young Rhinelander was recalled briefly to the stand by his attorneys to enter a blanket denial of the testimony of Ross Chidester, former chauffeur for the Rhinelander family. Chidester had testified that he warned Rhinelander of Alice's negro blood long before the marriage. Chidester testified that Rhinelander had replied to the warning that he didn't "give a damn."

Mrs. George Jones, mother of Alice, was recalled today to testify whether Alice's body was the same color at birth as now, she asserted it was. "birth as now, she asserted it was."

Shortly after court convened for the afternoon session Lee Parsons Davis began the summation for the defense. He had not finished when court adjourned for the day.

Davis began his summing up by appealing to the jury to lay aside race prejudice and assailed Rhinelander's attorneys for their conduct of the case.

PERTINENT ADVICE FOR THE MODERN GIRL

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 30—(A. P.)—President Mary E. Woolley, of Mt. Holyoke college, speaking here today, said that the modern girl who takes part in "petting parties" will blush in her very soul some day when she looks back over her freedom and behavior; her loss of fine reserve and of genuine modesty. The home, Miss Woolley said, should be the fun center and the young folks should not have to seek elsewhere for their pleasure.

"For some time now," President Woolley said, "we have put the college student on the defensive with regard to her religion. Has she any religion? I wonder whether the tables are about to be turned and we, the older generation, put on the defensive?

Speaking of the nervous strain under which too many girls live, Miss Woolley said: "Yes, it is over-work, but not as a rule over-work in studies. The girl of today follows in the footsteps of her elders in trying to do too many things. The amusements of our young people are more elaborate, more numerous, involving later hours and a greater drain upon nervous energy.

"The women's college in general dread the aftermath of the short vacation when the college infirmary is too small to accommodate the daughters who are recovering from the two weeks 'rest' at home. The frequent 'week-ends' tend toward the same result and parents wonder why college will overwork their girls. When a girl comes to the close of her year over-taxed, the responsibility nine times out of ten should be shouldered by the extra-curricula activities."

LENIENCY IS LEADING TO CONTEMPT OF COURT

BOSTON, Nov. 30—(A. P.)—The pendulum has swing too far in the direction of leniency and this tendency has reached a point at which if has led criminals, especially younger ones in some parts of the community, to hold in contempt the courts that are supposed to restrain their activities, the Judicial council of Massachusetts announced today in its first report filed with Governor Alvan T. Fuller.

The council recommended prompt action in criminal proceedings and declared that "the protection of society seems to demand that more attention be paid to the deterrent effects of the criminal law."

"A prompt, even if less severe, sentence is more important as a deterrent than an uncertain, heavier and more remote one," the report, said to be the first made by a state judicial council in the country, set forth. The council was created by a statute in 1924 for "the continuous study of the organization, procedure and practice of the courts." It includes in its membership past and present members of the judiciary.

QUICK WORK HALTS FIRE AT VANDERMAN MFG. CO.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 30—The quick discovery of a blaze in the large wooden structure used as a molding room at the Vanderman Manufacturing company on Mansfield avenue, prevented a costly conflagration, shortly after five o'clock Monday afternoon. A bell alarm from Box 25, the Vanderman Foundry private box, brought out the pumper and hook and ladder trucks of Engine Company No. 1. Excellent work under the direction of Fire Chief Henry J. Kelley placed the blaze under control within a few minutes with a minimum loss. The fire started from an open sheet-iron stove which became overheated and ignited a wooden partition. The flames destroyed the partition and had caught onto the roof when halted. The woodwork around a sky-light was damaged. Chemicals were used to extinguish the blaze. Night Watchman Charles Ellis stated that the stove was emptied to prevent the moulding sand from hardening during the night. The foundry was emptied of employes at four o'clock. John Reilly, a member of the concern, complimented the firemen on their rapid work. The call was the first bell alarm to be sounded here since September 24th.

CHAPLIN FAMILY LOST HOME IN MIDNIGHT FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 30—The old Lost Stevens place, in the Bedlam district of the town of Chaplin, now owned and occupied by Teddy Ereshina, was completely destroyed by fire which started shortly after midnight Monday morning, presumably from a defective flue. The estimated loss is placed at $2,500 with no insurance. The crackling of burning wood awoke Mr. Ereshina, who ran to the kitchen and was confronted with a dense cloud of smoke as he entered the room. Running around the outside of the house he smashed the window of his wife's bedroom with his fist, sustaining severe cuts on the hand. Working rapidly he and his wife managed to carry their seven children to safety but failed to save any of the contents of the house. Their oldest son, aged fourteen, although slightly clad and barefooted, ran about half a mile to the nearest neighbor to secure help. Nearby residents rushed to the scene and succeeded in saving a barn from being added to the ruins.

The Ereshina family has been visited by misfortune of late, the children having recently been victims of an epidemic of illness. Chaplin residents lost no time Monday in displaying a compassion characteristic of rural districts. Within a few hours an ample supply of clothing had been accumulated and presented to the stricken family and neighbors arranged for the care of the children.

Rev. W. D. Lovett, of Wallingford, has accepted a call to become pastor of the First Baptist church in this city to succeed Rev. Frederic F. Foshay, resigned, it became known in the contents of a letter of acceptance received by Clerk Russell A. Andrews. The new pastor will assume his duties on January 1st., and will arrive here, with his family, shortly before the New Year. Rev. Mr. Lovett has been pastor of the Wallingford Baptist church for the past eight years and is a highly respected and well known resident of that town. His predecessor Rev. Mr. Foshay, resigned on September 1st., last, and the church has been without a pastor since that time. Rev. Mr. Lovett has a wife and two daughters, one of whom is a teacher in the Wallingford schools and the other is training at the Hartford Hospital Nurses' school.

RECEIVE GENEROUS GIFT FROM MRS. M. C. B. ROBINSON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Nov. 30—Mrs. Marimdo C. Butler Robinson, who is spending the winter at the Partridge Inn, Augusta, Ga., has contributed $500 to the Connecticut College Endowment fund. This is but another evidence of the continued interest and repeated generosity of Mrs. Robinson where the affairs of Connecticut college are concerned. Mrs. Robinson was the motivating force back of the original movement to raise a fund for the erection of Windham house at the college. Her enthusiasm for the project remains unabated it is her hope at this particular time that the fund for Windham house may be completed so promptly that construction work may be undertaken during the coming winter and the house made ready by the time the class of 1926 enters college.

Mrs. Robinson's gift is a generous one, but she remarks relative to it that "I am sure there are many real sons and daughters of Windham county who can give very much more if they will, and then we shall have a fine building."

Mrs. Robinson has been named as a member of the Citizens' committee of ten that will endeavor to raise the $500,000 endowment fund proposed for the college. She says that she has been informed that what is given toward this fund in Windham county will be credited to Windham house and remarks that she is not in favor of building until funds are available to provide such a structure as will reflect credit on Windham county.

Mrs. Robinson, many years resident here, is the widow of Dr. Rienzi Robinson, long a practicing physician in Danielson.

County Agent Frank L. Davis, of Putnam, State Bank Commissioner John B. Byrne and Raymond Gates agent of Connecticut state institutions will be speakers here Saturday afternoon when Quinebaug Pomona grange holds a meeting in Odd Fellows' hall.

At the business session, opening at 11 a. m., written reports of all officers excepting the secretary and treasurer will be presented, these reports covering Pomona grange activities since the first of the year. One member of the executive committee is to be elected at this meeting.

Following the dinner, which will be served by the women of Killingly grange, there will be an afternoon session, opening at 1:30. The lecturer's program will be open to Fourth degree members. Selling Windham County's Agricultural Products will be the subject of County Agent Davis' talk. The subjects of the addresses of Commissioner Bryne and Agent Gates have not been announced. Vocal and instrumental numbers and other special features are being arranged for the lecturer hour.

At the state armory Thursday evening another whist under the auspices of the Service Battery and the Girl's club.—adv.

Left without trolley or bus service this morning, East Killingly people are seeking about for some means of re-establishing regular transportation between that place and Danielson which is a central trading point for it.

Judge James N. Tucker called attention on Monday to an avenue of relief from the present situation An act of the general assembly of 1923 provides for the issuing of permits to United States mail carriers or others for transporting people for hire in rural districts.

Such a permit may be issued by the public utilities commission after a hearing and may fix the rates of fare and the schedule to be operated upon and also name the special fee, if any, that such a carrier shall pay.

It would appear that a permit could be obtained under this regulation for such a service as might be operated between Danielson and East Killingly. There is a route left without any established service and where one is needed The matter is one of economic interest to Danielson as well as to East Killingly, for much money flows from the hilltops of the town into the coffers of the borough.

Spark Plug ... so and supper, Baptist church today.—adv.

There is a change in the Connecticut company's schedule this morning, incident to the inauguration of the bus service, replacing the trolley cars. Northbound busses leave Danielson five minutes after the hour and southbound busses leave here ten minutes after the hour. The trolley cars have been leaving Danielson at approximately 10 minutes after the hour northbound and twenty minutes after the hour southbound.

It was stated Monday evening that everything was in readiness for the important change to be made today. The trolley cars went off of service Monday night Danielson gets an hourly service, north and south, with the new motor coach line and with special arrangements for getting early risers to their work in neighboring towns on time. There is a northbound coach out of Danielson as early as 5:20 a. m. and another north at 6 a. m., this latter one running to Elmville. Another northbound coach leaves here at 6:05 for Putnam, inaugurating the regular hourly service of the day. The last coach running north for Putnam leaves here at 9:05 p. m., with a coach leaving here for Dayville at 10 o'clock. The first southbound run out of Danielson will be at 6:05 a. m.

The Windham County National bank of Danielson has announced that all Christmas club checks deposited in their savings bank any time during the month of December will draw interest from December 1st.—adv.

At St. John's church, in Plainfield, Monday morning at 9 o'clock, Rev R ... Morrisey was celebrant of a requiem mass at the funeral of Germine Plante The bearers were Osias Plante, Sylva Plante, Andrew Plante and Arthur Plante. Burial was in the new St. John's parish cemetery. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Though the ambitious activities of the youthful vendors is to be commended, it appears to many unfortunates that a variety of Christmas seals should be on sale at just this time in competition with the Red Cross Christmas seals, for competition it surely is. Money spent for the Red Cross seals is all devoted to a work of mercy, caring for the sick and the unfortunate. In the other case 40 per cent. of the money obtained from the sale of the seals, which are on the market at two dozen for ten cents goes to the little people who sell them for an out of town distributor. One would not deny a youngster well earned revenue. The point is that money that likely would go for Red Cross seals is being diverted to a purely profit-taking cause.

Pupils of the destroyed Gilbert school were absorbed Monday in classes of the Brooklyn Center school. The plan that Supt. Parker and members of the Brooklyn town school committee had made over the week-end for transportation of these pupils and their assignment to classes in Brooklyn Center worked out smoothly. The arrangement now in force will continue through the winter and spring in any event, and likely, it is said, will go on indefinitely.

With December at hand, hundreds in this territory are looking forward to the 10th., when a flood of Christmas club money will be released by local banks. It is a significant fact that no inconsiderable amount of this money is already pledged to pay for Christmas gifts that have been set aside awaiting the release of the money. The club funds will be a big boost to business here

PUTNAM ARCANUM CLUB VOTES TO GIVE UP HOME

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Nov. 30—At their regular quarterly meeting the Arcanum club voted to give up its occupancy of the club building on South Main street. This action was taken because of insufficient members to keep up expenses. The club property on South Main street is owned by the Arcanum Club association, a distinct organization from the club. At the time the Club took possession of it three years ago there were more than 100 members. Today there are but half that number. The club house is an attractive one, well located, and handsomely furnished. The falling off in membership is due to the increasing number of fraternal organizations that have club houses and to the extensive use of the automobile. The average citizen seems to want to go somewhere instead of playing a game of whist or billiards.

The Arcanum club has been in existence for 30 years, and most of the prominent men of the city have been members. Its president is James H. Rafferty and the secretary is Lucius P. Merriam.

Tuesday night will be a big night for the Odd Fellows. They will give the first degree to nine candidates, the work to be done by their crack degree team. All went well until the axe slipped and came down on the back of his right hand, cutting it deeply and severing the tendons of two fingers. The boy was taken to the Day Kimball hospital.

The fire at Pomfret on Thursday afternoon, in which the home of Miss Elenor Mathewson was totally destroyed, at a loss that may reach $35,000 may serve to create more agitation for a fire department in that town. Not long ago at a town meeting a motion to give Pomfret fire protection was voted down.

It is the plan of the Connecticut company, that under the bus system from Norwich to Grosvenordale, which replaces the trollies on Tuesday morning, Putnam will be made a transfer point. All passengers from the south going to North Grosvenordale or any of the villages north of Putnam will have to change here. Practice trips by bus have been made for several days, company officials and motormen being the passengers.

The annual meeting of the Windham County Guernsey association will be held at the Farmer's association rooms, Putnam, this (Tuesday) evening.

BUS SERVICE BEGINS TODAY FOR JEWETT CITY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Nov. 30.—Many Jewett City people listened to the last trolley whistle on this line Monday night with regret. The Bulletin letter was sent on the last trolley that it might so go on record. The motorman and conductors have always been polite and painstaking in their duty as to the delivery of these letters, whenever it was necessary to send them by trolley. The motor coaches beginning today (Tuesday) leave at 7 a. m., then 9 and every hour, going south, from the post office. The Academy school children leave at 7 from the post office. It would seem as if special coaches were to be used for their accommodation, that they should leave later, rather than at 7 o'clock. The northbound coaches leave the post office at 6:15 and 8:15 and every hour. This accommodates the Plainfield High school children perfectly. Sundays, the first coach south is at 9, and north at 8:15. There will be late coaches Saturday and Sunday only, arriving here at 10:15 and leaving for Norwich immediately. All coaches leave the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. station, Norwich at twenty minutes of the hour and Franklin square at quarter of the hour. The schedule is practically the same as the trolley schedule has been, only it is for hourly service.

WALTER GRAY WAS LAST JEWETT CITY PASSENGER

JEWETT CITY, Nov. 30.—The last Jewett City passenger, on the last car to run over this line, was Walter Gray. Two persons were at the railroad station to see the last trolley, Elmer Tarbox and one of the Bulletin correspondents. The pilot was Edward Thayer, the motorman, George Jarvis and the conductor, Howard Adams. Thus endeth the 18 chapter of trolley service on this line.

(There was but one passonger out of Jewett City, a traveling man, who will now have a new one to tell at hotels this winter.)

Mrs. Mary E. Herrick, 78, wife of George Brown, died Monday at her home in Pachaug. She was born in Griswold, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Herrick and was a member of Pachaug church. WESTERLY

LIGHT FINES GIVEN IN STONINGTON TOWN COURT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 30—Judge William A. Wilcox, of Pawcatuck, in the session of Stonington town court, on Monday morning heard twelve cases presented before him by Attorney George R. McKenna, prosecuting officer for the town of Stonington. On the docket contlued from the previous week, four convictions for frequenting cran games in Pawcatuck, were made; and the bonds put up as bail in two other similar cases were declared forfeited to the state. In the alleged complaints of shooting duck after sundown, two hunters were convicted and three others found "not guilty." An operator of an automobile in Mystic without registration, found guilty, who declined to pay his fine, was sent to the New London County jail.

John Pallazollo, of Pawcatuck, pleaded "guilty" to frequenting a game of chance and paid a fine of $10 and costs of $11.46, amounting to $21.46.

Alban Pampel pleaded guilty to the complaint of frequenting a game of chance and he paid fines and costs amounting to $21.46.

Thomas Ried, 20, had Dr. James H. Weeks named as his guardian, and reading of a similar complaint was waived. He pleaded guilty and paid the fine and costs of $21.46.

Rosodi Brozi, required an interpreter and Pallozollo was sworn as interpreter. To the complaint of frequenting a chance game, he pleaded guilty and paid $21.46.

Prosecuting Officer McKenna then called Frank Hermox and Delmar Tanner to appear in court and answer similar charges and upon their non-appearance demanded that their bail of $25 each be declared forfeited to the state, which Judge Wilcox ordered. Attorney McKenna called attention to the fact that fines for frequenting the gambling places for those who appeared in court, Monday, were $5 more than those fines asked a week ago. He declared that trifling with the court, by not appearing to see what was done in similar cases, would cause added expense to law breakers.

In the cases of alleged infraction of Connecticut game laws, Joseph Rose, 39, of Stonington, was arraigned on the complaint that on Nov. 26 he did hunt wild duck other than at a half hour before sunrise and to sunset. He pleaded not guilty.

Deputy Game Warden George L. Bliven of Waterford, who made the arrest, stated that he had visited Wequetequock, half way between Westerly and Stonington and as he started to leave his blind at 4:21 p. m. sundown, he heard a shot at 4:30 p. m. by his watch, which was seven minutes fast, and found men in a blind 300 feet away who at 4:35 shot a duck, and confronting them, stated that he was a game warden.

Herbert L. Stewart of Sprague, Conn., told the court, that, in company with the game warden, he saw Rose shoot a duck "two minutes after sundown," and that a sufficient time had been given these hunters to pick up their "stoolers," but that they had not made much progress.

In his own defense, Rose testified that he shot the duck while the sun was still shining over Fishers Island sound in the distance, that the bird in question was a broadbill, not a mallard or red head which fly after sun down. He assured Judge Wilcox that he was positive that the sun was shining. His tetimony was corroborated by George Burdick and Frank Prevety who accompanied Rose.

Prosecuting Officer McKenna said that there was not much difference, only a few minutes, to the time of sunset, and although he was always willing to co-operate with officers, he did not feel that the state had made out as strong a case as could be desired. He said, he would not recommend a nolle but would submit to a finding of not guilty, a recommendation which Judge Wilcox followed and declared Rose not guilty.

James A. Allen, 31, of Stonington, pleaded guilty to hunting wild duck after sunset and said he had nothing to say, although he claimed not to be "ducking." A very close case, nominal fine was Solicitor McKenna's recommendation. Judge Wilcox in finding him guilty, sentenced him to pay a fine of $5 and costs of $15.93, amounting to $20.93.

William Sheldon of Wequetequock pleaded guilty to a similar complaint and paid fines and costs amounting to $20.93 for his hunting on Thanksgiving day. Deputy Game Warden Christopher Culver, of New London, was also present at the court session with the other game wardens.

George Burdick and Frank Prevety, who were with Rose at Wequetequock, and who were arraigned on a similar charge, entered pleas of not guilty, and were likewise found not guilty by Judge Wilcox.

Harold Davis, 18, for whom Dr. Weeks was named as guardian, entered a plea of not guilty to a complaint of operating an automobile, in Mystic, which had not been registered. The complaint grew out of an automobile accident, when the auto of Mrs. W. A. Brown, of Stonington, was struck and damaged to the amount of $15. Officer Jeffrey of Mystic, investigated, and the young man was brought to court. He was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $5 and costs of $17.43 and upon his decision not to pay a mittimus was issued for him to be taken to New London county jail in New London.

Hoisting machinery for the elevator on the west side of the Immaculate Conception parochial school, in process of construction at the corner of Dixon and High street, was taken down Monday and the timber for the elevator well removed, as work on the new brick building has proceeded so far toward completion, that it is no longer needed.

Workmen who have been constructing a coffer dam beneath the northwest corner of the Briggs building, on Pawcatuck river, to permit the laying of a foundation in the river bed for a caisson, encountered a large boulder in the river bottom. As a result it was found necessary to shorten the foundation a foot and six inches to permit the driving of the iron sheating into the river bed. When the coffer dam is again in place the large pump with a capacity of 15,000 gallons will again be started to pump the water out of the inside of the crib. When the iron cylinder, filled with concrete, is in position on the foundation, a reinforced cement girder will be poured to rest on top of the piers, which will carry the weight of the west end of the business block, after the old wooden one has been removed

After having been high and dry on the beach a mile and a quarter west of the Green Hill coast guard station, the 110 foot converted sub chaser Gypsy, in tow of a tug of the Merritt-Scott-Chapman company of New London, passed Watch Hill point at 11 a. m. Monday, west bound, having been hauled off at high tide. The launch grounded about 5 a. m. Friday morning and the crew, consisting of Capt. Frank Dooley, Teading, Mass., Mate Francis Bidreau, East Boston; Chief Engineer Edward Haskins, Dichton, Mass.; Asst. Engineer Charles Butts, Cliftondale, Mass.; John Marland, Fall River, Mass.; John T. Johnson and Joseph Delehanty, both of East Boston, who have been at the Green Hill station, departed with the craft, which the buffeting seats had not greatly damaged.

Associate Justice Antonio A. Copetosto at the November term of Superior court for Washington county, Monday again continued the court session in the county a week, as he stated that he was to again appear in Kent county superior court, where the illness of John J Fitzgerald, who was a counsel in a manslaughter case had delayed the trial After seventeen new jurors were examined and qualified, they were dismissed to again report at West Kingston court house on Monday, Dec 7th at 9:30 a. m., when the civil docket will be called.

Having been brought into superior court by Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell, James Ritchie, alias, who was taken into custody following a raid by the state police on a house in South Kingston on Saturday night, November 14, was brought before Judge A. A. Capotosto on a charge of harboring. He was sentenced to two years in state prison at hard labor. Before sentencing Ritchie, Judge Capotosto stated that the defendant was shielding someone else and that the court was in a position to know who that person is. When questioned by Judge Capotosto Ritchie admitted that he had told Mary Romanelli, alias, also before the court on a charge growing out of the same case, not to squeal.

Another indictment returned against Ritchie, charging him with harboring, was continued for sentence. Ritchie pleaded nolo to a charge of possession of intoxicating liquors and made the same plea to a complaint charging illegal sale of intoxicating liquors Bail was fixed in the sum of $500 in each case. State Policeman Harold L. Siteman was the complainant in the cases.

In the case of state, Harold L. Siteman, state policeman, vs. Mary Romanelli, alias, charged with being a lewd, wanton and lecivious person, continuance of sentence was made until the next term of the court. The bail was fixed at $1,000, with the mother and brother of the defendant as surety. Judge Capotosto ordered the girl to return to her home with with her mother and instructed John D'Avila of the attorney general's department to keep in close touch with the defendant and to make unexpected visits to her home to ascertain her manner of conduct.

The girl was held as a material witness under bail of $500.

The appeal from the Westerly probate court in the case of John D. McGrath vs. John J. Dunn, executor was denied and dismissed and the will proved and a decree ordered certified to the probate court of Westerly allowing the will to probate.

Monday noon at West Kingston, Judge Capotosto filed with the clerk of the superior court his rescript in the case of Edwin D. Vennard vs. Harold H. Lihme, which case was heard in Westerly in October, at which time the actual trial of the case took a whole week and the jury awarded the plaintiff the sum of $14,000. Immediately thereafter the attorneys for Mr. Lihme, Herbert W. Rathbun and John F. Gallagher of Westerly, filed their motion to set aside the verdict and grant a new trial, and this motion was argued about one month ago in Providence, in the written decision filed today the judge takes eleven pages of typewritten matter to consider the case, and he grants the motion of the defendant, thus setting aside the verdict.

Feel All Out of Sorts?

ARE you tortured with constant backache and stabbing pains; subject to headaches, dizziness, and kidney irregularities? Feel drowsy and listless? Likely, then, your kidneys are not functioning properly. Don't neglect sluggish kidneys! Help them with Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic. Thousands recommend Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

HERE IS NORWICH PROOF:

LOUIS OUELLET, Prop. Shoe Repair Shop, 165 W. Main St., says: "My back and kidneys bothered me and I had to quit work or a day or so at a time. When I bent over I could hardly straighten again and one morning while moving a machine, a sharp pain took me in my kidneys and I felt as though I had been jabbed. I used Doan's Pills and they rid me of the trouble."

ELIMINATING WASTE

In his annual report, Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, directs attention to the efforts which have been made in various directions for the elimination of waste. This has been in fulfillment of the programme formulated five years ago for the purpose of eliminating industrial waste. He doesn't undertake to claim that such waste has been entirely eliminated but he presents a series of states along different lines of effort which indicate the work that has been done and he is naturally enthusiastic over the fact that in those five years there has been an increase in wages while there has been a marked decrease in wholesale prices, which permits him to point out that "While wages are higher than in 1920, wholesale prices are lower. We have thus the highest real wage in our history, and we have had three years of remarkable price stability, which has reduced speculation in commodities to a minimum."

In the fight for the reduction of waste, no matter in what direction it is conducted, there is real work to be done. It can be fully appreciated that it should prevail in connection with railway transportation, with natural interior water channels, with increased electrification, with manufacture and distribution and with industrial strife. It is likewise desirable that there should be reduction of periodic waves of unemployment that uniformity of production, cooperative marketing, commercial arbitration and sounder methods should replace conditions which have long been regarded as wasteful.

The struggle to eliminate the waste in connection with industrial efforts does not include all the waste that is undesirable. Mr. Hoover, however, has confined his efforts to channels that existed within his department and the beneficial results in such directions cannot fail to make it more and more evident that their extension would be equally gratifying and productive of better conditions. Mr. Hoover is fighting waste in accord with the plea of President Coolidge. It is an excellent example to follow.

CORN GROWING

From all accounts this has been a great year for corn. Conditions were just right to produce a bumper crop, but that does not decrease the interest in the results obtained in corn growing contests.

For years it has been maintained that by intensive agriculture more corn could be grown, and it seems to have been cleverly demonstrated by the contests that have been held. From Shelby county, Indiana, there comes the report that a 15 year old boy has grown 144.5 bushels of white corn to the acre. That means that he has been devoting his attention to his one acre bed with most gratifying results. It doesn't mean that he would have obtained 100 times as much corn if he had planted 100 acres, for the bigger the acreage the less attention could be devoted to it. But even on an acre it is some accomplishment to produce nearly 145 bushels when the average for the state is figured at 46 and other contests have raised from 81 to 139 bushels. All corn growers have benefitted by the corn season, whether the acreage has been that of the average farmer or the test plots of the contesting corn growers, which are naturally regarded as being advantageously located and getting the benefit of special treatment.

Aside from the corn growing contests there are nevertheless good lessons to be obtained. If others cannot exceed such a record they can come somewhere near it and get better results for the efforts which they put out. That is of course the goal in farming of any kind. It is folly to spend a life time getting nowhere by failure to make the most of opportunities when the same amount of energy applied in a different manner would completely turn the tables.

Also, if it is possible for such excellent results to be obtained in the corn field in Indiana, isn't it possible for better results to be gained in the Connecticut and New England farms by the employment of similar methods? The revelations from the corn growing contests should be employed wherever they can.

MOTORING SPEED

It should be apparent to most any operator of a motor vehicle that speed conditions which govern such operation, vary in cities and thickly settled communities from what they do in the country on straight stretches of road. Where it may be entirely safe to drive at the rate of 30 to 35 miles an hour, or better, on good roads in the open country it is not so in villages and cities.

Connecticut has changed its laws so that it is now possible to prosecute drivers for speeding, or for reckless driving, where it was formerly possible to deal with the speeder only under the reckless driving law. With the new law in effect which declares that 30 miles an hour on any public highway, or 30 miles an hour through the thickly settled portion of any town, city or borough shall be deemed prima facie evidence of unreasonable speed, there were 2283 arrests for speeding and reckless driving during the four months from July to October, inclusive, or 220 more than in the same period last year when there was only the reckless driving law.

Whatever may be the limit of speed fixed for the open highway no one can expect that such is safe for thickly settled communities, where many individuals are likely to be encountered in the highway and where the rights of others must be taken into consideration. At the same time there are many times and places where 30 miles an hour in the country is equally dangerous to others because of the failure to concede the rights of others to their part of the highway. Any yet it can be appreciated that if all those who drive faster than 30 miles an hour on any public highway for more than a quarter of a mile at a stretch were arrested there wouldn't be enough courts to hear the cases. Where Connecticut says that cars should not be driven faster than 30 miles Rhode Island requires them to go 35 miles an hour or faster for the purpose of preventing congestion on main thoroughfares. Where there is so much speed, combined with a disregard for conditions and others, serious accidents are too often the result.

THE PINCHOT PLAN

The Pinchot plan for getting the miners and the operators together for a further consideration of their differences has not succeeded. Whether it will yet furnish the basis for negotiations remains to be seen, but from the reply of the operators it bids fair to undergo many changes before it does.

In the acceptance by the miners there is indication that President Lewis has climbed down off his high horse and a departure from that position from which he promised to administer an awakening to the public. The acceptance would seem to indicate that it placed the burden of continuance of the strike on the operators, but when it is realized that the operators have stood all the time for arbitration and are endeavoring to prevent the recurrence of the coal strike every few years in the future the situation changes. Likewise it is impossible to overlook what is pointed out by the operators that under the Pinchot plan the board to investigate the conditions surrounding the wages of the miners would have authority to increase wages, or to let them remain as they are but not to decrease them.

As for the checkoff the operators have been strongly opposed to it, and they still are. The principle has been condemned by federal commissions on two occasions and yet, if the interpretation of the operators is correct, they are being asked to accept it under a different name.

The readiness of the miners to accept the Pinchot plan indicates that it is a plan that holds out promise for the miners getting what they seek. The Pinchot plan during the last strike resulted in increased pay, increased prices and another strike. Naturally the operators have less faith in Pinchot plans than do the miners and the same might be said of the coal consumer.

HARD ON UMPIRE

The position of the umpire in adjusting such a dispute as that which surrounds the Tacna-Arica districts, and in which Chile and Peru are concerned, is an unenviable one. If those nations directly involved are so disposed they can eliminate many of the difficulties. On the other hand they can also increase them, and it is the latter which they appear to be doing.

This country has no other interest than to see justice done and to end a dispute which has existed for a number of decades. It has pointed out the manner in which it believes the settlement can best be made and it has sent General Pershing to act as the impartial head of the commission to conduct the plebiscite. Instead of giving him all the assistance possible those two nations have taken just the opposite course, not for the direct purpose of placing obstacles in his way, but to continue their squabble and in see that the other is handicapped in every way possible. All this of course reacts upon the umpire and raises the question as to whether the decision that is reached by the plebiscite will be accepted after it has been received.

The fight between the neighboring nations has been in progress so long that it is almost impossible for them to contemplate a settlement, and they dread nothing more than that the other may get some slight advantage. It is a situation which offers slight inspiration for the head of the plebiscite commission.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: Gesticulation is a needless acquisition for those who speak by radio.

Jim Ferguson admits that he is the real governor of Texas. But that is no news to the people of that state.

Football has entertained hundreds of thousands this fall. Except for the professional it is shelved until next fall.

If all taxes were regarded as nuisances there would be a much greater effort to abate them, or at least keep them down.

There is no danger of those in Atlanta being pardoned to be hanged unless they have committed a crime that warrants it.

When Wayne B. Wheeler declares that prohibition enforcement is going to appear more prominently in politics it cannot be that he includes New Jersey.

"Red" Grange is criticised because he has left college and gone in for professional football. He would have been criticised if he hadn't so he might as well look out for No. 1.

That must be intense suffering which Mr. Lewis, president of the coal miners is experiencing when he notes the coal consumers are able to escape the holdup and the hardships of a hard coal shortage.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 30.—Connecticut political interest at the capitol this week centers on Congressman John Q. Tilson of New Haven, who will be floor leader of the house republicans with the beginning of the winter session Monday the 7th of December.

Colonel Tilson won the position by a tremendous vote, made unanimous in the republican caucus held last March and will assume his duties immediately.

Colonel Tilson, on Saturday, presented to the president, Mrs. Tilson's mother, Mrs. North, who is visiting with the Tilsons at their home on O street, which they have leased for the winter. The Tilson children are attending the public schools here, Mrs. Tilson having brought them on early in the fall that they might lose none of the school year.

As majority floor leader, Col. Tilson will have arduous and important work on his hands, in framing legislative programs and seeing to it that they are carried out by party unanimity and team work.

Col. Tilson is recognized as able, tactful, experienced and possessing that rare quality of "good nature" which will soften many blows and help the party over many a hard spot. Tilson never loses either temper or his head under stress of hot debate and holds the friendship and confidence of both political parties in the house.

Although of simple New England domestic tastes, Col. and Mrs. Tilson are treading the top round of the social ladder: The position of floor leader is second in the house only to the speaker, and it is Speaker Longworth and Floor Leader Tilson who will rank officially next to the vice president at social functions. Already receptions and teas are being planned in honor of Colonel and Mrs. Tilson. The first to be held will be on Wednesday, the 2nd of December when Mrs. E. A. Harriman, formerly of New Haven, but now of Washington, will entertain at a large tea in their honor. Mrs. Harriman will be assisted in receiving by Mrs. E. Hart Fenn and Miss Louise Gray Zabriskie of New York, lending their presence to do honor to Mrs. Tilson as assisting the hostess, will be Mrs. Edwin T. Sanford, and Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone, wives of justices of the United States supreme court; Mrs. Edmund Platt, wife of the vice president of the federal reserve board and several other women of high social and official position.

The Tilsons are occupying an old fashioned, dignified big house, up in the desirable northwest section of the city, but one that would pass unnoticed among the princely mansions of Washington's "rich set." The Tilson house has the air of a real New England home, for although a perfectly poised and cordial official hostess, Mrs. Tilson is an unspoiled New Englander in the way of regarding home, husband and "the children" as of primary importance.

Over in the senate, it will likewise be a New Englander who holds the highest position that of president pro tempore of the senate, Senator Moses of New Hampshire and Mrs. Moses, are New England born and bred, and like Mrs. Tilson, Mrs. Moses will grace her position with dignity, tact and quiet cordiality true to the genuine New England spirit.

Mrs. Moses accompanied her husband abroad when he was minister to Greece under Taft and is an experienced, though inobtrusive official hostess. With Mrs. Coolidge in the white house, just as unspoiled and altogether charming as when she first assumed her high position, and with Mrs. Moses and Mrs. Tilson representing a fine type of New England women in public life, the three states of Massachusetts, Connecticut and New Hampshire may well be proud that not only were their men-folks accorded the highest positions in the country and in congress, but that, to use a way-down-east vernacular, "the wimmen folks" are fully qualified to grace those positions with tact, good breeding, frank, kindly cordiality and social experience.

Congressman Treadway of Massachusetts is taking a strong hand in the proposal that congress regulate the coal output, in such a way that New England will not suffer from strikes. Mr. Treadway has just bought a fine residence up in the fashionable west end of the city, and moreover has made a clever "find" in the way of a very desirable office in the main building of the capitol, that had been an obscure storage room, till he unearthed it and staked a claim.

To have an office in the main building is an indication of distinction as only members of long service and high official degree are supposed to have that privilege. Most of the rooms in the capitol building are used for committees, and their chairmen, so the man who is a member of a committee, and gets one of those rooms is both alert and lucky.

Speaker Longworth and Floor Leader Tilson have spacious rooms just outside the lobby leading to the floor of the house; as befits not only their high office but as a matter of necessary convenience in case of quick call when they are not acting. Otherwise the rooms are "staked" by would be occupants. When the republicans are in power men of that party get the plums, which means two or more rooms in their office assignments; and the democrats, except the floor leader, must be content with one room; when the power is in the hands of the democrats the situation is reversed, and the republicans are tucked off in obscure rooms, with the democrats holding the choice places. Patronage follows this rule, although the minority party is always accorded a certain per cent. of good places in the power of congress to bestow. The third party, has so few representatives that its per cent. leaves it nothing but the little end of the horn and no choice place either in committee, housing or patronage.

Some one in commenting on the splendid physical condition of Mrs. Coolidge and her girlish appearance, said it was largely due to the combination of good spirits and a thorough enjoyment of the exercise necessary to good health. That led to a comparison of the daily life led by former mistresses of the white house. Mrs. Harding was a woman of forceful character, and deeply interested in politics and newspaper work; she took the lead in world wide matters, but except in her early days gave but little thought to systematic exercise. She rode like a movie girl of the wild west, in the old days, but during the Harding terms in senate and the white house, had not the strength to continue out door sports; Mrs. Wilson was only mildly interested in such things, and though she sometimes went over the golf course with the president, she did not take a hand in the game, nor did she adopt any out door sport; Mrs Roosevelt, Mrs. Taft and Mrs. McKinley were not in good health during the terms of office of their distinguished husbands, so it is left for Mrs. Coolidge to carry off the palm as an all round enthusiast for out door life, and the sports that go with it. Walking is her best sport, as it is that of the president; neither play golf, neither ride horse-back, but both enjoy watching football, baseball and both are ardent lovers of the sea, as is proved by the almost weekly over Sunday trips on the presidential yacht, the Mayflower.

Mrs. Coolidge walks with a graceful poise and good stride, head erect and a pretty flush—painted only by nature—on her cheeks. She is always accompanied by a secret service man, as the wife of the president, like the president himself, must be safely guarded from possible harm.

It is said that the recent visit of Mrs. Coolidge to the New England wing of the Metropolitan Museum, will result in the upholding of colonial furniture for the white house, when the refurnishing is done. Mrs. Coolidge has always favored old colonial for the white house, despite the preference of certain art critics for a foreign "period" style. It is explained that the white house was originally furnished in French style as the country was too new to furnish a suitable American style, and our relations with Great Britain made adopting English furnishing prohibitive.

Uncle Sam provided a pound of turkey for the Thanksgiving dinner of every American soldier, whether stationed in the United States or elsewhere. And as the troops are scattered to the four corners of the earth, with a variation of 12 hours in some instances, the onslaught on the turkey enemy will move with the sun, and cover a space of 12 hours. More than 125,000 of turkey will be the shock line of defense.

THROUGH THE RECEIVER

Miss Nannie Lee Robinson of Atlanta, Ga., who is visiting a school friend in Chicago, speaks over the telephone:

"Helloo! Is this Mr. Blackstone speaking? How are you this mawnin'?

"I'm mighty glad to hear it. I hope you don't mind me phonin' you so early in the mawnin', but it seemed like I just had to ring you up and tell you how da'lin' you were to send me those beautiful flowahs.

"Well, it certainly is sweet of you to say so, even if you don't mean it.

"But how could I believe all those nice things——

"Well, I reckon I'll just have to believe it, then. But, Mr. Blackstone——

"But I don't know what else to call you. Truly, I don't.

"Dick? Oh, but I couldn't. I don't feel like I know you well enough.

"Honestly, would yo' feelin's be hurt? I bet you're makin' fun of me. But if you really mean it—well, Dick, then—do you truly feel all right—you're not sick or anything?

"Well, I'm mighty glad to hear it. I certainly was worried when you didn't come to the party last night. I thought sure you were sick or somethin' terrible had happened.

"I certainly did. And I was so worried. I just went around askin' everybody where you were.

"Fibbin'! I don't see how you can say that. I don't handly eveh fib. Honestly I don't. You can ask anybody in Atlanta—my relations and everybody.

"Oh, it was a wonderful little old party—of anyway it would have been out for just one thing.

"Oh, I reckon I don't have to tell you. You know.

"Now you're making fun of me. Why the' ah just hundreds of girls lots prettier and sweeter than I am that would have been glad to go with you.

"Now I certainly don't believe that. You're laughin at me again.

"Well, that's mighty sweet of you. I reckon I'll just have to believe you, Mr. Blackstone—I mean Dick——

"Well, I reckon I'll have to hang up now. I just phoned you to tell you about the flowahs and to be sure you weren't sick or anythin', and to find out why you didn't come to the party, and you haven't told me even yet.

"Why, of co'se you said that, and it's mighty sweet of you, but I just can't believe you——

"But, Dick, the' ah thousands of girls in Chicago nicer than I am and that dance bettah than I do and that don't get mad every time they can't do like they want to.

"I certainly do. You can ask my fathch and my motheh and my sistens and everybody in Atlanta. I'm just perfectly horrid. I certainly am—lots of times.

"Well, it cehtainly is mighty sweet of you to say so—but truly I don't see how I can believe it, when we didn't even know each otheh till last summeh—and then this summeh—but of co'se right from the first time I met you I felt like we'd known each otheh a long, long time—not a bit like you feel about most people.

"Truly, Dick? Why, Dick, I believe you're proposing to me. I cehtainly do. Or else you're makin' fun of me.

"But, Dick nobody eveh proposed to me oveh the telephone befo' and I don't handly know what to say. I'm kin's scared to say yes because maybe you're just makin' fun of me, and I'm kin' scared to say no for fear you ain't.

"Truly? Well, then, I tell you what you do. You come around this evenin'—

"Now? Why, I thought you were busy.

"Truly, Dick? Well, I'll tell you then. You come right on out heah and let me look right at you while you say it—and then—maybe—good-by.—Exchange.

From Small Beginnings

David Cox, the Great Artist

An English blacksmith had a little son who was a puny, weakly child with a small promise of ever developing the big muscles and the tireless energy of his father. Their home was a tiny place, little more than a bedroom and kitchen attached to the blacksmith shop. When the frail little boy had grown big enough to hold a hammer he was put to work doing what he could in the blacksmith shop. Out of a grimy and smoky setting like that, and out of the sweaty work of the forge, there developed one of the greatest of English painters, an artist whose pictures have sold for what the father of the boy would have regarded as undreamed-of fortunes.

This is the way it came about: The little fellow was too good-for-nothing in the blacksmith shop to be worth while. They sent him to a place where he could do light work. That place happened to be one where they made painted boxes. The blacksmith's boy had especial ability in painting little pictures on the box covers, as he was directed to do. When he lost that job he found another with a man who painted scenery for the theaters, and so at length he became a painter of stage scenery. For this work he received scarcely enough money on which to live. Finding that his ability to paint increased from day to day he set up as a teacher of painting and painted beautiful pictures just by way of showing his pupils how to work. With the negligence of a real artist he paid little attention to the pictures he painted, but sold them for pittances and even threw many of them away.

The years went on, and his art—not his ambition—developed him slowly into fame. He was invited to teach in schools, and then in still better schools. Without making an effort to gain recognition, he won great fame. He sold his pictures as fast as he could paint them, and he made great sums of money. Nevertheless he remained at his death, at the age of 76, a simple-minded, childlike man, caring nothing for luxury or fame, and loving most of all to paint pictures of the country scenes that he had loved as a boy. The blacksmith's boy had become a true artist.

More Wool From Tonic

An elixir that is said to make wool grow faster than nature originally intended it should has been discovered by a Japanese doctor, and has been used with some success so that sheep may be sheared three times a year. The tonic is injected into the veins of the animal.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Worcester R. Warner, upon whom the American Society of Mechanical Engineers is to confer an honorary membership at a public ceremony in New York today, is a resident of Cleveland, where he long has been associated with Ambrose Swasey in the production of some of the world's most notable telescopes. Mr. Warner is a native of Massachusetts and in early life learned the machinist's trade in Boston. For some years he followed his trade in Hartford, Conn., and at the same time pursued studies in astronomy, and other scientific branches, and experimented in telescope building as a recreation. His work attracted the favorable notice of Mr. Swasey, and in 1881 the two entered into a partnership for the manufacture of machine tools and optical instruments of precision. As telescope builders the firm has achieved a world-wide reputation.

Stories That Recall Others

A New Sect

Little Frances was telling her mother about the good times she had when she visited her five cousins. "Mother," she said seriously, "we played church."

"What did you do when you played church? I cannot think what that would be like," replied the mother.

"Well," said Frances, "we fell down on the ground and turned somersaults."

"Turned somersaults when playing church," exclaimed the horrified mother.

"Well, mother," explained Frances apologetically, "you see, by that time church had turned into a circus."

And She Never Told

A woman had a friend, whose husband she had never seen, and had been invited to take dinner at the friend's home. "I will have my husband stop at the house and bring you out," she was told. She got ready, and waited for her friend's husband to appear.

Presently an auto drove up in front of the house, the horn was honked and the woman ran out, tripped down the steps, and with a cheery nod opened the door and hopped in beside the man.

"Where do you want to go?" the man asked her.

"Oh, any place, just so we get to your home in time for dinner," she replied.

Just then she heard another honk and, looking around, she saw another car at the curb. In it was her friend and her friend's husband. Without a word the woman hopped out of the stranger's car and ran to the car of her friend.

"Were you planning to go some place with that man?" her friend asked her. "If you were Jimmy and I do not wish to interfere with your plans."

"Oh, no!" the woman said, "I had planned to go with him but I changed my mind. It's all right with him."

RUSSIA CLOSES THE OPEN ROAD TO GYPSIES

Gypsies must stop roaming!

The Soviet government has issued the fiat. Three years of grace are allowed the gypsies. Then there must be no more wandering through all the Russias. The covered wagon, the swarthy soothsayer in brilliant rags, wild gypsy music at the roadside camp fire, must take up the trail to limbo.

"Of the many new decrees and programs of the Soviet republic, settling the gypsy on the land probably has as little hope as any of accomplishment," says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society from its headquarters in Washington, D. C. "Many nations in many ages have tried to control that strange figure, the gypsy—and have failed.

"Since the early part of the 19th century students and scholars have tried to understand the gypsy. They have compared the gypsy of Russia to the gypsy of Hungary, Spain, England and America. They have charted his westward advance. They have examined his language and lined it with Sanskrit and tongues of India. They have set down his customs. They have accounted for nearly every characteristic of the gypsy race except the one that sets the gypsy apart from all other races. Why has the flame of nomadism lived in the gypsy? Why can't he deny the call of the open road? That is the real mystery. It stands unexplained.

"Gypsies have had inducements to settle on the land in nearly every nation they have invaded. In Scotland they paid for vagrancy with their necks in the time of James V. A few countries can report permanent communities of gypsies, but generally the law glides over their black heads and fails to mold them into 'good, solid citizens.' Sons and daughters of Romany are inveterate nomads.

"Another myster of Gypsydom, the capacity for keeping the race strain pure although they wander the world over and mix with men of all nations, is easier to explain. Strict obedience to three precepts of gypsy law has saved their individuality from the world's melting pot, according to George Borrow. This British missionary studied the gypsy nearly 100 years ago, yet so fine is his prose, so accurate were his observations, and so unchanging is the gypsy, in both lineage and language, that Borrow's books to this day are treasures of lore. The three commandments of Romany are:

Separate not from the husbands.
Be faithful to the husbands.
Pay your debts to the husbands.

'Rom' means 'man' in the gypsy tongue. The first and third commandments are directed to the 'rom.' The second is directed to the women whose position in the tribe is hinted by the repetition of the word 'husbands.' Indeed, 'Romany' may be translated 'the sect of husbands.'

"The first injunction, 'separate not from the husbands,' is responsible for the maintenance of the tribal spirit and the language. That the second has been strictly observed, there is ample testimony by the fact that gypsies the world over have staring black eyes, rich black hair, and a swarthy complexion. The last commandment has lost force because civilized law will not permit operation of the old gypsy law compelling the defaulting debtor to serve as slave to the lender for a year and a day.

"The name gypsy itself is the perpetuation of an error. The first tribes arriving in England told the British they came from 'Litill Egypt.' In the rough and tumble of language 'Egyptians' became 'gypsies.' The French fell into error too and their mistake has been transplanted to English. Thinking gypsies came from Bohemia the French called them Bohemians. With the big 'B' became dwarf we have a label for a light-hearted sophisticated man-about-town. A bohemian; perforce, is a 'root' relative to Bohemia, the eastern knob of Czechoslavakia, which is not particularly famous for light-heartedness, sophistication or men-about-town.

"The Soviet edict was probably directed to the 'Zigani.' This appellation is far more accurate than 'gypsy' and may be regarded as the true universal root name by which the race itself prefers to be known. In the Balkans it becomes Tsigan; in Greece and Turkey, Tshinzian; in Italy Zingari; in Germany, Zikeuner. Their international name may not have escaped the English language entirely, for some authorities find it in our word 'tinker.' The gypsies were the peddlers and the itinerant repairmen of Old England—the tinkers."

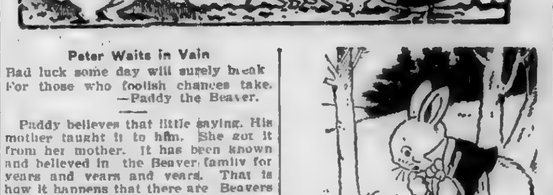
All Tea Green at First

Although the tea-drinking world speaks of green tea and black tea, it is a fact that all tea is green until it is made black. It goes through a fermentation process to make it black. It requires so much skill that the difference of a few minutes in making tea black may spoil a batch. Among th Chinese a tea that is partially fermented is known as Oolong. Tea orchards are laid out and cultivated as carefully as a fine apple or pear orchard.

Big Change In Jerusalem

Before the war Jerusalem was governed by seven officials but today it has 300. The city proper has about 100,000 population, numbering citizens of all languages and all religious beliefs. The present mayor is an Arab and his name is Rashab el Nashashibi.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES



Peter Waits in Vain

Bad luck some day will surely break
For those who foolish chances take.
—Paddy the Beaver.

Paddy believes that little saying. His mother taught it to him. She got it from her mother. It has been known and believed in the Beaver family for years and years and years. That is how it happens that there are Beavers today to believe it. Believing it has made Paddy the Beaver and his family very cautious. They seldom are heedless, as is Peter Rabbit. They know exactly when and how and where they are safe, and at all times they take the greatest pains not to run unnecessary risks.

Peter Rabbit, having discovered the beginning of a new dam in the alder swamp down the Laughing Brook some distance below the pond of Paddy the Beaver, was greatly excited. All that day as he sat in the dear Old Briarpatch he thought about it between naps. He could hardly wait for the coming of the Black Shadows from the Purple Hills that evening, so anxious was he to get back to the Green Forest and over to that new dam. He had a lot of questions to ask—why that dam was being built there, why Paddy didn't build nearer that grove of poplar trees Peter had shown him; and so on. So, just as soon as he felt it was safe for him to do so Peter scampered, flippety-flippety-flip over to the Green Forest and straight to that alder swamp. He found the beginning of that dam just as he had left it early that morning.

"Paddy and his family will get here early so as to get in a good night's work," said Peter to himself as he settled himself to wait. "I'll just wait here until they come. It will be fun to watch them build that dam. My! I'm glad I don't have to work like that for my living! It fairly makes me ache just to think of all the cutting and hauling of sticks and bringing of mud that must be done to build this dam. Those Beavers like work better than I do. Yes, sir, they do so. I hope they will come soon."

But they didn't come soon. Peter waited and waited and waited, and his patience grew less and less and less. Gentle Mistress Moon came up and sent her soft light all through the Green Forest and made the alder swamp almost as light as by day. Peter grew hungry. He grew hungrier. Still he waited. At last his stomach insisted that he should put something in it. Peter hurried away and got a lunch. Then he hurried back. On his way he happened to glance down at the muddy place, a place where the mud was fairly soft, in the middle of that muddy place were two footprints. They were almost round and they were quite big.

As he looked at these footprints Peter felt his back hair slowly stand on end
